JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

The Tucker Bill.

The prospects of the passage of the bills for police and school commissions are not as encouraging as they might be. Camden is fighting the police commission bill. Trenton does not want it, and Paterson is indifferent. Elizabeth is thus without aid, although the sentiment here is undoubtedly favorable to the commission system and it will be a matter of very general regret if the measure is defeated. In Paterson the Morning Call favors a commission, and expresses sorrow that Mr. Perkins' bill seems to be in danger. The Call is hopeful, however, that Paterson will some time have a government by commission, no only for its police department but for several other branches of the city government. There is a strong belief that Elizabeth, too, would be better off if it could be thus favored.

The Tucker school bill is opposed by Newark and some of the other cities affected. In Plainfield there is a strong opposition, apparently from the faction opposed to Mayor Buckle, and efforts are being made to divide the Union county delegation. Senator Ackerman is being appealed to by those who would defeat the measure, and an opinion that the bill is unconstitutional has been obtained from Craig A. Marsh. In Newark the opposition is not so marked as when the bill was first introduced. The general sentiment in Newark favors smaller Boards of Education and since the merits of Tucker's bill have become better understood the feeling was changed. The vote upon the bill is expected next week.—Elizabeth Journal.

SCIENCE PREVENTS BALDNESS.

The Fatal Germ and Its Remedy New Facts of Science.

It is the rarest thing in the world for a man to be necessarily bald. No man whose hair is not dead at the roots, need be bald if he will use Newbro's Herpicide, the new scalp antiseptic. Herpicide destroys the germ that cuts the hair off at the root; and cleans the scalp of dandruff and leaves it in a perfectly healthy condition. Mr. Mannett, in the Maryland Block, Butte, Mont., was entirely bald. In less than a month Herpicide had removed the enemies of hair growth, and nature did its work by covering his head with thick hair an inch long, and in six weeks he had a normal suit of hair. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

"The Man on the Box"

By HAROLD MacGRATH

Author of "The Grey Cloak," "The Puppet Crown."

Copyright, 1894, The Bobbs-Merrill Company.

James went. James whistled on the way too.

Would that it had been my good fortune to have witnessed the episode of that afternoon! My jehu, when he hears it related these days, smiles a sickly grin. I do not believe that he ever laughed heartily over it. At three o'clock, while Warburton was reading the morning paper, interested especially in the army news of the day, he heard Pierre's voice wailing.

"What's the fat fool want now?" James grumbled to William.

"Oh, he's always yelling for help. They've coddled him so long in the family that he acts like a ten-year-old kid. I stole a kiss from Celeste one day, and I will be shot if he didn't start to blubber."

"You stole a kiss, eh?" said James admiringly.

"Only just for the sport of making him crazy, that was all." But William's red visage belied his indifferent tone. "You'd better go and see what he wants. My hands are all harness grease."

Warburton concluded to follow William's advice. He flung down his paper and strode out to the rear porch, where he saw Pierre gesticulating wildly.

"What's the matter? What do you want?"—churlishly.

"Frightful! Zee stove-pipe ees vat you call bust!"

James laughed.

"I can not rrreach eet. I can not cook till eet ees fix'. You are tall eh?"—affably.

"All right; I'll help you fix it."

Grumbling, James went into the kitchen, mounted a chair, and began banging away at the pipe, very much after the fashion of Bunner's "Culpepper Ferguson." The pipe acted piggish. James grew determined. One end slipped in and then the other slipped out, half a dozen times. James lost patience and became angry; and in his anger he overreached himself. The chair slid back. He tried to balance himself and, in the mad effort to maintain a perpendicular position, made a frantic clutch at the pipe. Ruin and devastation! Down came the pipe, and with it a peck of greasy soot..

Monsieur Pierre yelled with terror and despair. The pies on the rear end of the stove were lost for ever. Mademoiselle Celeste screamed with laughter, whether at the sight of the pies or M'sieu Zhames, is more than I can say.

James rose to his feet, the cuss-words of a corporal rumbled behind his lips. He sent an energetic kick toward Pierre, who succeeded in eluding it.

Pierre's eyes were full of tears. What a kitchen! Soot, soot, everywhere, on the floor, on the tables, on the walls, in the air!

"Zee pipe!" he burst forth; "zee pipe! You haf zee house full of gas!"

James, blinking and sneezing, boiling with rage and chagrin, remounted the chair and finally succeeded in joining the two lengths. Nothing happened this time. But the door to the forward rooms opened, and Miss Annesley looked in upon the scene.

"Merciful heavens!" she gasped, "what has happened?"

"Zee stove-pipe bust, Mees," explained Pierre.

The girl gave Warburton one look, balled her handkerchief against her mouth, and fled. This didn't add to his amiability. He left the kitchen in a downright savage mood. He had appeared before her positively ridiculous, laughable. A woman never can love a man, nor entertain tender regard for him at whom she has laughed. And the girl had laughed, and doubtless was still laughing. (However, I do not offer his opinion as infallible.)

He stood in the roadway, looking around for some inanimate thing upon which he might vent his anger, when the sound of hoofs coming toward him distracted him. He glanced over his shoulder . . . and his knees all but gave way under him. Caught! The rider was none other than his sister Nancy! It was all over now for a certainty. He knew it; he had about one minute to live. She was too near, so he dared not fly. Then a brilliant inspiration came to him. He quickly passed his hand over his face. The disguise was complete.

"James!" Miss Annesley was standing on the veranda. "Take charge of the horse. Nancy, dear, I am so glad to see you!"

James was anything but glad.

"Betty, good gracious, whatever is the matter with this fellow? Has he the black plague? Ugh!" She slid from the saddle unaided.

James stolidly took the reins.

"The kitchen stove-pipe fell down," Betty replied, "and James stood in the immediate vicinity of it."

The two girls laughed joyously, but James did not even smile. He had half a notion to kiss Nancy, as he had planned to do that memorable night of the ball at the British embassy. But even as the notion came, to him, Nancy had climbed up the steps and was out of harm's way.

"James," said Miss Annesley, "go and wash your face at once."

"Yes, Miss."

At the sound of his voice Nancy turned swiftly; but the groom had presented his back and was leading the horse to the stables.

Nancy would never tell me the substance of her conversation with Miss Annesley that afternoon, but I am conceited enough to believe that a certain absent gentleman was the main topic. When she left, it was William who led out the horse. He explained that James was still engaged with soap and water and pumice-stone. Miss Annesley's laugh rang out heartily, and Nancy could not help joining her.

"And have you heard from that younger brother of yours?" Betty asked, as her friend settled herself in the saddle.

"Not a line, Betty, not a line; and I had set my heart on your meeting him. I do not know where he is, or when he will be back."

"Perhaps he is in quest of adventures."

"He is in Canada, hunting caribou."

"You don't tell me!"

"What a handsome girl you are, Betty!"—admiringly.

"What a handsome girl you are, Nancy!" mimicked the girl on the veranda. "If your brother is only half as handsome, I do not know whatever will become of this heart of mine when we finally meet." She smiled and drolly placed her hands on her heart. "Don't look so disappointed, Nan; perhaps we may meet. I have an idea that he will prove interesting and entertaining;"—and she laughed again.

"Whoa, Dandy! What are you laughing at?" demanded Nancy.

"I was thinking of James and his soap, water and pumice-stone That was all, dear. Saturday afternoon, then, we shall ride to the club and have tea. Good-by, and remember me to the baby."

"Good-by!"—and Nancy cantered away.

What a blissful thing the lack of prescience is, sometimes!

When James had scraped the soot from his face and neck and hands and had sudsed it from his hair, James observed, with some concern, that Pirate was coughing at a great rate. His fierce run against the wind the day before had given him a cold. So James hunted for the veterinarian.

"Where do you keep your books here?" he asked William. "Pirate's got a cold."

"In the house library. You just go in and get it. We always do that at home. You'll find it on the lower shelf, to the right as you enter the door."

It was half after four when James having taken a final look at his hands and nails, proceeded to follow William's instructions. He found no one about. Outside the kitchen the lower part of the house was deserted. To reach the library he had to pass through the music-room.

The first thing that caught his attention was a movable drawing-board, on which lay an uncompleted drawing. At one side a glass into which were thrust numerous pens and brushes. Near this lay a small ball of crumpled cambric, such as women insist upon carrying in their street-car purses, a delicate, dainty, useless thing. So she drew pictures, too, he thought. Was there anything this beautiful creature could not do? Everything seemed to suggest her presence. An indefinable feminine perfume still lingered on the air, speaking eloquently of her.

Curiosity compelled him to step forward and examine her work. He approached with all the stealth of a gentlemanly burglar. He expected to see some trees and hills and mayhap a brook, or some cows standing in a stream or some children picking daisies. He had a sister and was reasdasies. He had a sister and was reasonably familiar with the kind of subjects chosen by the lady-amateur.

A fortification plan!

He bent close to it. Here was the sea, here was the land, here the number of soldiers, cannon, rounds of ammunition, resources in the matter of procuring aid, the telegraph, the railways, everything was here on this pale, waxen cloth, everything but a name. He stared at it, bewildered. He couldn't understand what a plan of this sort was doing outside the war department. Instantly he became a soldier; he forgot that he was masquerading as a groom; he forgot everything but this mute thing staring up into his face. Underneath, on a little shelf, he saw a stack of worn envelopes. He looked at them. Rough drafts of plans. Governor's Island! Fortress Monroe! What did it mean? What could it mean? He searched and found plans, plans, plans of harbors, plans of coast defenses, plans of ships building, plans of full naval and military strength; everything, everything! He straightened. How his breath pained him! . . . And all this was the handiwork of the woman he loved! Good God, what was going on in this house? What right had such things as these to be in a private home? For what purpose had they been drawn? So accurately reproduced? For what purpose?

Oh, whatever the purpose was, she was innocent; upon this conviction he would willingly stake his soul. Innocent, innocent! ticked the clock over the mantel. Yes, she was innocent. Else how could she laugh in that light-hearted fashion? How could her eyes shine so bright and merry? . . . Karloff, Annesley! Karloff the Russian, Annesley the American; the one a secret agent of his country, the other a former trusted official! No, no! He could not entertain so base a thought against the father of the girl he loved. Had he not admired his clean record, his personal bravery, his fearless honesty? And yet, that absent-mindedness, this care-worn countenance, these must mean something. The purpose, to find out the purpose of these plans!

He took the handkerchief and hid it in his breast, and quietly stole away . . . A handkerchief, a rose, and a kiss; yes, that was all that would ever be his.

Pirate nearly coughed his head off that night; but, it being William's night off, nobody paid any paricular attention to that justly indignant animal.

CHAPTER XXI.

THE ROSE.

On Wednesday morning, clear and cold; not a cloud floated across the sky, nor did there rise above the horizon one of those clouds (portentious forerunners of evil!) to which novelists refer as being "no larger than a man's hand." Heaven knew right well that the blight of evil was approaching fast enough, but there was no visible indication on her face that glorious November morning. Doubtless you are familiar with history and have read all about what great personages did just before calamity swooped down on them. The Trojans laughed at the wooden horse; I don't know how many Roman banqueters never reached the desert because the enemy had not paid any singular regard to courtesies in making the attack; men and women danced on the eve of Waterloo—"On with the dance, let joy be unconfined;"

WENT SHOPPING.

my heroine simply went shopping. It doesn't sound at all romantic; very prosaic, in fact.

She declared her intention of making a tour of the shops and of dropping into Mrs. Chadwick's on the way home. She ordered James to bring around the pair and coupe. James was an example of docile obedience. As she came down the steps, she was a thing of beauty and a joy for ever. She wore one of those jackets to which several gray-squirrel families had contributed their hides, a hat whose existence was due to the negligence of a certain rare bird, and many silk-worms had spun the fabric of her gown. Had any one called her attention to all this, there isn't any doubt that she would have been shocked. Only here and there are women who see what a true Moloch fashion is; this tender-souled girl saw only a handsome habit which pleased the eye. Health bloomed in her cheeks, health shone from her eyes, her step had all the elasticity of youth.

"Good morning, James," she said pleasantly.

James touched his hat. What was it, he wondered. Somehow her eyes looked unfamiliar to him. Had I been there I could have read the secret easily enough. Sometimes the pure pools of the forests are stirred and become impenetrable; but by and by the commotion subsides, and the water clears. So it is with the human soul. There had been doubt hitherto in this girl's eyes; now, the doubt was gone.

To him, soberly watchful, her smile meant much; it was the patent of her innocence of any wrong thought. All night he had tossed on his cot, thinking, thinking! What should he do? Whatever should he do? That some wrong was on the way he hadn't the least doubt. Should he confront the colonel and demand an explanation, a demand he knew he had a perfect right to make? If this should be evil, and the shame of it fall on this lovely being? . . . No, no! He must stand aside, he must turn a deaf ear to duty, the voice of love spoke too loud. His own assurance of her innocence made him desire to fall at her feet and worship. After all, it was none of his affair. Had he not played at this comedy, this thing would have gone on and he would have been in ignorance of its very existence. So, why should he meddle? Yet that monotonous query kept beating on his brain: What was this thing?

DIAMOND DUST.

Captain Malcolm Davis called out the P. H. S. baseball candidates for their first practice yesterday on Hope Common. Twenty-five boys responded and spent an hour or so in general practice, fielding, base-running and batting. Captain Davis was well pleased with the showing and predicts that the High School will have a stronger team than ever. Manager Gavett has announced that a game has been scheduled for Easter Monday with Camp Bowser. This team defeated the school boys last year and they hope to turn the tables this year.

S. A. R. TO BUY AN HISTORIC HOUSE.

A Residence That Served as Headquarters for Washington.

Paterson, March 13.—The New Jersey Sons of the Revolution have interested themselves in the preservation of the old Dey residence in Preakness, which is to be sold within a month or two to satisfy judgments against the estate of William Belcher, former mayor of Paterson, who was the owner of the homstead.

The residence was at one time the headquarters of Washington. There are fifty-six acres surrounding the house, and if it is at all possible to dispose of some of this land to adjacent farm holders the committee of the Sons of the Revolution which inspected the property yesterday will acquire it. It is the intention of the committee to preserve the house in its present state and it will be made the storehouse of things of historic value.

Fell From Wagon Seat.

John Duffy, driver of a coal wagon, fell from his seat as he was turning into Voehl's alley with a load, yesterday afternoon. He struck the side of his head on a stone, and raised a lump that changed his appearance considerably. He was a little dazed and an abrasion on his cheek leaked considerable blood, but he was able to go on about his business after washing up at police headquarters. Duffy didn't know how he came to fall; he said he hadn't had a drink all day.

BASEBALL COMMITTEE REPORTS ENCOURAGING

NO TIME BEING LOST BY THE MAYOR AND OTHERS IN SELLING STOCK.

The committee of twenty appointed by President Newton B. Smalley, of the Plainfield Baseball Association, to solicit subscriptions to shares of stock met last night in the law offices of F. J. Huff and discussed a plan of action. Progress was reported by each member of the committee present and there seems to be no doubt but that the required 400 shares will be subscribed for, although it means lots of hustling from now until Thursday, the time Manager Daab must be informed as to a decision of the association.

B. A. Mumford tendered his resignation as a member of the committee and the vacancy was filled by the appointment of Walter C. Dobbins. Each member reported that he had secured a number of subscribers to stock and a list of names was prepared for the help and guidance of the committee.

It was decided to hold another meeting tomorrow night at the same place, when it is hoped to know definitely the number of shares subscribed and whether it will be possible to have Manager Daab and his team here this summer. The interest and enthusiasm in the project shows no sign of decreasing and if determination and energy can accomplish the desired result the objects of the association will be attained. During the meeting last night Mayor Smalley appeared and encouraged the committee by his report.

At Elizabeth in Honor of Civil War Heroes.

In honor of the soldiers and sailors who fought, bled and died in the Civil War, the Soldier and Sailor Monument Association, of Elizabeth, is planning to unveil a handsome monument at Elizabeth on July 4. The monument will stand in the triangular square at the intersection of North Broad street and Westminster avenue.

It has been decided to invite President Roosevelt to attend the ceremonies and make an address. General J. Madison Drake's famous Zouaves, comprising a membership of twelve, will turn out and participate in the ceremonies and the citizens of Elizabeth hope to make the event a gala one.

Celebrated Birthday Anniversary.

In honor of her seventeenth birthday anniversary, a party was tendered to Miss Anna Porter at the home of her sister, Mrs. Arthur H. McVoy, of West Fourth street, last night. Games and music were features of the evening. First prize in the game of hearts was given to William Snyder. Miss Georgia Walters received the consolation prize. At midnight refreshments were served. Among those present were the Misses Edna Force, Elizabeth Porter, Anna Stewart, Georgia Walters, Anna Porter, Mrs. William Cruikshank and William Snyder, Arthur Cox, Robert Hamilton and Hugh B. Sweeney.

BOYS' CLUB WILL HOLD CIRCUS AND EXHIBIT

ENTERTAINING CLOSE TO ITS SEASON IS PLANNED.

To mark the close of its first season under the management of the Y. M. C. A., the Boys' Club, Sycamore street, will hold a circus in conjunction with an exhibit of the work done by the classes during the first week after Easter. Director Kenneth Robbie announced that plans for the affair were being made yesterday.

Practically all the forty boys on the club rolls will take part. The programme will include drills and pyramids, tumbling and juggling, with a number of clowns and grotesque acts to lighten up the whole. The boys have started to drill for the affair already. Clarence Pope, well known locally as a gymnast and acrobat, is assisting Mr. Robbie in training the boys.

The exhibition of work will be of unusual interest in itself. There are classes in pattern making, carpentry, mechanical drawing and moulding in the club course, and the showing made by the boys will be remarkably good. The work they have done so far assures that.

WOUNDED MAN SET SIGNALS.

Towerman, Though Badly Hurt, Stops Lackawanna Trains.

Morristown, March 13.—While descending the steep steps of the Denville switch tower yesterday morning, James Scales, the signal operator, slipped and fell over the banister, sustaining an ugly gash in his forehead, besides internal injuries.

With blood streaming from his head the man dragged himself back to the tower. He knew that in a few minutes train No. 454 of the main line would be due, and that unless the signals were thrown a serious accident might occur. He succeeded in setting the signals against all trains and then went down the stairway and walked three miles to his home near Dover.

When the train reached the tower and found the signals set against it, Conductor Thompson entered the tower. He found the floor covered with blood. Word was sent to Hoboken and a special train with railroad detectives was dispatched to Denville.

The detectives learned the true story and found Scales in a serious condition at his home. Denville tower is one of the most important switch towers on the Lackawanna road. It is here that the main line and the Morris and Essex division come together and it is the starting point of the Boonton branch.

BARS CARICATURE OF MR. ROOSEVELT.

Society of American Artists Rejects a Statuette the President Enjoyed.

President Roosevelt once wrote an autograph letter to Paul Nocquet, the sculptor, praising a statuette which gently caricatured the President. The same statuette has just been refused by the Society of American Artists, for their annual exhibition opening on March 17. Two other works by Nocquet were accepted.

The statuette of Mr. Roosevelt was highly amusing, if not particularly remarkable, when judged by empirical canons of art. It was called "A Presidential Vacation," and showed the President in hunting costume, holding a she-bear by the scruff of the neck, and a cub-bear in his upraised left hand. The doughty hunter wore the Roosevelt smile, and the big and little bears seemed to have been infected, for they too looked immensely pleased.

church, where the family worshiped, gave him religious consolation as he went through the dark valley, and the old constable was entirely resigned as he faced the call to the highest court of all.

The funeral will be held Friday afternoon. There will be a service at the house at 2:30 o'clock and at the Park Avenue Baptist church at 3 o'clock. The body will be interred in the Plainfield Avenue cemetery.

Mr. Moffett is survived by four children. He married twice, his first wife being Mary Marsh, of Hackettstown. His second wife, to whom he was married over fifty years ago, was Mrs. Phoebe Darling, a widow, of North Plainfield. By his first wife there were three children, two of whom are living—Mrs. Stryker and Corra Moffett, of Orange. Frederick Moffett, of North Plainfield, and Mrs. Laura M. Chamberlain, of 322 East Fifth street, are children by the second wife. Mrs. Elmore D. Moffett, of Orchard place, and John Darling, of North Plainfield, are stepchildren.

TWENTY IN RUNAWAY CAR.

Motorman Badly Hurt When Brakes Failed and Car Jumped the Track.

Passaic, March 13.—After rushing down to the bottom of a steep hill at Lodi last night, a trolley car of the Hackensack and Lodi line jumped the track and dashed into a frame house near the railroad tracks and demolished part of it. The brakes had failed to work. The car vestibule was wrecked and several car windows were broken.

John Wanamaker, the motorman, was probably fatally injured. His skull was fractured, one leg broken, and it is feared he is injured internally. He was taken to the Paterson General Hospital. Twenty passengers in the car were badly shaken up. Three, one of them a woman, were cut by broken glass, but their injuries were slight.

The curve where the mishap took place is a dangerous one, and this is the third accident there in six weeks. The damaged building is an Italian boarding house kept by Michael Colleti. It was there that Jerry Ross, who was hanged recently at Hackensack, was accused of having murdered two men.

DR. SHEARER ON THE SCHOOLS IN NEW YORK.

Educator Begins an Interesting Series of Articles.

The first of a series of articles written by Dr. William J. Shearer, superintendent of schools of Union county, was published in the New York Times yesterday morning. The articles cover two columns and reference is made to Dr. Shearer and his excellent work on the editorial page.

Two requests have recently been made to Dr. Shearer. One was by the editor of the Philadelphia Ledger, who asked him to write a review and a criticism of the public school system of the city of Philadelphia. The other request was of a similar nature from the editor of the New York Times. He asked that the schools of New York City be reviewed and criticised.

These articles are to appear in each Monday morning's issue of the Times. Dr. Shearer has already attained almost international fame as an expert in pedagogy and as an introducer of modern methods of gradings in the public schools of New Jersey and Massachusetts and other States.

COURT WANTS CHURCH SQUABBLE ENDED AMICABLY.

Vice-Chancellor's Advice to Calvary Baptist Litigants.

Before Vice-Chancellor Emery at Newark this morning, the Calvary Baptist church matter was heard. After hearing the claims of both sides, the vice-chancellor said that the church people should get together without the interference of the court and settle their troubles. He further said that Rev. Bailey, Rev. Morris and Rev. Mitchell should be eliminated and the congregation then agree on a new man for pastor. He adjourned the case to March 26, and ordered that in the meantime the Rev. Bailey, Morris and Mitchell be kept out of the pulpit. S. Whindleton and Mansfield Robinson were appointed a committee to secure supplies. C. A. Reed and C. L. Murphy represented the Morris faction, while W. S. Angleman represented the Baileyites.

ABSOLUTE DIVORCE FOR COUNTESS BONI.

American Wife's Suit for Separation to Be Changed and Her Accusations Strengthened.

Paris, March 13.—Countess Boni de Castellane will sue for an absolute divorce instead of a separation from her husband, there is every reason to believe.

Because of this change of plan, the preliminary hearing of the separation proceedings which was set for Wednesday, will be postponed.

The change, too, seems to prove that all concerned are convinced that a reconciliation between the Countess and Count will be impossible at any time. So it is as well to sue for divorce now as to wait the three years which the law orders must intervene between separation and absolute divorce.

A new bill of complaint must be prepared because the facts recited in the present petition are not sufficient to support a divorce suit. The new papers will be filed in a few days, it is expected, after all the lawyers in the case have finally agreed on the legal and financial questions involved.

The attorneys are work to secure a decree without a contest and to avoid public hearings of the case.

HOLY CROSS' NEW CHOIR

Men and Boys Take the Place of Mixed Choir at Borough's Episcopal Church.

MR. WARNER'S WORK

Since His Coming to North Plainfield Three Months Ago Renewed Activity Has Marked Parochial Life.

Since the arrival of Rev. George A. Warner, formerly curate of Grace church, Orange, new plans and policies have been inaugurated at the Church of the Holy Cross, North Plainfield, one in particular being the organization of a boy choir, which takes the place of the mixed choir for many years in service. The rector has had considerable experience with boys, having been an instructor in an academy some few years ago, and he found no difficulty in attracting twenty-four lads with good voices. Supplementing this number, he obtained the services of ten or twelve men. At the outset he secured George Lamond, choirmaster of Trinity church, to train the voices, and a fairly good standard of musical excellence has already been attained.

These boys together with about fifty other lads whom Rev. Mr. Warner has interested in the parish have formed a Boys' Club which meets once a month. They are working hard for medals offered in various contests and there is keen rivalry for the good conduct award, the prize being the opportuity to go camping with the rector during the summer vacation season.

The parish Sunday-school has also been reorganized and a graded system established. Its membership has jumped from seventeen to seventy. A feature of the work is a monthly children's service held in the church edifice where the pupils are publically catechised.

When Rev. Mr. Warner took charge of the parish, he impressed upon the congregation the position the church should occupy and the responsibility it should assume in the foreign mission work. As a result of his efforts the missionary apportionment of $284 was quickly met. Moreover the Ladies' Auxiliary of forty members was formed and a large contribution in cash and clothes made to the cause. The Sunday-school gave $12 in addition.

During the last three months, the treasurer of the parish reports that the offerings have been nearly trebled and the sittings and pews are most all taken, for the first time in years. One thousand dollars have been expended on improvements on the rectory and church. A sexton has been regularly engaged.

As soon as a note and mortgage on the parish is wiped out, the exterior of the church edifice will be renovated and various improvements made to its interior. The Ladies' Aid Society have $140 in hand for the exterior work and will raise a balance of $700 for that purpose. Early in the spring an addition will be built to the parish house to be used as a kitchen.

Organ recitals are now being given every Saturday afternoon in the church and the public seems to appreciate these free musical programmes.

WANT FARMERS TO RIDE

Hunt Club Extends Invitations to Its Granger Friends.

TROUBLES SMOOTHED.

Generosity on Club's Part, Which Includes Free Steed Service, Wins Friendship of the Farm Owners.

Practically all the farmers with whom the Watchung Hunt Club has had differences over the damage done by, or expected from, the club runs have been pacified by the organization, and the few who have not are on the verge of it. Between the farmers and the club has been established an entente cordial of a lasting character.

The club has met the farmers in a spirit of liberality, and every evidence of friendliness has been shown by the riders. The club recently sent a cordial invitation to the farmers to join in the runs, and the agriculturists will be greeted as welcome additions to every chase after the wild and swift anise bag.

So much for the social relations. On a more material basis, the club has salved the farmers by agreeing to keep the fences on all properties over which they ride in repair. The organization will not merely repair the damage done by the members, but patch every fence that needs it, and whenever it needs it. If the farmer prefers that, he will be paid for the damage. A man will visit every farm regularly to note places in need of repair.

Service from a stallion free for all farmers who permits the club to ride over their grounds is another inducement for continued friendlinesss on the part of the agriculturists. The club is interested in raising the standard of horseflesh generally, and has secured the thoroughbred steed Nitrate, (15,523,) bred by August Belmont in 1898.

The club hopes to see a fine breed of horses in this neighborhood through Nitrate's service, and the service of the blooded steeds that will succeed him.

Nitrate is sixteen hands high, of good bone and substance, with a remarkably good disposition, and if bred to mares of size, should produce valuable colts for general purposes—possibly ones of considerable value. During 1905 he has been entered in the principal steeplechases, with creditable results as follows: 1st in Handicap Steeplechase, Brighton Beach Rac. Assn. (7 started); 1st in Kings Highway Steeplechase, Brooklyn Jockey Club (8 started); 2d in Hitchcock Steeplechase, Brooklyn Jockey Club (7 started); 2d in Handicap Steeplechase, Brighton Beach Rac. Assn. (11 started;) 2d in Handicap Steeplechase, Coney Island Jockey Club (15 started); 2d in Handicap Steeplechase, Brooklyn Jockey Club (10 started).

To all those whose grounds are not open to the club, or regular service fee will be charged. The steed is at Middlesex Farms, Colonia. Several farmers have already availed themselves of the opportunity.

Bishops' Bill Alone.

No compromise on the "Bishops' bills' for high license and clean saloons, Scovel's equal tax bills, substituted for the Perkins measures, corrupt practice acts, passing the house; electrocution bill passing in the Senate, hearing on mosquitoes and drugs, insurance report, were among the many interesting incidents in the Legislature yesterday.

PARK GOLF CLUB SOUND

Report That the Organization Would Disband Proves to be Without Foundrtion.

AT ANNUAL MEETING

Charles W. McCutchen Again Chosen President—There's a Balance on Hand—Committees Announced.

The annual meeting of the Park Golf Club was held at the Park Club last night, and the reports presented indicated that the past year was a gratifying one financially and otherwise. There have been rumors in circulation that the club intended disbanding, but this was emphatically denied and plans for the coming season with the usual line of events were discussed and adopted. President Charles W. McCutchen was in the chair.

Charles B. Morse, secretary, reported the membership to be ninety-one, while Leon R. Thurlow, treasurer, stated that all bills have been paid and there is a balance on hand of $58.

J. B. Betts and J. C. Peck were appointed a nominating committee and the trustees nominated for the year are as follows: Charles W. McCutchen, Nelson A. Miller, Charles B. Morse, Leon R. Thurlow, Reuben Knox, John L. Watson and Rolland D. Rice.

After the annual meeting the trustees met and elected these officers: President, Charles W. McCutchen; vice-president, John L. Watson; secretary, Charles B. Morse; treasurer, Leon R. Thurlow.

President McCutchen then announced these committees: Greens—Reuben Knox, chairman; Rolland D. Rice, J. B. Betts, Rev. H. K. Carroll; House—John L. Watson, chairman; Mrs. John L. Watson, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Peck, Leon R. Thurlow; Golf—Charles A. Reed, chairman; Charles B. Morse, Nelson A. Miller; Membership—Charles B. Morse, chairman; Rolland D. Rice, Leon R. Thurlow.

The committees will meet soon and get busy on the plans for the season. It is hoped to open the clubhouse next month and the course as soon as the weather will permit.

HONOR CONFERRED ON ROBT. A. MEEKER

PLAINFIELDER RECEIVES DEGREE FROM RUTGERS COLLEGE.

Robert A. Meeker's services and ability as a road builder have been formally recognized by one of New Jersey's seats of learning. The Plainfielder has received the honorary degree of civil engineer from Rutgers College, the announcement being made yesterday.

Mr. Meeker is State supervisor of roads and to him in a great measure is due the excellent condition of the highways throughout the State. He has held the office for a number of years and his wide knowledge of the work has been recognized by other States and by magazine authorities on the subject.

It was he who laid out the model roads at the Good Roads' exhibit at the St. Louis exhibition, which attracted universal attention. During his term of office, he has seen New Jersey take first place among the States for good roads, and the work is being extended by his efforts and support continuously.

LOOMIS DIMMED JEROME

American Humorist Pleases Crescent Avenue Audience Mightily.

JEROME NOT SLIGHTED

He Was Accorded a Sympathetic Reception, But the Fanwoodite Raised More Laughs and An Ovation.

Jerome K. Jerome—pronounced Jerum—the English humorist, and Charles Battell Loomis, author of "The Four-Masted Catboat" and other successful funny books, entertained a crowded house at the chapel of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church last night, under the auspices of the Young People's Society. Mr. Loomis lives in Fanwood, disguised as a justice of the peace.

The humorists are making a platform tour of the East. Mr. Loomis reads from his published works, and Mr. Jerome, who is the most noted exponent of English humor in the British empire and all its possessions, lectures humorously as well as reads.

Mr. Loomis read five bits from his books, and Mr. Jerome contributed six numbers to the programme. The bill was a sort of a sandwich, Mr. Jerome giving three numbers first, then Mr. Loomis letting go all of his five in a row, then three more from Mr. Jerome, so the audience had a slice of American humor surrounded by the British kind. It made a refection that appeared to be very palatable to the audience. They laughed freely at Mr. Loomis' exaggerations and his dialect, and they gave attentive and sympathetic ear, with smiles always read, to the gentler fun of Mr. Jerome. While the latter had no cause to complain over lack of appreciation, the Fanwoodite was very plainly first choice with the audience. It clamored for his return, and was visibly disappointed when he failed to give them more of his brand of fun.

MEYER COMMITTED BY JUDGE VAIL

SENT TO RAHWAY REFORMATORY FOR INDETERMINATE SENTENCE.

Ferdinand Meyer, the local youth who was picked up by the police last week for breaking his parole, was arraigned before Judge Vail in the Union County Court this morning and committed to the Rahway Reformatory. The length of his sentence is to depend upon his behavior but will not be less than three years.

In the past two years Meyer, whose aged is twenty-three, has been arrested several times for theft. The police had him before Judge Vail a short time ago on a charge of wholesale bicycle stealing and he was then placed in the care of the probation officer. He was instructed to report at regular intervals but failed to do so and Captain Irwin ordered him picked up. He has a wife and one child.

Cops Learn More First Aid.

Dr. C. B. Lufburrow gave the cops another lesson in first aid to the injured yesterday afternoon. Particular attention is being paid in the course to the handling of drunken men—restoring them, patching their cuts and bruises, and tying them down when they coquette with pink rats. "The lesson on drunks was real interesting," said one of the cops last night, "and I understand the next one will be even more interesting. He is going to teach us how to take their money away from drunks without hurting them."

HONORED FATHER BOGAN

Plainfield Priest Presented With Loving Cup by Catholic Diocesan Union.

CEREMONY AT NEWARK

Rector of St. Mary's, for Eighteen Years Spiritual Adviser of the Union, Expresses His Appreciation.

In recognition of his services as spiritual director of the Catholic Young Men's Diocesan Union of the Newark Diocese, upon the occasion of his retirement, over 600 members, representing thirty societies identified with the Catholic church in and near Newark, assembled at Catholic Institute, Newark, last night and presented Father Bogan, rector of St. Mary's church, this city, with a handsome silver loving cup, suitably inscribed.

Father Bogan was spiritual director of the Union eighteen years, and last night's affair was in the nature of a farewell reception. The societies from Paterson, Jersey City, Elizabeth and Arlington attended in a body, accompanied by brass bands, fife and drum corps, the Protectory Band, of Arlington, being included among the musical organizations.

Father McManus, of St. Aloysius church, Newark, made the presentation of the cup on behalf of the Union, recalling the long and faithful services of Father Bogan and telling of the work he has accomplished. Father Bogan responded in a happy vein, thanking all for the beautiful testimonial. He reviewed the history of the Union and the red letter days in its history, which included addresses by Bourke Cockran and John Delaney, of New York. He also mentioned the attainments of the members in athletics, such as bowling, baseball and field meets, but made special mention of the literary work of the Union, the debates, telling how in this way the members had profited and had reached prominent positions in the legal, medical and religious worlds. He mentioned the names of a number of such members who are leaders in their profession today.

Other speeches were made by former Assemblyman James Hammil, of Jersey City; former Mayor Ryan, of Elizabeth; Mayor Kenny, of East Newark; Father Isaac T. Whelan, rector of the Newark Cathedral and brother of W. J. Whelan, of this city. All were of a congratulatory nature and the praises of Father Bogan were heard throughout the evening in speeches and song.

The Catholic Institute in New street, Newark, is fifty-one years old, and it was as a boy that Father Bogan lived and played about this neighborhood and later became a member of it, joining the gymnastic and other classes His early life being so closely identified with the institute and the diocesan union, it was more than fitting that he should be selected as its spiritual director.

The cup presented to Father Bogan bears the dates 1888-1906, and the inscription reads, "To our spiritual director in affectionate remembrance from the members of his Diocesan Union."

OLD FASHIONED SCHOOL.

Entertainment of Park Avenue Endeavorers.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church held a unique social in the chapel last night, called an "Old Fashioned School." Joseph M. Hawkins was the teacher and the young people as pupils were questioned concerning the alphabet, geography and physiology.

After the school session a recess was declared for lunch. During the intermission the pupils engaged in playing all kinds of old fashioned games. Each was given a stick of candy in addition to the lunch served. For proficiency in answering questions the pupils were given rewards of merit. The committee in charge of the affair comprised Miss Miner, chairman; Miss Elizabeth Van Winkle, Miss Mary Giles and Irving Van Winkle.

Masquerade Party.

A masquerade party pleasantly surprised Miss Nora Schenck at her home last night on Manning avenue. The company arrived with Jack-o-lanterns and market baskets filled with good things. After a social hour dancing was enjoyed. Among those present were Misses H. Squires, E. Squiers, Hattie Bailey, Kate Bodine, Edna Byran, Minnie Nyman, M. McKane, Messrs. Windham, Blimm, Bennett, Brown, Smith and others.

One Creditor Satisfied.

The suit of Matt Schenck against Edgar Schenck, for $200, on notes, has been settled. F. J. Blatz was the plaintiff's lawyer. The principals live in South Plainfield and the action was brought before Justice von Minden.

COURT WILL BE HELD IN A CHURCH BUILDING

Somerset County Freeholders Will Lease Chapel at Somerville For Two Years.

SUITABLE AS SUCH

The Temporary Quarters Needed While New Court House Is Being Erected—Other Changes Recommended.

The novelty of holding court in a church building is likely to result from an action of the Somerset Freeholders at their regular meeting yesterday afternoon. The demolition of the old structure that has served the county for civil and legal affairs for many years, has been ordered and while the work of building a new one is in progress temporary quarters must be secured. A committee has been looking for a suitable place and has decided upon the chapel of the First Reformed church at Somerville as the best to be had. The consistory has agreed to lease it for two years and the committee so reported at the meeting yesterday. The matter is now under advisement and will be decided upon within a few days.

The chapel is constructed of brick and has an assembly room large enough for court purposes. It is also conveniently situated and the necessary fixtures can be installed with but little trouble. The committee also recommended the renting of the old chapel next the county clerk's present office for this official's use. By inserting a small partition it can also be used as a room for examining witnesses and as quarters for the Grand Jury.

The committee on the new county buildings recommended that the houses known as the Bee Hive, the Cooper and the Grover places be sold and removed as soon as possible, as it is desired to fill the cellars with debris from the old court house. The ground is also needed for the storing of materials while the building is in progress.

JACOB HIGGINS HAS DISAPPEARED

FRIENDS WORRIED OVER CONTINUED ABSENSE OF BOROUGHITE.

Relatives and friends of Jacob Higgins, a well known borough resident, who lives on upper Duer street, have been greatly worried over his protracted absence. He left home two weeks ago and since then nothing has been heard from him. He was treasurer of the North Plainfield Exempt Firemen's Association and also the Relief Association, but his accounts for both have been found in satisfactory condition. He was to have submitted a report at the annual meeting of the former last night and his failure to do so revealed the fact of his disappearance.

Higgins is a mason by trade and of late has been employed by Tallamy Brothers. He was at one time treasurer for the Mason's Union and has always enjoyed the confidence of his friends. He has always been steady in his habits and has never remained away any length of time before. It is the belief that he has become temporarily despondent over some family affair and will eventually return.

MARRIED IN AUGUST; ANNOUNCEMENT JUST MADE

MISS MINNIE HARTFELDER AND AUGUSTUS FEIRING, JR. SURPRISES FRIENDS.

Much to the surprise of their many friends, Miss Minnie Hartfelder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hartfelder, of Whitewood avenue, and Augustus Feiring, Jr., of Harrison avenue, have announced that they have been married since August 3. The ceremony was performed at Newark by Rev. Mr. Ferris, of a Presbyterian church, and was attended only by members of his family. The young couple afterward returned home and kept the fact a secret until a few days ago. They received parental forgiveness and a belated reception will be tendered them at the home of the bride's parents tomorrow night.

The groom is widely known in the city and borough and was prominent in baseball and athletic sports for several years. He was considered one of the strongest men on the Hope Y. M. A. team during its series with the St. Marys and has also been a member of its basketball five. He is a machinist by trade and is employed by the Hall Signal Co., at Garwood. His bride was a member of Hope chapel Sunday-school for many years and also has a large circle of acquaintances. The young couple have planned to begin housekeeping within a few weeks.

REV. MR. HERRING'S TALK ON MEXICO

ILLUSTRATED LECTURE BEFORE THE PLAINFIELD CAMERA CLUB.

Rev. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, gave an illustrated lecture on Mexico at the Camera Club rooms last night before a large audience. Mr. Herring took an extended trip through that country last year and he secured many fine views, which he explained in his usual interesting fashion.

The views depicted the life, manners and customs of the Mexicans throughout that country in general and in Mexico City in particular. He also exhibited several views of the exterior and interior of the cathedrals, explaining the quaint religious customs which have been followed for many years. His views and remarks concerning the saloons and methods of conducting them were timely.

The lantern was operated by John Neagle. After the lecture there was a social time and refreshments were served. It is expected that Andrew McClean Park will give his illustrated lecture on "Panama" at the same place in two weeks.

STRIKE IN P. S. C.?

An important conference is being held at Newark this afternoon between officials of the P. S. C. and the power-house men, the latter threatening to strike unless they get an increase of wages.

It is also said that the other employes of the company will go out in sympathy unless the demands of the power-house men are granted.

MISS SHACKLETON BECOMES MRS. FARRELL

QUIET NUPTIAL CEREMONY AT SCOTCH PLAINS PARSONAGE.

Miss Selena Shackleton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Shackleton, of Scotch Plains, and Thomas Farrell, also of that place, were quietly married last night by Rev. T. Moore-Smith, pastor of the Scotch Plains Baptist church, at the parsonage. The ceremony was witnessed only by a few friends.

The bride was gowned in white point d'esprit, trimmed with ribbons and she carried a bouquet of white carnations and asparagus fern. Miss Myrtle Shackleton, a sister, was bridesmaid, and she wore a gown of white and also carried white carnations and asparagus ferns. The best man was William Milliken, of this city.

After the ceremony the bridal party returned to the home of the bride, where a reception was held and supper was served. Commencing April 1 the couple will begin housekeeping at Scotch Plains. The bride was engaged as a saleswoman at the Paris, this city, for two years, and the groom is employed as a draughtsman at the Aeolian Works, Garwood.

A shameless tyrant rules the house:
In shackles is the worried spouse,
There's just one way to change control
Use gas and banish old King Coal.

THE FUEL QUESTION.

If you use coal, fuel is a big item. Its first cost is small compared to subsequent ones. Kitchen utensils wear out more quickly on a coal range than when gas is used. The dirt of the ashes make itself felt on the kitchen floor. Much food is wasted by too cool or too hot a fire. Many other expenses pile up against the coal bill. Use a gas range and save the wear and tear on the kitchen, the cooking utensils, and greatest of all, on the health and temper of the cook.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The boys in town are enjoying a new sport, hunting for crows at night. At this time of year thousands of these birds gather nightly in the woods near Graceland. No matter how the flock is divided during the day, as night begins to fall they all make for their rendezvous near Graceland. The boys have become wise to this and nearly every night a crow hunt is held. The birds roost so close together that a random shot fired into the branches of the trees generaly brings down two to five birds.

Miss May, who has been engaged in mission work in India for several years, gave an interesting talk yesterday afternoon in Meyers' Hall, upon the life and customs of the people of India and the great work the various missions are doing toward Christianizing the people of this faraway country. Miss May is an interesting speaker, enthusiastic over her work and her talk was enjoyed by an appreciative audience.

It is reported that Galvin's Park will not be opened for business this season. The park has been a losing venture for its promoters ever since it was opened.

The Suburban Club has settled upon the night of April 19 as the date of the next of the series of club dances being held

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The rollicking musical comedy success, "The Tenderfoot," with Oscar L. Figman and Ruth White as the stars, will be the strong attraction at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow afternoon and night. By his impersonation of the character of Professor Pettibone, LL. D. B. A., Mr. Figman has stamped himself as one of the foremost comic opera comedians of the day. He not only possesses the power to make people laugh, but he can dance and sing. The remainder of the company is most capable. The organization is one of the largest that will be seen here during the season, numbering nearly seventy people.

Mary Ryan, who jumped into fame something over a year ago in the original cast of "Home Folks," is to be seen at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night in "The Girl Patsy." She has a role admirably suited to her, that of a winsome little country miss, a sort of a woodland nymph, who poses for her artist lover. This latter part is assumed by Henry C. Mortimer, late of the stock company of the Madison Square theatre, New York.

"An Aristoratic Tramp," one of those high toned fellows you have read about in picture books, will make his first appearance at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday evening. With him will be Kilroy and Britton, who were for several seasons the one big feature with the "Heart of Chicago," and a carefully selected company of the very best metropolitan talent procurable. Scenery is carried for each and every act and the production is said to be one of the season's big hits.

"York State Folks," which made such a pronounced hit when presented in New York this season, and has been hailed everywhere as the legitimate successor of "The Old Homestead" and "Shore Acres," will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre Wednesday, March 28. The simple strength of its sentiment and its droll dry humor took instant hold of its audiences, while the entire absence of mock heroics, stage villainy and clowning was a delightful novelty in a play of this class. The special engagement will bring the original cast and production exactly as seen at the New York City theatres.

Wilton Lackaye comes to the New Plainfield theatre this month in Wm. A. Brady's great production of "The Pit," the most talked about play on the American stage and one of the big sensations of the season. The play is superbly dramatic in its painting of the upper and under crusts of speculation in the pit, its lees and leaven. It is concerned with a fictitious deal in the Chicago wheat pit, which illustrates speculative manipulation of values, inflation and depression in which the American farmer and European peasant are equally fleeced by gamblers who say what the farmer shall receive for his crop, what the peasant shall pay for his loaf of bread. Opening with a performance of grand opera, the playwright plunges into a drama romantic and passionate into the moving epic of the pit.

MRS. APPLEGATE WELL AGAIN!
"I have had a bruised leg and foot for several years, caused by the brass eyelets of my shoe, which became very sore and painful especially at night. It itched, burned and ached me till it nearly set me crazy. I used everything I found and was suggested to ease it and nothing gave me any relief till I found and applied Azienza Cream which I think is a wonderful remedy for all sores and inflammation of the skin. The hard knots on my legs were as painful as bee stings, with discolored and purple spots. A running sore on my instep size of a half-dollar; the to of my foot a seething sore clean around to my heel. The bone was sore for a whole year and very painful. I used five and one-half jars of Azienza Cream and healed the sore all up. The foot remained tender and I continued to use to strengthen and toughen the s in until now it is entirely well." Acknowledgment is made of the subscriptions reported by members of the committee appointed for that purpose by the newly-organized Plainfield Baseball Association. This report is incomplete, inasmuch as many members of the committee have not made known as yet the result of the canvass. Each share of stock is worth five dollars and an investment is a good business proposition, for Plainfield gives loyal support to the article of ball furnished by Manager Philip Daab. A meeting will be held at the Hotel Iroquois tonight, and it is likely that at that time Judge Runyon will announce his acceptancy of the presidency.

WOULD KEEP NEW YORK WATER FROM JERSEY.

Retaliatory Bill in Empire State Legislature Designed to Cover Greenwood Lake Supply.

Albany, March 14.—At Monday night's session of the Legislature Assemblyman Agnew introduced a measure prohibiting foreign corporations from taking water from this State. This bill is intended to hit the Morris Canal and Banking Company of New Jersey, which takes water from Greenwood Lake, which lies between New York and New Jersey.

Last year President Cromwell, of Richmond borough, had about completed a contract with the Hudson Water Company of New Jersey to supply water on Staten Island. As the contract was about to be consummated the New Jersey Legislature passed a law prohibiting New Jersey water companies from taking water from that State to be furnished outside the State.

ENGINEER FRED WILCOX BADLY HURT IN HIS CAB

LEANED OUT OF WINDOW AND WAS STRUCK BY BRIDGE GIRDER

Frederick Wilcox, an engine driver for the New Jersey Central, whose home is in Somerville, but who formerly resided at Dunellen, was severely injured about the head and face by coming in contact with the iron girder of a bridge near East Forty-ninth Street station, Bayonne, on Sunday night.

Wilcox was making his regular run from Dunellen to Jersey City at the time of the accident. As the train neared East Forty-ninth Street station he saw the pony trucks of his engine emit a shower of sparks, and he leaned far out of the cab window in an attempt to discover the cause of the difficulty.

While in this position his head came in contact with an iron girder of the bridge which crosses the road at this point. The force of the collision sent him sprawling on the floor of the cab and rendered him unconscious. When he recovered a few minutes later he was lying in a pool of blood, with a great gash, four inches long, cut in the top of his head. Realizing the danger of his engine running wild without a driver, he struggled blindly to his feet and groped for the throttle.

He fell to the floor again, and made several unsuccessful attempts to rise. Finally he supported himself against the side of the cab and pulled the lever. As the train came to a standstill, Andrew Errickson, the fireman, unaware of Wilcox's predicament, went to his assistance.

Errickson and Conductor William Sheehan, stanched the flow of blood from Wilcox's wounds, and in a short time he was able to stand on his feet and to run his train to Jersey City. Wilcox insisted on running his train back to Somerville after his injuries had been temporarily dressed at the Jersey City station. He made the return trip of thirty-five miles on schedule time, and as he stepped from his engine, he was treated by Dr. William Long, who found his injuries to be of a serious nature.

Wilcox is the father of Mrs. Edwin Craig and Hudson Wilcox, of this city.

THE SUPREME COURT VACANCY.

Talk About Judge Swayze and Representative Parker.

Washington, March 14.—All the agitation for the appointment of a Jerseyman to the Supreme Court bench to succeed Associate Justice Brown, who will retire in May, seems to be confined to New Jersey. There is no indication here that either Judge Francis Swayze or Representative R. Wayne Parker is being considered for the position. No member of the New Jersey delegation in Congress has talked with the President on the matter, although it is not improbable that there will be something of this nature attempted if Secretary Taft decides not to accept the place. If Mr. Taft will take the judgship, with the promise of promotion to be chief justice should Chief Justice Fuller retire during the present administration, there will be nobody else considered. It is known that the President wants him to go on the bench. It is known, too, that Taft wants to accept.

There is another story afloat here to the effect that the President is being urged to settle the Wisconsin Republican row by inducing Senator Spooner to accept a place on the Supreme Court bench. It is said that the La Follette crowd would be glad to agree to this programme, but that Spooner's ambitions do not lie in that direction.

Senator Dryden says he knows nothing of the matter, but will talk with Senator Kean about it.

Bishop O'Connor Defendant.

Jersey City, March 14.—Bishop John J. O'Connor, of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Newark, was named as defendant in a motion before Vice-Chancellor Pitney in the Chancery Chambers here Monday. The motion was for an order to show cause why a foreclosure proceeding of the bishop should not be reopened and the Church of St. Philip Neri of Newark made a defendant in the foreclosure proceedings.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"York State Folks," one of the really successful rural dramas of recent years, has been booked for appearance at the New Plainfield week after next.

Heinrich Conreid, director of the Metropolitan Opera House, was acquitted yesterday of a charge of violating the law regarding Sunday theatrical performances. He was arrested recently for giving Sunday night concerts at the Metropolitan, the action of the police being as a test case. Verdi's "Requiem Mass" was the production upon which the charge was based.

Treasurer W. J. Vail, of the Grand Opera House, Philadelphia, has returned home after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Counihan. While here he took a run into New York and concluded arrangements with Thompson & Dundy for the putting on of "A Yankee Circus on Mars." the Hippodrome's first big success, at the Philadelphia house. It is at present showing to thousands nightly at the Chicago Coliseum.

The performance of "The Pit" at the National theatre, Washington, Monday night, was delayed by the "supers" who appear in the great wheat corner scene going on strike for more pay. There were 200 of them employed for the purpose and they had been getting thirty-five cents a night. They asked for fifty and when it was refused the police had to be called to suppress them. To get even, they finally went on and when the time came for them to get excited and appear as half-crazed speculators, they moped about like a New Orleans darky on a hot afternoon. The scene was spoiled and the whole crowd was discharged and hustled off the stage.

Ada Rehan Under Knife.

It was generally reported along upper Broadway, New York, yesterday that Miss Ada Rehan had submitted to an operation for appendicitis and that she was in St. Vincent's Hospital. At the hospital it was said a prominent actress had engaged a private room, but that she had not yet occupied it. It was told yesterday that Miss Rehan had had a recurrence of her appendicitis attack and that she would give up acting until another season.

Leases Fine Property.

The fine residential property owned by J. D. Loizeaux on Hillside avenue, near Evergreen avenue, has been leased to William R. Hill, of New York, at present residing in New Brunswick. He will take possession of his new home about May 1, upon his return from Europe. Mr. Hill is manager for the Yale & Towne Manufacturing Company, of New York city.

CHURCH SOCIETIES ELECT

Annual Meetings of Parish Women's Auxiliaries of Various Denominations.

WORK OF THE YEAR

At First Baptist, Park Avenue Baptist and Holy Cross Episcopal—The Reports.

Women's societies of several congregations held their annual meetings yesterday.

The Women's Foreign and Home Missionary societies and the Ladies' Aid Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church held a joint annual meeting in the chapel of the church yesterday afternoon. There was a large attendance of the members in each and a profitable and pleasant time was had.

The Women's Foreign Missionary Society met first and received encouraging reports from Mrs. S. Arthur Krom, secretary, and Mrs. John H. Doane, treasurer. The latter stated the receipts for the year to be $117, all of which had been expended for foreign mission work.

These officers were elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. A. E. Finn; vice-president, Mrs. C. W. Tennant; secretary, Mrs. S. Arthur Krom; treasurer, Mrs. John H. Doane.

At the conclusion of this meeting Miss Catherine Miller gave a piano selection and Miss Marguerite Ostrom gave a recitation.

The Women's Home Missionary Society then held its meeting. Mrs. Nelson Runyon presented an interesting report of the year's work and Mrs. A. D. Thompson, treasurer, reported the receipts for the year to be $139. These officers were then elected: President, Mrs. Charles Dayton; vice-president, Mrs. J. S. Pray; secretary, Mrs. Nelson Runyon; treasurer, Mrs. A. D. Thompson; assistant treasurer, Miss Adelia Runyon.

Mrs. Adelbert von Brakle sang a solo and Miss Ostrom gave another recitation, preceding the annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society. For this society Mrs. J. Wesley Johnson, treasurer, reported receipts for the year to be $791.91, and the report of the secretary, Mrs. Walter Freeman, was very encouraging.

These officers were elected for the year: President, Mrs. Frank T. Ostrom; firse vice-president, Mrs. Harry Moore; second vice-president, Mrs. Lottie A. Udell; secretary, Mrs. Walter Freeman; treasurer, Mrs. J. Wesley Johnson.

Following the business of the afternoon there was a social hour and refreshments were served. Mrs. S. Arthur Krom and Mrs. Charles Van Winkle poured tea, and other members of the societies assisted in serving.

The annual meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the First Baptist church was held in the lecture room of the church yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Reuben Knox, the president, being in the chair. Reports of the secretary and treasurer were encouraging and showed that the society has had a successful year. The receipts amounted to about $500, all of which has been expended for home missions.

The society is desirous of establishing a scholarship in the Chicago Training School for Miss Emma Paine, and decided to do so if possible by the free-will-offering plan. Any contributions for this purpose will be received by Mrs. W. Kempton Browning, who has been appointed to receive the money.

Resolutions on the death of Mrs. Whitney, in July, and Miss Florence Marsh, in November of last year, and Mrs. Eden Boice, in February, were drafted and presented by Mrs. Susan T. Wilson and adopted by the society. Copies will be spread on the minutes of the society and a copy sent to the bereaved families.

These officers were elected for the year: President, Mrs. Reuben Knox; vice-presidents, Mrs. Susan T. Wilson, Mrs. Hannah Flanders, Mrs. Morris A. Zook; secretary, Mrs. Charles Robins; treasurer, Mrs. Frank W. Jones; treasurer of the contingent fund, Mrs. F. E. Biglow; collectors, Mrs. I. M. Runyon, Mrs. John D. Runyon, Mrs. A. H. Manning, Mrs. George White, Mrs. Walter M. McGee, and Mrs. T. S. Armstrong. The last named woman takes the place of Mrs. Stephen B. Joseph, who has served for several years, but owing to poor health is obliged to retire.

It was announced that the anniversary meeting of the society would be held soon, when it is expected that Mrs. Post, a home missionary, will attend and make an address.

Election of officers and interesting reports comprised the business transacted at the annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First M. E. church, held in Vincent chapel yesterday afternoon. The reports showed that the society has a membership of 115 and the finances to be in good shape. There was a discussion of the year's work and some planning for the coming year.

These officers were chosen for the year: President, Mrs. Nelson A. Miller; firse vice-president, Mrs. H. A. McGee; second vice-president, Mrs. James Robley; secretary, Mrs. L. M. French; treasurer, Mrs. Nelson Y. Hull. The executive board will appoint the various committees and announce them at the next meeting.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Holy Cross church held an interesting meeting in the parish house yesterday afternoon. The devotional exercises, including the missionary litany, were in charge of the rector, Rev. George A. Warner. This was followed with the reading of the reports of the secretary, treasurer and roll call. The finances were stated to be in good condition.

Mrs. C. T. Pond presented an instructive paper on the subject of "St. Adrian and the Early Celtic church in Britain," and a discussion of the earliest known Christianity in Great Britain. An entertaining talk was given by Mrs. Monroe in which she described a trip taken on behalf of the auxiliary among the Oneida and Cayuga Indian reservations. She also exhibited photographs illustrating the work among those Indians. After an informal discussion a social time was enjoyed and tea was served.

Oak Tree Involved in a Romantic Affair—Foul Play Feared by Bride-Elect.

The little rural community of Oak Tree, near Metuchen, figured in a romance in the New York papers yesterday morning. The principals involved are Mrs. Rosa Dazasazo, a beautiful Cuban widow, of 489 Smith street, Brooklyn, a professional nurse, and Count Louis Von Knapp, a landscape gardener, of Essen, Germany.

The young couple met at a New Yorker's home at Oak Tree, where the widow had a professional engagement, fell in love and decided to be married last Thanksgiving Day.

After the engagement the gardener fell heir to a large fortune in Germany. A few days before the marriage the prospective bridegroom called at the home of his intended and told her aunt that he had received the first installment of his inheritance.

That was the last seen of him, and it is believed that he has met with foul play. His fiancee is heartbroken and has called in the aid of the police to help her run down the mystery. She believes he was killed by thugs.

Mrs. Weaver, of Central avenue, is entertaining her sister, Miss Stokes, of Philadelphia.

APPEARING OLD
Acts as a Bar to Profitable Employment.
You cannot afford to grow old.
In these days of strenuous competition it is necessary to maintain, as long as possible ones youthful appearance.
It is impossible to do this without retaining a luxurious growth of hair.
The presence of Dandruff indicates the presence of a burrowing germ which lives and thrives on the roots of the hair until it causes total baldness.
Newbro's Herpicide is the only known destroyer of this pest, and it is as effective as it is delightful to use.
Herpicide makes an elegant hair dressing as well as Dandruff cure.
Accept no substitute—there is none.
Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

"The Man on the Box"

By HAROLD MacGRATH

Author of "The Grey Cloak," "The Puppet Crown."

Copyright, 1894, The Bobbs-Merrill Company.

He saw that he must wait. Yesterday he had feared nothing save his own exposure. Comedy had frolicked in her grinning mask. And here was Tragedy stalking in upon the scene.

The girl named a dozen shops which she desired to honor with her custom and presence, and stepped into the coupe. William closed the door, and James touched up the pair and drove off toward the city. He was perfectly indifferent to any possible exposure. In truth, he forgot everything, absolutely and positively everything, but the girl and the fortification plans she had been drawing.

Scarce a half a dozen bundles were the result of the tour among the shops.

"Mrs. Chadwick's, James."

The call lasted half an hour.

As the story-teller I am supposed to be everywhere, to follow the footsteps of each and all of my characters, and with a fidelity and perspicacity nothing short of the marvelous. So I take the liberty of imagining the pith of the conversation between the woman and the girl.

The Woman: How long, dear, have we known each other?

The Girl: Since I left school, I believe. Where did you get that stunning morning gown?

The Woman (smiling in spite of the serious purpose she has in view): Never mind the gown, my child; I have something of greater importance to talk about.

The Girl: Is there anything more important to talk about among women?

The Woman: Yes. There is age.

The Girl: But, mercy, we do not talk about that!

The Woman: I am going to establish a precedent, then. I am 40 or at least, I am on the verge of it.

The Girl (warningly): Take care! If we should ever become enemies! If I should ever become treacherous!

The Woman: The world very well knows that I am older than I look. That is why it takes such interest in my age.

The Girl: The question is, how do you preserve it?

The Woman: Well, then, I am 40, while you stand on the threshold of the adorable 20s. (Walks over to picture taken 18 years before and contemplates it.) Ah, to be 20 again; to start anew, possessing my present learning and wisdom, and knowledge of the world; to avoid the pits into which I so carelessly stumbled! But no!

The Girl: Mercy! what have you to wish for? Are not princes and ambassadors your friends; have you not health and wealth and beauty? You wish for something, you who are so handsome and brilliant!

The Woman: Blinds, my dear Betty, only blinds; for that is all beauty and wealth and wit are. Who sees behind sees scars of many wounds. You are without a mother, I am without a child. (Sits down beside the girl and takes her hand in hers.) Will you let me be a mother to you for just this morning? How can any man help loving you! (impulsively.)

The Girl: How foolish you are, Grace!

The Woman: Ah, to blush like that!

The Girl: You are very embarrassing this morning. I believe you are very sentimental. Well, my handsome mother for just this morning, what is it you have to say to me? (jestingly.)

The Woman: I do not know just how to begin. Listen. If ever trouble should befall you, if ever misfortune should entangle you, you will promise to come to me?

The Girl: Misfortune? What is on your mind, Grace?

The Woman: Promise!

The Girl: I promise. (Laughs.)

The Woman: I am rich. Promise that if poverty should ever come to you, you will come to me.

The Girl (puzzled): I do not understand you at all!

The Woman: Promise!

The Girl: I promise; but—

The Woman: Thank you, Betty.

The Girl (growing serious): What is all this about, Grace? You look so earnest.

The Woman: Some day you will understand. Will you answer me one question as a daughter would answer her mother?

The Girl (gravely): Yes.

The Woman: Would you marry a title for the title's sake?

The Girl (indignantly): I?

The Woman: Yes; would you?

The Girl: I shall marry the man I love, and if not him, nobody. I mean, of course, when I love.

The Woman: Blushing again? My dear, is Karloff anything to you?

The Girl: Karloff? Mercy, no. He is handsome and fascinating and rich but I could not love him. It would be easier to love—to love my groom outside.

(They both smile.)

The Woman (grave once more): That is all I wished to know dear. Karloff is not worthy of you.

The Girl (sitting very erect): I do not understand. Is he not honorable?

The Woman (hesitatingly): I have known him for seven years; I have always found him honorable.

The Girl: Why, then, should he not be worthy of me?

The Woman (lightly): Is any man?

The Girl: You are parrying my question. If I am to be your daughter, there must be no fencing.

The Woman(rising and going over to the portrait again): There are some things that a mother may not tell even to her daughter.

The Girl (determinedly): Grace, you have said too much or too little. I do not love Karloff. I never could love him; but I like him, and liking him, I feel called upon to defend him.

The Woman (surprised into showing her dismay): You defend him? You!

The Girl: And why not? That is what I wish to know; why not?

The Woman: My dear, you do not love him. That is all I wished to know. Karloff is a brilliant, handsome man, a gentleman; his sense of honor, such as it is, would do credit to many another man; but behind all this there is a power which makes him helpless, makes him a puppet, and robs him of certain worthy impulses. I have read somewhere that corporations have no souls; neither have governments. Ask me nothing more, Betty, for I shall answer no more questions.

The Girl: I don't think you are treating me fairly.

The Woman: At this moment I would willingly share with you half of all I possess in the world.

The Girl: But all this mystery!

CROSS AND NERVOUS.

Plainfield Sufferers from Kidney Troubles Often Become Very Irritable.

Cross, irritable people—the sort who fuss and mope and worry over trifles—are not always to blame for the annoyance they give to others. Frequently these traits are but the effects of kidney poisons on brain and nerves. Uric acid that escapes the kidneys irritates nerve centers and vital organs—causes backache, rheumatic and neuralgic pains—keeps you languid, all tired out—leads to Bright's disease and diabetes. Stop the trouble in the beginning with Doan's Kidney Pills. 'Twill cure the kidneys and remove the cause of all these ills. Recommended by friends and neighbors in Plainfield.

Mrs. K. C. Philpott, of 126 Plainfield avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Two years ago I suffered with rheumatism and also a severe backache or pain in the loins. I suppose it was all caused by an excess of uric acid in the blood, but at any rate, the medicines I was taking did not stop the pains. I therefore resorted to the use of Doan's Kidneys Pills, and I must say, in gratitude, that they gave me complete relief from my rheumatism and backache. I had no occasion to use any medicine for my kidneys since that time, until July, 1905, when I had not been feeling just right, and had been suffering sharp twinges of pain in my back. My daughter got me a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's pharmacy, and on using them they relieved me as before. I have often recommended Doan's Kidneys Pills to people suffering from backache and rheumatism, and I shall continue to do so."

SMITH'S VICTIM HAPPY.

Gets Five-Year Tenancy of Shop for Nothing.

Reports from Caldwell say that "Mayor Bill" Smith has made ample restitution to John Ottenheim for the skin he broke and the bones he shook with his powerful right when he pounded the barber two weeks ago. Ottenheim's shop is in Smith's new $23,000 office building, and it is said that "Bill" was compelled to sign over the shop and the first floor to him for five years, free of all rent. Smith has been absolutely guaranteed freedom from arrest on other proceedings.

Smith and the barber appear to have made a real peace. They shook hands publicly and were seen to smile broadly when they met on the street yesterday. The villagers understand why Ottenheim smiled, but they wondere what tickles "Bill."

—Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Vanderhoff have moved from West Fifth street to the Stillman Building on West Front street.

WILDY WAS MORE THAN A BOARDER AT NELSON'S

DISCOVERY LANDS HIM AND NELSON IN JAIL.

Patrolman Saunders heard a woman scream in John Nelson's house, 642 South Second street, last night. He went in and found Nelson and Atwood Wildy, a machinist, in a tangle of uppercuts and shortarm jabs. Nelson's daughter Annie was giving an exhibition of high and lofty screaming. Nelson was badly banged up and Wildy looked as if his face had butted into something very hard.

Judge Runyon started to figure out the degree of responsibility in the scrap in the city court this morning, but abandoned that line of inquiry when he discovered some interesting things about the Nelson household. Wildy claimed to be a simple boarder ,but Nelson said he was a little more than that. Nelson said he lived in the back room and Wildy shared the front room with Annie.

"What sort of a father are you, anyway?" asked the magistrate. "Have you ever told this man to leave the house?"

"No," said Nelson stolidly. "My wife did, but she's dead now."

"Five dollars or twenty days for you, Nelson," said the judge curtly; "$15 or forty days for you, Wildy."

Neither man had the money, and the commitment papers were made out at once.

"I think we ought to have Annie down here, judge," said the chief, and the magistrate gave the order.

Patrolman Saunders went after Annie, but he couldn't find her at the house. The police say she has skipped.

GOVERNOR STOKES WAS ALLOWED TO SPEAK.

Unusual Honor Given Chief Executive By Correspondents' Club.

The seventeenth annual dinner of the New Jersey Legislative Correspondent's Club was held in the Trenton House, Trenton, last evening and was the best one of the past five years, when the late William Henry Koons, founder of the club, was in the full enjoyment of his ability as a legislative correspondent.

The sallies of wit, for which the club is famous, were brilliant and directed against the Colby reformers.

Outside of Governor Stokes, for whom the club had a warm spot in its heart, no one was allowed to make a speech.

The affair was a great success, and rule 13 was enforced, and no reporters were present.

When Senator Colby was introduced he was characterized as a "musician" and he immediately took Professor Winkler's violin and played De Koven's "Oh! Promise Me." He did not attempt to speak, but the musical idea caught the fancy of the diners and they applauded loudly.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

Send in your subscriptions to baseball stock and they will be acknowledged in The Daily Press.

Some one has said that the Public Service Corporation might take a little interest in the local baseball association, inasmuch as it derives a direct benefit throughout the summer.

The committee of twenty is hustling day and night for subscribers to shares of stock for the association and it is expected that encouraging reports will be presented at the meeting to be held tonight at Lawyer F. J. Huff's offices.

The purchase of a share of stock in the Plainfield Baseball Association is a good investment. Besides making it possible to have fine sport throughout the summer, the stockholders will stand a chance of being reimbursed. Every public spirited citizen should subscribe.

City Judge William N. Runyon has agreed to accept the presidency of the Plainfield Baseball Association, and now that he has decided to withdraw from politics will have more time to devote to its interest. However, Mayor Newton B. Smalley will retain his interest and work just as hard.

Pitching records of the National League for the season of 1905 are interesting to New York fans because of the fact that the twirling staff of the champions figures prominently, and for the further reason that "Noodle" Hahn, who will pitch for the Yankees next season, averaged less than one base on balls a game, a wonderful showing for a left hander.

Christy Mathewson looms up as a champion among champions. He hit but one man during the entire season and allowed the smallest average of runs. Leon Ames struck out more men on an average than any other twirler in the league, and Elliott allowed the smallest average of hits, though his record is not to be seriously considered, as he showed in the box only a few times.

Following are some of the facts disclosed by the records:

Mathewson hit but one man during the entire season.

Hahn average less than one base on balls per game.

Fraser, Boston, allowed greatest average bases on balls per game, 3.8.

Ames struck out most men per game, average, 5.8.

Leever led in percentage of victories, .800.

Pittinger and McGinnity pitched in largest number of games, 48.

TALK ON "APPERCEPTION"

Dean of N. Y. U. School of Pedagogy Addresses Plainfield Teachers.

PEOPLE'S OBSERVATION

Developed Mind Has Much Greater Power of Seeing and Hearing, He Declares.

The second of the course of six lectures on educational subjects to begiven to the teachers of Plainfield and North Plainfield was delivered yesterday afternoon in the Plainfield High School by Dr. Thomas M. Balliet, formerly superintendent of the schools of Springfield, Mass., now dean of New York University School of Pedagogy. His subject was "Apperception in Education and in Life."

Apperception was defined as the gaining of new ideas through those that already exist in the mind. We form new mental images only through the old. A person preparing to take a trip to Europe usually spends his spare moments reading all he can about the places to be visited; and when he arrives there he sees much more than without such preparatory reading, because his mind has been properly prepared for the reception of the new images.

It is a proven fact that certain parts of the brain preside over certain functions of the body. Thus the brain area that controls vision is situated in the rear lobes of the cerebrum, that which controls hearing, above and to the front of the ears, and that which controls muscular movements, in the top of the cerebrum. These various areas are not developed except through the proper exercise of the senses over which they have control. The brain of Laura Bridgman, who was deaf and blind, showed that the areas that produce vision and hearing were totally undeveloped. Hence manual training is of very great value in that it develops the upper portion of the cerebrum; and all muscular activity is to a certain extent brain activity.

The eye does not see. It is simply a medium through which certain vibrations of ether are transmitted to the visual brain area. Not until these vibrations reach this area do we see things.

The developed mind has much greater power of seeing and hearing than has the undeveloped, even though the latter may have superior sense organs. The dog has a better eye than a man, yet he does not see as much as a man does, because he has less brain power. Charles Darwin, half blind, would see a hundred times as much in a garden as another person with an acute sense of sight, because of the large number of mental images existing in his mind.

Everybody sees the things to which his stored up mental images predispose him. Hence each person lives in a private world of his own, namely his world of images. Therefore, it is of the first importance that teachers fill the minds of their pupils with elevating and proper images; for this will determine whether the pupils' lives will be high or low—it will determine their character and destiny. He whose mind is filled with lofty images is enjoying heaven or earth.

The next lecture in the course will also be given by Dr. Balliet on April 11. His subject will be, "Habit."

Masonic Grand Lodge.

The annual communication of the Most Worshipful Grand Lodge of Masonry will be held at Trenton on Thursday and Friday, March 21 and 22. A majority of the past masters from the local Masonic lodges will attend.

"Marty" Re-engaged.

Martin O'Loughlin has been re-engaged as professional of the Plainfield Country Club for another season. O'Laughlin is the young homebred who got in the money in the Metropolitan Golf Association open championship at Cox Hills last fall.

W. U. BOYS STRIKE WHEN STORM COMES

"CYCLONE" M'MAHON LEADER OF THE DISCONTENTED MESSENGER LADS.

As if a conspiracy had been formed between them to make the humble citizen feel his helplessness, the snow storm and trouble at the local office of the Western Union arrived about the same time this morning. While the snow was keeping people indoors, the messenger boys employed by the telegraph company thought it would be a good opportunity to ask for more money and they acted accordingly. When an attempt was made to explain to them that their request could not be granted there was a rush of resignations and the delivery service was crippled more than the trunk circuits.

"Cyclone" McMahon took the leadership and promptly hied himself home with a newly purchased bit of blood-and-thunder literature to read by the fireside. Three more of the fleet-footed staff followed suit and only two of the boys were left to handle the rush of messages. The latter are "Kippy" Conniskey and "Poping"' Lievers, who remained loyal to Manager Schermerhorn and spent the morning trudging from one end of the city to the other.

The formal dismissal of the strikers has been filed and a hurry call has been sent for recruits.

TO SELECT A NAME FOR THE OPERA CLUB

MEETING ARRANGED FOR MONDAY NIGHT AT THE CASINO.

The members of the amateur opera company recently organized met at the Casino this week to perfect an organization. Constitution and by-laws were drafted and presented, but owing to the absence of President C. J. Fisk and William N. Runyon it was decided to lay the matter over until Monday night. At that time it is hoped to adopt the same and also select a suitable name for the organization. A name was suggested at the meeting this week, but it was not favored by a majority of the members.

Work has already begun on rehearsals for "Patience," which will be presented at the Casino the last part of April or first of May. For this production the chorus has been reduced to sixty voices, including soloists, and it will be obligatory upon every member to attend all rehearsals. Failure to do this will mean the dropping of their name from the organization and substituting some one else.

The constitution and by-laws make all necessary provisions for the proper regulation of the organization, and if adhered to will insure a successful musical company. All future productions will be given at the Casino, where it is believed that the results will be more satisfactory from a financial standpoint, and besides it will be possible to give two performances with very little more expense than one.

Elks Going to Brunswick.

The New Brunswick Lodge of Elks has made elaborate plans to dedicate its new hall next Thursday night and has invited Elks from all over the State to attend. Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, at its meeting last night, voted to charter a special car for a journey over and will participate in a parade to precede the exercises.

Volunteers to be in Big Parade.

The Irish Volunteers, at their meeting last night, made final plans for attending the St. Patricks' Day parade in New York, Saturday. The members have secured new uniforms and have been drilling regularly for the past month. Robert Scott received the initiatory degree and several applications were received.

MEETING SATURDAY

Committee On Probable Expenses to Be Appointed—Consulting With Manager Daab.

Reports from the various members of the committee of twenty appointed by the Plainfield Baseball Association to solicit subscriptions for shares of stock were received at a meeting held in the law offices of F. J. Huff, last night, and it was the general opinion that a sufficient number would be secured to insure the return of Manager Daab and his team to Plainfield this season. As near as could be ascertained definitely $800 has thus far been subscribed towar the project, and there are yet several members of the committee to be heard from. The report was very gratifying to the committee and when it is considered that these subscriptions have been secured since Monday. It is confidently believed that by Saturday night the committee will be able to report a total of at least $1,000.

During the evening there was a discussion of plans for the season. It was agreed that the services of the police should be dispensed with at the games, inasmuch as it cost $9 per game for this protection last year. No doubt other arrangements will be made to police the grounds whereby it will cost a nominal sum. There will also be a saving in expense in securing the members of the association to sell and take tickets gratuitously and the expense for the care of the grounds will also be reduced considerable.

The association will meet at the Hotel Iroquois on Saturday night and a general invitation is extended to every one interested to attend and subscribe to shares of stock. It will be suggested at this meeting that a committee of two or three be appointed to consult with Mr. Daab further as to the probable cost of the team per game for the season and other details so that the association will be able to ascertain approximately what the expenses will be.

It was understood by those at the meeting last night that B. A. Mumford did not resign as a member of the committee of twenty.

WINTER ARRIVES AT LAST

Came in Early This Morning and is Still Distributing Shivers.

SNOW-FALL SIX INCHES

Street Railway Traffic Slightly Delayed and Sessions in City Schools Suspended for the Day.

Right on the heels of the supposition by most everybody in town that winter had given Plainfield the go-by, it laid an icy, sleety hand on Plainfield early this morning. Unannounced by any prognostication other than Observer Neagle's gentle warning, it began tapping on window panes shortly after midnight and by noon had piled up six inches of snow. Most of the time the flakes, which were anything but feathery, were whirled about by healthy zephyrs with force enough to sting the faces of unlucky pedestrians.

Though the street railway people had not anticipated anything like a dangerous snowstorm, they had sweepers out soon after the ground became covered and traffic was not delayed to any extent on the city lines. On the through lines difficulty was experienced in the open stretches and the Newark and Dunellen cars have been off schedule all morning.

The outlook for a let-up was so poor shortly after 8 o'clock that Superintendent Maxson, of the city schools, decided to have no sessions of the grammar and primary departments, and so requested Chief Doane to blow the signal on the fire whistle. This is the first time it has been used for this purpose since the code was arranged and it was gladly welcomed by anxious mothers who were wondering what to do with the children. The High School pupils assembled as usual and the attendance was good considering the conditions. All classes were held in the borough schools, the children finding it comparatively easy to get about through Mayor Smalley ordering out the sidewalk plows.

Observer Neagle's forecast gives but little encouragement, as it declares that there will 'snow tonight and probably Friday morning." The total snowfall for February was five and a half inches.

NEGRESS ASKS DIVORCE FROM INDIAN HUSBAND.

Thomas Wells Served with Notice at His Plainfield Avenue Shop.

Thomas Wells, who claims to be an Indian, has been sued for absolute divorce by Marie Wells, his wife. Wells was served with a notice in the suit at his home on Plainfield avenue, by Deputy Sheriff Weaver.

Mrs. Wells is a negress. Her husband claims to be a member of a Western tribe, and says he has "a personal history." He is a shoemaker, and runs a little shop. He is very dark and has the long, straight, black hair of the aborigine.

Mrs. Wells sues on statutory grounds. The couple are not living together.

J. Hittle's Mystery.

Jules Hittle, the barkeeper at Henry Haurand's, has his friends guessing. Frank Haurand heard that Jules got married two weeks ago, and he told all Jules' friends about it. When Jules was taxed with being a benedict he smiled a tantalizing smile and said nothing. He has met all inquiries since in the same ungenerous spirit, and his friends and the regulars at Haurands' are in a turmoil of uncertainty over Jules' state.

PARK CLUB BOWLERS ROLL 1,012 IN 3D GAME

GREAT RECORD MADE IN CONTEST ON LOCAL ALLEYS.

The Park Club crack bowling team met the Elizabeth Town and Country Club five on the local alleys last night and established the highest score ever rolled at the club, in the third game, three men rolling over 200, and the total score being 1012. Barlow put up a score of 225 in this game, Walter Long 201 and F. O. Ball 217. The county seat bowlers could not hope to beat this and had to be satisfied with a total score of 849. The Parks took all three games, winning the first by a score of 835 to 804 and the second by a score of 902 to 844.

Special mention should be made of the great work of Barlow, whose three scores were 212, 200 and 225, a record to be proud of. M. Long also rolled a high score in the second game, putting up 204. The local bowlers have never performed better and if they had struck this pace in the Central Journal Bowling League series they certainly would have landed in first place.

J. A. O'KEEFE RECEIVES DESERVED PROMOTION

HAS BEEN MADE MANAGER OF NEW BALLANTINE PLANT AT BUFFALO.

John A. O'Keefe, of Grant avenue, who has been travelling collector for the Ballentine brewery, of Newark, for the past two years, received notice this week of well deserved promotion. In recognition of his good work while on the road he has been made resident manager of the concern's recently established plant at Buffalo, N. Y. He will leave for that city Saturday to establish his home, and his family will follow within a short time.

Mr. O'Keefe not only enjoys a wide local acquaintance, but is one of the best known travelling men in the country. He was the founder of the Homeless Twenty-six, a drummers' organization whose membership has grown from twenty-six to many thousands within three years, and of which he is president. He is a member of Plainfield Lodge, B. P. O. Elks and acted as interlocutor at its minstrel show last month. In many ways he has made himself popular with the local wearers of the antlers and they and other Plainfielders, while pleased with his advancement, express regret at its taking him from the city.

SECOND SEWER CONFERENCE.

Engineer Pierson Will Give His Opinions to Borough Officials Tonight.

The North Plainfield Common Council and the Board of Health will hold the second joint meeting tonight for the purpose of discussing the question of a sewer system. Engineer George W. Pearson, of the Municipal Construction Company, will be in attendance, and will give his opinions as to the best course to follow up, basing them on investigations made recently and also several years ago. He has been in the borough several times in the past week and with Mayor Smalley has gone over the ground it is proposed to sewer.

President Osgood, of the Board of Health, who is also an engineer of prominence, has been busy since the last meeting and will be able to explain his ideas to better advantage.

Fireman Recovering.

Benjamin Lohsen, the New Jersey Central fireman, who was badly hurt in a wreck near Richmond street, last month, and was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, is recovering rapidly and will soon be able to return to his home in Red Bank.

Teachers' Class Tonight.

Former Senator Reed Enlivens Meeting By One of His Attacks on Newspapers.

MR. DEPEW EXPLAINS

President of Organization Says Next Thing To Do Is To Get Funds Together — Compares Rates Here and Elsewhere.

Clad in full armor of organization, the Plainfield Protective Association ended its second meeting last night prepared to wage its campaign for equitable treatment from the P. S. C. in earnest. A constitution and a set of by-laws was adopted, and the immediate programme of activity was outlined.

The meeting was held at the Casino. The forty members present were of the same representative character as at the first gathering in Grace church parish house, and the same pitch of earnestness that marked that meeting was noticeable.

Former State Senator Charles A. Reed, who did not attend the first meeting, was present, and took an active part in the proceedings. He asked for a lot of information and advocated an amendment to the constitution. The information was given, but the amendment was lost. He enlivened the session with a snarl at the newspapers. Councilman Hibbard was among those present.

Chairman L. V. F. Randolph presented the constitution, which is a somewhat lengthy instrument.

Partisan politics is ruled out of the organization by the following section:

"No partisan politics will be permitted in any addresses or speeches made before the association by members or otherwise. This will not prevent the advocacy of any useful measures, no matter by what party it may be endorsed, but in no case shall any such measure be treated or considered from a political point of view. This rule will be enforced by the presiding officer in conducting all meetings."

The objects and purposes of the association are stated as follows:

"The protection of its members and the community in general against extortion, danger and injury, and the improvement of municipal conditions in the city of Plainfield and the borough of North Plainfield."

Four sub-committees, to be appointed by the chairman from the members of the executive committee, are provided for. There is to be a P. S. C. committee, to look after the gas and electric lighting situation, headed by the president; a public welfare committee, headed by the vice-president ;a finance and expenditure committee, of which the treasurer is head, and a law and legislation committee, of which the secretary is chairman.

Mr. Reed thought the law and legislation ought to be differently constructed. It was his opinion that different forms of legislation might require different workers on the committee, and he advocated the appointment of the committee by the president, with particular attention to the need of a lawyer among its members.

When the amendment was put seven members supported its author.

In the general discussion that followed the adoption of the constitution Mr. Reed asked for information as to the proceedings at the first meeting.

"All I have learned about the association," he explained, "was what the president's circular contained and what information I could glean from the newspapers, which, of course, are very inaccurate."

Timorous members of the association shivered as they looked at the reporters. They were reassured by the absence of chagrin and bitterness among the newspaper men. True it was that his remark about the newspapers was uncalled for, but then Mr. Reed does not seem to be able to forget the cause of his political retirement.

One of the things Mr. Reed wanted to know about was the powers of the executive committee. Was it in full control or did the rank and file have any voice in governing the organization?

Chairman Randolph explained that the committee had full powers under the constitution, but that the organization was very democratic, and suggestions would always be welcomed by the committeemen. President Depew added his assurance in a similar view. Mr. Reed appeared to be satisfied with the prospect of unlimited

EPITAPH UPSETS SUPPOSED HISTORY

BELIEVED MRS. CALDWELL WAS SHOT BY BRITISH SOLDIER JUNE 7.

Elizabeth, March 15. — While searching among the tombstones of the old First Presbyterian church graveyard here, last week, an epitaph hunter made a discovery that might upset one of the most sacred pieces of local Revolutionary history.

No grave in the city is pointed at with more patriotic pride than that which is supposed to contain the dust of the Rev. James Caldwell and his wife, Hannah Caldwell. It is always pointed out as one of the sights of Elizabeth, for with it is connected a sad story of Revolutionary days.

Local historians tell how the British forces, 6,000 strong, under the Hessian General Knyphausen, on the night of June 6, 1780, crossed the sound from Staten Island and on the following day, June 7, started from Elizabethport and drove the Americans, under General Maxwell, whom they outnumbered three to one, through this town and on through Connecticut Farms in the direction of Springfield up to beyond the Rahway River, burning everything as they went. During the night of June 7 the British retreated to this place, where, the next day, the battle of Elizabethtown was fought. It was the 125th anniversary of this battle that was given such an imposing celebration on June 8 last.

Two incidents are related in connection with this march, both of which, it is claimed, happed on June 7. It is said the Continental forces made a stand at the Connecticut Farms Presbyterian church and that, having partly run out of ammunition, their chaplain, the Rev. James Caldwell, who was pastor of the church and of the First Presbyterian church of this town, ran into the church and, coming out with his arms full of hymn books, said to the men, "Here, boys, give them Watts," and the soldiers rammed the books down into the barrels of their guns.

The church was burned and a hundred yards back of it stood the parsonage, where Mrs. Caldwell was with her little children, but this house was left unmolested, although nearly every other house was destroyed. The story is that the British followed the fleeing Continentals and that one straggling soldier came up to the parsonage and asked Mrs. Caldwell for a meal that she gave it to him and he left the house, but remained in the vicinity. Toward evening he returned, according to the present-day story, and seeing the woman putting her little ones to bed, shot her through the window, killing her instantly.

On the 7th of last June the State of New Jersey erected a monument on the supposed site of the reputed shooting. No one had ever questioned the story, but the epitaph hunter in going through the old First Church graveyard this week deciphered the following on the stone that marks the final resting place of the Caldwells:

wife of the Rev. James Caldwell and daughter of
John Ogden of Newark
Was killed at Connecticut
Farms by a shot from a British soldier
June 25, 1780
Cruelly sacrificed
By the Enemies of Her Husband and Her Country.

The epitaph indicates that the woman was shot June 25, which is more than two weeks after the date that had been heretofore set. Local historians are very much exercised over the discovery, as it tends to question the entire event. According to the same stone, Parson Caldwell was shot and killed by a sentinel at Elizabethport on November 24, 1781. He was a grand-uncle of John Caldwell Calhoun, the statesman.

The annual budget of expenses for the coming year will be prepared this month by the finance committee of the Common Council and will be presented in ordinance form for adoption at the April meeting.

"THE GIRL PATSY" REPLETE WITH HEART INTEREST

MRS. FEIGL'S NEW PLAY TELLS A REFRESHING STORY.

An artist in love with his model may be an old theme in the studios, but it is fresh enough for dramatic purposes, and in "The Girl Patsy," which comes to the New Plainfield theatre for its premiere performance Saturday afternoon and night, the theme is worked out in a wholly unique manner. The painter in this case does his work so well that it leads to the establishment of the girl's identity as a woman of some importance in the world. But many obstacles intervene before she comes into her own. Jane Mauldin Feigl has, if all accounts may be believed, constructed a good wholesome play conspicuously lacking in melodramtic climaxes, but interesting nevertheless in the highest degree.

Original character drawing and admirable stage management make this offering a worthy one. Many pleasant things might be said of the cast, which is uniform in its excellence. Mary Ryan, who needs no introduction to local theatre patrons, is said to have scored a most pronounced hit in the title part. Henry C. Mortimer is seen to advantage as the artist-lover. Jack Drumier has an important role, while Grace Cahill, Rosalie De Vaux and Olive Helaine Briscoe add clever characterizations. The comedy element, strong at all times in Mrs. Feigl's work, is taken care of by John Morris, Robert Wagner, John Sutherland, Melville Alexander and Alice Knowland. What villainy there is on foot is effectively handled by W. Clinton Hamilton. The piece is in four acts, all superbly mounted.

W. P. Cullen's big production of the dashing Western operatic comedy, "The Tenderfoot," with its senoritas and cowgirls, cowboys and Texas rangers, and other picturesque characters, will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre this afternoon and tonight. Oscar L. Figman and Ruth White are the stars of the performance and they will be well remembered here on account of their splendid work in "The Burgomaster" two seasons ago, when the big revival of the piece was seen to such large business.

Kilroy and Britton are with us again. This time at the head of their own company, "An Aristocratic Tramp." The theatregoers of this city will remember this talented team of players as having appeared here several times with the "Heart of Chicago" company. They have spared no expense to make this a guaranteed attraction, a show for the young and old. They are booked for next Tuesday night at the New Plainfield theatre.

"York State Folks," which will be most pleasantly remembered by the theatregoers of this section by reason of the big hit it scored when presented in New York City, is booked for presentation at the New Plainfield theatre on March 28, and it will be given with the same great cast, including James Lackaye as the hard-hearted president of the village; Ray L. Royce in his clever delineation of the old organist; Mrs. Sidman, and all the other favorites.

In the story of the wheat pit, written by the late Frank Norris, Wilton Lackaye has discovered a play that has become the sensation of the season. The piece will be brought to the New Plainfield theatre March 30, after phenomenally successful runs in New York, Chicago, Boston, St. Louis and other great cities. Wilton Lackaye appears as the star of a large and capable organization. His manager, William A. Brady, has invested the play with great scenic magnificence, and with Chicago as the theme, the great business and social problem of that city as the motive—the problem of over speculation and neglect of home life—the play should arouse intense interest and no little discussion.

"McFadden's Flats," a musical comedy of pronounced exclusiveness and with an array of talent to realize its singularly appropriate laugh intentions, and lend zest to the charming melodies, will unquestionably afford an evening of unmitigated pleasure at the New Plainfield theatre Thursday matinee and night, April 5, on which occasion it will be self-evident how far a generous impulse can go in the direction of providing a suitable scenic and costume background for the benefit of so much wholesome nonsense with enrapturing song accompaniment. The performances will mark the first annual benefit for Treasurer Samuel Cunningham.

MRS. APPLEGATE WELL AGAIN!

"I have had a bruised leg and foot for several years, caused by the brass eyelets of my shoe, which became very sore and painful especially at night. It itched, burned and ached me till it nearly set me crazy. I used everything I found and was suggested to ease it and nothing gave me any relief till I found and applied Azienza Cream which I think is a wonderful remedy for all sores and inflammation of the skin. The hard knots on my legs were as painful as bee stings, with discolored and purple spots. A running sore on my instep size of a half-dollar; the to of my foot a seething sore clean around to my heel. The bone was sore for a whole year and very painful. I used five and one-half jars of Azienza Cream and healed the sore all up. The foot remained tender and I continued to use to strengthen and toughen the s in until now it is entirely well." GOTHAM'S AMUSEMENTS

W. A. Brady's production of Donald MacLaren's new play, "The Redskin," has created a sensation at the Liberty theatre. It is a dramatic novelty and the first ever presented with all Indian characters. The locale is the region of the Great Lakes; year 1750. It is staged in four acts, the scenes showing the council wigwam, the Lily Pool of Namabin, Niatawa's wigwam, the Great Cave of Many Spirits, Lonawonda's barricade and Autumn, Winter and Spring. The last three scenes are wonderfully beautiful. The acting of the characters in this play is superb. Tyrone Power plays the blind Chief and Edwin Arden acts Niatawa. Katherine Grey plays Adulola. The staging is superbly beautiful. To add realism to council scenes, ten real Brule Sioux from the Rosebud Agency in South Dakota have been brought to New York. Any one who delights in the best in dramatic art will be well repaid for a visit to "The Redskin" at the Liberty.

Klaw & Erlanger's revival of the Drury Lane spectacle of last year, "Humpty Dumpty," is presented by the same cast and with the same magnificent detail as when staged at the New Amsterdam theatre. No increase in prices will be made during this engagement, which means that the theatre patrons of the New York for several weeks to come will see the largest attraction ever presented at popular prices. William C. Schrode, who made such a hit as the Clown at the New Amsterdam; Frank Moulan, John McVeigh, Geo. Schiller, Maude Lillian Berri, Nellie Daly, Diamond Donner, John G. Schrode, Joseph C. Smith, Madeline Saville, Augusta Greenleaf, William Fables, David Abrams, Clinton Caly and Eugene Everett are all favorably remembered for their clever work. The Grigolatis troupe of aerialists will appear in an entirely new feature, presenting a flock of marvelously trained pigeons which follow them in their wonderful gyrations through the air. More than 400 people will be seen in the ballets. Prices will range from 25 cents to $1.00 and seats may be ordered two weeks ahead by mail or telegraph.

LITERARY.

Probably the most attractive pictures that have been published of Mr. and Mrs. Longworth, nee Alice Roosevelt, are those which appeared in the March number of The Burr McIntosh Monthly, now on all newsstands. Among the many superb reproductions of celebrated people are those of Archbishop Farley, Mrs. John Jacob Astor, Mrs. Frederick Dent Grant, Mme. Calve, Olga Nethersole, Blanche Bates, Grace George, Signor Dippel, grand opera singer, and Jan Kubelik, the famous violinist. In the department of People of Note, are fine photographs of Mrs. Humphrey Ward, novelist; Dr. Osler, the late Dr. Harper, of the University of Chicago, and the late Marshall Field, probably the most successful merchant of the century. The scenes in this issue are very largely of the Old World: Turkey, England, France, Switzerland, Algeria, Germany and Japan. The color work is especially striking and altogether the issue will appeal to all lovers of fine pictures. Burr Publishing Company, New York.

SOME QUAINT EPITAPHS

Odd Stories of a Village in Old Hunterdon County.

ANTIQUATED GROUND

Cemetery at New Germantown—Belongs to Lutheran Church—The Inscriptions.

The quaint and curious epitaphs of the old days have long been a matter of deep interest, as well as a source of amusement, to thousands of people who seek the oddities of the earth. Much has been written about ancient gravestones and their strange messages. One of the most antiquated cemeteries in the State of New Jersey is located at New Germantown, Hunterdon count, and, because of its remote situation, it has not become generally known to the lovers of the unusual.

This burying ground is in the yard of the Lutheran Church, which has been organized over one hundred and fifty years and has a most interesting history. Balthazar Pickel, who was one of the leading church workers at New Germantown and left by his will one thousand pounds to the church, is buried close to the east wall of the edifice. At his tomb the following memorial is disclosed:

Here lies the body of Baltes Pickel,
who departed this Life Dec. 5th, 1765,
in the 79th year of his age.
Remember me as you pass by
As you are now so onst was I.
As I am now so must you be;
Prepare for death and follow me.

The body of Charity, wife of Balthazar, lies near his remains and a curious epitaph also marks her last resting place. It is as follows:

Here lies the body of Charity, the wife of Baltes Pickel, fever, who departed this life December the 4th, 1761, in the 77th year of her age.
My glass is Run,
My grave you see;
Prepare for Death
And follow me.

Another ancient stone worthy of particular notice is the one that bears this inscription:

In Memory of
Baltes Pickel, son of Fred'k Pickel, who depart'd this life March, 1786, in the 20th year of his age.
My feebel race
Has run a pace
My dwelling place is here.
This stone is got
To keep the spot
That men dig not too near.

Many of the ministers who preached in the church are buried around its walls. In 1809 the Rev. William Graaf died, having rounded out a pastorate of thirty-four years. This is what is inscribed in memory of him:

In Memory of
Wm. Graaf,
Rector of Zion's Church in New Germantown, Born at Grunstadt in the County of Leiningen, in Germany, in the year 1727, and departed this life
May 31st, 1809, aged 82 years.
"I have waited Thy salvation, O Lord."

Barnet Hall Academy at New Germantown, which is the public school now, was named for and erected by Dr. Oliver Barnet, who is buried not so far from the antique cemetery. A small slab bears this humble epitaph:

In Memory of Doctor Barnet, Esq., who departed this life
in the 66th year of his age.

Dr. Barnet was the first physician to settle in New Germantown. He went there in 1765 from Orange, Essex county, where he came of an old and distinguished family. After reaching Hunterdon county Dr. Barnet soon became a leader in his profession. He was poor when he went there, his entire capital being his education and a scrawny Maryland pony. But by perseverance he was able before he died to value his estate at $80,000.

HOME.

No house is mine in the North or South;
No lands in the land of my sires.
Roofless, the careless winds have spent
The smoke of my vagrant fires.

No name have I in the clanging town;
No seat with the grave and wise.
The snows and the dusts of the trails get
That have blinded my foolish eyes.

But safe and warm and steadfast-true
(God, how was the wonder done!)
The heart of a woman shelters me
From the lonely winds and the sun.

Plainfield, N. J., March 15, 1906.

Now's the time for the Joseph W. Folk of New Jersey.

Can anyone explain why it should cost the baseball club nine dollars per game to police the grounds?

Atlantic City has a new political party whose slogan is "down with grafters." Time for the hotel employes to hold an indignation meeting.

Charles Newell Fowler is said to be a very busy man, therefore, it will be a generous act on the part of the Fifth Congressional district to dispense with his services when his present term expires.

When the redistricting bill becomes a law, which it is likely to, provid- New Jersey will be divided into the following assembly district: Bergen, two; Burlington, two; Camden, three; Cumberland, two; Essex, eleven; Hudson, twelve; Middlesex, three; Monmouth, three; Morris, two; Passaic, five; Union, three, and all other counties, including Somerset, one each.

Despite the fact that such learned authorities as Frank Bergen, ex-municipal owenrship advocate, and Robert McCarter hand out the opinion that "reformers are no good," the man who watches the course of politics in New Jersey will do well to give his attention to the Colby movement. "You can't fool all the people all the time," and the young and valiant Essex Senator will sweep the State sooner or later, for he wears the armor of honesty.

NOT TRYING TO REVISE ASSEMBLY DISTRICTS.

Administration Measure Provokes Hot Tilt in the Assembly—Constitutionality Questioned.

Assembly districts for the election of members of the lower branch of the Legislature at Trenton will be revived if a bill introduced in the House late yesterday afternoon becomes a law and is declared constitutional. The bill is strictly an administration measure, is based on a recommendation made by Governor Stokes in his message to this Legislature, and was introduced by Leader Perkins at the request of the judiciary committee.

The introduction of the bill provoked one of the lively assembly skirmishes of the day. Mr. Miller, of Cumberland, offered a resolution requesting the attorney general to give the house an opinion on the constitutionality of the proposition. This was adopted after a discussion.

Then Mr. Miller offered another resolution that 200 copies be printed of the supreme court decision of several years ago, declaring assembly districts unconstitutional. This decision has never been passed upon by the court of errors and appeals, and there has been a general opinion that this court would reverse the court below on the question. Mr. Miller insisted that the opinion should be circulated, in view of the introduction of the bill. Several members objected, claiming that the opinion could be found in all the law libraries, and it was unnecessary to saddle the expense on the State. This resolution was lost.

23 Cases in 40 Minutes.

Sitting as a trial judge, J. Herbert Potts, president of the Jersey City Police Board, last night listened to the evidence presented against twenty-three policemen, imposed sentence and was out of the City Hall forty minutes after entering the building. Police Commissioner John F. McNulty, who was forty-two minutes late, whistled when he learned that President Potts had disposed of the charges against the policemen. "I guess Potts is reading a ticker report of the Nelson-McGovern fight," said Commissioner McNulty as he, too, hurried out of the municipal building.

DRASTIC AUTOMOBILE BILL PASSES THE SENATE

SENATOR COLBY, WHO SPENT $100,000 ON AUTOS, SUPPORTS FRELINGHUYSEN

Trenton, March 15.—The Automobile bill, shorn of none of what the automobilists of the State have characterized as its drastic features, but amended so as to avoid some technical defects heretofore noted, was passed yesterday by the Senate by a vote of 17 to 2, those dissenting being Senators Wakelee and McKee.

Senator Frelinghuysen and Senator Horner spoke briefly in favor of the bill, and Senator Wakelee and Senator McKee spoke against it.

President Bradley did not vote. In declining to be recorded either for or against the bill he said he did not approve the manner provided in the bill for raising revenue for an executive officer.

Senator Wakelee said he was opposed to the bill because he thought it was defective in some respects, notably in failing to provide the means for securing licenses by tourists from other States.

Objections to the measure are expected in the House, because it provides for the creation of a motor vehicle department, with a commissioner and not more than twenty assistants. This department will need money, and the retrenchment advocates in the House may object. According to the advocates of the measure it will bring into the State treasury between $60,000 and $100,000 revenue.

While the expenditure incidental to the creation of the auto department may not meet with the approval of the farmer members of the House, yet they are expected to support the measure because of its restriction on automobilists. One-half of the House members own autos.

Assemblyman Perkins, leader of the majority, has a big French car with which he travels between the Capitol and his home in Westfield.

Senator Colby, who voted for the bill, has spent about $100,000 in autos. Senator Frelinghuysen, who framed the drastic bill, has several automobiles, but he realizes that some autoists need curbing in the operation of their machines.

PROPRIETARY MEDICINE MEN OPPOSE MEASURE.

Heard by House Committee on Bill Regulating Sale of Preparations.

Trenton, March 15.—Representatives of the New Jersey Pharmaceutical Association appeared before the House Committee on Public Health Tuesday to protest against the passage of Professor Prince's bill which regulates the sale of proprietary medicines or other medicinal preparations containing alcohol, opium or any of its preparations. It provides that none of these preparations shall be sold unless the same shall be accompanied by a true statement of the percentage of alcohol and the other prohibited drugs of the preparation.

John C. Gallagher opposed the bill on the ground that it would restrict trade, and besides there were enough laws now on the books to accomplish what the Prince bill sought to do if they were enforced.

In the opinion of George M. Beringer, of Camden, president of the State Pharmaceutical Association, no good would result from the broadcast publication of the formulae of patent medicines. It would tend to increase the evils of indulgence of narcotics in that it would inform the "fiends" of the preparations that contain them. As it was now, he said, druggists had all they could do to keep the drugs out of the hands of these "fiends," and he told of some of his experience in having the unfortunates come to him and almost on their knees beg him for cocaine and other drugs.

Mr. Beringer suggested that a bill be passed providing that before any patent medicine could be sold in New Jersey it should be submitted to the State Board of Health and approved of by that body. That, he declared, would accomplish the result sought by the Prince bill without any of its dangers.

William L. Douglass, the Chicago representative of the National Proprietary Association, declared that the bill in its present shape would accomplish nothing but shoot at everything. He spoke of the efforts being made to present the sale of these so-called "medicines" which contained alcohol and harmful drugs and said that the general government had placed eleven of them on a list of concoctions which could be sold only as liquor after May 1.

A bill similar, he said, had been introduced in the Legislatures of New York and Maryland. In neither Legislature was the measure favorably considered.

The committee arose without expressing any opinion on the measure.

Well lighted, perfect ventilation, large roomy aisles, but best of all the low prices we're selling goods at, and there's reason for it. Take for instance the space we occupy for this department and place it along Front Street and you'd have five large stores. Then compare the rent for these five stores with our basement rent and you can readily see how we are now able to give you bigger and better bargains than what you've been accustomed to getting.

suggestion.

He spoke in favor of hiring an expert to look over the meters and to investigate the methods of supply in vogue at the P. S. C. stations.

"Somebody must be able to tell us what we are getting and what we are paying for," he said. "Let us find that somebody and employ him."

"An expert is certainly needed," agreed President Depew. "That is why we must have money. We have not done any very active work on the matter at issue because we thought it best to adopt a constitution and get our money together first. It was decided to have our basis of operations established firmly before going into active work."

"The formation of the association has already done some good, as you know. A lower rate for electricity has been put into force by the P. S. C. It is a step in the right direction, but it is not long enough. I have received a number of communications from other places which show how various are the companies' rates. In Montclair, for instance, the price has been thirteen cents per kilowatt hour for electricity and $1 per thousand feet for gas. What we wish to find out is why this lower rate was in force there and not here.

"The P. S. C. is giving a lot of consideration to this association. I happened to be at the house of the chief electrician of the United Gas Improvement Company of Philadelphia, which owns considerable stock of the P. S. C., on Sunday, and he told me that the company was paying considerable attention to this organization. We talked for three hours on this one subject, and he told me a lot about supply and service.

"I have this to tell you of the membership of the association: at the last meeting we had 110 members; since then we have increased in number to 150."

FOURTH OF POLICE UNDER SUSPENSION

ONE MAN OF FORCE OF FOUR ACCUSED OF FIGHTING ANOTHER WHEN ON DUTY

Town Clerk Everett, of Cranford, suspended yesterday Policeman William Jennings on a charge of fighting when on duty. The force of the village consists of three men and a chief.

The trouble which led to the fight is alleged to have started about Chirtsmas time, when Chief R. G. Woodland was presented with a gold medal in recognition of faithful services. The presentation was made by Policemen Otto Bennett and John Hennessey.

The chief was given to understand at the time that the medal was given him by the citizens of the town. It now appears that Officer Jennings was not asked to contribute and felt sore.

A minstrel show was given in town Monday night and reference was made to the medal by one of the minstrels. After the show Jennings met Bennett on the street and accused him of being at the bottom of the joke. Words followed and then, Bennett alleges, Jennings struck him in the eye, knocking him down. Jennings then went on about his business and continued to patrol his beat.

Town Clerk Everett learned of the fight yesterday and suspended Jennings.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Tickets for "The Girl Patsy" are selling rapidly.

Manager Counihan is holding time for Kyrle Bellow in "Raffles." If the route can be arranged the attraction will be seen here April 20.

Manager William A. Brady has reached the conclusion that "The Redskin" is not the success he claimed it to be, and will withdraw it next week. He has not decided what to do with it.

The many friends of Treasurer Sam Cunningham have taken a personal interest in his benefit performance and are doing everything possible to make it a big success. Manager Counihan started the ball rolling by paying $50 for one seat and others, in and out of the profession, have announced their intention of securing a section. It's a good thing, push it along.

How is this for a wind-up for the month at the New Plainfield: March 28, "York State Folks;" March 29, Wilton Lackaye in "The Pit;" March 30, "The Clansman;" March 31, matinee and night, J. H. Haverly's big minstrel organization. There is a possibility also that Wilton Lackaye may give a matinee performance of "Trilby," playing the role of "Svengali," which he created in the original production.

Benjamin Chapin, the most noted impersonator of Abraham Lincoln in the country, will be at the New Plainfield theatre a week from tomorrow night. He will bring with him his big company which has been presenting the play "Lincoln" throughout New England territory. In nearly every city that he has appeared managers have asked for return dates and the governor of Connecticut wrote him a personal letter of congratulation.

Other witnesses swore that Lanehart was with them at an auction on February 27, when the Skillman will was drawn. Lanehart died in May, 1905, leaving $20,000.

LOCAL TAX TO BE AT THE LOCAL RATES

SENATORS, IN EXECUTIVE SESSION, FAVOR THAT EQUALIZATION SCHEME.

Trenton, March 15.—What may be clasesd as the most unusual incident in the legislative history of this State was a two hours' conference of all the members of the Senate in "executive session" Tuesday afternoon; or, more properly speaking, evening—as it closed at 7 o'clock—for the sole purpose of considering a bill for the equalization of taxation. To all intents and purposes the executive session—as it really was—in reality was a caucus or conference, called by Senator Hillery, the majority leader, to consider the equal taxation problem, which had encountered a snag in the Senate. Senator Minch of Cumberland, presided and Senator Hillery announced at the opening that the Judiciary Committee, which as the custody of the Perkins bill, which has already passed the Assembly, wanted the opinion of their colleagues on the question of equal taxation.

Ordinarily, such a question would be submitted to a party caucus or conference, but the conditions this year are such as to render such a move in the minds of those in control impolitic. That being the case Senator Hillery fell back on the time-honored executive session to obtain his colleagues' views on one of the most important legislative topics of the present session.

At the outset the Morris Senator took his colleagues into his confidence by reading a formal opinion from Attorney-General McCarter, which, in substance, held that the Perkins bill, as passed, was unconstitutional, because of the Martin amendment, which was resigned to meet the anticipated defects in the Duffield act of last year.

That settled the Perkins bill as passed in the minds of all present, and all that remained was the suggestion of a remedy. Senator Bradley had one, and offered it without a moment's hesitation. His plan, as stated, provides for the local assessment and local taxation at the same rate as other property by local boards for local purposes. This plan leaves out personal property without a situs and provides that the latter, together with the franchise, shall be assessed at an average local rate for the use of the State. This idea was not accepted by Senators who had an opinion that the State should receive whatever increase in revenue there may be, and apportion it in a manner to be determined later on.

Summarized, the discussion which followed resulted in a parting of the ways which showed a majority of the Senators in favor of the Bradley plan for a local tax at local rates by local assessors. This majority included Senator Colby and the four Democratic members, and Senators Hillery, Wakelee and Shinn, and enough others to insure the adoption of that plan.

The railroad interests, as represented, were not opposed to that plan, which they assumed would increase valuations in general to such an extent that the average rate would not be more than $1,40. This would mean an increase in the tax now paid by the railroads of about $1,000,000 or $2,918,785 instead of $1,864,125, as now paid, assuming that railroad valuations remained the same.

In the latter estimate is included the amount which Senator Bradle and the railroad attorneys assume might be received in the way of a franchise tax based on a two per cent. tax on gross receipts as now assessed against public utility companies.

Governor Stokes is not opposed to this plan, but State Treasurer Briggs, who fills the role of administration boss by virtue of his office as chairman of the State Republican committee, is. The Senate, however, is not inclined to be swayed by either influence, but will act independently and it is said the Assembly will concur in the action of the Upper House.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning March 18.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Christ's life. III—His summary of conduct; the sermon on the mount.—Matt. chapters 5, 6, 7.

The sermon on the mount was delivered to the multitudes of people by Christ just after He had chosen the twelve apostles who were to be associated with Him in His work and to carry it forward after His death. He spent the night in prayer, then selected the twelve and then delivered His first great address upon the kingdom of heaven. The place is supposed to have been a high elevation near Jerusalem, and hence the address has been popularly called "the sermon on the mount." While many think it so, it is by no means the greatest of Christ's addresses. It is ethical rather than spiritual. It deals with man's relation to his fellow man rather than to God. It emphasizes proper moral conduct rather than the deep inward experiences of the soul and its longing for God.

In every instance moral conduct as set forth by Christ differed from man's previous conception of it and perhaps in no better way can Christ's conception of conduct be comprehended.

1. Christian conduct must begin with an inward condition rather than an outward one. In describing the citizens of the kingdom of heaven Christ pronounces a blessing upon the poor in spirit, the bereaved, the meek, those who sought righteousness, the pure in heart, the peacemakers and the persecuted. The world pronounces its beatitudes upon the rich, the aggressive and the strong, but these worldly conceptions do not produce proper moral conduct. They fill the hearts of men with pride instead of purity and make them tyrants and oppressors rather than meek and peaceful. It is easy to see, therefore, that if human conduct be based upon Christ's conceptions it must begin with the right kind of an inward life. Character must begin with what we are and not with what we have. Men may be good in spite of wealth and worldly prosperity, but these things will not insure goodness. Goodness must have its foundation in the heart whether it be possessed by rich or poor, high or low. "As a man thinketh in his heart so is he."

2. Christian conduct involves the inward as well as the outward life. To transgress the law of man an overt act must be committed, but this is not so when it comes to God. An evil thought is a sin against God. The world says a man is a murderer when he actually slays his enemy. Christ declares that he who hates his brother is a murderer at heart. In the world impurity to be a sin must be committed, but by Christ's ideals impurity of heart is no less serious than impurity of life. "He that looketh upon a woman to lust after her" commits sin.

3. Christian conduct is based upon the principle of love rather than that of retaliation. The world retaliates; the Christian loves. The world says, "An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth," but Christ says, "Love your enemies, bless them that curse you and do good to them that hate you and pray for them which despitefully use you and persecute you." In all our relations toward one another our conduct is briefly summed up in the Golden Rule, "Whatsoever ye would that men should do to you do ye also unto them."

4. Christian conduct should be religious as well as moral. The world only demands morality; Christ demands religion. Our duty to God must not be ignored. It should be placed first. "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness." Our devotion should be sincere and not hypocritical. We should pray from the heart and not from the street corner. We should give alms in the name of Christ and not to magnify our own names. We are to trust God and commit our way to Him and let Him bring it to pass. "He that doeth these things shall live."

HEALTHY PLANTS Require the Most Careful Attention as Well as Good Soil. Did you ever see a rosebush which—despite the most beneficent environment of soil—of sunshine—and of atmosphere,—seemed never to achieve a healthy growth. A ton of manure will not help a plant that has a canker eating out its heart. You must destroy the cause before you can remove the effect. You cannot cure Dandruff and Baldness by rubbing on hair lotions, and rubbing in vaseline, etc. You must look to the cause of the trouble—it's a germ at the roots of your hair which causes it to fall out. Newbro's Herpicide destroys the germ, and healthy hair is the sure result. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. L. W. March 18: "The Glory of Christlike Lives"—John xvii, 22-24; Col. iii, 9, 10; II Pet. i, 4; II Tim. iv, 7, 8; I John iii, 1-3; Matt. x, 32, 33; Luke xii, 8, 9.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

The pomp and glory of earthly ceremonies and human achievements seem insignificant when we come to think of the majesty and power and perfections of the eternal God, by whom all things were made and by whom they are preserved and governed. To conceive His glory must be the height of all things in the universe. Far above our conception of things it well might be. This is the glory which Jesus says He had before there were any worlds.

Such glory must be more than what is revealed in merely material things. It can be nothing less than all the depth of Divine spiritual perfections of love and justice and holiness.

All this Jesus had and showed in His life as man on earth. In His prayer before His betrayal He spoke of these matters. From eternity He had possessed with the Father this glory. It was this which He had shown to men. Still further, He declares that He had imparted this same glory to them. He prays that they may come to oneness as the Father and He were one.

But this is not all. He is to go away soon. He prays that those who love Him may be where He is, that they may behold His glory. Not all is yet clear to them nor can be. Not until the Holy Spirit has come and they have gone out into the world as He went and carried the gospel to men and learned obedience as He learned and have come to know the Father through the Spirit for themselves, not until they have come to oneness with God in reality can they fully understand His glory. When they shall have overcome the world as He overcame it, then shall they know His glory and share it.

This is the truth which entered into the hearts of those who heard Him and kept them patient in all troubles and persecutions of after years. Having the hope of glory, they purified themselves because He is pure. They know themselves to be sons of God now. But what they should be in all the fullness of the future glory they could not tell. This thing, however, was certain—when Jesus should appear they would be like Him. He had but gone away for a little while to get in readiness a place for them and was to return shortly to receive them to Himself. This is the faith which has kept alive the fires of expectancy in all these years of His absence. He is coming. "Be ye pure and ready for the Bridegroom when He comes!" has been the warning cry through all the ages since.

The full glory lies beyond the day when we are to be clothed with the new bodies like His most glorious body. All the ages have been preparing for this consummation. Many forms of divine glory have in the ages past been seen by God's creatures, but none of them are to be mentioned in comparison with the new body which His Son took when He rose from the dead and ascended far above all principalities and powers and sat down on the throne of God. Not the form of humiliation now does He wear, but the form of eternal beauty and divine-human majesty. It reveals fully all the perfections of His nature.

We are here in this life to show to the world the earth glory of Christian holiness and in the hereafter to have revealed in us the heavenly beauty and Divine glory.

This has a beginning in the individual, but it is to be developed not in isolation. We are to be among men and in society. We are to work out our salvation as God works it within us. Society has its development as really as the individual. We are members of a body of which Jesus is the head. Righteousness and true holiness have a sphere in society as truly as in the individual. While working out the problems of spiritual goodness and heart purity within our own souls and in our acts we are to have regard to duties as members of the body of humanity also. Business and politics and social life are to be interpenetrated and redeemed and glorified by Christly lives and loving ministrations and teaching.

Greatness.

Genuine greatness is marked by simplicity, unostentatiousness, self forgetfulness, a hearty interest in others, a feeling of brotherhood with the human family.—Channing.

"The Man on the Box"

By HAROLD MacGRATH

Author of "The Grey Cloak," "The Puppet Crown."

The Woman: As I have said, some day you will understand. Treat Karloff as you have always treated him, politely and pleasantly. And I beg of you never to repeat our conversation.

The Girl (to whom illumination suddenly comes; rises quickly, and goes over to the woman; takes her by the shoulders, and the two stare into each other's eyes, the one searchingly, the other fearfully): Grace!

The Woman: I am a poor, foolish woman, Betty, for all my worldliness and wisdom; but I love you (softly), and that is why I appear weak before you. The blind envy those who see, the deaf those who hear; what one does not want another can not have. Karloff loves you, but you do not love him.

(The girl kisses the woman gravely on the cheek, and without a word, makes her departure.)

The Woman (as she hears the carriage roll away): Poor girl! Poor, happy, unconscious, motherless child! If only I had the power to stay the blow! . . . Who can it be, then, that she loves?

The Girl (in her carriage): Poor thing! She adores Karloff, and I never suspected it! I shall begin to hate him.

How well women read each other!

James had never parted with his rose and his handkerchief. They were always with him, no matter what livery he wore. After luncheon, William said that Miss Annesley desired to see him in the study. So James spruced up and duly presented himself at the study door.

"You sent for me, Miss?"—his hat in his hand, his attitude deferential and attentive.

She was engaged upon some fancy work, the name of which no man knows, and if he were told, could not possibly remember for longer than ten minutes. She laid this on the reading-table, stood up and brushed the threads from her little two-by-four cambric apron.

"James, on Monday night I dropped a rose on the lawn. (Finds thread on her sleeve.) In the morning when I looked for it (brushes the apron again), it was gone. Did you find it?" She made a little ball of the straggling threads and dropped it into the waste-basket. A woman who has the support of beauty can always force a man to lower his gaze. James looked at his boots. His heart gave one great bound toward his throat, then sank what seemed to be fathoms deep in his breast. This was a thunderbolt out of heaven itself. Had she seen him, then? For a space he was tempted to utter a falsehood; but there was that in her eyes which warned him of the uselessness of such an expedient. Yet, to give up that rose would be like giving up some part of his being. She repeated the question: "I ask you if you found it."

"Yes, Miss Annesley."

"Do you still possess it?"

"Yes, Miss."

"And why did you pick it up?"

"It was fresh and beautiful; and I believed that some lady at the dinner had worn it."

"And so you picked it up? Where did you find it?"

"Outside the bow-window, Miss."

"When?"

He thought for a moment. "In the morning, Miss."

"Take care, James; it was not yet 11 o'clock at night."

"I admit what I said was not true, Miss. As you say, it was not yet 11." James was pale. So she had thrown it away, confident that this moment would arrive. This humiliation was premeditated. Patience, he said, inwardly; this would be the last opportunity she would have to humiliate him.

"Have you the flower on your person?"

"Yes, Miss."

"Did you know that it was mine?"—mercilessly.

"Yes; but I believed that you had deliberately thrown it away. I saw no harm in taking it."

"But there was harm."

"I bow to your superior judgment, Miss."—ironically.

She deemed it wisest to pass over this experimental irony. "Give the flower back to me. It is not proper that a servant should have in his keeping a rose which was once mine, even if I had thrown it away or discarded it."

Carefully he drew forth the crumpled flower. He looked at her, then at the rose, hoping against hope that she might relent. He hesitated till he saw an impatient movement of the extended hand. He surrendered.

"Thank you. That is all. You may go." She tossed the withered flower into the wastebasket.

"Pardon me, but before I go I have to announce that I shall resign my position next Monday. The money which has been advanced to me, deducting that which is due me, together with the amount of my fine at the police-court, I shall be pleased to return to you on the morning of my departure."

Miss Annesley's lips fell apart, and her brows arched. She was very much surprised.

"You wish to leave my service?"—as if it were quite impossible that such a thing should occur.

"Yes, Miss."

"You are dissatisfied with your position?"—icily.

"It is not that, Miss. As a groom I am perfectly satisfied. The trouble lies in the fact that I have too many other things to do. It is very distasteful for me to act in the capacity of butler. My temper is not equable enough for that position." He bowed.

"Very well. I trust that you will not regret your decision." She sat down and coolly resumed her work.

"It is not possible that I shall regret it."

"You may go."

He bowed again, one corner of his mouth twisted. Then he took himself off to the stables. He was certainly in what they call a towering rage.

If I were not a seer of the first degree, a narrator of the penetrative order, I should be vastly puzzled over this singular action on her part.

HANGMAN VAN HISE AFTER MR. STOKES.

Doesn't Want to Hang Him, but Would Be State Electrocutioner.

Trenton, March 15.—Governor Stokes ran up against a stiff proposition in the State House Tuesday afternoon. In the corridor that leads to the executive chamber Charles Van Hise, of Newark, better known here as "Hangman Van Hise," was lying in wait. He had just time to say to a correspondent: "I want to get this little feller," whe nthe "little feller," who was coming hurriedly around the corner of the main corridor, proved to be Governor Stokes.

The Governor saw and immediately recognized Mr. Van Hise. He sidestepped, but Van Hise was alert and the movement of the Governor was checkmated, and they came together face to face. Van Hise extended a horny hand with so much celerity that it did not betray any connection with a rope. The Governor gingerly took the hand in one of his own and dropped it without prolonging the greeting in that way.

Van Hise, becoming at once confidential, found one of the Governor's ears, into which he whispered, "I'm in the business, you know, Governor—"

"Yes, I know!" the Governor respended as cheerfully as he could, which wasn't, however, altogether inviting to further confidences.

"And there ought to be only one place for them—hangings, you know. Governor Murphy thought so, too, but he vetoed the bill just because Keeper Osborne didn't want 'em to be held in the prison."

"Yes, yes!" the Governor, who appeared to be getting a trifle chilly, replied.

"I believe in having one place—I can do it anywhere!"

"Yes, yes!" and the Governor looked as if he wanted to escape.

"Don't make no difference to me—chair or gallows!"

"Yes, yes, yes!" the Governor replied. Then adding with an involuntary shudder, "If the electrocution bill should pass come down and see me and we will talk it over. Good-by!"

"I'll do it, Governor. Good-by."

But the Governor was then out of sight, and he didn't look over his shoulder as he went.

"Nice little feller, ain't he?" Van Hise asked of the correspondent. "Did you hear him ask me to come down and see him and talk it over? I'll come!"

Mrs. F. S. Cutter, of Sandford avenue, is detained at her home by illness.

CORRUPT PRACTISE BILLS ARE PASSED.

Three of Series Adopted, Fourth, After Wrangle, Was Lost.

Trenton, March 15.—After a row that came near approaching that of a week ago Monday night, House bill No. 116, introduced by Mr. Bierck, of Hudson county, and the last one of a series of four on corrupt practises that was reported by the committee on elections, was defeated when it came up for final action. Three other corrupt practises measures which had been introduced by Mr. Marelli were passed. None of the latter received a dissenting vote except one, which specified what shall be construed as illegal use of money in connection with elections. Against this there were two votes, cast by Mr. Gibbs, of Camden, and Mr. Heck, of Bergen counties.

The Bierck bill, over which the discussion was evoked, was defeated because it was claimed by the opponents to be improperly drawn, defective in grammar, indistinct as to intent and even unconstitutional, according to Leader Perkins. The bill is entitled, "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act to regulate elections'" (revision of 1898, approved April 4, 1898). Mr. Perkins claimed that the bill related to corporations in its body and not to elections. He and the other men who opposed the bill, said they believed in the principle of the bill, but that owing to the errors in it they would not vote for it. Mr. Bierck wanted to have the bill put back on second reading for amendment, but a motion to this effect by Mr. Morgan, of Essex county, was voted down, and the measure was killed on final reading.

OFFICIALS AT ODDS, CHILDREN SUFFER.

Attacked With Diphtheria, There Is a Dispute Who Should Buy Antitoxin.

Morristown, March 15.—Five children of Patrick Hodge, of Phillipsburg, are critically il with diphtheria, while the town officials are wrangling as to who shall purchase the antitoxin which should be administered to them.

The physician in the case is of the opinion that it is the duty of the health authorities to supply the medicine required when the patient or his family is unable to pay for it.

The overseer of the poor, having investigated the circumstances of the Hodge family, disagrees with the physician and asserts that the family should be self-supporting.

The physician in charge of the case notified the overseer of the poor and the town physician, but they refused to procure the antitoxin on the ground that the family was able to buy it. They attempted to consult the town attorney, but were unable to find him.

In the mean time the Hodge children are suffering for want of the medicine. One of them, John, fifteen years old, is not expected to live.

—Mrs. William Harris, of Clinton avenue, has added a full blooded Alderney cow to her stock. The animal was purchased on the Duke estate.

CLERGYMAN WAS IN GREAT PERIL.

He and Friend Buried in Wreak of Carriage Struck by a Trolley Car.

Rev. W. E. Fennell, pastor of the South Baptist church, Newark, had a narrow escape last night from death in a collision between a trolley car and a closed carriage at Mulberry and Camp streets, that city.

The minister with a friend, who declined to give his name, was seated inside the carriage while Thomas Robshaw, the coachman, was on the box. As the team swung out of Camp street a car going at high speed struck the carriage with terrific force, upsetting it and then pushing the wreck some distance with the occupants jumbled up within.

Robshaw was hurled to the pavement and was assisted by witnesses of the accident into the office of Dr. Wolfe, where his injuries, which were painful, were attended to, after which he was taken to his home, No. 139 Plane street.

Meanwhile others had gone to the assistance of the minister and his friend and extricated them from the wreck. It was found they had escaped with slight cuts and bruises. They went home.

PROPOSED DISTRICTS FOR UNION COUNTY

KIRKLAND TELLS REP. COUNTY COMMITTEE HOW THEY WERE DRAWN.

At the meeting of the Union County Republican Committee Tuesday night Robert J. Kirkland, chairman of the committee that mapped out the proposed Assembly districts for this county to be incorporated in the bill that is to be introduced in the Legislature for election of Assemblymen by districts instead of by the counties as a whole, made a report. The district lines have already been set forth in The Daily Press

Mr. Kirkland said the districts had been set apart with a population as nearly equal as practicable. The election districts that made up each Assembly district were all contiguous territory, and the committee had sought to divide up the city of Elizabeth so that there would be neither uptown or downtown so far as election day was concerned.

It was pointed out that the borough of Garwood, which is in the Third district, would have to be placed in the Second district instead, as Garwood votes for the same freeholder as Cranford.

Vice-Chairman James C. Calvert, who presided in the absence of Frank H. Smith, asked Assemblyman Tucker to see that the amendment was made when the bill was introduced in the Legislature.

The outing committee, of which William Newcorn, of this city, is chairman, reported that it had been decided to hold the outing this year on August 11, and that a boat had been engaged to carry the excursionists to Witzel's Grove, on Long island Sound, where the excursion was last year.

It was announced that William R. Littell had resigned as a member of the committee from the First district of the Eighth ward. The Republican City Central Committee will appoint a man to fill the vacancy.

NELSON WINS.

Outpoints McGovern in Tame Bout.

Philadelphia, Mar. 15.—The prize ring axiom that a champion once defeated never regains his laurels again received confirmation last night when Terry McGovern, once the pride of the pugilistic world, went down to defeat before Battling Nelson, premier white lightweight of the decade. Despite the fact that there was neither knockout nor referee's decision to give the verdict officially to the Dane, his victory was none the less decisive and he left the ring after the bout a winner by a wide margin. McGovern at no time menaced Nelson's honors, and aside from his gameness under punishment added nothing to his ring record of the past decade.

CRASHED THROUGH ROOF

Big Chunk of Iron Hurled a Quarter of Mile Disturbs Family at Dinner.

POLICE INVESTIGATE

Mr. Kriney's Home Was Disturbed As Result of Italians' Method of Breaking Up Roller.

John Kriney's family were eating supper in their home on Evona avenue at 6:30 o'clock Monday night, when they heard the sound of an explosion nearby.

"Somebody must be blasting out stumps," said Mr. Kriney.

Next night at the same time another explosion sounded. There was a thump on the roof and a crashing noise. The family jumped to their feet in alarm. No more explosions and no more crashes sounded, so Mr. Kriney stopped ducking and went upstairs to investigate.

He found a five-foot hole in the roof and a big, jagged chunk of iron embedded in a floor bean of the attic. The chunk would have gone right on through to the next floor if it hadn't struck the beam.

Mr. Kriney spent the next day trying to find out where the chunk of iron came from. He could get no clues, and went down to police headquarters yesterday to lay the case before the head sleuth. Chief Kiely detailed Patrolman McCue to investigate, and the officer started out to scour the Kriney neighborhood.

Within two hours McCue discovered that two Italian junkmen in Piscataway township, over a quarter of a mile away from Kriney's house, had been engaged in breaking up a big road roller with nitro-glycerine Monday and Tuesday nights. That explained the bombardment of the Kriney place.

McCue had no authority in Middlesex county, so didn't say anything to the Italians. Chief Kiely has reported the case to the Middlesex authorities. Kriney says he wants more satisfaction than police proceedings can give him. Unless the Italians pay for the damage to his roof he will sue them.

It is remarkable that no other houses in the neighborhood were hit by flying chunks of the roller. The junkmen took no precautions to cover the explosions, and with charges strong enough to throw a two-hundred pound piece of iron over a fourth of a mile at work everybody in the neighborhood stood a good chance of being battered into an unhandsome mess.

TWO GREAT PLAYS BY CLEVER WOMAN.

Mrs. Feigl Will Introduce Her "Patsy Girl" Here Tomorrow.

"The Girl Patsy," which is to be at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow, matinee and night, is said to be one of the cleverest comedies of the season. Jane Mauldin Feigl, the author of "The Girl," has shown her comedy work in "Texas," which is one of the big money makers of western plays now before the public.

In "The Girl Patsy" the line of comedy is of a quaint and telling nature, and should be thoroughly enjoyed by the playgoers of Plainfield.

Decision Is Modified.

The Court of Errors and Appeals has modified a dicsion handed down by Vice-Chancellor Garrison in Chancery Chambers, Jersey City, limiting the amount of gasolene in automobiles about to enter garages to one-half pint. The upper court provides in its modified order that autos may enter garages with whatever gasolene may happen to be in their tanks.

"LOU" WILTSE SIGNS CONTRACT WITH YORKS

CLEVER TWIRLER WILL PLAY IN TRI-STATE LEAGUE THIS SEASON.

"Lou" Wiltse, the baseball pitcher, will be a member of the twirling staff of the York (Pa.) Tri-State League Club this season, he having signed a contract with Manager Heckert this week. "Lou" expects to report at York the latter part of April, when the season will be opened there.

The popular player was not in any haste to sign a contract with York, for he thought that his case now before the National Commission might be adjusted so that he would be able to join the Cincinnati Nationals, to be managed this year by "Ned" Hanlon. The case has not been disposed of yet and is not likely to be at present, so Wiltse accepted his opportunity to go with York.

Wiltse still believes that he will be able to return to the National League, for his case is not similar to that of Hayden, Sebring and others who "jumped." He had a long talk with Hugh Jennings, of the Baltimore team, before leaving, and it was agreed that the pitcher was not being treated right and if he had a chance to do better she should be permitted to accept it. In the case of the other players, they "jumped" without any notice.

BADLY HURT WHILE RUNNING AFTER HIS HAT

FORMER PLAINFIELDER VICTIM OF ACCIDENT AT GREENVILLE.

Harry Snyder, a former well known resident of this city, was struck by a New Jersey Central express train at Greenville last night, and received possible fatal injuries. He is now in the General Hospital, Jersey City, and the physicians hold out little encouragement for his recovery.

Snyder is a molder by trade and was returning from work when a gust of wind blew his hat from his head as he was passing near the Greenville station. He started to run after it and failed to notice that he was on the main passenger tracks until startled by the shriek of a locomotive whistle. The next instant he was struck by the express and hurled high in the air. Bystanders picked him up and summoned an ambulance.

The injured man is thirty years old and worked in Pond's for a long while. For the past year he has made his home with his brother-in-law, Harry Salkeld, of Jersey City. Mrs. Salkeld was formerly Miss Daisy Snyder.

CLAIMS POLICE WERE PAID FOR SHOOING GRAFTERS.

Chief's Version of Why Cops Came High at the Baseball Games.

Chief Kiely said this morning, in response to a general expression of surprise over the fact that Manager Daab had to pay for policemen at the ball games last season, that the officers were not paid for protection. They were used inside the grounds, he said, as pickets, to keep out grafters, and as collectors. They were there in their own time, and got $1.25 apiece for the afternoon's work, and were also given free admission. The city didn't hire them, he said, to go to the field, but Manager Daab did. Councilman Tyler, who was chairman of the board last summer, was at first opposed to sending officers to the game at all, he claims.

Miss Gordon Coming to Plainfield.

Miss Ethel Gordon, one of the National W. C. T. U. evangelists, is expected to visit Union county soon, where she will work among the various unions. She will come to Plainfield while in the county and conduct a meeting.

WILTSE SUBSCRIBES

Manager Daab Well Pleased—Meet- at Hotel Iroquois Tomorrow Night.

A number of additional subscribers to stock in the Plainfield Baseball Association have been received since yesterday and the list is growing steadily. Among those who have contributed is "Lou" Wiltse, a baseball pitcher and a resident of this city. He is anxious to see the town represented by a fast team, such as Manager Daab is able to furnish.

To settle a question that has been raised by a few people who have been asked to subscribed the committee announces that these shares of stock are not assessable, it being understood that the money thus contributed will be sufficient to meet all the expenses for the season.

The association will have a meeting at the Hotel Iroquois tomorrow night when reports will be received from the members of the committee of twenty and other important business considered. Manager Daab says he is well pleased with the showing made and expresses confidence in the ability of the association to complete the task undertaken.

PUPILS GIFT FOR SCHOOL PRINCIPAL

FRANKLIN SCHOOL'S 6TH GRADE GIVES MISS BULLOCK HANDSOME STATUE.

As a token of esteem and in appreciation of her uniform kindness, the pupils of the highest sixth grade of the Franklin School, of which Miss Clara Churton is the teacher, presented Miss Noel J. Bullock, the principal, with a handsome statue of Venus de Milo. The presentation was made at the chapel exercises in assembly hall, this morning. Miss Bullock also received a hand painted plate and a beautiful lace handkerchief from the pupils of the same grade. The presentation was made at this time because of the fact that the sixth grade is soon to be transferred from the Franklin to the Whittier School.

Miss Helen Ryder, a member of the sixth grade, presented the statue and other gifts on behalf of the pupils in a cleverly worded address which expressed the regrets of the pupils in being taken from the helpful influences of Miss Bullock. It was several minutes before Miss Bullock could respond. She then expressed the hope that the children would continue to improve their opportunities and thanked all heartily for the testimonials.

The lower sixth grade will also be transferred from the Franklin to the Whittier School. Miss Caroline Shaver is the teacher of this grade.

GOLD MEDAL AWARD FOR SCHOOLS ARRIVES

ST. LOUIS EXPOSITION PRIZE PLACED IN HIGH SCHOOL LIBRARY.

The gold medal awarded by the commissioners of the St. Louis Purchase Exposition to the Plainfield schools for its fine exhibit of work at the fair, arrived this morning and was exhibited to the pupils in the High School by Principal Ira Travell. It was subsequently put on exhibition in the school library.

The medal is about three inches in diameter and suitably inscribed on both sides. Accompanying the medal was a circular explaining in detail the figures appearing theron. The pupils from the Plainfield public schools had a large exhibit of their work at the St. Louis Exposition and it was conceded to be the best in general point of excellence shown.

W. C. T. U. SUPPER WITH MANY FEATURES.

Accorded Liberal Patronage Despite the Disagreeable Weather Last Night.

Under the auspices of the soldier and sailor department of the W. C. T. U., of which Mrs. M. C. Dobbins is the county superintendent, a successful supper was given in the rooms on Madison avenue last night. Despite the storm the patronage was liberal and between the hourse of 5:30 and 9 o'clock a number of suppers were served.

As an extra attraction, Dr. Berg's orchestra rendered a popular programme during the evening. The proceeds from the supper will be used to carry on the work for soldiers and sailors, an important department in the W. C. T. U., from which gratifying results are obtained.

Mrs. Dobbins was assisted at the supper by Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, Mrs. J. F. Cubberly, Miss May E. Howlett, Mrs. M. Winter, Mrs. Andrew Cox, and assisting them in serving at the tables were Miss Ethel Vail and Miss Evelyn Manley.

It was decided to continue the supper tonight from 6 to 9 o'clock and there will be other attractive features.

Boys' Mission Band Meeting.

The storm yesterday interfered with the annual meeting of the Boys' Mission Band of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. There were six members present and only business of a routine character was transacted. The officers were not to be elected at this time, but reports for the year were to have been presented. This was deferred to another meeting.

ROMOND GIRL A SUICIDE

Mrs. Josephine Romond's Daughter Takes Poison In Jersey City.

NEWS THROUGH POLICE

Details of the Case Lacking and Cause of Act Unknown—Left Home Three Years Ago.

Three years ago Mrs. Josephine Romond, of 1334 West Third street, saw her daughter Hattie leave home to make her own way in the world. This morning the police told Hrs. Romond that Hattie was lying dead in the morgue at Jersey City, killed by a self-administered dose of carbolic acid.

News of the girl's death came to police headquarters at 9:30 o'clock in a telephone message from William Jacobson, keeper of the morgue. He simply stated that the girl was dead, and requested that Mrs. Romond be notified. There was no need to destroy the peace of the Romond family for the night, so the message was held until this morning, when an officer carried it to the house.

Henry F. Romond, one of Hattie's brothers, came to police headquarters to learn details of his sister's death. He told Chief Kiely how the girl had left home in 1903, when she was twenty-two years old. The chief had no more knowledge of the case than was contained in the message from Jacobson, but he telephoned to the morgue keeper for more information.

"She took a dose of carbolic acid," Jacobson told the chief. "The police here say she is married."

He had no other details to add. The family had not heard of Hattie's supposed marriage.

Romond went to Jersey City to claim his sister's body. He will make a full investigation of her death before he returns.

CLOTHES AND EDUCATION IN THE POLICE COURT.

Lack of One Interferes With Other in Kiely Family.

School Superintendent Maxson appeared in the police court this morning against Edgar Kiely, an employe of the water company, to press a complaint under the truancy act. Four of Kiely's children have not been coming to school more than half the required time, and the school authorities say there is no excuse for their absence. Kiely said he knew of no reason why the children shouldn't go to school, except that there might be a lack of shoes or of clothes occasionally. He supports a family of nine.

"There aint always the best of clothes in the house, and shoes are sometimes hard to get right away," he said, "but I do the best I can."

He promised to see that the children were at school every day it was possible for there to be there, and Judge Runyon suspended sentence.

Action has been taken by the Board of Education of Elizabeth in regard to Battin High School in that city, which has been the subject of much discussion since Principal William F. WHITE GIRL BAPTIZED AT A COLORED REVIVAL

MAN'S HAND ALMOST SEVERED BY BUZZ SAW

PHILLIP DEHART THE VICTIM OF ACCIDENT AT THE POND PLANT.

As a result of injuries received at the Pond Tool Works, yesterday afternoon, Phillip DeHart, of South Second street, subsequently underwent a partial traumatic amputation of the left hand at Muhlenberg Hospital. The wound was sutured and House Physician Anthony today declared the patient to be resting easily. He will remain at the institution several weeks.

DeHart is a patternmaker at the plant and was engaged in trimming some board strips with a small buzz saw. One of them caught on a knot and jerked his hand directly against the teeth of the whirling blade. Before the member could be extricated it had sawed through three of the fingers and down into the palm. In a similar acident three years ago DeHart lost one of his fingers so that very little of the hand is left. He is thirty years old and married.

DOANE PUTS ATTACHES THROUGH STUNTS TO INSURE PATRONS' SAFETY

Previous to the opening of the New Plainfield theatre last night, the entire force of ushers and stage hands were put through the first of a series of fire drills planned by Manager Counihan to further insure the safety of his patrons. Patent appliances have recently been installed and the men are to be made thoroughly familiar with every device intended to guard against the spread of flames or a panic.

The employes were first taken in hand by Chief Doane, who explained the workings of the new hose reels and the water sprinklers that have just been connected up with a four inch main from the street. The auxiliary pipes are three inches and the connections are to be of standard size, making it possible for the fire department to attach its hose to the house appliances if necessary. The men were showed how to handle the lengths and instructed as to the best method of attacking flames.

The house has also just been equipped with gas and there are jets in orchestra, balcony and gallery with a patent arrangement for lighting in the event of the electric light failing. It is only necessary for the ushers to pull a hanger to cause ignition and the chief and Manager Counihan assigned a man for each light. The exits were also portioned off and every one will be thrown open at the first indication of trouble, the attendant directing the people out.

These drills are to be a weekly feature at the theatre and the chief and Manager Counihan will do still more to make it the safest in the State. The force of regular firemen is to be doubled and next season two more exits are to be added, leading from beneath the east stairway. While performances are in progress, two men will patrol above and below the stage to strictly enforce the "No Smoking" rule, this habit being responsible for a great many fires.

Emily Bye Converted and Immersed By A. M. E. Zion Church Pastor.

AT A BIG REVIVAL

She With Ten Colored Persons Candidates at Ceremony—Methodist Pastor Performs in Baptist Church.

The greatest religious awakening in the history of the colored people of this city which has stirred the Mt. Olive Baptist and Mt. Zion A. M. churches, resulting in the conversion and baptism of scores of people, including a young white woman, Miss Emily Bye, is now in progress at the Mt. Olive Baptist church. Evangelist Alexander, of North Carolina, assisted by Evangelist and Mrs. Thomas, also of the South, who have been conducting special services at Reform Hall, have aroused the colored people to a remarkable degree.

Miss Bye, who has been a faithful attendant at these services, was converted and baptized. Although it is one of the rules of the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church that new members can have their choice of immersion or sprinkling, for the first time in the history of the local church the pastor, Rev. H. C. Ashley, joined with the members of the Mt. Olive Baptist church and in their edifice baptized eleven of his flock, one of whom was Miss Bye. The young white woman was questioned by Pastor Ashley as to her belief and as to her reasons for wanting to be immersed. She answered the questions to the satisfaction of the pastor.

Parson Ashley's people witnessing the administration of the ordinance of baptism according to the rite of the Baptist church, expressed a desire to follow in the footsteps of their friends in the Baptist church. There being no pool at the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, Pastor Ashley consequently arranged with the officials of the Baptist church to immerse his converts there.

When the call was made for candidates who wished to be immersed, eleven persons responded, ten colored and one white, the latter being Miss Bye. She did not object in the least to being baptized with the colored people, and she took her regular turn when the ordinance was administered by Pastor Ashley. As she was placed under the water there were many "hallelujahs" heard throughout the congregation that crowded the edifice.

Evangelist Alexander first baptized twenty-five converts to the Baptist faith, after which Pastor Ashley was given the privileges of the pool and immersed the eleven persons in waiting.

The special services began at the Mt. Olive Baptist church a few weeks ago under the direction of Evangelist Alexander, that church now being without a pastor since the resignation of Rev. E. E. Jackson. It is the oldest colored church in this city and has the largest membership. A week ago Sunday twenty-five persons were baptized by the evangelist, and the converts, who have many friends in the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, spread the news. Soon the Methodist flock was stirred and began attending the nightly services at the Baptist church. The pastor, Rev. H. C. Ashley, realizing the importance of the religious wave that was sweeping over his people, decided to join in the movement.

These services are still in progress and will be continued probably for another week, when it is expected that others will present themselves for baptism. Miss Bye still continues to attend the special meetings and is doing all in her power to help bring others to Christ.

Anniversary Surprise Party.

In honor of the anniversary of his birthday, the relatives and friends of Horace J. Martin gave him a surprise at his home in Marion avenue Wednesday night. The affair was arranged by his son, H. J. Mr. Martin received several gifts, including a silver clothes brush from the choir of Trinity Reformed church, and a Morris chair.

Mary Ryan, whose work in "Home Folks" brought her instant recognition, has been chosen to create the title part in "The Girl Patsy," which is announced to appear at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night. Henry. C. Mortimer, late of the Madison Square Theatre Company, is cast in the leading male role. Other well known names are Jack Drumier, John Morris, John Sutherland, W. Clinton Hamilton, Robert Wagner, Richard Clarke, Melville Alexander, Rosalie De Vaux, Grace Cahill, Amelia Mayborn, Olive Briscoe and Alice Greery.

"An Aristocratic Tramp" is booked for appearance at the New Plainfield theatre Tuesday, March 20. It is the best sensational comedy drama on the road this season. Don't fail to see the exciting automobile race and explosion, something new in the way of stage effects. It also has the most realistic railroad scene ever produced. In equipment, splendor and gorgeous novelty "An Aristocratic Tramp" outstrips them all. A play with a story of heart interest, played by a cast of excellent artists. "An Aristocratic Tramp." Don't fail to see it. Don't forget the date.

That charming pastoral play, "York State Folk," which appears to possess a charm which can almost be classed as fascination, and while it does not contain any tragic situations does not exploit any "so-called social problems," and has no theatrical clap-trap whatever, it has the innate power to hold the audience with intense interest from the rise of the curtain on the first act until it goes down on the last, comes to this city Wednesday, March 28. That it will be cordially received there can be no question, as its presentation in New York City was universally proclaimed as one of the best theatrical treats of the season.

Seldom does it happen to the reader to have set before him so forceful and vital a picture of the gigantic "deals" incidental to active American business life, the grasp that the mania for speculation has upon its victims, and the development of a woman's love and character as is discoverable in the late Frank Norris' famous novel of Chicago and its trade maelstrom, "The Pit." The novel was dramatized especially for Wilton Lackaye, who will appear in the play at the New Plainfield theatre week after next.

Bright, breezy comedy and catchy musical numbers, interpreted by a large and carefully selected company of comedians, ingenues, soubrettes and pretty chorus maidens, constitute one of the principal features of the new edition of "McFadden's Flats," which will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre Thursday matinee and night, April 5. Glen McDonough and E. W. Townsend, the authors, have brought this comedy up to date with new lines and situations.

Through Sleeping Car to Rochester Via the Lehigh Valley Railroad.

The new Rochester station in the center of the city is now in use. Passengers desiring to make the trip should arrange a day or two in advance for this train to be stopped at South Plainfield to take them on. Reservations, tickets and information of Frank Rowley, city ticket agent, 218 West Front street, telephone 112. 2 5 8 eod

BILL POSTERS IN REFORM MOVEMENT.

Want to Eradicate Offensive Style of Theatrical Advertising.

Action taken by the directors of the Associated Bill Posters and Distributors of the United States and Canada, which have been in convention in Detroit, looking toward a reform to eliminate from Newark and other Eastern cities the display of sensational, vicious and suggestive billboard pictures that have been common sights along the streets in recent years, is told of by A. F. Vedder, secretary of the Newark Bill Posting Company, who has just returned from the conference.

"So many vaudeville and low grade shows," said Mr. Vedder to a reporter, "have been furnishing us with paper depicting semi-nude and other disgusting figures that bill posters have for a long time realized they must take some stand in assertion of what they believe to be their rights in the matter. As it seemed to us when in Detroit, the wisest first move would be to call a conference of theatrical managers and billboard men, arrangements were made for such a meeting in New York within the next four or five weeks.

"Invitations are being sent out to the representatives of all the larger theatrical interests. We want to agree upon wnat may be considered legitimate theatrical advertising so far as the bills for posting that are handed to us are concerned. In London they have a censor committee appointed by the city government. We have not yet discussed whether or not it would be desirable to have such a censorship established here. We are anxious to take some effective action at once, so that when the advertising matter for the summer shows goes to press, and that will be very shortly, it may not be of a character which we shall later have to refuse to post.

"A reform in advertising matter, such as we post, is demanded by the public all over the country. In many places, as reported at our Detroit conference, feeling on this subject is so strong bill posters have felt impelled even though their action was not a part of any concerted plan, to refuse to put up much of the advertising matter which has been handed them. As a class of business men we want to thoroughly legitimize our work, and reading from public opinion that is what we are attempting to do."

Of this amount the larger portion was for the former division in connection with the track elevation in Camden.

The directors of the Pennsylvania company and the Pan Handle also met and approved annual reports of the respective companies. They authorized construction work aggregating about $5,000,000, nearly equally divided between them.

Double Marriage in New Germantown Circles.

Whitehouse, March 16.—A social event of note in New Germantown circles yesterday was the double wedding of daughters of the late John Specht. Postmaster William C. Swackhamer, of Whitehouse Station, and Miss Anna Elizabeth Specht were married by Rev. Dr. John P. Krechting, pastor of the Lutheran church at New Germantown, who also officiated at the wedding of Abram F. Hall and Miss Louisa Specht, both of that place.

The ceremonies took place yesterday afternoon at the home of the brides.

TRY TO PROVE EXPERTS TESTIMONY IS WRONG

INTERESTING CONTENTION BROUGHT OUT IN LANEHART WILL CASE.

Somerville, March 16.—The Lonehart will case, which was resumed in the Somerset Orphans' Court here yesterday after an adjournment of one week, was enlivened at the close of the session last evening by the testimony of former Congressman Alvah A. Clark and Clarence E. Case, the lawyers for William H. Skillman, the defendant, which was offered to refute the testimony of William E. Kingsley, the handwriting expert, to the effect that the signature of William Lonehart, affixed to a will known as the "Race will," had been tampered with after he had examined it in October, 1905. The expert swore that on making a second examination of the will in November, 1905, he discovered lead pencil marks in the pen and ink writing of the signature which he was positive were not present when he examined it in October.

Mr. Clark and Mr. Case swore that they had examined the Race will with a glass in the presence of Deputy Surrogate George W. Anderson at the surrogate's office previous to September 8, 1905, and had detected lead pencil tracings in Lonehart's signature, which Kingsley testified were not there when he examined it under a powerful glass in October. The witnesses further testified that these pencil marks in the signature are still present and discernible to the naked eye. They produced the will in court and pointed out the pencil marks in Lonehart's signature.

The lawyers' testimony is calculated to discredit Kingsley and to purge themselves of an attempt to "fix up" the signature of the Race will so that it corresponds with the pencil-traced signature of a later will executed by Skillman and alleged to have been signed by Lonehart, which the contestants charge was forged by Skillman for the purpose of securing half of the Lonehart estate, valued at $19,000.

One of the novel questions which the court is called on to decide in the case is whether a man's physical condition can effect his handwriting to such an extent that he looses his characteristics and writes an abnormal signature.

It is contended by the defense that the disputed signature is an abnormal signature which was written by Lonehart at the time he was wearing two overcoats, and his hand was stiff from exposure to the cold and his nerves were unstrung by excitement and the fear of a fatal termination of a disease from which he suffered.

On the other hand the contestants have sought to prove by expert testimony that while one's handwriting may be effected by a poor physical condition it cannot be changed to such an extent that it looses its characteristics and assumes those of another person.

WOMEN HELD HIM UP, HE ASSERTS.

One Held Revolver to His Head, While the Other Abstracted Money and Watch.

Thomas Goldworthy, who said he came from Wharton, reported early yesterday morning to the police at Paterson, that he had been held up by two women.

Goldworthy was walking through Fulton street, Paterson, under the Erie bridge shortly after midnight, when the women, who had been concealed behind a pier, accosted him. One of them pointed a revolver at his head, ordered him to throw up his hands and warned him that if he made an outcry she would blow out his brains.

Goldworthy made no resistance. The second woman searched his pockets and took all the money he had, $15.30, and also his watch and chain. Goldworthy asked that he be given enough to pay his way back to Wharton.

"Not a cent, and you better move along quick and make no holler," declared the woman who held the revolver.

Goldworthy hurried to police headquarters, and, accompanied by detectives, started out in search of the footpads. No trace of them could be found.

FUMIGATE AND BATHE ALL "WEARY WILLIES."

Camden County Freeholders Cause a Panic Among the Tramps in Their County Jail.

Camden, March 16.—Every tramp in the county jail must take a bath. The Board of Freeholders passed a resolution to that effect yesterday. When the news reached 150 hoboes it created some excitement. That there will be a rebellion against the new order there is little doubt.

"The worst part about this thing," said one of them, "is that if we take one bath they will ask us to take another some time again."

Not only will the tramps be obliged to bathe, but on admission they will be obliged to undergo the process of being fumigated. To make up for this drastic treatment, Sheriff Somers yesterday announced that on Sundays hereafter rice will be served for dessert.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Don't make any engagements for April 5. That's the date set for Sam Cunningham's benefit performance, and no one can afford to miss it.

"New York State Folks," which comes to this city week after next, will be presented by exactly the same company as was engaged for the original production in New York city.

Since "The Pit" began its phenomenal run, a total of 50,000 men have appeared in the great panic scene. In some of the largest cities as many as 700 supernumeraries have been pressed into service for each performance.

In David Higgins' pretty play of life in the Tennessee mountains, "At Piney Ridge," Manager Counihan has secured a favorite with Plainfielders. It is familiar to local playgoers as it was at Music Hall twice and drew big houses both times. Monday night, March 26, is the date.

A New York newspaper says: "There is one record of which Eddie Foy is proud, and that is of being the quickest dresser in the world. Mr. Foy's friends say that he has Henri De Vries beaten ten different ways when it comes to making quick changes. It takes the comedian just twenty seconds to reach Broadway after the final curtain falls on "The Earl and the Girl" at the Casino theatre. Notwithstanding his heavy make up, Mr. Foy reaches the stage entrance before more than half the audience has left the house. The incentive for this probably lies in the fact that the comedian is a commuter and must catch the last train for New Rochelle, but a great many protean artists might have reason for inquiring into the way it is done."

Big Trolley Deal.

Within the next ten days the negotiations by which all but one-third of the control of the Public Service Corporation and its immense trolley and gas and electric lighting interests will pass out of the hands of Newarkers will be consummated. Representatives of the Morgan firm, of New York, have been in Newark, and at other points in New Jersey where Public Service Corporation interests lie, for the last two weeks. The books and every other detail of the big concern have been and are being gone over. The work is practically completed.

GOV. STOKES SINGS PRAISE OF JERSEY

IN REPLY TO MR. COLBY HE TELLS OF THE ADVANCE THE STATE HAS MADE

Gov. Stokes, before the Minnetonka Club at Jersey City, made last night a political speech in answer to one recently delivered by Senator Everett Colby in Hudson county. The Governor's remarks were heartily applauded. He said:

"We drove the gamblers from our borders and pledged our constitution to their perpetual banishment. We banished partisanship from our courts, from our schools, from our State institutions and from our State boards. We made public office a public trust. We inaugurated a system of publicity in appropriations so that every citizen may have the books open before him and know just what his State spends and for what purpose the expenditure is made.

"We have increased the revenues of the State from $1,962,319 to $4,598,075, until today, instead of being compelled to call upon the school fund to make up deficiences, we are able to appropriate out of the State treasury a million dollars a year for the benefit of your school system and to help educate every child in the State.

"We are going on, and when this Legislature shall have adjourned measures will have been enacted that will enable the State to provide still more liberal returns to the schools and the taxpayer. We have legislated for the purity of the ballot, both at the primaries and the polls, and enacted a primary law—the best in the country—which enables every citizen to exercise a free and untrammelled choice in the selection of his party candidates.

"We are all familiar with the recent disclosures of official corruption and how public office has been made the means of private gain. No such scandals have disgraced our State under Republican rule. We fought and won the battle for honest government and reforms in this connection which other sections are today just inaugurating. In the work of reform the State of New Jersey, under the leadership of the Republican party, is ten years ahead of her sister States.

"Nor has this reform been spasmodic or pyrotechnic. It has been continuous, consistent and sincere. It has been progressive as well as remedial. Every interest of our State has felt the helping hand. Every farmer who drives to market over our good roads realizes that he is receiving some of the benefits of good and economical government. Every institution in the State that cares for the feeble-minded or the epileptic or the insane calls down the blessings of enlightened charity upon the humanity of our principles.

"Every tenement-house inmate who receives more sunshine, more air, who has better sanitary arrangements and greater comforts through the wise legislation of our party, knows he is living under good government. Every family in the State whose children attend the public schools, which are dedicated to education, and are free from partisan control, knows that the Republican party is giving the State the best school system at the least cost to the taxpayer. They are getting daily dividends from good government."

CLAIMS IT A CASE OF TOO MUCH MOTHER-IN-LAW.

But Christian Wittman's Divorce Is On Statutory Grounds.

Chancellor Magie has granted Christian Wittman, of Warren township, an absolute divorce from the bonds of matrimony on statutory grounds. His wife was Mabel Newton, of Mt. Bethel. The couple were married in November, 1901, by the Rev. Peter Gibb, pastor of the Baptist church at Millington. Too much mother-in-law is said to have been the cause for the action.

The decree was advised by Vice Chancellor Stevenson.

BURGLARS BLOW SAFE OF COUNTRY POSTOFFICE.

Stifle Noise of Explosion With Bags of Salt and Escape With Their Booty.

The grocery store of Daniel S. McMullen at Rochelle Park, in which is the postoffice of the town, was entered last night by burglars, who blew the safe with nitro-glycerine, got away with $300 in money and something like $100 worth of postage-stamps.

The robbery was not discovered until 7 a. m., when Mr. McMullen opened the store and found portions of his safe strewn about the place. Bags of salt were used to muffle the sound of the falling iron and steel parts of the strong box.

The job evidently was done by expert safe-breakers, for although Cyrus Schoonmaker, a brother-in-law of Mr. McMullen, and his family live only about twenty feet away from the store they did not hear any noise. The robbers left a burglar's chisel and an old clay pipe behind them.

The store is about seventy-five feet from the Susquehanna Railroad, and it is believed the burglars operated on the safe which heavy freight trains were passing, so that the noise of their work would be smothered by the rumbling of the cars.

$2,501 FOR EIGHT STAMPS.

Postoffice the Buyer, It Is Said, of Rare 1861 Set.

A rare set of eight unused United States postage stamps, in the collection of A. H. Scholle, sold for $2,501 at auction last evening at 24 West Twenty-sixth street, New York. The face value of the stamps is $1.75. It is a complete set of the issue of Aug. 14, 1861.

When the Civil War began there was a quantity of the 1857-60 issue of stamps in the seceding States. To prevent their use by the Conferedate postmasters, the United States authorities declared that these stamps were no longer to be accepted for postage, and the issue of Aug. 14, 1861, was hurriedly prepared. They did not give satisfaction, however, and, in the following month, a new set was issued, with changes marked enough to make them easily distinguishable. These stamps are the earliest issue that can be used for mailing purposes. All previous issues have no value except to philatelists.

The set sold last night consists of one-cent indigo, three-cent brown lake, five-cent orange brown, ten-cent yellow green, twelve-cent gray black, twenty-four-cent deep violet, thirty-cent red orange, and ninety-cent slate blue. The stamps were found by William Knudson, of New York, some years ago in a small shop in a Danish or Swedish town.

J. M. Bartels & Co., of Boston, were the purchasers. It is supposed that the set was bought on order for the Postoffice Department, which is lacking a set. There was spirited bidding.

An unused three-cent rosy buff New York carriers' stamp of 1842 bought $205, a ten-cent St. Louis Postmaster's stamp of 1846 $93, an unused pair of five-cent and ten-cent stamps, general issue of 1847, $30; an unused thirty-cent stamp of the 1851-56 issue $60.50, and a cancelled fifty-cent stamp of 1869, with inverted picture, $80.

LIQUOR SELLING ON SUNDAYS.

Rector of New York Cathedral Favors It In Certain Sections.

Albany, March 16.—Monsignor M. J. Lavelle, vicar-general of New York, setn a letter to Senator Tulley Tuesday advocating the passage of the local option bill and incidentally admitting that in certain parts of New York city liquor should be sold on Sunday. Monsignor Lavelle's views are accepted as representing those of Archbishop Farley. Monsignor Lavelle says:

"It is a law that can be enforced. It is reasonable, moderate and will represent the real wishes of the people in each district. I believe in it very heartily and I hope sincerely it will pass.

"A city like New York is different in different places. For example, where I live, at the corner of Fifty-first street and Madison avenue, there is no reason why liquor should be sold on a Sunday or any other day. But it is not reasonable that the crowded portions of the town or the recreation parts should be governed by a regulation that would be eminently proper here and which, as a matter of fact, exists without any law.

'Respectable persons of small means should have an opportunity on Sundays to get proper beverages for their dinner in their homes. The same is true for those who go to the beaches and other resorts for recreation. I am aware that many persons object to this permission on the ground that it would be only an opening wedge for universal and harmful indulgence. But this objection losses all its weight when we realize that we are getting a law that cannot be enforced to the letter."

WIFE LEAVES HUSBAND BECAUSE HE SNORES.

She Got Tired of Him in Two Months and Sued for Housekeeper's Wages.

Youngstown, Ohio, March 16.—Judge Rodgers, of this county, believes that a wife is worth at least $25 a month as a housekeeper. He awarded Mrs. Jennie Middleton that amount in her suit for wages against her husband, Joel Middleton.

According to the testimony, the marriage of the Middletons was somewhat of a business arrangement. Among other things, the couple agreed that if Mrs. Middleton outlived her husband, she was to receive $1,500.

Two months after the wedding Mrs. Middleton left her husband. She asserted that she worked hard all day, and that at night she could get no rest.

All night long, she declares, Middleton talked in his sleep, and when he wasn't talking, he was snoring loudly.

Not wishing to lose the whole of the $1,500, she entered suit for two months' wages at $25 per month.

Fish, oysters and clams are also sold at prices within the reach of all.

MRS. APPLEGATE WELL AGAIN!
"I have had a bruised leg and foot for several years, caused by the brass eyelets of my shoe, which became very sore and painful especially at night. It itched, burned and ached me till it nearly set me crazy. I used everything I found and was suggested to ease it and nothing gave me any relief till I found and applied Azienza Cream which I think is a wonderful remedy for all sores and inflammation of the skin. The hard knots on my legs were as painful as bee stings, with discolored and purple spots. A running sore on my instep size of a half-dollar; the top of my foot a seething sore clean around to my heel. The bone was sore for a whole year and very painful. I used five and one-half jars of Azienza Cream and healed the sore all up. The foot remained tender and I continued to use to strengthen and toughen the skin until now it is entirely well." (Signed) Mrs. Hannah Applegate, Evergreen Ave., Avon, N. J., Sept. 3rd, 1905. 50 cents. Ask the druggist or by mail. Azienza Specialties Co., Jersey City, N. J.

THE PEOPLE ALL
In Chorus Cried, Give Us Newbro's Herpicide.
This word of late has been in everyone's mouth, and many are wondering what the word signifies, though no one has yet been found, who will deny that NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE does the work. Well, for the information of thousands of people who like to know all about a good thing, we would say that HERPICIDE means, a destroyer or killer of "Herpes." Now "Herpes" is the family name of a disease caused by various vegetable parasites. A similar microbe causes dandruff, itching scalp, and falling hair; this is the microbe that NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE promptly destroys; after which the hair grows. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

THE SALE AT

A WONDERFUL

SUCCESS

CROWDS ARE

IMMENSE

S. Heyman's Departm't Store

began a ten-day sale March 12, that, as a "crowd bringer" has never been equalled in Newark.

Mr. Heyman announced the fact in his advertisements heralding this sale that it was to be Sensational, and it truly is, not only from the standpoint of reductions, which are marked to even the most casual observer, but the throngs of customers that have simply swamped the store all day today have been marvelous. Long before the opening hour, which was scheduled for 9 o'clock, the throngs that packed the sidewalk in front of the store might have been likened to a mighty tidal wave, that swept through the aisles the moment the doors were thrown open. The large selling force had been strengthened by over one hundred additional salespeople.

It was a typical cosmopolitan gathering; old and young, big and little, rich and poor, grave and gay, blondes and brunettes; all with but a single thought, and that to share in the truly wonderful bargains that Heyman is giving.

Exclamations of pleasure and delight were heard on all sides as the qualities were examined and the low prices named.

This is unlike any other sale that has ever been put on in Newark, for it comes at the beginning of the season, whereas heretofore sales of various descriptions have always been held after the demand for merchandise has diminished; but, as Mr. Heyman announced, it was intended as a store advertisment, and as such he fully realized that in order to reap after benefits, it must leave only the most pleasant recollections in the minds of his patrons, and all Newark knows that S. Heyman's name in connection with any promise is a guarantee of its fulfillment to the letter.

The display alone is worth any shopper's time to visit this store. It is like a tour of discovery, for on every side and at every turn there is something there to please the eye—from the basement with its compact stock of sensible, serviceable, practical merchandise to the filmy, gauzy, sheer, clinging dainty lingerie on the second floor, it is one grand panorama of Spring's newest and best merchandise to fill every want.

We should employ hundreds of appropriated adjectives to do this vast assemblage, compassed by the five floors of this emporium, full justice. It has been gathered lavishly and judiciously. The variety is almost limitless.

S. HEYMAN.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

All of last year's Rochester Eastern League team has signed for this season except Yancey and Schlitzer, who want more money.

Manager Murray will have to secure a second baseman to take the place of Pattee, the crack player, who has gone with the Brooklyn Nationals.

The Garwood A. C. Baseball Association is getting together and proposes to have a strong team on the diamond this season. A meeting will be held at the Oakland House, Garwood, tomorrow night.

Who will help swell the list by purchasing one or more shares of the Plainfield Baseball Association stock? Remember it means good sport through the summer. Send in your subscription and it will be acknowledged in The Daily Press.

An important meeting of the Plainfield Baseball Association will be held at the Hotel Iroquois tomorrow night. Make it your business to attend and join in the effort for good baseball. President William N. Runyon will be present to lend his enthusiasm and interest.

The championship season in the Eastern League will open in Providence on April 26, when the pennant will be raised at the ball park. On that day Rochester will play the Rhode Island team. The event will be made an auspicious one, it being expected that the league officials will be present.

Manager Gavett, of the P. H. S. baseball team, has scheduled two games with Rahway H. S., on the local diamond, April 4 and 18, the season opening on April 4. Then will follow a game with Brooklyn High School here on April 7 and on April 21 a double-header will be played, the first game at Montclair and the second at East Orange.

Not ideal baseball weather this, but the fans should remember that summer time will come again and all fandom will be anxious to hear the crack of base hits and sensational catching of scorching line drives, and best of all the home team winning. Attend the association meeting tomorrow night at the Hotel Iroquois and help the thing along.

GIRL PATSY PLANS TO CAPTIVATE PLAINFIELD.

She'll Take the House by Storm at the Theatre Tomorrow.

"The Girl Patsy," it is said, has one of the best casts seen this season in comedy. Every character fits the actor as if moulded for the part. Miss Mary Ryan, as "The Girl," is charming and the leading man, Henry Mortimer, is already the idol of the matinee girls. Miss Grace Cahill is a Gibson type of beauty and an actress of high merit. Of every member of the cast something worthy may be said. The cast includes Miss Rosalie de Vaux, Miss Olive Helaine Briscoe, Miss Marie Haines, Miss Olive Knowland, Jack Drumier, W. Clinton Hamilton, John Sutherland, John Morris, Robert Wagner, Melville Alexander and Harry Williams.

"The Girl Patsy" will be at the New Plainfield theatre for two performances tomorrow, matinee and night.

LOCKS UP WIFE, KILLS ACTRESS.

After Making Woman Prisoner, Nosser Shoots Stella Reynolds and Self.

New York, March 16.—Louis Nosser, a race track man, locked his wife in a bath room yesterday morning, and, while she was a prisoner there, shot and killed Miss Stella Reynolds, of New Orleans, an actress who was a visitor at their home, and then killed himself. Miss Reynolds, it was said, was formerly an intimate friend of Nosser.

The murder and suicide was the sequence of a stormy scene when Miss Reynolds called at the Nosser home. Mrs. Nosser, it was reported, objected to the call, and during the argument which followed her husband swallowed a small quantity of laudanum. Both women by uniting their efforts forced him to take an emetic and the poison did him no harm. Miss Reynolds then remained with Mrs. Nosser all night.

Yesterday, while his wife was in the bath room, Nosser turned the key, and, disregarding her protestations to be let out, he went to the room of Miss Reynolds. Their voices—the man's threatening, and the woman's pleading—were heard by the wife. She sprang to the telephone, which ran from the bath room to the office of the apartment house, and told a maid to hurry to the room and release her.

The maid entered the room too late to save the life of Miss Reynolds. As she opened the door she heard Nosser saying to the woman: "There is no use for you and me to live any longer. The best thing I can do is to kill you and kill myself."

Nosser then shot Miss Reynolds in the temple and himself in the forehead, both dying almost instantly. Miss Reynolds' stage name was Estelle Young. Nosser was forty years old and Miss Reynolds about twenty-five.

Rahway Wants New High School.

Rahway, March 16.—William B. Du Rie, president of Rahway's Board of Education, read an extensive paper before the City Council at its meeting Tuesday night, asking for an appropriation, virtually, of funds for a new high school building. Mr. Du Rie was followed by Percy de Stanley, a member of the board, showing in figures the growth in membership and attendance of the pupils, and proving the crowded state of affairs as they now exist. There are two prominent sites that have been investigated by the board which are thought favorable. One was the Peter Tillman property on Milton avenue, and the other the Robert H. Kinsey place on Esterbrook avenue. The matter will come up for further discussion at the next meeting of the Council. A petition largely signed by voters and property owners was presented, asking for a bridge over the Robinson branch of the Rahway River at Maple terrace, connecting near Church church. The ordinance prohibiting throwing bills and papers on the lawns was adopted.

Outing for Poor Children.

The Children's Fresh Air Association of Newark is trying to make arrangements with John C. Shaw, owner of the Finderne Hotel, to send several hundred poor children to that place during the coming summer. Alderman John A. Estelle, of Newark, chairman of the committee in charge of this work, recently visited Finderne and inspected the hotel, its conveniences and desirability for the children.

RAILROAD WRECK BRINGS DEATH TO 150.

Scores Mangled and Then Roasted When Cars Catch Fire.

Pueblo, Col., March 16.—Passenger trains No. 16, southbound, and No. 3, northbound, on the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad collided, head-on, near Portland, Col., shortly after midnight, and it is reported at least 150 persons are killed and a large number injured.

Relief trains have been ordered from Pueblo and Florence. At this hour details are difficult to obtain.

Meagre but authentic information from semi-official sources states that the number killed in the collision may exceed 150. The coaches caught fire and most of the victims were roasted to death. The two trains met on a curve and crashed together. One of them was a double-header and the impact caused the two engines and smoker and day coach of one of them to turn over. The cars were crowded with passengers.

Both cars took fire and only fifteen passengers escaped. The cars are still burning. The weather is bitterly cold and a heavy snow is falling, interfering with rescue work. It is reported that the crews of both trains are missing.

QUITS P. R. R. SERVICE AFTER A LONG CAREER.

Dr. Mravlag, of Elizabeth, Offended by Refusal of Company to Give Pass to Washington.

Elizabeth, March 16.—Dr. Victor Mravlag, of this city, has left the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, after twenty-seven years' service as its railroad physician in Union county, this being a longer period than any other physician in New Jersey has been in the Pennsylvania's employ. The case of the rupture was a recent refusal to give Dr. Mravlag free transportation to Washington. The latter was offended at this slight after his long term of service, and tendered his resignation.

Dr. Mravlag was for six years an Elizabeth alderman, and was regarded as one of the ablest members of that body. In 1904 he refused the Republican nomination for Mayor. For years he has been a member of Elizabeth's Board of Health, and for several years was surgeon of the Third New Jersey Regiment and one of its board of officers. He is one of the founders of the Union County Medical Society.

AFTER THE P. S. C.

Elizabeth to Collect Its Franchise Tax.

City Comptroller Bonnett filed a communication with the Elizabeth Common Council last night regarding the non-payment of P. S. C. trolley franchise tax in that municipality. The matter was discussed at some length and then referred to the proper committee for action.

On November 27, 1895, the Elizabeth city fathers gave the trolley company a franchise exacting three per cent. of the yearly receipts in all cases where the earnings were over $100, that being fixed as the minimum fee per mile in all cases. After 1905 the minimum fee per mile was to be $250.

The P. S. C. sent in its check for $226.57, and the comptroller promptly returned it, stating that it was entirely insufficient.

Originally there were three miles of trackage and later more than three more miles were added.

"EATS 'EM ALIVE!"--TALE OF A REAL LIVE CANNIBAL IN JERSEY COURT

Atlantic City, March 16.—A real, live missionary-eating cannibal caused a sensation in the Recorder's Court yesterday afternoon, when he demonstrated the manner in which the tribe of which he is a prince royal has been wont to dispose of all white travelers who came their way. At home the man is Cizar Yettoro. His American name is Louis Dudley. The charge against him was assault and battery, preferred by Irene Reynolds. During the testimony the facts of Dudley's savage ancestry were brought out. The court expressed doubt, and the the prisoner, who is evidently proud of his royal blood, got busy. A shudder ran through the court as the black giant, who speaks with a French accent, told how he had witnessed the killing and devouring of two English missionaries. The shudder became more intense when Yettoro came to the description of the meal, and with his hands demonstrated how the superstitious heathen first plucked out and ate the eyes of their parboiled victims, believing that thereafter the spirits of the dead could not see their slayers to do them harm. The court's confidence in the prisoner's story was settled, however, when the black man gave an exhibition of the cannibal war song and "pot dance." Brandishing a ruler as he would a spear, he leaped into the middle of the dock, and, assuming a hideous position, let out a series of yelps that made the more timid of the spectators seek a hasty exit. "Chic-o-ree-ee-ee-eee!" wailed the educated savage, until Justice of the Peace Williams, his own hair almost on end, rapped for order and shouted: "Enough—you're the real article!" Then the justice of the peace placed the one-time cannibal under $300 bail to keep the peace. Later it was ascertained that Dudley's story was not fiction. He was the son of the king of a Zulu tribe on the east coast of Africa, and with one of his father's subjects was captured by a French priest and taken to Paris, where he was educated. He recently came here, where he is now employed as watchman at a beach hotel.

Dog Poisoners at Work in Westfield.

Westfield, March 16.—Police authorities in this place are on the lookout for the miscreants who make a practice of poisoning dogs. Robert A. Fairbairn, a broker, residing on Kimball avenue, has been the heaviest loser in this respect. His bird dog was poisoned on Monday night. It had been fed meat saturated with paris green. The dog was a blue ribboner at Madison Square Garden, and but last week Mr. Fairbairn refused an offer of $500 for it. He has offered a reward for information leading to the arrest of the miscreants. Kennels on Prospect street were invaded also on Tuesday night and two other dogs were poisoned in the same manner.

"The Tenderfoot" Pleases.

Embodying many of the attractive features possessed by the other Carle production, "The Mayor of Tokio," known to Plainfielders, "The Tenderfoot" made almost as favorable an impression at the New Plainfield theatre last night. Oscar Figman has a style of fun making that puts him in the front rank of comedians and in the title role of the piece he has plenty of opportunity to display his abilities. He was supported ably by Miss Ruth White and the best singing and dancing chorus that has been in Plainfield this season.

No Strike, Says Manager.

Manager Schermerhorn, of the local W. U. office, denies the messenger boys story of a strike. He says that several boys were discharged because they came under the provisions of the compulsory education act.

"UNCLE AMOS" AT REST

Veteran Court Constable's Funeral Attended by a Concourse of Friends.

A MINISTER'S TRIBUTE

Rev. Mr. Finn Speaks on Simplicity and Integrity of Aged Man's Character—Two Services Held.

Through slushy streets yesterday afternoon passed all that was left of Amos Moffett, the veteran constable, to the last resting place. Beside his wife in the Plainfield Avenue cemetery the old man was laid away.

The funeral, like the life of the dead man, was simple. But no amount of simplicity could take away anything of its impressiveness, for it marked the end of a man who in a way of his own had made himself a factor and a figure, not only in his own community, but in the county.

The funeral marked the close of a fine life, and the friends who gathered to mourn Mr. Moffett's passing felt the significance of it deeply.

Rev. A. E. Finn, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, conducted the services. The first, or short one, was held at the house on West Sixth street, where Mr. Moffett had lived for fifty years, at 2:30 o'clock. Close friends and relatives attended it. At 3 o'clock the service at the church began. The casket was covered with handsome floral pieces, prominent among them being a large wreath from the dead man's comrades among the court attaches at Elizabeth. There was a pillow bearing the word "Father."

Mr. Finn spoke at length on the great and abiding love of God for man, and instanced Mr. Moffett's acceptance of Christianity on his deathbed in connection with his theme. Mr. Moffett had never accepted Jesus hrist as his personal savior in any formal way up to his illness, and his family called in Mr. Finn to still the doubts they had of the old man's preparedness for death. Mr. Finn described how Mr. Moffett, on the edge of the grave, had entered the fold of the church and faced death with the armor of faith around him.

"What a grand religion, what a great love, it is," said Mr. Finn, "that enables an old man like that to set himself wholly right with his God as he lies dying. His friends need have no fear for Mr. Moffett now; he is right with God spiritually as he was right morally in the sight of men."

Mr. Finn added the usual words of comfort and hope to the family. The body was viewed by those in the church after the service.

Two old comrades of the dead man in court work were among the bearers—Peter V. Weaver and Robert Walpole. The other bearers were V. W. Nash, Sr., L. J. Spicer, Thodore I. Runyon and Charles Stimpson. Former Sheriff Coriell and Fire Chief Doane were among those at the funeral.

QUICK CHICKEN RAISING

Onalake Solves the Problem of Producing Milk Fed Broilers in Six Weeks.

MR. ARENS' SECRET

Plant Contains One House of 6,000 Chicks; 1,000 Laying Hens; Ten Incubators — Well Worth a Visit.

Few persons, if any, even in the city of Plainfield know of a growing industry which has here had its birth and the future of which is destined to interest many, namely, the art of raising chickens, in large numbers, and in such manner that in six weeks they are ready for the market.

"Onalake Poultry Farm" on Rahway road, owned by Siegfried Arens, is where the extensive plant has been devised and put into practical demonstration.

One house, one hundred and twenty-four feet in length, is divided into several rooms, heated by a peculiar and individual system of hot water pipes; in three of these rooms are built brooders of singular design, five tiers in height and seven compartments on each tier; each compartment holding from fifty to seventy chicks; making a total capacity of more than six thousand when filled. These baby chicks are attended with the greatest care and so fed that at the end of the sixth week they are ready to be sent to market as "milk fed broilers," weighing from one, to one and a half pounds each.

Mr. Arens has a system of feeding which he will impart to no one, but whatever it is, he has succeeded in producing a morsel of luscious tenderness in the chicken line that only those who have eaten thereof can have any idea. Smaller "squab broilers," weighing from three-quarters of a pound to one pound, are raised in less than five weeks' time.

By this novel method of raising incubator chicks Mr. Arens overcomes the diseases and mortality so prevalent and discouraging with the old time methods. Besides this brooder plant Mr. Arens keeps a thousand or more laying hens, enabling him to supply his ten Cyphers incubators, of three hundred and sixty eggs each, as well as his private trade for strictly fresh, selected white eggs. A visit to the farm is an interesting and instructive pleasure and its genial owner is ever willing and ready to show visitors around.

HIS SIXTY-FIRST BIRTHDAY.

John Naylor's Family Remembers He Is Past Three Score.

In honor of the sixty-first birthday anniversary of John R. Naylor, of 235 East Third street, his family gave him a party, last night. The house was decorated with American flags, palms and ferns. There were about forty-five guests and the evening was passed in playing games, instrumental music and vocal selections by Misss Helen Johnson, Miss Hazel Van Sickle and Andrew Mulford.

Mr. Naylor received several gifts, including a handsome gold seal ring from his children. The presentation was made at 11 o'clock, just as the guests were about to sit down to the table for supper. Music was furnished through the evening by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Naylor and Edward Townley.

HER LIFE WELL ROUNDED

Touching Remarks By Ministers at Funeral of Mrs. G. L. Van Emburgh.

BEAUTIFUL TRIBUTES

Rev. Dr. Schenck and Rev. Wm. DeHart and Rev. Isaac Brokaw Speak On Nobility of Dead Woman's Character.

The funeral services of Mrs. George L. Van Emburgh, held yesterday afternoon from the late home on East Second street, were attended by a large number of relatives, friends and neighbors, giving tender and loving expression of the high esteem in which the departed woman was held. Among the mourners were many who had been associated with Mrs. Van Emburgh in church work who had learned to love her for her true Christian qualities, while others had known her as a sincere and helpful friend.

The services were in charge of Rev. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, of which Mrs. Van Emburgh was an active member and worker. He read appropriate Scripture selections, after which he made a few remarks. His chief thoughts were those of thankfulness for the beautiful finished life of the departed, the completion of the years of usefulness as a wife, a mother and as a worker in the church. His reference to the well rounded out life of Mrs. Van Emburgh was full of tenderness and sympathy which found a responsive feeling in the heart of every one. He also spoke tender words of help and sympathy to the bereaved husband, brother and children.

At the conclusion of Dr. Schenck's remarks City Judge William N. Runyon sang "Rock of Ages."

Rev. William De Hart, a former pastor of Mr. and Mrs. Van Emburgh, spoke briefly. He referred to his many visits to their home, where he always found comfort and strength in the light and sunny disposition of Mrs. Van Emburgh, which seemed to dispel discouragements and help one along in the Christian life. These visits he counted among his happiest experiences. His remarks were followed with another selection by Judge Runyon. Rev. Isaac P. Brokaw, of Freehold, the first pastor of Mr. and Mrs. Van Emburgh, where they worked so hard to organize Trinity church in Newark, concluded the service with a beautiful prayer that brought consolation and strength to the bereaved ones.

Not for some time has such a large and beautiful display of floral tributes been seen in Plainfield. The casket was completely covered with flowers which were banked about the bier. There were tributes from Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P.; the Ladies' Christian Work Society, the Consistory, the Home Department, the Sunday school and Class No. 12 of Trinity Reformed church Sunday school, of which Mr. Van Emburgh is the teacher; the employes of Woodnull & Martin's store, Mrs. S. A. Krom, an intimate friend of the family, and many others from friends and relatives.

The remains were taken on the 9:30 o'clock train to Newark this morning, where the interment was made in the family plot in Fairmount ceemtery.

Rebekah Lodge Entertains.

Friendship Lodge, No. 4, Daughters of Rebekah, elected two new members at the meeting this week and they will be installed at the next meeting. Two new applications were also received. An investigating committee comprising Mrs. Rittenhouse, Mrs. VanFleet and Mrs. Latourette was appointed. During the evening there was an informal programme of recitations, music and games, after which refreshments were served.

C. E. Meeting Tuesday Night.

The Christian Endeavor Local Union mass meeting, postponed last Thursday night on account of the storm, will be held Tuesday night in Trinity Reformed church at 8 o'clock. Rev. Dr. Scudder, who has a large number of very fine views, will give an illustrated lecture on "India." All Endeavorers and others interested are invited.

Supper a Success.

The supper continued last night in the W. C. T. U. rooms, under the auspices of the committee on soldier and sailor work, was liberally patronized and everything was disposed of by 9 o'clock. The affair was a success financially. The proceeds will be used to carry on the work among soldiers and sailors.

PLAN ANTI-"CON" MEETING

Dr. B. Van D. Hedges to Preside And The List Of Speakers Announced.

ON TUESDAY NIGHT

Dr. Livingston Farrand, of New York, to Make Address on "The Campaign Against Tuberculosis."

Final preparations for the public meeting to discuss "Tuberculosis" have been made by the local physicians and from present indications the attendance will be large. The auditorium of the Plainfield High School has been secured for the occasion and Tuesday night has been designated as the date. Dr. B. vanD. Hedges is to preside and the speakers and their subjects are as follows:

Livingston Farrand, M. D., of New York, "The Campaign Against Tuberculosis of the National Association;" J. H. Huddleston, M. D., of New York, "Tuberculosis From the Medical Standpoint;" Hugh F. Fox, of Plainfield, "The Work of the State Board of Health;" Leon R. Thurlow, of Plainfield, "The Work of the Plainfield Board of Health."

This meeting will afford a good opportunity to learn about tuberculosis and as it is only by the public thoroughly understanding the prevention and cure of the disease that the death rate from it can be lessened, the imperativeness of attendance is understood.

As a result of the agitation for a crusade against consumption, the librarian of the Plainfield Public Library has compiled the following list of books among the collection suitable for a study of the subject:

DISTRICT BILL HEARING

Leader Perkins Announces That It Will Take Place Wednesday Afternoon.

CROWDS WILL ATTEND

Union County Assemblyman's Bill Stirs Things Up Among the Politicians of the State.

Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, of Union county, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, has notified both sides that there will be a hearing on the new Assembly districts bill in the Assembly chamber at the close of the session next Wednesday afternoon. The indications are that as far as attendance goes this will be one of the greatest hearings of the session, packing the floor and galleries, as did the hearing which was given on the "bishops'" high license measures.

Advocates of the Lentz lines, who were at Trenton on Wednesday when Leader Perkins introduced the bill, announced that they would ask for a hearing, and that they would bring a throng of citizens to the Capitol which would make the "bishops' bills" throng look small in comparison, in order to show the Legislature what the Republicans thought of the attempts to discredit and throw down the regular organization. The Colby men, on the other hand, will send to the State house another throng equally as large, if not larger, in order to demonstrate by their presence and their voices that the district lines for Essex that are now in the bill are the ones that the great majority of the people of the county sanction. It is expected that the county committee will send down some of its best orators who will eloquently labor to convince the committee that as their lines were submitted by the regular county organization at the request of the State chairman, they should in all fairness and precedent of party usage be placed in the law.

The task of replying to these orators and upholding the justice of the Colby lines will be consigned to John S. Gibson and R. Arthur Heller, who will urge that the present county committee does not represent the Republicans of Essex, who have demonstrated their confidence in the Colby men by electing their delegates at last fall's primaries by an overwhelming majority.

Among the politicians of the corridors there is a belief that the Lentz men will only be wasting their time at the hearing as far as securing any change in the Essex lines from the committee is concerned.

The Lentz men are said to entertain some hope of having their districts put back into the bill when it reaches the Senate, but the wise ones of the corridors say that the same dominant spirit that will put it through the House will carry it safely through the Senate.

THE SPARKLET'S FAKE FACTORY IN FULL BLAST.

Courier-News Springs One of Its Famous Concoctions of the Imagination.

The Asbury sparklet attached to the Courier-News staff lingered too long over a game of pins in a local bowling alley yesterday and in order to make up lost time turned in a bald fake about the "Carnegie" system mof spelling being introduced in the city High School. From an artistic standpoint it read splendidly, but there was about as much truth in it as anything that has ever been charged up to Ananias.

In the first place, because of pain in his arm from swinging the big wooden balls down the pine lane, the diminutive fact distorter forgot that there is no such thing as "The Carnegie Method" of spelling. The Ironmaster has given $40,000 to help the thing along, but he had nothing to do with its origin. Again, both Superintendent Maxson and Principal Travell are authority for the statement that the system has not been introduced in the High School, the sparklet's report to the contrary notwithstanding. For many, many months past the pupils have been privileged to drop unnecessary letters and dipthongs and they had been doing so befor ethe library dispenser had made his gift public.

That's all there is to the so-called story, but what's the fellow going to do when he gets pressed for copy? However, there's a rumor that the man from the shore front will not let it happen again, as the city editor has prohibited bowling alley visits.

Gave a Thimble Party.

Mrs. Fred Kerberg, of Lee place, gave a thimble party at her home yesterday afternoon in honor of Mr. Kerberg's father's oldest brother's niece by marriage. Some especially handsome fancy work designs were shown. Tea was served with unique favors.

VILLAGERS AROUSED OVER ROWDIES' ACTIONS

KNOCKED SENSELESS WITH A BEER BOTTLE

BLOODY OUUCOME OF QUARREL OVER POOL GAME.

Frank Sullivan, a laborer, and Gus Sutterlein, whom the police describe as a "small-bore sport," got in a quarrel last night over a game of pool in which Sullivan and a friend of his beat Sutterlein and one of his associates. The quarrel quieted down and Sullivan accompanied Sutterlein and his friends to a dance in Saengerbund Hall. Nothing more was said about the pool game, but as Sullivan started to leave Sutterlein and his friends at Somerset and Front streets, after the dance, Sutterlein pulled a beer bottle from his pocket and swung it against the side of Sullivan's head.

Sullivan went down and out, with his left ear split. Roundsman Flynn saw the blow from the other side of the street, and went for Sutterlein on the jump. Somebody yelled "Cheese it!" and Sutterlein started for the borough line, but Flynn pulled him up in short order. He dropped the bottle when the cry sounded.

Sullivan rallied in a minute or two and Flynn took him along with Sutterlein to the station house, with the bottle in the case for evidence. The police did not know Sullivan, so he was kept all night to make sure he would be on hand in the court this morning. Dr. Lufburrow, the city physician, patched his ear.

Sutterlein tried to convince Judge Runyon, when arraigned, that somebody unknown threw the bottle and that he hadn't even hit him with his fist. He was up against the positive testimony of Flynn and Sullivan, who looked and spoke like a decent young chap, and the magistrate fined him $15 or twenty days. Sentence was suspended on Sullivan.

BENEFIT FOR MISSIONS AT TRINITY REFORMED.

Junior Endeavorers Hold a Successful Entertainment.

For the benefit of home and foreign missions, the Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church held a successful entertainment in the lecture room last night. Mrs. George Reighton, as superintendent of the society, had charge of the affair. There was a large attendance and about $10 was realized as profit.

The programme comprised a patriotic drill by Rosamond Rogers, Margaret Van Deventer, Ida Van Arsdale, Elsie Tier, Beatrice Tier, Mildred Creamer, Adelaide Cole and Helen Roberts was the goddess of liberty. The drill was exceptionally well given and won hearty applause.

Another feature was the representation of a school scene, which amused all. Cora Gano was "Miss Alice," the school teacher, and the pupils were Elsie Tier, Beatrice Tier, Helen Roberts, Adelaide Cole, Mildred Creamer, Elizabeth Chickering and Ella Van Arsdale.

Other parts of the programme included two piano solos by Edna Cole, reciations by Madeline Strader and Helen Woolley, a piano duet by Lawrence and Elmer French and a piano solo by Harold Storr, which closed the evening's entertainment. The children all did well in their various parts and were highly complimented by their friends.

Trust Co.'s New Building.

The Plainfield Trust Company expects to take possession of its handsome new quarters on Park avenue during May. The work on the structure is now progressing rapidly. George J. Tobin, who has the contract for the heating and ventilating, has practically completed his work, and the New York company which has the contract for the interior furnishings, such as counter, desks, partitions and marble work, expects to start its force of employes on the job within a few days. The interior plastering is completed and everything is in readiness for the decorations. When this is finished the scaffolding will be removed and the work of furnishing started.

Reward Offered for the Arrest of Gang That Robbed and Destroyed at Scotch Plains:

FOLLOWED CHARIVARI

Attempted to Fire a Store and Shattered Postoffice Windows With Shotgun — Township Authorities Investigating.

Scotch Plains citizens are greatly agitated over a robbery and apparent attempt at arson and general destruction to property that occurred last Wednesday night after a gang of young villagers had been treated by a newly-made bridegroom. The roysterers roamed the streets at midnight and though sounds of the revelry were apparent several times, it was not until the next morning that the extent of their lawlessness became known. The principal sufferers are Frank Anson, who keeps a general candy and fruit store, and the Baptist church trustees, owners of the building occupied by the post office. Anson has offered a reward of $25 for the arrest of the offenders, and an additional twenty-five will be given by Edward Hand, the hotel proprietor.

A well known Scotch Plains man, Thomas Farrell, was married early in the week and on Wednesday night the crowd gathered about his home and started the noisy serenade that usually follows a rural wedding. The racket was kept up until the bridegroom decided to stop it by giving the leaders money enough to "blow" the gang, and they adjourned to a nearby hotel. When the coin had been spent, there were individual treats and all were in a more or less state of intoxication when they were put out at 11:30.

Shouting and yelling, they began pulling off gates and pickets, and finally several went to the rear of Anson's store and by breaking a window managed to gain entrance. They helped themselves to candy, cigars and fruit and then set fire to an empty orange box filled with papers. It was evidently intended to burn the building, but the only damage done was the scorching of the wall against which the box was leaning.

While one gang was in the store another went up Park avenue and deliberately discharged a shotgun at the front of the postoffice building. Eight large panes of glass were demolished and the frame was shattered. Fear that the noise would result in citizens starting an investigation put a stop to the depredations and the crowd disappeared.

In the event of Anson's place getting in flames the village would have suffered a serious fire, as it directly adjoins several frame buildings and the wind was in their direction. Hand's Hotel is next door, and the danger to which it was exposed was what induced the proprietor to add $25 to the reward.

The township authorities have been acquainted with the facts and a determined effort will be made to arrest every member of the gang. It is said that the names of one or two have already been obtained.

PLAY GROUNDS FOR THE SCHOOL CHILDREN.

Civic Association About to Solve Another Municipal Problem.

A meeting of the Plainfield Civic Association was held last night at its rooms, 136 Park avenue, and matters of importance came up for discussion pertaining to the interests and welfare of the city of Plainfield, but no definite action was taken.

The suggestion was made to provide accommodations for the children of the public schools to congregate after school hours and amuse themselves without remaining on the streets The matter is one that parents of the children are much interested in and it is expected that the association will take action on it in the near future.

THE FUEL QUESTION.

If you use coal, fuel is a big item. Its first cost is small compared to subsequent ones. Kitchen utensils wear out more quickly on a coal range than when gas is used. The dirt of the ashes make itself felt on the kitchen floor. Much food is wasted by too cool or too hot a fire. Many other expenses pile up against the coal bill. Use a gas range and save the wear and tear on the kitchen, the cooking utensils, and greatest of all, on the health and temper of the cook.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

The Automatic Shotgun.

The Legislature of this State should put the stamp of its disapproval on the automatic shotgun by promptly passing the Hoagland bill which prohibits its use in the shooting of game birds. This gun is so constructed that the sportsman using it can fire five charges of shot within two seconds. While a great majority of the people in the United States through their representatives in the Legislature and in Congress are exerting themselves to protect game, inventors and manufacturers of firearms are exercising their brains and capital in the effort to devise some quick and wholesale destruction of game birds and game animals possible. New Jersey spends every year upwards of $25,000 for the stocking of the fields and streams of the State with animals and fish, that its citizens and sportsmen who pay for the privilege may enjoy the pleasures of hunting during the open seasons. Notwithstanding this expenditure game is becoming scarcer each year and there is a growing sentiment favorable to greater protection for it. Contrary to this trend of the public mind is the action of the manufacturers of the automatic shotgun, who have placed on the market a weapon with which it is possible to wipe out an entire covey of quail, or annihilate a flock of ducks with a single volley. With such a machine as this hunting becomes slaughter, pure and simple, and if its use is to be tolerated in this State, the people should demand that no more money be taken from the public treasury to be spent in stocking the fields with game birds. No true sportsman will use the gun and those who do have no right to ask the State to pay for live targets for them. The Hoagland bill should be enacted into law.—Trenton, N. J., Gazette.

Senator Kean's Kindness.

Under the frank of Hon. John Kean, senior United States Senator from New Jersey, there is being sent out to favored citizens of this State a copy of the speech delivered in 1893 by the late Senator George F. Hoar, of Massachusetts, opposing the election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people. It is most kind and considerate on the part of Senator Kean to furnish this ancient information free to his constituents. Of course he has no ulterior object in view. It would be unfair to assume that his courteous action has been impelled by the fact that there are pending before the New Jersey Legislature bills providing for the expression by the voters of their preference for Senatorial candidates, and that once upon a time he was a candidate for the popular suffrage and found himself on the wrong side of the tally sheets. It is undoubtedly merely a coincidence that this franked document has made its appearance at this time. If the truth were known, the explanation would undoubtedly be found in the fact that the government printing office has had troubles recently, and it is just getting around to the printing of an address delivered thirteen years ago. There are numerous people in New Jersey who revere the memory of the distinguished Massachusetts leader and who will be glad to read the words of the departed statesman. There are probably as many others who are partial to the memory of Washington. The senior Senator from this State might do favor to these constituents of his by sending out as a companion piece to the Hoar speech the farewell address of the Father of His Country. A hint to the wise is sufficient.—Newark Evening News.

"WOMAN" IS AS GOOD AS "LADY."

Court Holds Former Title Sufficiently Respectful for Address in Court.

Derby, Conn., March 17.—Judge George H. Cowell, of the Waterbury District Court, Thursday gave a judicial opinion that "woman" is a term of respectful address equal with "lady." A suit for damages was on trial before him, and Mrs. Isaac Winstone had been called as a witness. Lawyer Charles G. Root had objected to something in her testimony and began to address the Court thus:

"Your Honor, this woman is testifying to"—

"If you please, sir," ejaculated Mrs. Winstone, springing to her feet and glaring at Root, "I am a lady, just as much as you are a gentleman, and I insist upon being called such."

Root attempted to explain, but only added fuel to the flame. Judge Cowell told Mrs. Winstone that a woman was as estimable and refined as a lady, but she returned that it was the last time she would come to court.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The New Plainfield theatre will have, week after next, Wilton Lackaye in William A. Brady's great production of "The Pit" as the attraction. The play is being brought here this season on a larger scale than ever, with new scenery and the original cast. "The Pit" is a dramatization of Frank Norris' famous story of the same name. It is the second of the "wheat triology" of stories which was planned by this lamented young author; the first, "The Octopus," dealing with the growing of the wheat; the second with its marketing; while the third, which he did not live to write, was to deal with the consumption.

"An Aristocratic Tramp," with a wealth of beautiful scenery and a strong company of artists, with Kilroy and Britton at the head, will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday night. The play was first produced last year. It proved to be an artistic and financial success for its owners, and this season it is being presented on a large and magnificent scale. It has many new and novel features, among them being the hair-raising automobile race and explosion, the most realistic railroad scene ever produced, the Sunset Limited winding around and down the mountain side, coming to a stop in full view of the audience. Each and every scene in this play shows a well known spot in California, Yellowstone Park, the Chinese district and along the docks in San Francisco.

Of all the many attractions presented in New York this season few, if any, gave more general satisfaction than did the beautiful pastoral play by Arthur Sidman, "York State Folks." The play made the biggest kind of a hit, and has been talked about more or less ever since by those who witnessed it with pleasure, and by those who missed it with regret. The announcement of a special engagement in Plainfield for next Wednesday night will be a welcome one to amusement seekers.

"An Aristocratic Tramp" is not like any other play with a tramp title. It will appeal to fathers, mothers, children, sweethearts and wives. It will do you as much good as a sermon. Will be at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday.

Another success from the pen of Jane Mauldin Feigl, who wrote "Texas," has been scored by "The Girl Patsy," which comes to the New Plainfield theatre this afternoon and tonight. The new piece is described as a comedy drama of fashionable country life. There is much excellent character drawing and a plot that compels rapt attention to the very "tag." Mrs. Feigl is an adept at the art of creating theatric illusion, or atmosphere, as the critics are pleased to call it. "The Girl Patsy" is the acme of stage naturalness—just a simple story of a girl and the man she loves. There is no straining after melodramatic effects, no thrilling episodes, no horse-play, no exaggerated types. But the play is not a whit less interesting, nor the denouement less dramatic.

Don't forget the vaudeville acts in "An Aristocratic Tramp," seven in number, and they are all good ones. This attraction is booked for the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday.

Maude Granger, who was the famous beauty of the Union Square Theatre Company, New York, when it was regarded as the finest dramatic organization in existence, and who subsequently was for a number of years one of the most successful stars in romantic drama, has made a most pronounced success in the role of Mrs. Lincoln in Benjamin Chapin's character drama of Lincoln. Her likeness to that of the original is most striking, and she wears a reproduction of some of the famous gowns worn by Mrs. Lincoln and created especially for her by the late A. T. Stewart, of New York. Her intense pride in her husband's position, whom she always addressed as "Mr. President," and her great solicitude as to his attire, give Miss Granger great opportunity for developing a delicious vein of comedy, which, while at all times is perfectly legitimate and not a bit overdrawn, is excruciatingly funny. She will be seen here with Mr. Chapin at the New Plainfield theatre next Friday night.

The automobile race and explosion will be a startling scenic effect in the play "An Aristocratic Tramp." Will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday.

With its mirth-making scenes, its clever specialties, pretty girls, bright costumes, tuneful music and elaborate mountings, "McFadden's Flats" comes to the New Plainfield theatre Thursday, April 5. No comedy extravaganza of the season has satisfied theatregoers in a better measure than this favorite laughmaker. A special afternoon performance will be given.

A FACT PROVEN.

Should Convince Even the Most Skeptical of Its Truth.

If there is the slightest doubt in the minds of any that Dandruff germs do not exist, their belief is compelled by the fact that a rabbit innoculated with the germs became bald in six weeks' time.

It must be apparent to any person therefore that the only prevention of baldness is the destruction of the germ—which act is successfully accomplished in one hundred per cent. of cases by the application of Newbro's Herpicide.

Dandruff is caused by the same germ which causes baldness and can be prevented with the same remedy—Newbro's Herpicide.

Accept no substitute. "Destroy the cause you remove the effect."

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

DON'T EXPERIMENT.

You Will Make No Mistake If You Follow This Plainfield Citizen's Advice.

Never neglect your kidneys.

If you have pain in the back, urinary disorders, dizziness and nervousness, it's time to act and no time to experiment. These are all symptoms of kidney trouble, and you should seek a remedy which is known to cure the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use. It has cured many stubborn cases in Plainfield. No need to experiment. Follow the advice of a Plainfield citizen and be cured yourself.

Charles H. Lippencott, painter, of 107 Somerset street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "The statement made by me some years ago regarding what Doan's Kidney Pills had done for me was not only true at that time but now, four years later, I am glad to confirm it. I had dull, heavy pains around my groins, dreadful backache, dizzy spells and in damp weather or when I caught cold the trouble was so bod I could not get about. I tried by best to find some prescription or remedy to cure me, but without success. I was suffering intensely when I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's pharmacy, but it only required a few doses to convince me that I had the right remedy. In a short time I was cured. I have used your remedy since then and with the same satisfactory result. I am glad to say anything in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

To the Trustees of Grace Church, Plainfield, First Baptist Church:

Gentlemen:

Don't allow your church to pay 8 cents per pound for wood.

If they buy 100 pounds of White Lead in kegs they get 88 pounds of White Lead and 12 pounds of wood; but when they buy L. & M. Paint they get a full gallon of paint that won't wear off for 10 or 15 years, because L. & M. Zinc hardens L. & M. White Lead and makes L. & M. Paint wear like iron.

4 gallons L. & M. mixed with 3 gallons Linseed Oil will paint a moderate sized house.

Actual cost L. & M. about $1.20 per gallon.

C. S., Andrews, Ex-Mayor. Danbury, Conn., writes, "Painted my house 19 years ago with L. & M. Looks well today."

Plainfield, N. J., March 17, 1906.

No man can be blamed for being green today. It is St. Patrick's Day in the morning, noon and night.

The biggest beat that the serene Oscar Hammerstein could score would be to get Jerome to pose as a sleeping beauty.

Senator Colby must laugh heartily when he observes the antics of the half-hearted and pretended friends who try to do the straddle act in politics.

According to the New Brunswick Daily Times, "Judge" Andy Hamilton refuses to talk since his return from Europe. Pray what was he doing up at Albany the other day?

Rutgers College has conferred the honorary degree of civil engineer on Robert A. Meeker, State superintendent of roads. Does that mean that Robert is inactive?—Trenton True American.

No, brother, if Robert had been a trifle more inactive those automobilists wouldn't have such a love for Jersey roads.

Although there is a persistent rumor that the Common Council will grant Charles Schanz's application for a retail license on North avenue, it is hard to believe that such action will be taken in defiance of public opinion. We can see no earthly reason why the application should be granted. If any there be, it is certainly up to the member advocating it to present his reasons on the floor of the Council chamber.

Newark is awake to the fact that a city can run a lighting plant at a profit, barring, of course, we suppose, any interference of a political machine which might use the public utility as a place of employment for heelers of the ring. An exhaustive report made by the live Board of Trade of that municipality has left open no other course than the immediate establishment of a plant for the lighting of public buildings, parks and streets, according to the Newark Evening News which makes this comment:

"The example set by Detroit in the construction and management of its municipal lighting plant proves to the entire satisfaction of the members of the Board of Trade, who have examined carefully into the matter, that Newark can establish a lighting plant with 3,600 arc and 15,000 incandescent lamps and save $105,000 a year over present prices. In ten years this would more than pay for the entire expense of establishing the plant, assuming, of course, that Newark can operate an electric light plant as honestly and economically as Detroit. A significant feature of the report made by the committee on legislation is the concluding paragraph, in which it is asserted that the strongest arguments against the municipal lighting proposition emanate from the headquarters of private corporation or interested stockholders. This is in itself a strong reason why this city should establish a plant. The private corporations naturally want to make all the money they can, and they, therefore, oppose any plan that limits their income; but there is no need of wasting sympathy on them, for their charges both to cities and to private consumers have been exorbitant. They have consolidated and monopolized the business, have charged whatsoever they pleased and have confessed to their extortions by great reductions in contract prices for public lighting whenever they have been threatened with competition they could not suppress. Newark has unusually favorable conditions under which to make the experiment of municipal lighting, and should do so at the earliest practicable date, for the direct benefit of the city, and indirectly to reduce the cost of electric lighting to the citizens."

ROAD TO JERICHO RUNS EVERYWHERE

DR. RICHARDS TALKS ON THE GOOD SAMARITAN OF TODAY.

Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, pastor of the Brick church, New York, came to his old charge, the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, last night to speak at the weekly meeting of the Young People's Society. The lecture room was filled.

Dr. Richards spoke on the parable of the Good Samaritan. The road to Jericho, he pointed out in his exposition, ran everywhere, and all mankind must travel on it. Christians see the prostrate victims all about them—and the thieves, and the priest and the Levite and the innkeeper. Dr. Richards saw in the type of modern men whose services must be paid for; the men who do good with the idea of repayment more in their minds than the service itself.

The Samaritan, Dr. Richards said, was as numerous a quantity in the life of the road as the others. He was to be found everywhere; he represented the elements of kindness and helpfulness, without which human intercourse would be intolerable. There was so much kindness done to individuals in even the worst political machines that the average man was puzzled, when he learned of the inner workings of the organization, to decide whether to approve or condemn them.

Confirmation Class.

The confirmation class of Holy Cross church was organized last night. Bishop Scarborough will be at Holy Cross March 29. The class will contain about twelve candidates. The children will meet with the rector, Rev. George A. Warner, Sunday afternoons; the adults will meet on Friday nights.

STOKES-COLBY IN UNION

Governor's U.S. Senatorial Aspirations Suggest Essex Man as Gubernatorial Possibility.

SOUTH JERSEY PACT

For Delegation's Support of the Chief Executive the Lower End of the State Might Be Swung in Line for the Reform Senator.

Governor Stokes' alignment with the Colby forces in Essex county on the Assembly district plan and his turndown of the regular Republican organization, or rather his insistment that the lines approved by the "regulars" be ignored and the Colby plan accepted, and without caucus action, is regarded by those who keep in touch with the political situation as removing all doubt as to Governor Stokes' plan of campaign in the contest which will be decided at the next State election.

It also demonstrates, notwithstanding repeated denials on the part of those most concerned, that the State Republican organization is apparently as much divided as are the Republican factions in several counties, notably Essex and Hudson. The leaders who, as far as the State organization is concerned, are Governor Stokes and State Treasurer Briggs, are both politically ambitious and straining every nerve, each apparently endeavoring to obtain an advantage over the other.

The Governor will not deny, and in fact he seems pleased to learn, that he is regarded as the most formidable candidate for successor to John F. Dryden as United States Senator, an issue which will be decided by the Legislature chosen next November. The State treasurer is equally desirous of being known as the logical Republican candidate for Governor one year hence, and both realize that the candidacy of one is no benefit to the other. Early in the game Governor Stokes seemed to realize that the "reformers," or "insurgents," as they are variously termed, were a factor that would have to be reckoned with, not only this year, but next year, and there is more than one paragraph in his annual message which seems to indicate that he had that fact in mind when the document was written.

While a Senator he, in caucus, opposed a return to the Assembly district plan as urged in 1897, when, as now, the Republican majority in the Legislature was unwieldly. Now he not only urged it in his message but insisted in having a voice in the manner in which it should be handled in the Legislature and in that direction he has gained a decided advantage over Mr. Briggs.

The latter, as chairman of the State committee, had invited the several county committees entitled by population to arrange a schedule of district lines, and all with the exception of Essex were approved. Two weeks before the latter lines were even approved by the county committee the Governor had the Colby lines under consideration and he approved them.

It was explained to him by members of the Essex delegation. Supreme Court Clerk William Riker, former State Committeeman Henry A. Poter and others, that the Colby plan was eminently fair, and that the county committee plan, which had not yet been submitted, would make it difficult, if not impossible, for ten of the present Essex Assemblymen to secure a renomination.

Even the Colby plan, it was said, would retire three, and one other might be dropped on account of his vote on "local option," but it would be possible to name equally as consistent Republicans in place of all who might not be returned.

Here is where the Governor again showed his political foresight. If at least seven Colbyites were returned with a chance of the remaining four, that would mean all or a large majority for the Essex delegation that would not support, or perhaps even name, Senator Dryden for re-election, if for no other reason because of the strenuous efforts made to defeat the Prudential investigation.

For similar reasons, principally the role of counsel which he assumed at the hearing on that investigation, John W. Griggs would be out of the running so far as Essex was concerned, and right there was the opening for a new political alliance.

With Dryden and Griggs out of the race for Senator, the only active aspirant on the political horizon would be Stokes and for him it would be plain sailing with the support of Essex county. Inasmuch, however, as Dryden was the first Senator and Franklin Murphy the first Governor on the Republican side chosen from Essex in many years the county could not be expected to voluntarily surrender both offices. It was in fact recalled that had the "regulars" remained in control Mayor Doremus might have been urged as the logical successor to Governor Stokes, and it is quite probable that the latter believes now that Senator Colby might be an available candidate and have material South Jersey support should Essex support Stokes for Senator.

Miss Bye's Testimony.

Editor Daily Press:

I wish to correct the untrue statements given in this paper yesterday. As to the baptism, it is true I was baptized; but have never attended a service in the Mt. Olive church in my life, aside from the immersion. Also, I have for a number of years been a member of Warren chapel. If this does not satisfy the inquisitive minds of some people, I would say they might call and see me and gain further information.

BLOWING SOCIAL TESTS LUNGS OF PARTICIPANTS.

Somewhat Novel Entertainment at Vincent Chapel Last Night.

Appropriate to the windy month of March, the Epworth League of the First M. E. church held what was called a "blowing social" in Vincent chapel last night. The programme, a very informal one, comprised all sorts of games which required a good test of the lungs. Some of the young people proved themselves exceptionally strong in this respect and had no trouble in scoring points.

One exciting feature was a football game between Yale and Cornell. The young people selected sides, placed an egg on the table, and instead of kicking the imaginary football about, resorted to blowing. The Yale eleven won the game. Another game was the placing of a string on the floor upon which was laid a feather. The trick was to blow the feather either side of the string, and it was a very difficult task, as was also the feat of pinning small boats, blindfolded, on a large canvas supposed to represent water. Another game was that of setting a windmill in motion.

An amusing game was that of choosing some well known saying, such as "It's an ill wind that blows nobody some good," and "Birds of a feather flock together." A person would be sent from the room while the selection was made and upon their return they would be greeted by various words in the sentence, which they were supposed to put together correctly. These sort of games helped to pass a pleasant time, at the conclusion of which refreshments were served under the direction of the social committee, comprising Miss Huber, chairman; Miss Edna French and Miss Mattie Humble.

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

Potato Strips.

Peel potatoes and cut into long narrow strips about the size of uncooked macaroni. Cook in boiling water until tender, then drain. Make a white sauce from one cup of hot milk, one and one-half level teaspoons of flour and the same of butter. Season with salt and pepper. Heat the potatoes in the sauce, turn into the serving dish and sprinkle with minced parsley.

Creamed Canned Shrimps.

Open a can of shrimps and remove all the bits of shell, then pick into small pieces. If fresh shrimps are used they must be boiled until the shells open and then prepared in the same way. Make a cream sauce of one cup of thin cream and a level tablespoon each of flour and butter, one-half level teaspoon of salt and a few grains of paprika. Cook several minutes, add the shrimps, heat and serve.

Raised Rolls.

Heat one cup of milk, add one-quarter cup of butter, one-quarter cup of sugar, a saltspoon of salt and half a yeast cake dissolved in one-half cup of warm water. Add flour to make a stiff dough and last stir in the well beaten white of one egg. Cover and let rise over night. In the morning roll out and shape into rolls. Let rise in the pans with a cloth laid over and bake.

Broiled Finnan Haddie.

Dip a small haddie into boiling water twice, then wipe it dry. Put the fish in a greased broiler and cook with the flesh side down, until nearly done, then turn and cook on the other side. Do not let the skin side burn, but turn back to finish cooking. Serve on a warm platter, seasoned with one level tablespoon of butter softened and a teaspoon of lemon juice.

Cream Buscuits.

Sift two cups of pastry flour with four level teaspoons of baking powder and a saltspoons of salt. Sift once more. Add one-quarter cup of milk to one-half cup of sweet cream, and mix with the dry ingredients. Roll out, cut in small rounds and bake twenty minutes.

Maple Sugar Cake.

Cream one-third cup of butter with one cup of sugar, add the well beaten yolks of two eggs and one-half cup of milk. Sift two cups of flour with four level teaspoons of baking powder and add to the first mixture, beat smooth and add the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs. Bake in two layers and put maple frosting on top and between the layers.

Maple Frosting.

Break a one-pound cake of maple sugar into small bits and melt with one-half cup of boiling water. Cook ten minutes or until the syrup will thread, then pour the syrup in a fine stream on to the beaten whites of two eggs. Continue beating until thick enough to spread.

Chocolate Cream Cake.

Cream one-half cup of butter with one cup of sugar. Dissolve one-half cup of cornstarch in one-half cup of milk, add to the butter and sugar and beat well. Add one and one-quarter cups of flour, sifted with two level teaspoons of baking powder, and last the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs and one-half teaspoon of vanilla flavoring. Bake in layers.

Chocolate Icing.

Beat the whites of two eggs until frothy, add two tablespoons of cold water and all the powdered sugar needed to make a consistency to spread well. Cover the top of each cake with this icing and set aside to dry a little. Melt four squares of chocolates over hot water and spread thinly over the white icing; then set the cakes together and the icing will be of two colors, and also of two flavors, if liked.

Orange and Nut Salad.

Cook English walnut meats in salted water with a bit of bay leaf until they are a little tender. Drain, rub off the skins and break in pieces. Mix with thin shavings of sour oranges, from which all the white skin has been peeled. Pour a French dressing over and add a few gratings of the yellow orange peel. Be careful not to get too much of the peel. Garnish the salad with whole nut meats.

Cocoanut and Raisin Filling for Cake.

Seed one cup of raisins and chop them fine, add half a cup of chopped almonds, half a cup of grated cocoanut and the white of an egg beaten stiff. Have each cake layer spread thinly with some kind of jelly, and spread with the fruit filling, then put together. The jelly will make the fruit stick to the cake.

Baked Chops.

Slice enough pared potatoes to fill a quart baking dish that has been buttered. Dust with salt and pepper and cover with boiling water. Set in the oven until the potatoes are almost tender. Skewer some mutton or lamb chops into shape, and lay round on the potatoes. Season and add more boiling water if needed, then set back to bake until the chops are done.

Fried Mush.

Put one pint of cornmeal, mixed with one pint of cold milk and a teaspoon of salt into a quart of boiling water, and cook one hour in a double boiler. Turn into a brick-shaped pan that has been rinsed in cold water. Let stand several hours, or until entirely cold and firm. Cut into half-inch slices, dredge both sides of each with flour and fry in hot fat. Brown slightly on both sides, drain on a paper and serve with maple syrup.

MRS. APPLEGATE WELL AGAIN!

"I have had a bruised leg and foot for several years, caused by the brass eyelets of my shoe, which became very sore and painful especially at night. It itched, burned and ached me till it nearly set me crazy. I used everything I found and was suggested to ease it and nothing gave me any relief till I found and applied Azienza Cream which I think is a wonderful remedy for all sores and inflammation of the skin. The hard knots on my legs were as painful as bee stings, with discolored and purple spots. A running sore on my instep size of a half-dollar; the toe of my foot a seething sore clean around to my heel. The bone was sore for a whole year and very painful. I used five and one-half jars of Azienza Cream and healed the sore all up. The foot remained tender and I continued to use to strengthen and toughen the skin until now it is entirely well." (Signed) Mrs. Hannah Applegate, Evergreen Ave., Avon, N. J., Sept. 3rd, 1905. 50 cents. Ask the druggist or by mail. Azienza Specialties Co., Jersey City, N. J.

Whole Wheat Bread.

Scald two cups of milk with two cups of boiling water, a level tablespoon of sugar and the same of butter. Cool until lukewarm, add one-half yeast cake dissolved in one cup of lukewarm water and mix with five cups of whole wheat flour. The sponge will be light in about four hours; then add just enough flour to make the dough stiff enough to handle. Knead a little, put into a bowl, cover and let rise light. Cut down, but do not knead, then turn into buttered pans, let rise and bake in a moderate oven.

PUBLIC OPINION.

Fallibility of Statistics.

Mathematics is a science whose conclusions are absolutely reliable, because they are founded on pure reason, but statistics as often presented represent mere verbal jugglery, and convey impressions diametrically opposed to the truth.—Milwaukee Wisconsin.

An Outrage.

A New Jersey man declares that he is going to feed his hens milk, sugar and alcohol-producing food, and eventually get eggs whose shells will inclose egnog. It would be an outrage to thus bring the esteemed American hen under the operation of the liquor laws.—Washington Star.

Paterson Neswpapers.

The oppositon to the trunk sewer in Paterson only demonstrates the power of newspapers for evil when they are so inclined. Newspapers when they wish can do more to preserve ignorance and misrepresentation than they can to diffuse knowledge and correct principles.—Passaic Herald.

Susan B. Anthony.

Due perhaps to her more than to any other woman, the condition of woman has been brought up from the time when no woman thought of making her living by any other means than sewing, teaching and factory work, to where the way has been opened in every avenue of industry, until woman stands today almost the peer of men in opportunities of financial development.—Boston Traveler.

North and the Race Problem.

It is more and more realized that the race question is one that must be settled in the South, but if the spirit of the North is less dictatorial it is inclined to be more helpful. It has the benefit of perspective and if it lacks the responsibility involved in immediate contact with actual conditions, it can at least hold up the abstract principles of justice which are the same in all places and for all peoples, even if there are frequent wide departures from them in the matter of their application.—Boston Transcript.

Stomachs and the World.

If the human race could keep its stomach in good condition there would be less misery in the world. There would be fewer headaches, there would be keener minds, there would be greater zest for work. Good stomachs produce good dispositions. A man whose stomach in any of its ramifications does not trouble him can take a rosy view of the world. He can be cheerful and buoyant. He can slap his neighbor gaily on the back, smile at the latter's sourness, tell him to brace up and then go dancing to his work. A world with nothing but good stomachs in it would be a great world indeed.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Peep-holes.

"I wisht I wuz President o' de Lumber Trust," said Jimmy, "an' de baseball managers had ter come ter me fur de boards fur deir fences."

"Why?" asked Tommy.

"Why, I would'n' sell dem a bloomin' board dat didn't have a knot-hole in it."

A Benefactor.

Weary Walker—Sawin' up wood fur kindlin'! I'm ashamed o' yer!

Ragson Tatters—Aw, g'on! dis is locust-wood.

Weary Walker—Wat's dat got to do wid it?

Ragson Tatters—Why, yer chump! dis is de kind o' wood dat policemen's clubs is made out of.

Rough Treatment.

"You told me you were going to propose to her. Did you do it?"

"Yes, and she took for me for a walk—"

"Ah, to talk it over?"

"You misunderstood me. I say she took me for a walk—I mean she treated me as if I were something to walk upon."

CHAPTER XXII.

THE DRAMA UNROLLS.

It is half after eight; the curtain rises; the music of a violin is heard coming from the music-room: Col. Annesley is discovered sitting in front of the wood fire, his chin sunk on his breast, his hands hanging listlessly on each side of the chair, his face deeply lined. From time to time he looks at the clock. I can imagine no sorrier picture than that of this loving, tender-hearted, wretched old man as he sits there, waiting for Karloff and the ignominious end. Fortune gone with the winds, poverty leering into his face, shame drawing her red fingers across his brow, honor in sackcloth and ashes!

And but two short years ago there had not been in all the wide land a more contented man than himself, a man with a conscience freer. God! Even yet he could hear the rolling, whirring ivory ball as it spun the circle of that fatal night at Monte Carlo. Man does not recall the intermediate steps of his fall, only the first step and the last. In his waking hours the colonel always heard the sound of it, and it rattled through his troubled dreams. He could not understand how everything had gone as it had. It seemed impossible that in two years he had dissipated a fortune, sullied his honor, beggared his child. It was all so like a horrible dream. If only he might wake; if only God would be so merciful as to permit him to wake! He hid his face. There is no hell save conscience makes it.

The music laughed and sighed and laughed. It was the music of love and youth; joyous, rollicking, pulsing music.

The colonel sprang to his feet suddenly, his hands at his throat. He was suffocating. The veins gnarled on his neck and brow. There was in his heart a pain as of many knives. His arms fell: of what use was it to struggle? He was caught, trapped in a net of his own contriving.

Softly he crossed the room and stood by the portiere beyond which was the music-room. She was happy, happy in her youth and ignorance! she could play all those sprightly measures, her spirit as light and conscience-free; she could sing, she could laugh, she could dance. And all the while his heart was breaking, breaking!

"How shall I face her mother?" he groaned.

The longing which always seizes the guilty to confess and relieve the mind came over him. If only he dared rush in there, throw himself at her feet, and stammer forth his wretched tale! She was of his flesh, of his blood; when she knew she would not wholly condemn him . . . No, no! He could not. She honored and trusted him now; she had placed him on so high a pedestal that it was utterly impossible for him to disillusion her young mind, to see for ever and ever the mute reproach in her honest eyes, to feel that though his arm encircled her she was beyond his reach . . . God knew that he could not tell this child of the black gulf he had digged for himself and her.

The bell sang its buzzing note; there was the sound of crunching wheels on the driveway; the music ceased abruptly. Silence. A door opened and closed. A moment or so later Karloff, preceded by the girl, came into the study. She was grave because she remembered Mrs. Chadwick. He was grave also; he had various reasons for being so.

"Father, the count tells me that he has an engagement with you," she said. She wondered if this appointment in any way concerned her.

"It is true, my child. Leave us and give orders that we are not to be disturbed."

She scrutinized him sharply. How strangely hollow his voice sounded! Was he ill?

"Father, you are not well. Count, you must promise me not to keep him long, however important this interview may be. He is ill and needs rest,"—and her loving eyes caressed each line of care in her parent's furrowed cheeks.

Annesley smiled reassuringly. It took all the strength of his will, all that remained of a high order of courage, to create this smile. He wanted to cry out to her that it was a lie, a mockery. Behind that smile his teeth grated.

"I shall not keep him long, Mademoiselle," said the count. He spoke gently, but he studiously avoided her eyes.

She hesitated for a moment on the threshold; she knew not why. Her lips even formed words, but she did not speak. What was it? Something oppressed her. Her gaze wandered indecisively from her father to the count, from the count to her father.

"When you are through," she finally said, "bring your cigars into the music-room."

"With the greatest pleasure, Mademoiselle," replied the count. "And play, if you so desire; our business is such that your music will be as a pleasure added."

Her father nodded; but he could not force another smile to his lips. The brass rings of the portiere rattled, and she was gone. But she left behind a peculiar tableau, a tableau such as is formed by those who stand upon ice which is about to sink and engulf them.

The two men stood perfectly still. I doubt not that each experienced the same sensation, that the same thought occurred to each mind, though it came from different avenues: love and shame. The heart of the little clock on the mantel beat tick-tock, tick-tock; a log crackled and fell between the irons sending up a shower of evanescent sparks; one of the long windows giving out upon the veranda creaked mysteriously.

Karloff was first to break the spell. He made a gesture which was eloquent of his distaste of the situation.

"Let us terminate this as quickly as possible," he said.

"Yes, let us have done with it before I lose my courage," replied the colonel, his voice thin and quavering. He wiped his forehead with his handkerchief. His hand shone white and his nails darkly blue.

The count stepped over to the table, reached into the inner pocket of his coat, and extracted a packet. In this packet was the enormous sum of $180,000 in notes of $1,000 denomination: that is to say, 180 slips of paper redeemable in gold by the government which had issued them. On top of this packet lay the colonel's note for $90,000.

(It is true that Karloff never accepted money from his government in payment for his services; but it is equally true that for every penny he laid out he was reimbursed by Russia.)

Karloff placed the packet on the table, first taking off the note, which he carelessly tossed beside the banknotes.

"You will observe that I have not bothered with having your note discounted. I have fulfilled my part of the bargain; fulfill yours." The count thrust his trembling hands into his trousers pockets. He desired to hide this embarrassing sign from his accomplice. Annesley went to a small safe which stood at the left of the fireplace and returned with a packet somewhat bulkier than the count's. He dropped it beside the money, shudderingly, as though he had touched a poisonous viper.

"My honor," he said simply. "I had never expected to sell it so cheap."

There was a pause, during which neither man's gaze swerved from the other's. There was not the slightest, not even the remotest, fear of treachery; each man knew with whom he was dealing; yet there they stood, as if fascinated. One would have thought that the colonel would have counted his money, or Karloff his plans; they did neither. Perhaps the colonel wanted Karloff to touch the plans first, before he touched the money; perhaps Karloff had the same desire, only the other way around.

The colonel spoke.

"I believe that is all," he said quietly. The knowledge that the deed was done and that there was no retreat gave back to him a particle of his former coolness and strength of mind. It had been the thought of committing the crime that had unnerved him. Now that his bridges were burned, a strange, unnatural calm settled over him.

The count evidently was not done. He moistened his lips. There was a dryness in his throat.

"It is not too late," he said; "I have not yet touched them."

"We shall not indulge in moralizing, if you please," interrupted the colonel, with savage irony. "The moment for that has gone by."

A LETTER ALL WOMEN SHOULD READ.

"My Bissell sweeper is one of the treasures of my home. Two years ago I was an invalid, making sweeping and dusting duties to be dreaded. Reading about the Bissell sweeper, I concluded to buy one, and feel it my duty to tell you how greatly pleased I am with it. I can do my sweeping now in much less time, and without fatigue, and don't have to use the dust pan or duster. The sweeper gives a gratifying freshness to my carpets, and with no dust settling back upon draperies or curtains, or carrying disease to the household, I look upon the Bissell sweeper as a priceless invention. I would not be without one for four times the price."

We have received thousands of letters of this tenor from users of our sweepers throughout the world.

An After-Dinner Story.

THE GONDOLIER.

"But you must be crazy, Antonio!" cried the innkeeper with a cruel laugh. "Who told you that I have raised and educated Maria only to make her unhappy afterward?"

"Can't you see that I love her?"

"Bah!"

"Can't you see that life will be a torture to me without her?"

"Yes, I understand life will be a torture for you without her—and her money, eh?"

"Varetti!" cried the young gondolier, his face flushed with anger. "Varetti, you insult me!"

"Pooh! pooh! my young friend," he said, "I can see that you have lost your mind."

"But I love Maria, Varetti, I swear I do, and she loves me, also, I know. I am sure she loves me."

"Well, if it is true that you love her so much, why don't you try to get some money? You know I will not yield one inch. Maria is wealthy, very wealthy, you know, and I will never permit her to marry a poor man. What can you offer her? Your good gondola, eh? That's good, and then what will you do, starve to death, eh? or dissipate her fortune—this fortune that I've accumulated after so many years of hard work. That's your idea, isn't it? Well, I guess you will have to forget all about that, young man."

"You are cruel and unjust, Varetti. I really love her."

"Well, if you do, go get some money. I will not give my consent unless you bring her a dowry of at least ten thousand livres."

"But that is a great fortune, Varetti. You know that a poor gondolier like me can never get all that money together."

"Very good; then you won't marry her."

So deeply interested were the two men in their conversation that they had not noticed a young gentleman who had entered the inn and seemed to listen to them with the greatest attention.

The newcomer was scarcely 22 years old and very handsome. He had just arrived in Venice, and in his clothes, made of the finest material, could be plainly seen the marks of a long journey.

When Varetti muttered those terrible words, "Then you won't marry her," the young gentleman rose from his table and, tapping Antonio on the shoulder, said:

"Gondolier, cheer up! Maria will be yours."

The unhappy lover turned, looked at him in astonishment and exclaimed:

"Impossible! Her father will never give his consent unless I can procure myself 10,000 livres. I know him too well."

"Never mind that," replied the young gentleman. "You will get your 10,000 livres and marry her."

"But how will I ever get so much money? Are you going to give it to me?"

The newcomer smiled.

"No, my friend," he said. "To be sure I have no money myself—but wait. Give me a sheet of paper and a pencil—that's it. Thank you."

The young gentleman sat again at his table and proceeded to draw a hand.

But what a hand!

It was so perfect, so artistic, so real, that even the poor gondolier uttered a cry:

"My God!" he exclaimed. "What a wonderful hand! It is almost human."

"Very well," replied the artist. "Take it to the palace of Cardinal De Morelli and tell him that the artist who drew this hand wants to sell it for 10,000 livres."

The innkeeper laughed.

"There is another crazy one," he said. "Why, I would not give one livre for that drawing."

Antonio left the house and ran to the palace.

One hour later he returned, his face flushed with emotion.

He carried a heavy bag of gold.

"Here's the money," he cried. "I've counted; there are 10,000 livres." The Cardinal was astonished and told me: "Tell the artist who drew this hand that I am sending him the money and that I wish he would come to see me."

"Very well; I knew he would say that," answered the artist. And he arose and prepared to leave.

"Wait, wait!" said Antonio, "what should I do with all this money?"

"Why, keep it, my friend, it is yours."

The gondolier fell on his knees before his benefactor.

Maria took his hand and kissed it.

"Your name, your name!" cried Antonio. "Tell me your name that I may worship it as that of my good angel!"

"Well," replied the artist, "if you are so anxious to know I will tell you who I am."

He paused for a moment and then said:

"I am a poor artist and my name is Rafael-Tanzio d'Urbino."—Exchange.

DIAMOND DUST.

"Lou" Wiltse visits the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium every day and keeps in condition by playing basketball.

Newberry, the former star pitcher for the Lafayette College team, has signed to play with the Catasauqua, Pa., team this season.

With a well organized baseball association here the attendance at the games will be larger and greater interest will be shown in the game.

Umpire Merity will be just as popular this year as ever. Jack has the happy faculty of giving just decisions and backing them up if necessary.

George Wiltse, one of the best pitchers with the New York Nationals, is now in the best condition and gives promise of making "Christy" Mathewson hustle before the coming season.

Manager Daab plans to open the local season on Saturday, May 5, with the All-Cubans, the fastest team that ever appeared on the local diamond. This should be a strong opening game.

The Tri-State League will open on April 26 and it promises to be the best in the history of the league. Several managers have been able to recruit big league material, which means fast ball.

If "Teddy" Shortman makes good as a fielder on the Plainfield team, and it is believed that he will, he is sure to be very popular. "Teddy" used to play good ball for the Hope Y. M. A., and was a favorite.

Pitcher McCabe, who expected to pitch in Plainfield last year, but who afterwards signed with Holyoke, will return to the Massachusetts town this season. Lancaster was after him, but could not get his signature.

Don't forget the meeting of the Plainfield Baseball Association at the Hotel Iroquois tonight at 8 o'clock. All the fans will be there to give the new organization a boost. Subscriptions to stock are coming in every day and it is up to every fan to help a little.

Six policemen to maintain order at Crescent Oval during a baseball game is amusing, when one considers the class of people that patronize the game. Westfield had one officer throughout last season and there was only one occasion at Westfield and Plainfield when the police were really needed.

Jenkins; second vice president, Mrs. Peter Latourette; financial secretary, Mrs. Gibson Smith; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Joseph W. Gavett; treasurer, Mrs. John Schenck; secretary of literature, Mrs. William Demarest.

Reports for the year were presented and showed that the organization has been doing a good work. At the close of the business session, the president, Mrs. Honeyman, was presented with a handsome souvenir quilt. It contained seventy-two blocks, each one made by a member of the society and bearing her initials in the corner. The gift came as a great surprise to Mrs. Honyman, but she warmly thanked the donors. Refreshments were served and a social hour was enjoyed before adjournment.

SOME PSYCHOLOGY FOR HIGH SCHOOL MOTHERS.

Second Meeting Addressed by Miss Chadbourne Yesterday.

Miss Elizabeth Chadbourne, of this city ,addressed the newly organized Mothers' Association at the new High School, Arlington avenue and Ninth street, yesterday afternon, on "Psychology." She dwelt on the development of child nature.

Meetings of the association will be held once a month. The association's object is the advancement of child training. It is non-sectarian and every mother, whether she has a child in the High School or not, is eligible to membership. Mrs. William Sanford, of Second place, is president. Mrs. J. W. Travell is secretary of the association.

Much interest is being manifested in the organization among mothers of High School pupils. Forty matrons were present at the meeting yesterday.

BLACKLIST IN FORCE.

Coal Dealers Find "Dead Beat" Scheme Works Well.

The local coal dealers who recently formed a protective association to escape alleged "dead beats" have received a copy of the "blacklist" and ar esupposed to follow the rules of the association. If a person owes one or more dealers the other members of the association are pledged not to sell him coal unless he first settles his old bills.

The scheme has been in operation a few weeks and is said to work well. It is reported that a number of delinquents, finding it impossible to get coal, have settled their old scores and been restored to the list of those who are considered "good credit."

Juvenile Court.

Before the Juvenile Court in Elizabeth, Wednesday, five Plainfield boys will be arraigned. Chris Eskesen, Frank Peterson, James Coleman, Edward Petersen and Edward Linzer, charged with stealing bread, are the defendants. They are accused of having made systematic raids on George Voehl's bakery, West Front street. Capt. Erwin, of the probation officer's staff, was in the city this morning to look after youthful offenders, but he had only reports on his hands. There were no cases.

Rev. Washington Choate Coming.

Smalley to Take His Place as Vice President—Runyon to Attend Meeting Tonight.

The list of subscribers to stock for the Plainfield Baseball Association is steadily growing and the interest in the proposition increasing. City Judge William N. Runyon, who has accepted the presidency of the association, will be present at the meeting tonight, and it is probable that Mayor N. B. Smalley will be chosen vice president to succeed Andrew McCardell, who has signified his intention not to interest himself in the association.

The bishop then addressed the class of nine probationers, after asking them the usual questions. He urged them to be punctual at their church meetings so that their parishioners would be able to set their clocks by their arriving.

He also spoke of a Godly man once asking him early in his ministry if he had the mark of the beast on his forehead, and, when pressed for an explanation, said such a mark was to have the hair brushed up in front and slicked back on one side. He said he gave the probationers this for what it was worth.

A RACE-HATRED PROTEST

Rev. H. C. Ashley Says no Negro Should Attend "The Clansman" Performance.

INDIGNANT OVER IT

Pastor Declares That Self-Respecting Colored People Will Keep Away From Show Booked for March 30.

That "The Clansman" will be greeted here in much the same way that its initial performance was received in New York is evident from the feeling among members of the colored race. When the show was put on at the Liberty theatre, in New York, there was a storm of protest against it and on one or two occasions, its author, Rev. Thomas Dixon, narrowly escaped being assaulted. Not until he applied to the police department for protection did he feel safe in going about the streets as he pleased. Whether he will come here personally with his show is not known.

Rev. H. C. Ashley, pastor of Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, is one of the representative negroes of the city who is outspoken against the play. He lived among the Klu Klux clansmen when the bitterness was the most intense and says he knows what it means to live where there is race hatred. In speaking of the coming production, Rev. Dr. Ashley said to a Daily Press reporter today:

"I think that no self-respecting negro should attend the performance of 'The Clansman.' I do not think my people ought to patronize a show that has for its moral 'race hatred.' Stirring up this racial matter can do no good to anyone and is harmful both to the individual and the State. What the intelligent and self-respecting negro wants to see is the uplifting of his race and he is opposed to making the narrow and uncalled bitterness against the black people any more intense. I hope no colored man will go near the Plainfield theatre on March 30, when that show is parading its dangerous teachings."

T. H. Bridges, of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, is another colored man who deprecates the fact that Manager Counihan has given the play a date at his house. Mr. Bridges says: "The colored people won't resort to violence, but they don't like to see such a thing as 'The Clansman.' It's a wrong thing to have such a show and I don't think it ought to be allowed. No decent colored man will go to see it."

H. L. Chase, secretary of the Church of God, colored, said today that his church takes no notice of such men as Thomas Dixon. "We ignore him and his books altogether for he can't hurt or benefit the colored race. Of course I am opposed to that play being produced here but it won't harm anybody."

MISSIONARY RAISES $500 ON A APPEAL

REV. DR. CHOATE'S PROFITABLE TALK TO CONGREGATIONALISTS.

Rev. Dr. Washington Choate, of New York, secretary of the Congregational Home Missionary Society, occupied the pulpit at the Congregational church, yesterday morning, when a special effort was made to secure funds for this work. As a result of his appeal $500 was subscribed by the members of the church.

Dr. Choate gave an outline of what the Congregational home mission work has done for the country from its inception and of the effect and influence of it in the home and the church. He gave an exceedingly clear idea of the work in the home field and his remarks encouraged those who heard him to contribute liberally toward the enterprise.

Last night Dr. Choate addressed the young people of the church, telling them what they can do toward helping the cause of home missions. He also told what has already been done by the Congregational young people throughout the country.

4TH JR. O.U.A.M. COUNCIL

Plainfield Council Title of Organization to be Instituted Here Next Month.

PLANS ARE ALL MADE

State Officers to Be Present at Ceremony on April 23—Charter Member Signers Obtained.

Plans are underway for the institution of a new council, Jr. O. U. A. M., in this city, and invitations have been issued by a committee comprising Peter H. Bennett and Daniel Van Winkle for a public meeting to be held in Junior Hall on Monday night, April 9, at which time J. Morgan Reed and State Council Secretary W. H. Meier will be among the speakers. It is proposed to institute the new council on Monday night, April 23. The name chosen for the new organization is Plainfield Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., and meetings will be held every Monday night at Junior Hall.

The required number of signers, twenty-five, has been secured for the charter list and the committee is now perfecting the organization. It is announced that thus far not a single member has been secured from either Franklin, Somerset or Benevolent councils, and it is proposed to recruit members from outside those councils.

One of the features of the new council will be the funeral benefit rate. It is proposed to give the members the choice of three rates, $750, $500 or $250. They can choose either one and pay accordingly. The sick benefits will be the same as in other councils, $5 a week for thirteen weeks.

While the committee in charge declare that it does not intend to draw from the other three councils, the move has naturally stirred up some opposition, but it is not likely that any concerted action will be taken to prevent the institution of the new council. It is maintained that there is room here for a fourth council, that there are many here who do not belong to either one of the three councils, and who are willing to join the ne worganization. It is on this basis that the new council is being formed.

BALL FUND NEAR $1,100

Judge W.N. Runyon is Chosen President and Mayor N. B. Smalley Vice.

THE FIRST GAME, MAY 5

Executive Committee Named—List of New Subscribers to the Association's Stock.

Manager Philip Daab and his fast team of baseball players will represent Plainfield on the diamond this season. This was practically assured at a meeting of the Plainfield Baseball Association Saturday night at the Hotel Iroquois, when the committee of twenty reported that nearly $1,100 has already been subscribed by the fans of the city for the support of the game here. The announcement was received with considerable enthusiasm and the committee decided to continue its work with more determination than ever until the necessary amount is subscribed and collected.

Owing to a previous engagement Manager Daab found it impossible to attend the meeting, but he sent a letter expressing his pleasure over what has already been done and his confidence that the coming season will be a successful one. He said that he had received sufficient assurance to go ahead and sign his players and arrange his schedule for the season. The opening game will be on Saturday, May 5, with the All-Cubans, and fandom is already anxious for the initial contest.

City Judge William N. Runyon was at the meeting and was elected president of the association. Mayor Newton B. Smalley, who has filled that position temporarily, was chosen vice-president, in place of Andrew McCardell, who expressed himself as not being interested in the association or the game here. In Mr. Daab's letter he said that he would be in Plainfield this week to arrange for the transfer of legal papers and other documents to the association and suggested that a committee be appointed to receive the same and arrange further details in forming the partnership between himself and the organization.

An executive committee was then appointed as follows: President William N Runyon; vice-president, Newton B. Smalley; Charles W. Runyon, George Voehl and Walter C. Dobbins. Other committees will be appointed at the next meeting of the association on Saturday night at the Iroquois Hotel.

There was a discussion as to the lease of Crescent Oval and the right of way there from Randolph road. It was stated that the lease runs for another years and that the right of way will be continued for that length of time. There was also some talk about enclosing the outfield from first to third base and setting apart room for autos and carriages, so that there would be no confusion in entering or leaving the grounds. These matters will be taken up by the grounds committee.

Charles A. Sturtevant, chairman of the committee, announced that up to the present time shares amounting to over $1,000 had been reported sold and several members of the committee were yet to be heard from, which would aggregate over $1,100.

Mayor Smalley then addressed the meeting. He said that he had been led to take an interest because he thought the national game should be supported and encouraged in this city. He considered it the leading sport and said that both business men as well as those in private life should not hesitate to contribute their little share toward it.

"We had the best article of baseball here last season under the management of Manager Daab, and we want the same kind this year," continued the Mayor. "I am well pleased with the past week's work and believe that at the end of another week there will be a showing of $1,500 or over. I hear that there is a little friction as to the success of this organization, but if we ignore this it will soon die out. We must forget it and work along the right lines, do everything on the level and in the open and we will win out.

"We are sure of having a good team here this season, and as Somerville gives promise of having a strong aggregation, exciting contests should be witnessed between these nines. We must put people on record in asking them to subscribe to shares of stock. The average man who cannot subscribe $5 toward this sport is lacking in public spirit."

The Mayor then announced that the association stock would be nonassessable, and his suggestion that a number of letters, signed by the president, be prepared and sent to persons who cannot be seen personally was adopted. These letters will be sent out this week. Other details regarding the preliminary work were decided upon, after which the meet-

FORMER PLAINFIELD GIRL TO BE A PRIMA DONNA

MISS JOSEPHINE SCHAFFER WILL MAKE DEBUT IN "SARONNA."

Miss Josephine Schaffer, the former Plainfield young woman who has been winning laurels for herself as a member of Conried's School of Opera established in connection with the Metropolitan Opera Company, is soon to make her debut as a prima donna. She will appear in Le Grand Howland's new opera "Saronna," to be produced soon in Florence, Italy, and will be supported by many singers of note.

Miss Schaffer's success has been almost phenomenal and she is now one of America's best known young singers. She has been appearing in various operas at the Metropolitan in the past two seasons, and exceptional praise has been accorded her. There is but little doubt that she will be classed among the leading prima donnas within a few years.

While in Plainfield Miss Schaffer lived with her father at Liberty and Fourth streets, where he conducted a grocery. He is now a resident of Brooklyn, but both he and his daughter make frequent visits to this city when her studies will permit.

JR. O. U. A. M. FAIR OPENS AUSPICIOUSLY

RECEIPTS OF THE BOX OFFICE ON FIRST NIGHT FLATTERING.

The Jr. O. U. A. M. fair, under the combined auspices of Franklin and Somerset Councils, opened with a great rush of business Saturday night. Between 450 and 500 people attended it during the night, and the receipts at the box office and the refreshment booths were of a character to start gentle and carefree smiles on the faces of the joint general committee.

The fair is being held in Company K armory, West Front street. It will continue nightly, until after next Saturday. The armory is gayly decorated with flags.

Dancing was the feature Saturday night. Suhr's orchestra furnished good music, and the couples got as much fun out of whirling as was possible with momentary bumps from other dancers in the game. John Bicknell was floor manager.

Illustrated songs and shadow dances will be on the entertainment bill this week. Tomorrow night, Eddie Weston, of the Haviland song publishing house, will be the star.

The general committee is made up as follows: Clarence Bilyeu, chairman; O. R. Pearson, G. M. Townley, John Bicknell, Harry Winn, Fred Winn, Edward Nelson; Foster Hartpence, secretary, all of Franklin Council; P. H. LaTourette, treasurer; F. L. Soper, Jr., C. Frank Hulit, G. B. Allen, W. G. Creveling, J. Arthur Dow, F. G. Welsh, all of Somerset Council. Roy DeCamp and William Firstbrook assisted the committee Saturday night. The attractions are in charge of the following: Fancy booth, F. L. Soper, Jr., Mrs. P. H. LaTourette, Mrs. William G. Creveling, and Mrs. W. C. Walker; soda water booth, W. G. Creveling and Fred Welsh; cake and ice cream booth, Harry Winn, Mrs. Harry Winn and Mrs. Fred Winn.

RECITAL BY PUPILS OF MISS MAY WHITNEY.

One of Them Played Composition Studied Silently.

An informal but exceedingly interesting musicale was given Saturday afternoon by a few of the pupils of Miss May Vincent Whitney at her studios in the Babcock building. One of the most interesting features of the occasion was the playing by Miss Frances Rittenhouse of a composition of Reinberger memorized on the clavier and played on that instrument, and then for the first time on the piano.

Those of the audience who heard these pupils in a recital given a year ago were impressed to an even greater degree with their ability, their careful training and the intelligent rendering of the programme: Fantasie in D Minor, by Mozart, Miss Helen George; Preamble, by J. S. Bach, Miss Muriel Collins; "The Chase," by Reinberger, Miss Frances Rittenhouse; "Pastorale Scarlatti," Miss Myra Emmons; "Pappillon," Grieg, Miss Sadie Winkler; "Pierrette Chaminade," Miss Helen George; "Impromptu in B Flat," Schubert, Miss Frances Rittenhouse; "Polonaise," Paderewski, Miss Muriel Collins; "Polonaise," Borowitz, Miss Sadie Winkler; "Valse Mystic, Wach; Overture of Faust for two pianos, Miss Whitney, Miss Biglow.

A second recital will be given next Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

KEYS CHOSEN PRESIDENT

North Plainfield Contest Furnishes Excitement at Somerset Co. Committee.

D. J. Carney Produces Letter From R. V. Lindabury Supporting His Position—Linbarger Makes a Claim.

The meeting of the Somerset County Democratic Executive Committee in the Democratic Club rooms at Somerville Saturday afternoon would have been quite a peaceful affair had not the old quarrel over the membership from the Second district in North Plainfield borough caused the dove of peace to fly away and leave the combatants to fight it out. Former Senator William J. Keys, of Bridgewater township, was unanimously chosen county chairman to succeed Jacob Shurts, who resigned some time ago.

At the Democratic convention last fall three of the four delegates from North Plainfield's two districts were there by proxy. When it became necessary to name members of the Executive Committee, Lorenzo D. Townley was nominated from the Second district by the proxy delegates. Walter C. Linbarger disputed their right to name his successor, declaring their standing in the convention was by proxy only, and that the regularly elected delegates had the right to choose the member of the Executive Committee. He further declared the elected delegates had agreed on his reappointment to the committee.

On Saturday afternoon Linbarger presented affidavits from the two elected delegates from his, the Second district, declaring that he was their choice for member from that precinct, and he also declared he did not see how it could possibly be right for the members from the First district of North Plainfield to have any voice in the matter. He referred to a resolution offered in the convention by Eugene D. Latourette, of Bound Brook, to the effect that the matter be left with the duly elected delegates, and claimed his seat.

D. J. Carney, the party leader in North Plainfield borough and the committeeman from the First district, vigorously opposed Linbarger. He said the people who represented North Plainfield borough at the convention left with the understanding that, acting on the advice of Richard V. Lindabury, of Newark, who gave his opinion there, the names chosen by the delegates in the convention that day for members of the County Committee were the proper ones, and that while not strictly confining to the new law, it was following out practice and the precedent of the past.

Mr. Carney said he had written to Mr. Lindabury to see if his understanding of the matter was not right, and received a reply, which he read. In it Mr. Lindabury said: "The view which I took at the Somerset County convention last fall was that the gentlemen who appeared there with proxies had presented those proxies to the committee on credentials; that the committee had accorded seats to those proxies, and that they were therefore to be recognized as the delegates from North Plainfield for all purposes. Such being the case, I thought that their selection for members of the County Executive Committee should be recognized the same as in other cases.

"My idea was that the convention ought not to have taken upon itself in the way that it was then asked to do to determine whether or not the representatives from North Plainfield were duly accredited. That matter, I thought, should have been fought out before the committee on credentials and not brought at all before the convention, except by way of appeal from the committee's action."

After Carney had finished reading he made a passionate appeal to have Townley seated, but the committee did not see fit to take any action in the matter and the contestants were ordered to desist by Chairman Shurts, who was still acting, for harmony's sake. It is very probable nothing will be done until next fall, when a new committee is appointed, when, according to a Democratic leader, someone outside of the Linbarger and Townley factions will be given the seat from the Second district of the borough of North Plainfield.

Lupardus Moore was re-elected secretary by acclamation.

FIFTY YEARS MARRIED

The Golden Anniversary Observed Saturday by Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Young.

RECEIVED MANY GIFTS

The Celebrants Leave Today on the Same Trip As Taken on Their Honeymoon—Were Wedded at Albany.

Rounding out fifty years of happy, married life, former Mayor and Mrs. Thomas S. Young, of Fanwood, observed the event by holding a golden wedding anniversary at their home on Forrest avenue, Saturday night. With relatives and friends gathered about them they participated in the affair as though the half century ended had just commenced. Congratulations were extended repeatedly and they had to submit to all the gibes and jokes that generally fall to the lot of a bride and groom.

In the early part of the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Young were "married" again, the supposed ceremony being performed by Thomas J. Nicholl, of Scotch Plains. It was observed with every detail surrounding a nuptial event and a collation was served at the close, just as is done in present day affairs. There were several features of the gathering arranged that neither celebrant knew anything about and among them was the presentation of several handsome gifts. Mr. Young is a member of the New York Produce Exchange and from some of his colleagues he received a handsome loving cup engraved with the dates 1856-1906 and the following inscription: "Presented to T. S. Young on the fiftieth anniversary of his wedding by a few of his friends of the New York Produce Exchange, March 18, 1906."

During the "reminiscent" social period, vocal selections were given by Miss Edna Nichol, accompanied by her sister, Miss Florence Nichol, and there were short addresses by relatives. The home was attractively decorated with palms, plants and ferns. Today Mr. and Mrs. Young departed on a trip that will include all the points stopped at on their wedding tour, among them New York, Philadelphia and Washington, though the time consumed in doing so will be very much less, the travelling facilities then being carried on under difficulties.

Among the guests in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Bettman, Freeholder and Mrs. S. P. T. Wilbur, and daughter, Miss Louise F. Wilbur, Mr. and Mrs. George D. Hallock, Mr. and Mrs. William VanAlstyne and Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Moore, of this city; Mr. and Mrs. Corry Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Connell, of Newark; Mr. and Mrs. J. Lowery VanDyke, of Westfield; Thomas Brooksby, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Horace G. Young, and daughter, Miss Frances Young, C. A. Bettman, Miss Carrie Bettman and Miss Louise Bettman, of Fanwood; B. B. Tatham, of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Nicholl, the Misses Edna, Louise and Florence Nicholl, Mrs. Tappan Townsend, Stephen S. Townsend and Miss Lydia Townsend, of Scotch Plains. Before parting, each guest left his autographs upon a golden wedding sofa pillow cover.

Mr. and Mrs. Young, the latter being Miss Wilbur, were married at Albany, N. Y., March 18, 1856, by Judge Roberson. The only guests in attendance who were at the anniversary were Mrs. J. M. Bettman and Freeholder Wilbur, brother and sister of the bride, Freeholder Wilbur being but a very small boy. In 1872 Mr. and Mrs. Young settled in Fanwood and ever since he has been identified with every movement which has been for the best interests of the township or borough. When the agitation began a few years ago to set the borough aside from the township, he was one of the prime movers and was made the first mayor. He is often referred to as "The Father of the Borough" because of his untiring work at the time. After stepping from the executive chair he served in other offices and to this day never fails to respond to the citizens' calls. He is now a member of the Common Council and the affairs of Fanwood are attended to with as much care as though they were his own private matters. He has been a member of the New York Produce Exchange for forty years and is to be seen on the floor any day hustling

FRIENDLY SONS BANQUET

Father Bogan Makes Informal Remarks Before Assemblage Addressed by Governor.

STOKES IS HUMOROUS

Rev. Dr. Otis A. Glazebrook Among the Speakers—Annual Affair at Elizabeth.

Rev. B. M. Bogan, Mayor James F. Buckle, Chief of Police P. S. Kiely, Amos Andrews, George J. Tobin and Charles M. Ward were among the Plainfielders who attended the banquet of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick in the Y. M. C. L. A. Hall, Elizabeth, Saturday night. Father Bogan was called upon for a speech, but confined hmiself to a few informal remarks.

Governor Erward Caspar Stokes was the principal speaker. Others who responded to toasts were Rev. Dr. Otis A. Glazebrook, William A. Pendergast, William P. Cantwell, Colonel Charles W. Fuller.

The remarks of Governor Stokes were replete with humor and won hearty applause. When the toastmaster, W. Charles Matlack, introduced the chief executive, he told him that the Sons of St. Patrick elected him to membership.

"Then," exclaimed the Governor, glancing at the liquid refreshment with a sly look, "I can thank you for my present condition. A great many other orga. tations claim to have elected me, bu' I now perceive their claims were fals.."

Colonel Dennis . Collins, who introduced the toast. aster, had said that Governor Stokes' administration was one of the best the State had ever konwn.

"I am gratified to know that," said the Governor, referring to this remark, "and I may incidentally state that Colonel Collins is the heavy end of that administration."

The colonel is a man of great avoirdupois. The allusion raised a great laugh.

"There are three occasions in the calendar year," continued the speaker, "when the people of this country offer up homage on the aftar of indigestion: the birthday of Lincoln, the birthday of Washington, and the birthday of one who assumed the greatest role of all three—that of freeing Ireland from sinners."

The Governor then traced America's achievements in late years and advocated a policy of caution, that her future might be secure.

FRANK SULLIVAN GETS A LESSON FROM COURT.

Judge Runyon Gives Him a Scare Sentence as a Warning.

Frank Sullivan, the young man who appeared against Gus Sutterlein in the city court Saturday morning to press a complaint growing out of an unprovoked assault on him with a beer bottle, was before Judge Runyon again this morning. Patrolmen McKeon and Messler got Sullivan on Front street Saturday night, loaded to the gunwales.

Sullivan told the magistrate that he got drunk to drown his memory of the fracas of Friday night and its consequences. The judge shook his head gently.

"I don't like this quick return, Sullivan," he said. "It can't be explained away properly; $5 and twenty days."

Sullivan was the picture of consuming regret when Doorman McCue led him away. Some time this afternoon the magistrate will remit the twenty days. It was only intended as a shocker. Two hours after court adjourned Sullivan looked as if the lesson was taking well.

"CONJUNCTION" GOES TO JAIL FOR 30 DAYS.

This Time for Whacking Colored Girl who Wouldn't Spoon.

"Conjunction" Jones made his seventh appearance in the city court since January1 this morning. Maggie Kenny, a fourteen-year-old colored girl, had him arrested Saturday afternoon on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Maggie says "Conjunction" tried to make her sit on the lap of a boozy friend at her home on West Third street last Friday, and whacked her on the head when she refused to spoon. She tried to show Judge Runyon a bruise under her eye, but the magistrate couldn't distinguish between the bruise and the natural blackness surrounding it.

"Conjunction" made an impassioned denial of the charge.

"No gen'leman would do what this lady say ah do," he protested.

The judge couldn't see the force of his argument and made it thirty days straight.

Friendship Lodge, Daughters of Rebekah, will meet tomorrow night and initiate several new members. There will also be social features.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

This locality figures largely in the Freeholders' plans for road repairs in the spring. Six hundred tons of crushed stone will be spread on the Stelton-New Market road; 250 tons on the Dunellen-Bound Brook road; 200 tons on the Oak Tree-Metuchen road; 600 tons on Park avenue. Garretson & Gray will get a big slice of the contract.

One of the minor worriments of William Dealaman's life these days is the breaking of a streak of balkiness that his fast mare has developed. The mare has Fred Touzeau, who sometimes drives her, completely buffaloed.

A large delegation from the Holy Name Society of St. John's church attended the rally at St. Joseph's church, Bound Brook, last night. They heard a fine address from Mgr. O'Grady, of New Brunswick.

"The Intercession of Christ" was Rev. S. K. Doolittle's subject yesterday morning at the Methodist Episcopal church. He preached on "The Peril of Neglecting Salvation" in the evening.

Walter Blair has agreed to a settlement of his claim for damages against the railroad, resulting from a bridge accident last year. The settlement was very satisfactory.

Assemblyman Drake has introduced just one bill this session. That is the South Plainfield borough measure. It doesn't look very much as if it would pass.

Mrs. John Doty was buried yesterday afternoon. The funeral was held from the house, at 2 o'clock. The body was interred in South Plainfield.

A. Freeman is rapidly recovering from the affects of the injuries he received last week by a fall from a car in Newark.

Miss Verna Naughright, of Middle Valley, has returned home after a several days' stay with Mrs. A. A. Gray.

The March dues will be posted as delinquent by the B. and L. society unless paid by tonight.

Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Nelson are entertaining Miss Nelson, of Philadelphia, for a few days.

Miss Mabel Cole returned today from a several days' stay with friends in Paterson.

C. T. Rogers & Co. have just secured a 400-ton contract for coal in Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Campbell will entertain the Study Class tomorrow night.

John Tinsman has recovered from a brief illness.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

No arrests have yet been made by the local police of the parties who broke into Frank Anson's candy and cigar store Wednesday night of last week, as told in Saturday's Daily Press. Circumstantial evidence points to certain parties and arrests may be made at any time, as the residents are aroused at the narrow escape the town had from a very serious fire. It is now believed that the setting fire to the old papers was purely an accident, due to the carelessness of the thieves, in throwing down a burning match. The match landing in the orange papers started the blaze and the culprits, becoming alarmed, made a hasty exit without waiting to pick up the cigars and other things set aside to carry away with them. The only thing that saved the building from catching fire was the fact that the loose orange papers being so light quickly burned out before igniting the woodwork.

The annual school meeting will be held tomorrow night in the assembly room of the school. Three trustees are to be elected, and appropriations for the year will be voted upon. The amounts recommended by the Board of Education are: Tuition pupils in adjoining districts, $500; repairs to building, $300; books, $50; current expenses, salaries, etc., $4,450.

The usual "honk, honk" of the automobile was missed yesterday, the slushy streets making automobiling anything but a pleasure. Sleighing was poor, but few sleighs being out. The present weather will soon remove the snow and some of the residents are predicting that spring will arrive at the usual time.

Some of the local lovers of baseball are taking stock in the Plainfield Baseball Association. A good thing. Let other cranks fall in line.

The regular monthly meeting of Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company will be held tonight in the company rooms.

James Hunt, who has been ill for a week, has returned to his position as agent at the Fanwood station.

The weekly B. Y. P. U. meeting was held last night in the class rooms of the Methodist church.

Miss Josephine Ingram has returned from a visit of several days at her home in Trenton.

William Deegan is entertaining a friend from Westchester, N. Y., for a time.

Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Maury Corbin, who have been spending several weeks in Cuba, have returned to Cincinnati.

Chester See, formerly of this city, but now of Jersey City, has been spending the past few days as the guest of Harold Chandor, of East Ninth street.

Thomas Fosbre, of West Sixth street, who recently underwent the amputation of a leg at Muhlenberg Hospital, has fully recovered and will return home within a day or two.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The engagement of Kyrle Bellew in "Raffles" at the New Plainfield, has been made a certainty. He will appear on April 20 with the original New York cast.

The Benjamin Chapin production of "Lincoln," which comes to the New Plainfield next Friday night, goes into the Liberty theatre, New York, next Monday night for a run.

Exactly forty-eight people are carried by the "McFadden's Flats" company, the combination booked for Treasurer Cunningham's testimonial. Two large baggage cars are required to transport the necessary scenery and effects.

"York State Folks," to be seen here this week, is a rural drama but not of the 'b'gosh" class that has become too numerous. It is said to be one of the few of its kind that can be mentioned as worthy successors of "The Old Homestead" and "Way Down East."

Ivy Ashton Root's play, "The Greater Love," originally called "Mozart," and under which it played in this city, opens at the Madison Square theatre tonight. It has undergone considerable pruning and gives promise of proving a success. Howard Kyle is still playing the leading role.

Jerome K. Jerome, who lectured in this city last week, has been commissioned by Olga Nethersole to write a play for her next season. If the new piece pleases her she will present it for the first time in London in September and it will be her novelty during her next season's American tour.

LOCKED UP FOR CONTEMPT.

G. W. Jersey Failed to Render Account of Dead Wife's Estate.

George W. Jersey, a well-known resident of Oradell, N. J., has been locked up in the Hackensack jail for neglecting to obey an order of Judge Zabriskie to gave an accounting of his deceased wife's estate to Surrogate Pell.

About a year ago Jersey announced that burglars had robbed his house, after chloroforming him, of a gold watch and $300 he had collected that day for an insurance company. He lost his position a few days later.

Mrs. John A. Brown, of Plainfield avenue, has returned home after a two weeks' visit with her sister, Mrs. Patterson, of Woonsocket, R. I.

—There are thirty-eight patients at Muhlenberg Hospital, at present, and the past month has been a very busy one for the nurses.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Arthur Gregory, the veteran actor who has the laughable role of Ziby Tucker, the village gossip, in "York State Folks," this season enters upon his fifty-second year of stage experience. His first appearance before the footlights was as a boy of nine in a Shakespearean production at the Theatre Royal, Winchester, England, in May, 1854, and he has been in the service ever since.

Laughter as a tonic beats all the best patent medicines. It drives away dull care, chases away the blues and makes despondency look like "thirty cents." Laughter in large chunks will be on tap at the New Plainfield theatre Thursday, April 5, matinee and night, as "McFadden's Flats" will be the caper. The piece is successful because of its rapid continuity of amusing scenes and laughable situations, to say nothing of the splendid list of specialties and pretty music with its catchy swing, big chorus of vivacious maidens, comedians, dancers and singers who know how to entertain.

In Benjamin Chapin's character drama of "Lincoln," which comes to the New Plainfield theatre next Friday night, there are three historical characters who are instantly recognized by the audience as they come upon the stage. They are that of Lincoln, played by Mr. Chapin; Secretary of War Stanton, played by Francis McGinn, and General Hooker, "Fighting Joe," played by David Young. In stature and facially the resemblance is most remarkable. Indeed, the photographs of these gentlemen in their respective characters placed alongside photographs, engravings or paintings of the originals makes it seem as if the pictures of the actors were really those of the originals. These three gentlemen revealed the very greatest possibilities in the art of "make-up," but it is not their appearance upon which reliance is placed for the success of the play; it is rather that they reveal the several traits of character and the true spirit of the originals as they were developed during the crucial periods of the war as shown in the play of "Lincoln."

Kilroy & Britton's "An Aristocratic Tramp" is just the sort of a melodrama that the patrons of the New Plainfield theatre like best. The various sensational climaxes, broad comedy and a number of specialties of the play tell a story of a heavy villain, Stephen Craddock, and his efforts to secure himself in the possession of the fortune of Rose Darrington, an heiress. The plot offers opportunity for a realistic railroad scene, an automobile race in the mountains and many other features to delight the hearts of the gallery god. It will be presented tomorrow night.

Miss May VanFleet, of East Third street, has been visiting friends in Somerville.

MARCH 20th, 21st and 22d,

Our Formal Spring Opening of

Correct and Becoming Millinery

ALSO

Women's and Misses' Tailored Suits, Skirts, Coats and Shirt Waists.

Come, inspect and criticise New Jersey's most representative gathering of new and authoritative Spring models and charming styles.

NEITHER time, labor nor expense has been spared in the preparation of this display, and the result is one of the finest—if, indeed, not the very finest—collections of handsome and artistic feminine headgear and outer apparel ever assembled in Newark. We believe your judgment will sustain our contention.

The masterpieces of the ablest and most famous European milliners have been faithfully and accurately reproduced at a great saving in cost to their future owners. Inspired by the fountainhead of Fashion—Paris—our own expert designers and their able assistants have wrought many exquisite and exclusive creations that fairly rival the best productions of foreign talent.

Altogether, it is a display that will delight the eye of every admirer of the beautiful, the artistic and the becoming in women's attire.

Spring Opening.

Exposition of Spring Fashions

A Show of Finery Truly Dazzling in Its Splendor.

A Presentation of Foreign and American Models in Millinery and Costumes Such as Has Never Been Equalled by any Store in the State, Rivalling the Foremost Displays of the Metropolis.

Opening Days { Tuesday, March 20, Wednesday, March 21, Thursday, March 22, } 1906

ENTERTAIN The Most Extravagant Anticipations and we promise you you will not be disappointed with the display of Springtime Millinery and apparel which we make this week and hereafter. It is in this store that you expect to see—it is here that you do see a far greater variety of hats and fine gowns than in any other store—here, where everything is done on a large scale, where the achievement of results, the attainment of the highest standard is always first in the consideration of any plans or in the conduct of any event.

We dare to venture where ordinary stores fear to tread, thus achieving triumphs that bring renown, not only to this great store, but to this splendid State.

THE HATS.

The presentation of fashionable millinery on opening days will be such as to enthuse all who come. No other store is so well equipped as this one to make a fine show. No other millinery shop is near so large, none so perfectly lighted, none so elaborately furnished. We give our hats the setting, the environment they so richly deserve, for we believe them to be the most effectively designed and the most tastefully trimmed hats that will be seen in Newark this season.

From Paris—fountain-head of fashion—direct come many of the hats we will reveal at the opening; most of them strikingly pretty; all of them very original in design and daring in color.

Probably a thousand hats will be ready for the show, though we cannot expect to bring all of them out on a single day, vast as is our display space. You will see here more real imported Paris hats than in any other display, more medium priced hats than in any other showing.

We will make a display that will be simply unsurpassable in beauty, in completeness, in magnitude. Hats in all of the myriad new styles that have been brought out this season, in all the remarkable colorings that the new gowns will call for. The variety of shapes, the multitudinous combinations of trimming, the wonderful blending of colors will make a sight that will hold our visitors and guests for hours.

Come to the opening. Drink in the beauty which abounds on all sides.

THE GOWNS.

Our friends and patrons will surely be enraptured with the display of beautiful apparel that will be seen here tomorrow. Gowns, truly magnificent in conception and in construction—indicating unmistakably the artistic sense of the designers and the rare skill of the needle workers, showing examples of the most ambitious efforts of the premier artists in gown designing in all the world's acknowledged fashion centers, revealing dressmaking skill of the highest order.

Elaborate and charming Princess Dresses and dainty Eton effects, some of them beautifully trimmed with real lace, will be seen here in a variety that is really surprising.

Not a mere handful of suits and dresses secured solely for exhibition purposes, but a generous show of masterpieces of artist tailors and dressmakers—brought here not only that you might admire them, not only that you may get ideas for the making of gowns, but intended for sale—and we will sell them!

Our trade in the higher grades of apparel is already immense and constantly growing, encouraging us to raise our standards higher and higher.

Our opening show of gowns and wraps this Spring will be of a finer character than any that have gone before. It will set a pace for Newark and bring this store more certainly than ever up to the best metropolitan ideas.

We are sure you will be delighted with the gorgeous display of gowns and wraps.

Hahne & Co., Broad and New Sts., Newark, N. J.

Spring Millinery.

Our showing of Spring Millinery is one that will appeal to every woman who loves beautiful hats.

We are showing scores of hats of every imaginable size, shape and effect, combinations, both as to color and material, that are simply irresistible.

UNDECIDED ON SITE FOR ANNUAL CARNIVAL

TIER'S LAKE LOCATION CONSIDERED TOO SMALL FOR THE PURPOSE.

W. S. Miller, manager for the hospital carnival, and former Mayor Charles J. Fisk, held a conference on Saturday to talk over some of the details of the great show to be held here in May and June. It has not been decided yet where the carnival will be held. The grounds on the bank of Tier's Lake offers some advantages, but it is hardly thought they will be large enough to accommodate the crowds that will attend. It is quite likely that the grounds on West Fourth street will be chosen.

Manager W. J. Counihan, manager of the New Plainfield theatre, also attended the conference and at the request of Mr. Fisk he agreed to look after the bill posting for the carnival and to assist in other ways toward making the carnival a success.

The details for the carnival are rapidly being perfected and there is no doubt but that this year's affair will far exceed the one held last summer. It is planned to present many additional attractions and the whole affair will be conducted on a more elaborate scale.

KNOWLEDGE IS POWER IN FIGHTING CONSUMPTION.

First Public Meeting to Be Held at High School Tomorrow.

The public meeting in the campaign against tuberculosis will be held tomorrow night at 8:15 o'clock in the auditorium of the new Plainfield High School. This meeting will be the first movement of the committee on tuberculosis of the Plainfield Clinical Society against consumption, and it is hoped that they will have the support of the citizens in this effort to better the conditions of the city.

The most effective method of decreasing the number of deaths from consumption in Plainfield is to have every one understand the means of prevention and cure of consumption, and the object of this meeting is to afford an opportunity to learn something in regard to this dread disease.

Cranford Man Taught Lesson.

N. R. Foster, superintendent of the Presbyterian Sunday-school of Cranford, taught the review lesson from the desk at the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday-school yesterday. Special music was rendered by the Sunday-school quartette, Miss Cora Brokaw, Mrs. Carrie Lyons, R. Coles Treadwell and Charles VanWinkle. The latter part of the sessison was spent in rehearsing Easter carols, led by Charles Lewis, musical director and the school orchestra comprising G. W. V. Moy, leader and violin; Miss Arline Brown and Miss Marjorie Brown, violin; Whitney C. Frazee, cornet; Stuart Freeman and Martin Stutsman, mandolin; Miss May Clark, pianist. Superintendent George E. Hall was in charge of the exercises for the afternoon.

OSHKOSH CLUB PLANS ITS THIRD PRODUCTION

JOSEPH M. SHELLABARGER SELECTED AS LEADER.

The Oshkosh Club met at the Casino Saturday night and decided to give one of its original hodge-podge shows sometime during May at the Casino. There was a large attendance of members and the rehearsals are to be started at once. While the show will be along the same lines of the previous ones, it is intended to make it more elaborate and different scenes than those used before will be secured. As previously stated, no women will be engaged in the cast.

Joseph M. Shellabarger has been chosen leader and he will turn his musical ability to good account in the arrangement of the music and songs. The club has the hearty support and help of Charles J. Fisk, while George S. Ring is the treasurer and Harry Lovell the secretary.

From now on two or three rehearsals will be held every week until the time for the show. The members are now in search of an original name for the production, and something quite as startling and unique as those selected before will be announced soon.

THE FORUM.

Fame.

Editor, The Daily Press:

Friday evening at the Crescent Avenue church Rev. Dr. William R. Richards addressed a large number of his former parishioners. While the audience was dispersing a reporter made his way through the crowd who had gathered about the speaker, and addressing him said: "I am the reporter of the —— —— of Plainfield, will you please tell me your name?" The Doctor complied. "Will you give me a little synopsis of your address for publication, I got here rather late and missed a part of it." "Well," said the Doctor, "that is a little difficult to do off-hand." The reporter took a new tact. "Well, where do you come from? Are you in charge of any church where you regularly preach, and what church is it, and where is it located?" The Doctor smiled in his gentle way, and the observer turned aside and was unable to hear what information the reporter acquired; but what is fame when such a thing could happen in Plainfield? G.

Cop Stopped Runaway.

Officer William Messler attained the honor rall of a police department Saturday night by stopping a runaway on North avenue. The horse, attached to one of S. Scheuer & Co.'s wagons, started from a house near Park avenue and ran toward Watchung. Messler was at the latter corner. The horse was going at a breakneck clip that promised a lively smashup somewhere along the trolley tracks on Watchung avenue when the cop saw it. He ran alongside the animal and gripped the bridle. The horse fought to break loose, but Messler clung hard, and brought it to a standstill. He was shaken up a bit and splashed with muck, but unhurt.

Mt. Zion Was First.

Rev. H. C. Ashley, pastor of Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, says it is an error to state that his congregation got their inspiration for the big revival from the Mt. Olive Baptist church. He states that his special services began on New Year's watch night and were finished before the Mt. Olive services began.

—The annual meeting of the Plainfield Building and Loan Association will be held on Monday night, March 26, at 146 Park avenue. A new series will be opened at that time.

VOORHEES BUYS A FARM ON PICKLE MOUNTAIN.

Former Governor Will Take to Farming by Proxy Up in Hunterdon County.

Elizabeth, March 19.—Former Governor Foster M. Voorhees has purchased a large farm at High Bridge, Hunterdon county, where he will study nature in the hot days of summer, he says, and be sure of a retreat in his old age. His nature studies will be at intervals for some years at least, as he will visit the farm only about once a week. The real farm work he will do by proxy.

The former Governor was somewhat surprised that his purchase had become public when a reporter asked about the farm Saturday. He said he felt reasonably sure that he had got a bargain, and as for "views," perspective, or whatever it may be called, the place could not be beat. The farm is situated on a high knoll, and when the former Governor asked an old farmer about it the latter replied, "Well, you got the 'views' all right, Governor."

The farm overlooks the famous Redshell Valley, every foot of which is rich in memories of the days of the Revolution. With Pickle Mountain on the left and the Sourland range on the right with its picturesque peaks, the new owner may loll on his easy chair on the veranda and tell his guests of the folklore of the neighborhood and point to almost any farmhouse as a place where Washington once slept.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

A large attendance witnessed the baptism of two young men and two young women at the Baptist church last night. The pastor spoke from the words in the parable of the prodigal son, "I will arise and go to my father." The music by the large choir was helpful and inspiring.

Samuel Dayton drove a distance of ten miles and back with a large load of families and friends last night to attend church services here at the Baptist church.

The vacant houses on Brookside avenue will soon be occupied by the return of W. E. Smith and Fred Latourette with their families.

Miss Cora Dayton, of Plainfield, spent Sunday as a guest of Miss Nellie B. Manning.

MATHEWSONS ARE A BASEBALL FAMILY

MAN WHO KNOWS THEM PREDICTS THEY WILL RIVAL DELAHANTYS.

A Harvard senior, who knows the Mathewson family, writes an interesting letter about Christy and his brothers. As "Christy" is a Plainfielder the Harvard man's letter is reproduced. He says:

"I was very much surprised the other day when I saw that the New York Nationals had taken South with them Christy Mathewson's young brother, Henry, and thought perhaps you might like to know something about this young man, who is breaking into the game at a younger age, but with no less favorable auspices, than young Knight, who played with Philadelphia last year.

"When I was in prep. school in Pennsylvania, at Mathewson's home town, Henry was pitching for a kids' team. That was in the summer or spring of 1902. 'Hank' was still in grammar school, but he used to come around and play with the academy boys. His pitching was invincible to all the boy teams around, and at that time—he was only fifteen—he was a remarkable outfielder, being better in their respect than the average college played. He never went through prep. school, but was always being coached by 'Matty,' who taught him the tricks of the trade.

"He was only a small youngster then, but probably he has shot up rapidly since then. For a fellow with no prep. school of college training to break into the game with the New York Nationals, especially at the age of eighteen, is very remarkable.

"He has another brother at home, the last of the line, Nicholas by name, who was considered by the fellows at prep. school as even a more likely ballplayer than 'Hank.' Any fly that he could reach he was sure to pull down, and for a boy of theirteen had splendid form in all his actions—just like a big leaguer.

"There is one sister in the family, and in future years the Mathewson family will no doubt be better known in baseball than the Delahanty family of today and yesterday. I might say that Christy himself never pitched while in prep. school, but played second base. After he left school and played in a Y. M. C. A. league it first occurred to him that pitching was his profession."

$5,000 Suit Against P. S. C.

A suit for $5,000 damages has been brought in the Union County Circuit Court against the Public Service Corporation by Charles F. Belgert, of Elizabeth, for injuries he claims to have received on last February 17 at East Jersey and Division streets, that city, in a collision with a trolley car. He was driving a wagon at the time, and was hurled to the pavement with great force, while the wagon was wrecked. He has since been confined to his bed, and claims he is permanently hurt. He attributes the accident to the carelessness of the motorman.

HEAR OF HOME MISSIONS

Field Secretary Speaks to Trinity Reformed Church Congregation.

DENOMINATION GROWS

How the Church Is Extending Its Labors In the West—Sustained By Contributions By People.

Domestic mission work in the Reformed church, its growth, its need, and its great good, was brought forcefully to the attention of the congregation at Trinity Reformed church yesterday morning. In connection with the annual collection for home missions at the church, Rev. W. W. Clark, of New York, field secretary of the Home Board, delivered an earnest address on the spread of the gospel in this country by the Dutch church.

In opening, he pointed out that it was Christ's own example that is the warrant for domestic mission work. He traveled about from town to town and commissioned others to do likewise. There was a great need for the work in those days, Mr. Clark said, but the need today was as great, and perhaps greater.

New towns were springing up like mushrooms in the West, and all of them needed the word of the gospel. Those who knew of, or had seen, the emigrant ships that steam into New York daily know whence these towns derived their population for the most part. It was very well understood that those people were not the best that their countries produced—that sometimes they were even the worst their lands produced—and the need for instructing them in the restraining and enlightening teachings of Christianity was very evident. The foreigners carried their own ideas of religion, whatever they might be, with them to the new places, and, either actively or by passive example, spread them in the communities. In Chicago Mr. Clark had actually discovered Anarchist Sunday schools, where the children of Anarchists were being taught all the principles of the disruptive creed.

It was easy to let such things alone. But when they were left alone they developed fester spots in the body politic. It was for the churchmen to bring the gospel to them, and counteract the evil. And it was being done, and done well. Evidences of life and growth and activity were seen all along the line.

There was an idea in some quarters that the Reformed church was not growing. That the word Dutch meant standing still. It was not so. Growth was discernible everywhere; not as great a growth as the Reformed church wished, but a growth that was great in proportion to the membership of the denomination. The church was making great strides. Mr. Clark described the condition of the church in a highly interesting way in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, and in the newer fields of Michigan, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota, Dakota, Washington, Indian Territory, and among the negroes of South Carolina. It was strong in the East, he said, reaching out with new, self-sustaining churches, but it was growing as steadily and as encouragingly in the West. He described the work that was being done in ministering to the Hollanders and the Germans, people peculiarly the wards of the Reformed church.

There was a great missionary spirit among the Western churches and missions. One was giving more for missions than it took to support itself—giving over $3,000, while it took only $2,100 for its own maintenance. Another church had enthusiastically repaid every dollar the mission board expended in starting it on its way. Instances like these, and on other lines, gave the work a character that should appeal to business men. They could see where every dollar went, and every dollar was repaid fifty and a hundred-fold. The returns were rapid, and they could be seen as fast as the money was expended. One church spire, beneath which a godly man labored, supported by mission money, was a greater factor for good and advancement in a community than any other force.

In conclusion, Mr. Clark recalled to the congregation that there was no fund, no endowment, for carrying on the work. Its only support came from contributions, and the proper support came only through full plates.

The collection was taken after the address, Rev. Dr. Schenck, the pastor, voicing an earnest admonition to the people to give liberally.

Confessions of an Editor.

Winsted, March 19.—S. C. Beckley, editor and publisher of The Connecticut Western News, a long established weekly at Canaan, has sold out to Republican politicians after being in harness about thirty years. In an editorial this week he says in part: "This column is the editor's column, but he doesn't lay awake nights worrying over the filling of it. Sometimes the column has been known to contain matter setting forth what is good for coughs, colds, corns, bunions, ingrowing toenails, boils, liver complaint or the tired feeling. The editor sometimes visits with his subscribers by means of it, sometimes duns delinquents through it, and sometimes, to be truthful instead of cheerful, has printed newspaper jokes in it."

THIEVES GET INTO A. G. NELSON'S HOUSE

NEW MARKET FAIR HEIR ASKS THE PLAINFIELD POLICE TO PURSUE CROOKS

Abram G. Nelson, of New Market, dropped into police headquarters this morning to report a small burglary at his home last night. He is anxious to have the thieves captured, because he is afraid the underworld has regarded his house as a good crib to crack since he inherited some of the Fair millions, and will keep it at the head of the desirable places unless something is done to discourage visits.

The crooks who got in last night didn't get away with much. A bracelet and $7.50 were the only valuables missing when Nelson discovered the robbery this morning. The thief gained entrance through an open window on the first floor. All the family were at home, but no one heard sounds of the marauding visitors. It is thought, however, that the latter were frightened away by something before they completed the job.

"DON'T BE ANGLER FISH," BISHOP SAYS.

Tells Conference Probationers to Fear No Attacks on Christianity.

Bishop Goodsell, in charging Friday the probationers for the ministry at the Methodist Conference at New Brunswick, urged them to be punctual in their church meetings and other duties so that "young people can set their clocks by your arriving:" In making pastoral visits he did not want them to go in the spirit of the man who said he did not want to be required to be a bell-puller, or to go with the idea of saving the expense of a meal, but to go with the Christian spirit.

"Feel no alarm for the attacks made on Christianity," the bishop said. "The fathers have considered all these, using those that were worthy and those that were not they spat out. There is nothing new in the beliefs of today.

"I'm in the youth of old age. I'm sixty-five years old, and I have lived long enough to see several things that were going to tear things to pieces fail themselves. They have become historical curiosities in the progress of the church.

"Don't be disturbed by the criticisms of the word of God. There is not a flower that comes up but that it has a little dirt upon its leaves, but this is soon blown off by the breeze of God. Don't be like the angler fish, the principal thing of which is its mouth. It is shaped like a bowl with a dangling knob attached, and anything that comes along and touches that knob the fish gets. All sorts of faiths and beliefs you can receive if you always have your mouth open."

CRIES OF "SHAME" IN M. E. CONFERENCE.

Ministers Called Bishops' Bill a Catholic Kite.

New Brunswick, March 17.—Rev. J. F. Thompson, of Trenton, in the New Jersey Methodist Episcopal Conference Friday, opposed the resolution by the New Jersey Conference endorsing the "Bishops' bill," to regulate the liquor traffic, now before the Legislature. He said such action would be to make the conference a tail to a Roman Catholic kite.

"The Catholics came forward with the bill when we had a prohibition bill all ready," he declared. "I will speak eternally against it. If a local option bill were enacted in Trenton, the big cathedrals would go into bankruptcy."

He was greeted with cries of "Shame."

Rev. J. F. Fox declared it would be "sweet news" to the liquor men to hear that the conference was divided on the bill. These remarks were greeted with "Amen."

The resolution was passed with only four hands raised in dissent. Dr. Thompson insisted that his name be recorded as protesting.

Millburn Out Against Racing.

South Orange, March 19.—Chief of Police Oliver, of Millburn, has been instructed by the Township Committee to see that the order of the Essex County Board of Freeholders, prohibiting horse racing in Millburn avenue, is carried out, by force if necessary. The township treasurer, Dr. Wellington Campbell, is the instigator of this action. His opposition is to the regularly advertised races, which are held on Thursdays. The horsemen monopolize the avenue and even drive the automobilists off the course. It is alleged that the rural "sports" bet real money on the races. The whole thing is said to be very demoralizing to the bucolics.

Rev. Arthur S. Peck, rector of St. Stephen's church, is detained at home with the grip.

Mrs. Eliza Dunham and Mrs. Theodore Laing, of this city, have been visiting relatives at Bound Brook.

MRS. APPLEGATE WELL AGAIN!

"I have had a bruised leg and foot for several years, caused by the brass eyelets of my shoe, which became very sore and painful especially at night. It itched, burned and ached me till it nearly set me crazy. I used everything I found and was suggested to ease it and nothing gave me any relief till I found and applied Axienza Cream which I think is a wonderful remedy for all sores and inflammation of the skin. The hard knots on my legs were as painful as bee stings, with discolored and purple spots. A running sore on my instep size of a half-dollar; the top of my foot a seething sore clean around to my heel. The bone was sore for a whole year and very painful. I used five and one-half jars of Axienza Cream and healed the sore all up. The foot remained tender and I continued to use to strengthen and toughen the skin until now it is entirely well." (Signed) Mrs. Hannah Applegate, Evergreen Ave., Avon, N. J., Sept. 3rd, 1905. 50 cents. Ask the druggist or by mail. Axienza Specialties Co., Jersey City, N. J.

"The Man on the Box"

By HAROLD MacGRATH

Author of "The Grey Cloak," "The Puppet Crown."

Copyright, 1894, The Bobbs-Merrill Company.

"Very well." Karloff's shoulders settled; his jaws became aggressively angular; some spirit of his predatory forbears touched his face here and there, hardening it. "I wish to speak in regard to your daughter."

"Enough! Take my honor and be gone!" The colonel's voice was loud and rasping.

Karloff rested his hands on the table and inclined his body toward the colonel.

"Listen to me," he began. "There is in every man the making and the capacity of a great rascal. Time and opportunity alone are needed—and a motive. The other night I told you that I could not give up your daughter. Well, I have not given her up. She must be my wife."

"Must?" The colonel clenched his hands.

"Must. To-night I am going to prove myself a great rascal—with a great motive. What is Russia to me? Nothing. What is your dishonor or my own? Less than nothing. There is only one thing, and that is my love for your daughter." He struck the table and the flame of the student-lamp rose violently. "She must be mine, mine! I have tried to win her as an honorable man tries to win the woman he loves; now she must be won by an act of rascality. Heaven nor hell shall force me to give her up. Yes, I love her; and I lower myself to your level to gain her."

"To my level! Take care, I am still a man with a man's strength," cried the colonel.

Karloff swept his hands across his forehead. "I have lied to myself long enough, and to you. I can see now that I have been working solely toward one end. My country is not to be considered, neither is yours. Do you realize that you stand wholly and completely in my power?" He ran his tongue across his lips, which burned with fever.

"What do you mean?"—hoarsely.

"I mean that your daughter must become my wife, or I shall notify your government that you have attempted to betray it."

"You dishonorable wretch!" The colonel balled his fists and protruded his nether lip. Only the table stood between them.

"That term or another, it does not matter. The fact remains that you have sold to me the fortification plans of your country; and though it be in times of peace, you are none the less guilty and culpable. Your daughter shall be my wife."

"I had rather strangle her with these hands!"—passionately.

"Well, why should I not have her for my wife? Who loves her more than I? I am rich; from hour to hour, from day to day, what shall I not plan to make her happy? I love her with all the fire and violence of my race and blood. I can not help it. I will not, can not live without her! Good God, yes! I recognize the villiany of my action. But I am mad to-night."

"So I perceive." The colonel gazed wildly about the walls for a weapon. There was not even the usual ornamental dagger.

A window again stirred mysteriously. A few drops of rain splashed on the glass and zigzagged down to the sash.

"Sooner or later your daughter must know. Request her presence. It rests with her, not with you, as to what course I must follow." Karloff was extraordinarily pale, and his dark eyes reflecting the dancing flames, sparkled like rubies.

He saw the birth of horror in the elder's eyes, saw it grow and grow. He saw the colonel's lips move spasmodically, but utter no sound. What was it he saw over his (the count's) shoulders and beyond? Instinctively he turned, and what he saw chilled the heat of his blood.

There stood the girl, her white dress marble-white against the dark wine of the portiere, an edge of which one hand clutched convulsively. Was it Medusa's beauty or her magic that turned men into stone? My recollection is at fault. At any rate, so long as she remained motionless, neither man had the power to stir. She held herself perfectly erect; every fiber in her young body was tense. Her beauty became weirdly powerful, masked as it was with horror, doubt, shame, and reproach. She had heard; little or much was of no consequence. In the heat of their variant passions, the men's voices had risen to a pitch that penetrated beyond the room.

Karloff was the first to recover, and he took an involuntary step toward her; but she waved him back disdainfully.

"Do not come near me. I loathe you!" The voice was low, but every note was strained and unmusical.

He winced. His face could not have stung or burned more hotly had she struck him with her hand.

"Mademoiselle!"

She ignored him. "Father, what does this mean?"

"Agony!" The colonel fell back into his chair, pressing his hands over his eyes.

"I will tell you what it means!" cried Karloff, a rage possessing him. He had made a mistake. He had misjudged both the father and the child. He could force her into his arms, but he would always carry a burden of hate. "It means that this night you stand in the presence of a dishonored parent, a man who has squandered your inheritance over gambling tables, and who, to recover these misused sums, has sold to me the principal fortificaton plans of his country. That is what it means. Mademoiselle."

She grasped the portiere for support.

"Father, is this thing true?" Her voice fell to a terror-stricken whisper.

"Oh, it is true enough," said Karloff. "God knows that it is true enough. But it rests with you to save him. Become my wife, and yonder fire shall swallow his dishonor—and mine. Refuse, and I shall expose him. After all, love is a primitive state, and with it we go back to the beginning; before it honor or dishonor is nothing. To-night there is nothing, nothing in the world save my love for you, and the chance that has given me the power to force you to be mine. What a fury and a tempest love produces! It makes an honorable man of the knave, a rascal of the man of honor; it has toppled thrones, destroyed nations, obliterated races . . . Well, I have become a rascal. Mademoiselle, you must become my wife." He lifted his handsome head resolutely

IMMENSE

S. Heyman's Departm't Store

began a ten-day sale March 12, that, as a "crowd bringer" has never been equalled in Newark.

Mr. Heyman announced the fact in his advertisements heralding this sale that it was to be Sensational, and it truly is, not only from the standpoint of reductions, which are marked to even the most casual observer, but the throngs of customers that have simply swamped the store all day today have been marvelous. Long before the opening hour, which was scheduled for 9 o'clock, the throngs that packed the sidewalk in front of the store might have been likened to a mighty tidal wave, that swept through the aisles the moment the doors were thrown open. The large selling force had been strengthened by over one hundred additional salespeople.

It was a typical cosmopolitan gathering; old and young, big and little, rich and poor, grave and gay, blondes and brunettes; all with but a single thought, and that to share in the truly wonderful bargains that Heyman is giving.

Exclamations of pleasure and delight were heard on all sides as the qualities were examined and the low prices named.

This is unlike any other sale that has ever been put on in Newark, for it comes at the beginning of the season, whereas heretofore sales of various descriptions have always been held after the demand for merchandise has diminished; but, as Mr. Heyman announced, it was intended as a store advertisment, and as such he fully realized that in order to reap after benefits, it must leave only the most pleasant recollections in the minds of his patrons, and all Newark knows that S. Heyman's name in connection with any promise is a guarantee of its fulfillment to the letter.

The display alone is worth any shopper's time to visit this store. It is like a tour of discovery, for on every side and at every turn there is something there to please the eye—from the basement with its compact stock of sensible, serviceable, practical merchandise to the filmy, gauzy, sheer, clinging dainty lingerie on the second floor, it is one grand panorama of Spring's newest and best merchandise to fill every want.

We should employ hundreds of appropriated adjectives to do this vast assemblage, compassed by the five floors of this emporium, full justice. It has been gathered lavishly and judiciously. The variety is almost limitless.

S. HEYMAN.

BISHOPS' BILL AMENDED

To Make Liquor Traffic Respectable By Eliminating Lawlessness.

ABOLISHING SCREENS

Circular Letter Issued by Vicar General of Newark Diocese—Address to the People.

The following is a copy of a circular letter issued in Jersey City by the vicar general of the diocese of Newark of the committee having the "bishops' bills" in charge. It fully explains the provisions of the bills and has the approval of the entire clergy throughout the State.

Right Rev. Bishop James A. McFaul, of the diocese of Trenton, and Rev. E. J. Knight, rector of Christ Episcopal church, Newark, were on the committee and helped to frame the bills. The measures are now in the hands of the committee, which will in all probability report on them early this week. Mr. Knight is striving very hard, in conjunction with his colleagues in Newark on the committee, to get the bills thoroughly before the people of Trenton.

"To the People:

"Amendments asked in the "bishops' bills':

"The purpose of these amendments is to make the liquor traffic as respectable as any other legitimate business by eliminating from it the lawlessness and immortality that have been wholly devoid of principle of right conduct who are engaged in it and have allied themselves to the service of crime.

"Note how these amendments will operate to this end:

"First—The owner of the property must sign for the license and he must help to make the business respectable by renting his property to law-abiding dealers only, or be punished. This is the reason for asking the first amendment.

"Second—The liquor traffic is being degraded by the fierce competition in it, resulting from unlimited multiplication of saloons, especially in the tenement districts. This competition forces many saloonkeepers to ally themselves with crime to increase their receipts and make their business profitable. Therefore, the increase of the license is asked that some check be put to the abnormal extension of the traffic. As the evils resulting from this increase in the number of saloons have assumed alarming proportions in cities, the license fee was raised only in the larger municipalities of the State. This is the reason for asking the second amendment.

"Third—Every intelligent citizen can readily see good reason for safeguarding minors in every possible way by the strong arm of the law.

"Fourth—Nothing has done more to degrade the liquor traffic and arouse the indignation of decent men, in the liquor business and outside of it, in every walk of life, than the back-room and dance hall attachments, which have made many saloons mere avenues to dens of deepest infamy working the moral and physical destruction of multitudes of boys and girls, particularly in tenement districts. Some power is paralyzing the executive that should enforce the laws restraining and punishing lawlessness; and, therefore, these wretches that are disgracing and degrading the liquor traffic and respectable men in it cannot be reached unless all screens are done away with. Let the light of day in; let the public look in and it will discriminate between the good and bad saloons and see to it that the bad are eliminated."

Martin Mantz's Funeral.

Attended by a very large gathering of relatives and friends, the funeral of Martin Mantz was held yesterday afternoon at the Methodist church, Coontown. It was conducted by Rev. Mr. Stout, of Mount Horeb, assisted by Rev. George Bowers. A trio composed of Mr. Bowers, Miss Bowers and Mrs. John Miller sang "The Christian's Good Night" and E. E. Runyon gave "Lead Kindly ous and included many set pieces. Light." The floral gifts were numer- Interment was made in the Coontown cemetery, six sons, Martin, Andrew, Simon, John, George and Theodore Mantz, acting as pall bearers.

Hurt By Fall.

Martin Mantz, of Pearl street, slipped on the ice on West Front street this morning and sustained a severe gash in the head. He was taken home by friends.

FEMININE SUPPORT FOR BASEBALL CLUB.

Miss Florence Hunt Neighbor Joins Other Fans.

If there was a doubt in anybody's mind that the organization of the baseball association is a wholly popular project it was dissipated Saturday, when the announcement was made that even the feminine section of fandom had joined the ranks. Miss Florence Hunt Neighbor recognized as the chief enthusiast among the skirted followers of the game here, gave her sisters representation in the scheme by subscribing. The subscription was voluntary.

"I don't like to keep my opinions of the team to myself," explained Miss Neighbor as she signed John Cose's subscription list, "and I want to feel justified in saying things about the combination this year."

But that wasn't Miss Neighbor's real reason for signing. She is an ardent lover of the game, and is as anxious to see the nine kept here as the most burning crank in trousers. She followed the team closely all last season, even the dope from Hoboken commanding her attention. She knows just what every man can do on the field, and all the little failings of the players are as patent to her as to Manager Daab. And Miss Neighbor's interest in the game is not merely academic.

Nobody is to gain the impression that Miss Neighbor is an emancipated type of girl from all this. She is a wholesome, breezy lass, but has no hankering after a vote. She is highly popular among a large circle of friends.

IMMERSION THE TRUE FORM OF BAPTISM.

Rev. Mr. Musson's Sermon at Faith Chapel Rite.

Prior to the administration of the rite of baptism at Faith chapel, for the first time, last night, Rev. J. W. Musson, the pastor, delivered a strong sermon in which he advanced the opinion that immersion is the only form of baptism that is taught in the Bible and to support him in this statement he quoted leading religious men from all parts of this and other countries. The completion of the new baptismal pool was referred to by Pastor Musson and he said that it was an occasion of great rejoicing for the members of the chapel and its friends that this improvement has been made.

At the close of the sermon, Pastor Musson baptized six persons, three young women and three young men. The baptism was witnessed by a throng that tested the capacity of the chapel.

Col. Lamb's Sermon.

Col. Lamb, who is known in Salvation Army circles as the "Spiritual Specialist," and who has been traveling about New Jersey doing evangelistic work, occupied the pulpit at the First Baptist church last night and preached an impressive sermon on the parable of the lost sheep. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, the pastor, opened the service with prayer. Howard M. Case, organist, presided, but the regular church choir was not present to take part.

St. Patrick's Day Party.

Captain and Mrs. J. E. Curtis, of 729 Carlton avenue, entertained a company of forty persons at a St. Patrick's Day party at their home Saturday night. The invitations to the affair were printed in green, the house was elaborately decorated with the color green and ice cream was served bearing tiny green flags. The evening was spent in playing games and dancing.

Out Again—In Again.

James McGauley, of this city, who was only released from jail last week, was arrested in the borough by Marshal Dooley Saturday night for drunkenness. He will be given a hearing tonight. Oscar Waldron was arrested on the same charge by Marshal Flack.

Result of Revival.

NEWSPAPER MEN MAKE BEST CONSULS

STATE DEPARTMENT SAYS THEY ARE TRAINED TO SEE AND ACT.

Washington, March 19.—Apropos the action of the national committee on consular reform in indorsing the reform bill, which has for its purpose an improvement in the consular service, it is worthy of note that officials of the State Department declare that patient study of the consular corps for twelve or fifteen years reveals the fact that the largest number of successful consuls have come from the ranks of journalism. It is asserted that self-respecting, active newspaper men make the best consuls. They are trained observers, they know how to describe concisely what they see, and their reports are informing and clear. They are also sure to know how to get along pleasantly with foreign officials. They seldom yield to the temptation of boasting of their own country and its achievements.

On the other hand the State Department officials declare that among the classes who seldom make good consuls are the young men who go abroad with an idea of completing their education; aged professional men who seek the place for rest; invalids who want some special consulate because of its climate; men with families who want to go abroad for their children's education; men who have special business interests in certain sections; young men of bad habits who are sent abroad to reform; and men who have no true appreciation of the responsibilities of the position, but who think the United States is honored by their service.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church will hold a "Mother Goose" sociable in the lecture room of the church on Thursday night.

The Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church will meet Monday afternoon, March 26, at the church, when the mite boxes will be returned. A social time will follow the opening of the boxes.

The Men's Association of Trinity Reformed church will meet in the lecture room of the church on Thursday night, March 29, when George T. Powell will deliver an address on the care of trees, plants and flowers.

The monthly missionary prayer meeting at Warren chapel will be held this coming Friday instead of the last Friday, as usual. The mission board closes its books on March 25, and it is to get the money in to New York in time to be counted in this year's total that the meeting night is changed.

Took Wife's Advice and Hanged Self.

Hoboken, March 19.—Thomas Hanson, of 213 First street, came home intoxicated yesterday morning. His wife upbraided him, and, according to neighbors, told him he had better hang himself, as he was better off dead than alive. Then Mrs. Hanson went to the home of a friend, where she spent the day. When she returned last night she was horrified to discover the dead body of her husband hanging from the post of a bedstead in the dead man's room. On the bureau she wound this note: "I have made my peace with God and taken your advice. Forgive me. Your loving husband, Tom."

MRS. FEIGL'S NEW PLAY PLEASES LARGE AUDIENCE

LOCAL THEATREGOERS ARE DELIGHTED WITH STORY AND PRODUCTION.

Before two large and appreciative audiences, Mrs. Jane Mauldin Feigl's new play, "The Girl Patsy," was successfully launched at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday. The author has taken a distinctly new field from her previous efforts but as in "Texas" her plot, situations and climaxes bear the stamp of originality and received the seal of approval. The story is refreshingly told and the role of "Patsy," a supposed waif but in reality a rich man's daughter, affords Miss Mary Ryan ample opportunity to display her ability. She is a dainty little actress who is sure to make a success of the part. The love romance running through the story is as "cute" as that in "The Prince Chap," conceded to be the prettiest revealed in any play of the year.

Individual hits were made by Miss Marie Haines as "Mrs. Musselwhite" and John Morris as "Jasper Musselwhite," the latter furnishing most of the comedy. The four acts have been mounted with great care, the smallest detail receiving attention. Mrs. Feigl and a large number of well known New York theatrical men and women witnessed both matinee and night performances.

Only popular prices are charged but the production is one that entitles the management to place it among the highest attractions on the road.

Bible Studies.

Studies in "Christ the Fulfillment of Prophecy," will be conducted by Miss Chadbourne from 4:30 to 5:30 o'clock on six successive Tuesday afternoons, beginning tomorrow, at the home of Mrs. Hubbell, 945 Central avenue.

Mercier's Fine Paid.

Charles Mercier, twenty-four years old, arrested for drunkenness by Patrolman McKeon Saturday night, was fined $5 or twenty days in the city court this morning. A call for help among his relatives brought the fine to headquarters.

Arranging Negro Passover.

The Church of God and the Saints of Christ met on Saturday, as is their custom, "according to the Commandments of God," and one of the main topics was the passover to be held in April, from the fourteenth to the seventeenth at Reform Hall. The church is putting forth every effort to make it a success and to bring it before the masses.

Lost In Montclair.

The Y. M. C. A. five lost a closely contested game to Montclair, at Montclair, Saturday night, by a score of 13 to 10. It took fifteen minutes extra to decide the contest, and Montclair won by luck more than anything else. Scull, Utzinger, Leary, Letson and Thompson played for Plainfield.

Miss Clara Denton, of Belmar, is visiting Mrs. L. J. Denton, of Washington avenue.

CHIEF MAY GET A RAISE

If Bill Goes Through Legislature $600 Will Be Added to His Salary.

McKEE FATHERS IT

T. O. Doane's Aggregate Salaries Would Be $2,000, as He Now Draws $500 as Building Inspector.

If a bill introduced by Senator Wood McKee, of Passaic, is made a law by the present Legislature, Chief T. O. Doane, of the local fire department, will get a snug sum added to his salary. Assistant Chief Andrew Jennings will be likewise favored. McKee belongs to the State machine and therefore his bill is very apt to get favorable treatment at the hands of his colleagues.

The measure is known as Senate bill No. 252, and it made its appearance last night. The purpose of the measure is to grade the salaries of fire department heads throughout the State. After being offered, by a vote it was referred to the committee on municipal corporations. Wise ones say that it will see the light of day again very shortly.

According to the provisions of the bill, Chief Doane will get a salary of $1,500. This is $600 more than he receives at present. His present salary as chief is $900, but he also draws $500 as building inspector, which gives him altogether $1,400. Should the McKee bill become a law, which it likely will, Mr. Doane will draw a total salary of $2,000.

These are the graded salaries of the McKee bill:

In municipalities of from 10 to 1,000 people, $50; between 1,000 and 5,000 people, $100; between 5,000 and 10,000 people, $300; between 10,000 and 15,000, $800; between 15,000 and 20,000 people, $1,500; between 20,000 and 50,000 people, $1,800; between 50,000 and 100,000 people, $2,500; between 100,000 and 200,000 people, $3,000, and in cities of 300,000 and over, $3,500.

The salaries of assistant chiefs are also fixed by the bill.

MR. HOLMES NAMES CAST FOR "PATIENCE"

WILLIAM N. RUNYON TO APPEAR AS BUNTHORNE IN COMIC OPERA.

Rehearsals for the comic opera "Patience" began in earnest at the Casino last night, under the direction of William Holmes, and from now on they will be held every week until the time arrives for the production, which will be early in May. Owing to the limited number of persons present it was impossible to adopt the constitution and by-laws and select the name for the new organization. This will probably be done next Monday night.

The cast, with the exception of two parts, has been decided upon and was announced last night by Mr. Holmes as follows: "Bunthorne," William N. Runyon; "Grosvenor," Ralph Shipman; "The Major," Joseph C. Martin; "The Duke," Elmer D. Cutting; "Lady Jane," Mrs. Frederick M. Ward; "Lady Ella," Miss E. C. Mathewson; "Lady Saphir," Mrs. Ralph K. Miner; "Patience," Miss Hortense Marie Sheldon. The two parts to be filled are "The Colonel" and "Lady Angela." There will be a chorus of sixty and a finished production is assured, as nearly every one has appeared in the opera before.

Mr. Holmes has always selected the soloists, chorus, drilled them, staged the production and in several instances conducted the opera. The performances have resulted as Mr. Holmes anticipated in the formation of an opera company, with the election of Charles J. Fisk as president; City Judge William N. Runyon, vice-president; Clifford A. Braider, secretary and treasurer, and William Holmes, musical director. The company comprises seventy members and it is the purpose to give at least two or three productions each year at the Casino.

DEACON CONWAY OUSTED

Calvary Church Congregation Votes Him Into the Ranks.

CONFIRMS BAILEY CALL

Special Meeting Results In Rejection of Morris, Rebuke for Trustees and Whack at Conway.

The Baileyites carried a meeting of the Calvary Baptist church congregation all their own way last night. Resolutions confirming Rev. G. W. Bailey's call to the pastorate, ousting Deacon-Trustee Spencer Conway from office and rebuking his trustee allies were passed with a rush, and the Morrisites—or what might have remained of them—were left with no vestige of standing.

Rev. J. W. Mitchell, who has favored Mr. Bailey all along, was chairman of the meeting. Deacon Scipio Whindleton was secretary.

Deacon Lewis Booker opened the meeting by explaining that the call to Rev. Mr. Bailey was the matter to be considered. Trustee Samuel Redd, who has been with the Baileyites from the beginning of the trouble, moved a resolution confirming the Bailey call. There was nothing in the way of its passage.

Immediately after that resolution went through, Trustee Redd presented charges against Deacon Conway in another set of resolutions. He was accused of trying to force Rev. P. T. Morris on the church, falsely and illegally, knowing his contentions to be false. Conway was promptly voted out of the deaconate and the board of trustees. The meeting stopped just short of voting him out of the church. Deacon Booker was made his successor on the board of trustees.

Another resolution rebuked Conway, John Crite, Ernest Crite and Charles Hardway for "attempting to usurp the rights and powers of the church." They were expressly forbidden to continue usurpation, and warned to remember their place and not attempt "to decide who shall or shall not fill the pulpit."

So far as the church is concerned last night's meeting leaves Rev. G. W. Bailey as the pastor. The Court of Chancery is to say something on the subject on March 26, however. The rule to show cause why the Morrisites should not be restrained from interfering with the Baileyites is to be passed upon on that date. A week ago the vice chancellor advised the factions to get together, and reserved decision until the twenty-sixth in order to give them a chance to smooth over the difficulties.

ATTENDED BIG RALLY OF HOLY NAME SOCIETIES.

St. Mary's Church Delegation Travel to Bound Brook in Special Car.

A large delegation from the Holy Name Society of St. Mary's R. C. church went to St. Joseph's church, Bound Brook, Sunday night, to attend a rally of the order. A number of the Holy Name members from St. Joseph's church, North Plainfield, accompanied the St. Mary's men. Their own society did not go in a body on account of an illustrated lecture at St. Joseph's.

The journey was made in a special car. Monsignor O'Grady, of New Brunswick, was to have made an address, but a cold compelled him to disappoint the big audience. His assistant, Father Keating, spoke in his stead.

The next rally of the societies will be held either in this city or the borough. It will probably go to St. Mary's parish hall. St. Mary's is a new recruit to the group of societies.

Met Old Schoolfellows.

Boys' Secretary Kenneth Robbie, of the Y. M. C. A., attended the annual meeting of the alumni of the Y. M. C. A. Training School, Springfield, Mass., in New York last night. Charles Powlison, a former Plainfielder, is president of the Alumni Association, and presided over the meeting last night. Addresses were made by Dr. Balliet, who spoke at the North Plainfield High School last week; Rev. Alexander F. Irvine, who has spoken here several times, and Cleveland Moffett, the writer.

Won Gloucester Cities.

Robert Love, the evangelist, has returned home after five weeks' service in a revival at the Baptist church, Gloucester City. His work was very successful, something like fifty new members having been brought into the church through the services. The pastor of the church, Rev. George Pool, is a former member of the Park Avenue Baptist church.

BLOCKS PATERSON BILL

Senator Ackerman Asks Referendum Clause For Municipal Water Works Scheme.

PLAINFIELDER'S STAND

Demands that People Have Right to Express Their Wishes Before Any Burden is Assumed —McKee's Bill.

Senator Ackerman is paid the compliment of blocking schemes in the Legislature, where important burdens are designed to be assumed by a municipality without the consent of the people. In the most recent instance of the kind, the Plainfielder's efforts were directed against a proposition to allow Paterson to obtain the right to erect municipal water works without any referendum.

The Paterson Guardian gives this account:

"The Republican machine has evidently decided to attempt to kill the bill called for by Paterson for the acquiring of a municipal water plant.

"Jersey City has just learned what attention machine Republican legislators pay to the demands of a big city, its bill for the issuing of bonds to acquire a water plant being smothered in committee at a corporation's behest.

"Now Paterson's bill for the acquiring of a water plant is blocked by a committee. Senator Ackerman, of Plainfield, seems to be the man picked out to pull some one's chestnuts out of the fire

"Senator Ackerman is a member of the committee on municipal corporation of the Senate, and this bill, after being introduced by Senator McKee, went to this committee.

"City Counsel Stalter appeared before the committee and explained that the bill was drawn specifically for the city of Paterson. No other city need enter such project unless it elected so to do. Therefore there was no reason for other cities attempting to block the bill.

"Senator Ackerman's excuse for holding up the bill was that 'he wanted to be careful' and that he 'wanted to go slow.' He believed that a referendum, leaving the question to a vote of the people, should be placed in the bill. He also believed that the amount should be limited, which might be expended in acquiring a municipal plant.

"The fact that the people of Paterson and its officials were satisfied with the bill and that Plainfield had little or no reason to feel such a great interest in Paterson's welfare just at this time, did not strike the objecting senator as being peculiar.

"As taxpayers of Plainfield have declared in open meeting that municipal control of water and electric lighting were wise it is difficult to explain how Senator Ackerman stands in the way of Paterson's bill, unless he has been asked to do so.

"If the municipal water plant bill is not passed it will be due to the delay caused by the present obstructive methods. No information has come from Trenton that any corporation has opposed the bill. But some one is undoubtedly influencing the committee to hold it up.

"City Counsel Stalter can give no information as to evidence of a plan to smother the bill in committee. He simply states that Senator Ackerman took the position that the bill should be scrutinized carefully and amended.

"In order to become a law the water bill must pass the Senate and then pass the House. As it is now held in committee, subject to the expressed dilatory tactics of Senator Ackerman and his friends, by the time it passes the Senate present young men of Paterson will be wearing whiskers six feet long.

"Both Jersey City and Paterson now stand as victims of the Republican machine rule at Trenton and bill-smothering tactics of the machine leaders. However, if the bill asked for by the city of Paterson does not pass it stands as a clear indictment against the Republican majority. Any explanations or excuses after the bill has died in committee when the Legislature adjourns won't go.

"The people of Paterson may now keep its eyes upon electric lighting and water plant bill in gathering statistics for future use on whether the Republican majority is representing the people of Paterson or the corporations."

Prisoner Dies in Hospital.

Lewis Webster, a former inmate of the Industrial Home, who was committed to jail for disorderly conduct at the institution, died in the Elizabeth General Hospital last night. He was taken ill in his cell a few days ago and the jail physician advised his removal. He was fifty-four years old and leaves one daughter, who is employed in this city. His commitment was for six months and he had served about thirty days.

LEGISLATURE PASSES THE PLAINFIELD BILLS

Municipal Water Control Election and Children's Home Measures Now Up to the Governor.

Senate bill No. 130, which defines more clearly what constitutes a legal majority at special bond elections, has passed both the Assembly and Senate and now awaits the signature of Governor Stokes.

This bill affects elections wherein municipalities seek to establish municipal water works by a vote of the people. The bill was introduced solely for the benefit of Plainfield by Senator Ernest R. Ackerman. It was drafted by Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh.

Senate bill No. 132, which cures defects in charters of hospitals, was also drafted by Corporation Counsel Marsh and introduced by Senator Ackerman. This bill relates particularly to the Plainfield Children's Home Association and is for its sole benefit. The bill has passed the Assembly as well as the Senate and is up to the Governor for his signature.

OPPOSITION EXPECTED AT SCHOOL MEETING

DR. J. H. COOLEY AND OTHERS KNOWS NOTHING OF A SECOND TICKET.

The supposition that everything would be quiet and harmonious at tonight's school election in the borough received a setback this morning when it was asserted by several wise ones that opposition to the regular ticket had developed. The rumor was prevalent in the borough, but a diligent canvass failed to reveal anyone who knew for a certainty that "something was doing." To offset anything that might tend to lessen their chances, the friends of the trustees who are slated for re-election and the one new candidate mailed the following circular last night:

"You are particularly requested to attend the school meeting tonight in the Somerset street building at 8 o'clock. It is very important that you be present. Every well-wisher of the borough schools should make it a point to attend this meeting."

Samuel Townsend, Hiram A. Woodruff and Nelson A. Miller are on the regular ticket for three-year terms, and John S. Johnston has been named for election to succeed Henry E. Needham, who resigned from the board last month with one year yet to serve. This ticket has the support of the regular borough forces and stands every chance of being carried. Though he has said nothing about the matter, it is generally understood that Robert M. Fountain desires to be returned to the board, having been defeated for re-election last year. It is said that he wants to get back his old job as clerk, which is now held to the advantage of the trustees by a taxpayer not a member of the board. Dr. Cooley, when interviewed today, said he knew of no opposition, and Julius Stahl disclaimed any knowledge of a hostile move.

In addition to trustees, the boroughites will be asked to vote for an appropriation of $21,830, of which $19,880 is for general expenses and $1,950 for manual training.

He Was a Retired Tea Importer; Interested In Public Questions.

William H. Riley, of 11 Myrtle avenue, died at his home this morning, of angina pectoris. He was in his seventy-second year. Mr. Riley is survived by a widow and two sons, C. L. Riley, of North Plainfield, and H. W. Riley, of Trumansburg, New York.

Mr. Riley was a retired tea importer. He gave up his business in New York in 1884. Since then he has interested himself in questions of public moment, working in associations and writing occasional letters to the newspapers. He was a member of the Business Men's Association, of Ithaca, N. Y., where he lived for a time, and of the Charities Aid Association, of this city. He settled down in North Plainfield four years ago. He had lived for a year in Plainfield before that, and at one time resided for twelve years back of Scotch Plains.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon from the house, at 3 o'clock.

ASKS HER $25,000 BACK

Aunt Says She Gave Cash to G. G. Clynes Who Makes No Accounting.

SUIT IS INSTITUTED

North Plainfielder Expresses Surprise When Told by Daily Press Reporter That Legal Proceedings Have Been Started.

Thomas G. Clynes, who, with his young wife, has just moved from Locust Valley, L. I., to the house in Park place, North Plainfield, which he purchased recently from O. L. Teale, has been sued by Mrs. Clynes' maiden aunt, Miss Mary Jane Ludlam, for $25,000. Joseph I. Corn, of Hays & Hershfield, Miss Ludlam's lawyers, obtained an attachment in New York yesterday for the amount named, and the sheriff served it upon a firm of Wall street brokers and upon the Orient Bank, where Clynes' balance was found to be $1,073.

Mr. Corn said last night that his client had told him that Clynes had "jollied" her into parting with the $25,000, and had "jollied" her afterward until her patience gave out.

Miss Ludlam lives with her brother-in-law, Dr. Richard F. B. Seaman, at Locust Valley. She is sixty years old. It was at this home that Clynes and Dr. Seaman's daughter were married last July, and they lived with the bride's father and Miss Ludlam until a week ago, with the exception of brief intervals, when they traveled to some extent. Mr. Clynes purchased the Teale property and then notified his wife's relatives that he intended moving to North Plainfield.

According to the papers in her suit, Miss Ludlam talked about investments with her niece's fiance. He urged her, she says, to let him put some of her money into real estate. After some hesitation, she says, she gave him a check in May, 1905, for $25,000 on the Orient Bank in New York. She is emphatic in the assertion that she instrusted the money to him for no other kind of venture than a realty purchase. Later, Miss Ludlam avers she asked her nephew-in-law about the money. He said it was all right and that he would make a settlement.

She has learned, according to her complaint, that Clynes opened an account at the Orient Bank and put $25,000 to his own credit and that he never applied this sum to the purpose intended.

A reporter for The Daily Press found Mr. and Mrs. Clynes in their new home last night, and when he announced the purpose of his visit they appeared to be much surprised.

"Why, I don't understand the matter at all," declared Mr. Clynes, "and I most emphatically deny the accusation. My wife and I left Locust Valley last week, and we were on the best of terms, in fact, we have always been very friendly."

"Yes," broke in Mrs. Clynes, "when we left Locust Valley my aunt threw her arms about my neck and wept because my husband and I were going away. When we were married we promised to live at my father's home for a year, or until spring, and we told our relatives in due time of our intention of going to housekeeping, that we had bought a property in North Plainfield and would remove there at a certain time. To further prove that the action must be a mistake, I will state that my husband and I expect Dr. Seaman, Miss Ludlam and my sister and brother to visit us this week, when we plan to have a housewarming. We looked for them yesterday, but suppose the storm must have detained them.

"Why, this reported action is simply absurd," continued Mrs. Clynes. "Whenever my husband and I were away on a trip it was Miss Ludlam who wrote to us so often. We would receive two or three letters a week, and at our wedding and since then she frequently bestowed gifts of silverware and other things that might be useful in keeping house, and she was always more than usually interested in our welfare. There is something wrong about this report."

Before the reporter left the house Mr. and Mrs. Clynes declared that they would leave early today for Locust Valley to visit their relatives and learn the truth of the report.

Mr. Clynes said that Locust Valley is filled with people who like to gossip about their neighbors, and he was strongly impressed with the belief that some of these people were trying to make trouble for him and his wife. "Why," said he, "before I was married the whole population was talking about the event, and, in fact, many of the people seemed to know more about our affairs than we did, and when we were married nearly the whole town was there."

Mr. Clynes is a broker, being a junior member of a firm which occupies offices at Broadway and Wall street, New York.

Edward L. Suffern and Albert A. Holly are registered at the Martinique Hotel, New York City.

COUNTY FEES ABOLISHED

Register Smith, Sheriff Lawrence, Surrogate Parrot and Clerk Calvert to get $5,500.

ON A SALARY BASIS

Jackson Bill Passed by Legislature and Is Now Up to the Governor—Its Provisions.

When Governor Stokes appends his signature to Senator Jackson's antifee bill passed by the Assembly last night, County Register Frank H. Smith will have to content himself with a salary of $5,500 per year. Sheriff William B. Lawrence, County Clerk James C. Calvert and Surrogate George Parrott will likewise be compelled to accept a similar measly sum from the county instead of being permitted to rake in the fat fees.

This, it is said, will fall particularly hard on "Foxy Grandpa" Parrott, who has had a nice thing of it as surrogate of Union county for a number of years. Sheriff Lawrence, too, will feel the effects of the new law.

Fees in county offices, the system under which sheriffs, county clerks and surrogates in many counties have piled up salaries ranging from $30,000 to $50,000, went overboard from the ship of State when the Assembly passed the amended Jackson bill adolishing fees and placing all county offices on a straight salary basis. The bill passed the Senate some time ago and is now ready for the approval of Governor Stokes.

The new law fixes the schedule of salaries as follows: In counties with a population between 125,000 and 200,000, $6,500; in counties with a population between 100,000 and 125,000, $5,500; in counties with a population between 75,000 and 100,000, $4,500; in counties with a population between 50,000 and 75,000, $3,000; in counties having less than 30,000 inhabitants, $2,000. As amended in the Senate, the schedule of salaries was changed considerably. For example, the original bill gave salaries of $6,000 to the officials in counties having a population between 100,000 and 150,000, so that Mercer would have been in that class.

As passed the bill has this provision: "Said surrogates, county clerks, registers of deeds and mortgages and sheriffs shall select and empoly the necessary deputies and assistants for said offices respectively, who shall receive such compensation, to be paid monthly by the proper disbursing officers of said counties, as shall be approved by the judge of the court of Common Pleas of their respective counties on warrants approved by said judge."

The bill does not affect first class counties, Essex and Hudson, a law having been passed last year putting them on a $10,000 salary basis.

Mr. Tucker, of Union, requested that the bill might lie over until this morning, as Union county desired to look into the matter further. Mr. Tucker said some of the Union county freeholders claimed that the provisions for the appointment of deputies would cost the county $4,000 more than the fee system at present. The freeholders also wanted a referendum clause put in the bill.

DEPUTY TO REORGANIZE LOCAL CAMP OF WOODMEN.

New Members Secured and Plans Prepared to Start It Off Anew.

Organizing Deputy H. A. Williams of Elizabeth, has been in the city the past few days making an effort to reorganize the local amp of Woodmen of the World. It has been established about five years and began with quite a large membership, but from one cause or another interest waned and it has been at a standstill.

Deputy Williams has been meeting with much success and the prospects for rejuvenation are very good. Quite a number of candidates have been secured and they will be given the degree tonight. The present officers of the camp are well known residents and they have signified their willingness to be re-elected and assist in the ne worder of things.

The late Thomas B. Cardner was a member of the camp and a few days ago Deputy Williams paid his widow the death benefit of $2,000. The officials will also erect a monument over his grave, this being a mark of respect paid to each departed member.

ZELAYA REJOINING GIRL

Young Nicaraguan Gains His Father's Consent to Wed.

BACK FROM TROPICS

Miss Baker's Father Says The Couple Will Marry Today or Tomorrow —Zelaya to Enter Business.

Alphonse Zelaya, son of the President of Nicaragua, well known here as a former student at Cedarcroft School, Park avenue, where he prepared for West Point two years ago, is returning to Washington to wed his sweetheart, Miss Stella Baker, from whose side he was kidnapped last December and returned to his parents in Managua.

Miss Baker spent the greater part of yesterday in the Pennsylvania Railroad station waiting for the 11 o'clock train from New Orleans, which was bringing her fiance to Washington, but a wreck on the road delayed the train, and, at a late hour, it had not yet arrived. When Mr. Zelaya reaches Washington plans for the wedding will be completed, and it is understood that within a few days he will be on his way to New Orleans with his bride.

After young Zelaya's kidnapping he was returned to his home still avowing his love for Miss Baker and declaring that he would return to make her his wife. He used every argument with his father, but all failed until the young man declared that if he were not allowed to wed Miss Baker he would commit suicide, as his elder brother had done because he was not permitted to wed the woman he loved. President Zelaya was finally won over, and when the boy reached his majority a few weeks ago his father consented to his coming back to America and marrying Miss Baker.

More than six weeks ago young Zelaya boarded a steamer for the United States, but upon his arrival in New Orleans he was stricken with appendicitis. Only a few days ago did he gain sufficient strength to continue his journey. He has made arrangements to go into business in New Orleans, abandoning his military career.

Friends of Miss Baker say the wedding ceremony will be performed today or Wednesday and that the young couple will leave Washington immediately.

Dr. Baker said yesterday that all objections to the marriage have been removed and that it will surely take place.

BOY FORGER SAVED FROM REFORMATORY

WILLY BERKOWITZ'S FATHER GIVES HIM ANOTHER CHANCE.

Willy Berkowitz, the fourteen-year-old forger, who drew a $15 check on his father's account two weeks ago, and fled to New York, has escaped the Reformatory. His father was determined to have him put away, but he has decided to give the boy another chance. Justice Hand, to whom Berkowitz, senion, went for advice, has given Willy a job in his office.

When Willy was captured by the police his father told the authorities he was through with him. Willy had been incorrigible for some time and Berkowitz was convinced that he ought to be placed in an institution. Arrangements were being made to turn the boy over to the Juvenile Court, when Capt. Irwin, assistant probation officer, urged the father to try and do something for Willy without having him brought before the court. The court has only one place to send boys like Willy, and that is Jamesburg Reformatory, which, as Capt. Irwin pointed out, is nothing more nor less than a prison. He advised the father to place Willy in a Hebrew home of some kind. Berkowitz's determination to send Willy to the reformatory was shaken by the evident repugnance toward it shown by the official, and his heart softened. When Willy tearfully promised to do better, Berkowitz told him he could have another chance.

When Justice Hand heard of the case, he generously offered to take Willy into his office, and the boy was placed. His father hopes that his daily contact with the majesty of the law will help to keep him in the narrow path.

THE REAL TEST

Of Herpicide Is In Giving It a Thorough Trial.

There is only one test by which to judge of the efficiency of any article and that is by its ability to do that which it is intended to do. Many hair vigors may look nice and smell nice, but the point is—do they eradicate Dandruff and stop falling hair?

No, they do not, but Herpicide does, because it goes to the root of the evil and kills the germ that attacks the papilla from whence the hair gets its life.

Letters from prominent people everywhere are daily proving that Newbro's Herpicide stands the "test of use."

It is a delightful dressing, clear, pure and free from oil or grease.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Plainfielders have been greatly pleased to hear of the success of Miss Josephine Schaffer in her grand opera work. She is looked upon as a local girl and her first steps toward the footlights were taken under the tutelage of Plainfield people.

Lathrop Lackaye, who comes to Plainfield in the leading role of "York State Folks," is a brother of Wilton Lackaye, the star of "The Pit" and "Trilby." Helen Lackaye, seen here in "The Galloper," is another member of the same family.

Charles Frohman has announced that Maude Adams will not go on the road this season. Her engagement at the Empire in "Peter Pan" has proved so successful that she will remain there until the summer vacation. There is a possibility that Plainfield will get the attraction next winter.

"At Piney Ridge," booked for appearance here Monday night, was written by David Higgins for himself. He remained with it for three years and the attraction has pleased thousands in all parts of the country. John Daly, of this city, was advance man for the production for four seasons.

The Billboard, the recognized leading theatrical and amusement paper, has issued the current weekly number as a "spring special." It consists of ninety-six pages and a handsome cover in colors. In every way it is one of the breeziest, brightest papers of the year and contains much of interest to people outside the profession as well as those in it.

Will Fix Yearly Budget.

The Common Council will not meet until Monday night, April 2, when it is expected that the budget for the year will be determined upon by the adoption of an ordinance presented by the finance committee.

—Henry Powelson, who has been employed by Albert Thorn, the laundryman, for seventeen years, has resigned and on Monday he will engage in business for himself.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

"An Aristocratic Tramp" will make his bow to the patrons of the New Plainfield theatre tonight. He comes with a company of players that is sure to please and while depicting his adventures depict wholesome entertainment.

The true significance of the new character drama, "Lincoln," which comes to the New Plainfield theatre next Friday, is clearly shown in a personal letter received by the author of the play, Benjamin Chapin, from Governor Henry Roberts, of the State of Connecticut. Governor Roberts wrote the letter after witnessing the initial performance of the production in Hartford, Conn. The Governor wrote as follows:

"Executive Dept., State Capitol,
Hartford, Conn.

"Mr. Benjamin Chapin:

"Dear Sir—I saw your "Lincoln" at Parsons' theatre, Hartford. It is a wonderfully lifelike interpretation of the great President. In fact, I believe it is the first of our national dramas. The leading characters of the Civil War are made to live again. The play is a lesson in patriotism and should be seen by every American who loves his country and reveres the memory of the nation's martyred chief.

"HENRY ROBERTS,
"Governor of Conn."

Charles Kinsley, who has the part of the young music teacher in "York State Folks," does not have to pretend to the possession of the musical understanding called for in the character of Hal Murdock. Mr. Kinsley is musician as well as actor, and artist besides. He began as a choir boy in a Baltimore church, and acquired reputation as a soloist and later as an organist. Developing talent for the brush, he afterward took up painting, but the glamour of stage life overcame him, and he abandoned music and art for the stage.

"The Clansman," by Thomas Dixon, Jr., which will be presented at the New Plainfield theatre Friday night, March 30, has the double distinction of having won tremendous popular favor both in the Southern States and in New York City. While the Southern company was tearing up Dixie "like a runaway car loaded with dynamite" a metropolitan company was being organized in New York and presented the play at the Liberty theatre early in the year to an audience of wildly enthusiastic first-nighters. The New York company would easily have run out the season in the metropolis but for the fact that the previous booking of another play at the Liberty and imperative engagements to show "The Clansman" in a few of the leading cities interrupted.

David Higgins' play, "At Piney Ridge," will be played at the New Plainfield theatre next Monday night. The play is one of life among the mountains of Tennessee. Mr. Higgins is the author of "His Last Dollar," "Up York State" and several other typically American plays. The scenes are laid at Piney Ridge, a lonely mountain ridge, and at the Deering plantation near Chattanooga. The story is about the struggles of Jack Rose, a young mountaineer, rich, ignorant and manly, to disprove a charge against him that his mother was an octoroon. The accusation comes at the moment his engagement is announced and is instigated by his rival for the hand of the girl. Many strong situations arise in the course of the drama and full advantage is taken of the opportunities that offer for dramatic effect. A fine company, headed by Mr. Van Kinzie, will give Mr. Higgins' excellent play due and fitting representation and the scenic opportunities are plentiful and taken full advantage of.

Queen Entertains Orchestra.

Queen Alexandra's skill as a pianist is well known, but it is interesting to learn that on one occasion she took part in a concerted piece for piano and orchestra. The queen, then Princess of Wales, was staying at the time with the Dowager Marchioness of Londonderry, and one evening after dinner, as she was trying over some music at the piano, she suddenly thought that to play something with orchestral accompaniment would be an uncommon experiment. No sooner said than done. The string band, which had been playing during the dinner, was hastily summoned to the drawing room and installed in the adjacent conservatory, and the astounded conductor was told the royal guest's wish. Then the queen, having selected the music, returned once more to the piano, and, to her own intense amusement, gave her hostess and guests an impromptu orchestral concert.—M. A. P.

A LETTER ALL WOMEN SHOULD READ.

"My Bissell sweeper is one of the treasures of my home. Two years ago I was an invalid, making sweeping and dusting duties to be dreaded. Reading about the Bissell sweeper, I concluded to buy one, and feel it my duty to tell you how greatly pleased I am with it. I can do my sweeping now in much less time, and without fatigue, and don't have to use the dust pan or duster. The sweeper gives a gratifying freshness to my carpets, and with no dust settling back upon draperies or curtains, or carrying disease to the household, I look upon the Bissell sweeper as a priceless invention. I would not be without one for four times the price."

We have received thousands of letters of this tenor from users of our sweepers throughout the world.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Chambliss, of Central avenue spent yesterday in New York visiting a relative who has just returned from abroad. Soon after his return he fell and received an injury which prevented him from visiting in Plainfield as he intended to do.

Mr. Levy Turned Down.

Simon Levy's dancing dolls will not be an attraction at the hospital carnival, Major Maze Edwards having decided that as he refused to give a private performanec, the show might be of a doubtful character. Former Mayor Fisk has returned Mr. Levy's check for privileges.

Gowns, street suits, walking suits, mantles, wraps and separate skirts. Voiles, Panamas, chiffon broadcloths, dainty checks, shadow plaids and silks. Swagger little Eton suits are here in positively endless array. Charming conceits in Princess models. Short fitted coats, box coats and the very popular Pony coat styles. The most engaging creations in wraps and evening gowns.

Particular attention is directed to our Misses' and Children's Department. This section has recently undergone many changes. It now occupies more convenient quarters—lines are broader and the styles prettier than ever before.

MEEKER'S BIG BOOK BEING DISTRIBUTED

NEW JERSEY HISTORICAL REVIEW RECEIVED BY THOSE WHO PAY THE PRICE

Ellis R. Meeker's publication, "New Jersey—A Historical and Commercial Review," has been issued to the subscribers, who have agreed to pay $25 apiece for the work. The former Assemblyman of Union county, whose chief claim to fame rests upon his introduction of the bill abolishing spring elections, at the alleged behest of the county bosses, obtained an indorsement from the Legislature through the aid of the Republican bosses, and it is said will sell a lot of the books to the State. Mr. Meeker is not a literary person himself and it is open to suspicion that the articles which appear in the big book and are signed by him were written by somebody else.

The book looks like an atlas and is seventeen and a half inches long and fourteen inches wide, and is bound in an imitation of leather of reasonable substantiality. The paper is thick and heavily calendered, and there are 319 pages of it, besides the index and a map of the State.

The contents are of some value, especially to those who do not buy or are not given a Fitzgerald's Legislative Manual, which costs $1, provided your Assemblyman doesn't send you one for nothing. The statistics are cribbed from the Manual for the most part. The rest of the work is devoted to the various State offices, State commissions, and to a lot of institutions and industries of a private kind. The Prudential and other companies have big space, and so do the men of prominence in State affairs who have paid their $25. Thomas A. Edison had two big pages and many pictures of great advertising value, and H. McK. Twombley, the husband of a Vanderbilt heiress, comes in for a large display. The pictures are good half-tones, as a rule, and there are lots of them.

Many mistakes are made and the book, as a whole, is inaccurate, special, commercial and unworthy of the importance which the legislative endorsement gives it, and many of those who subscribed will be disappointed at the result of their investment. It is useful, however, in some ways and while it seems to be a grafting proposition, it possesses a certain historical value and most of those who have their picture in it are satisfied with their investment. The profits of the concern which issued the work must have been very large. It is a New York publishing company, and ex-Assemblyman Meeker was merely the agent, in getting legislative endorsement and obtaining subscribers.

COUNTESS WINS FIGHT FOR A HOUSE.

Rival Forces of Detectives in Newark Besiege in Turn Disputed Dwelling.

Two small armies of private detectives are parties to a siege that has been in progress for several days in Newark, the object of which is the possession of a dwelling house, No. 2 Dickerson street.

The house is the property of the A. W. Faber Company, manufacturers of lead pencils. It was occupied until last Wednesday by James S. Brant, formerly superintendent of the Faber factory, which adjoins the dwelling house. He lost his position through a quarrel with Countess Ottilie von Faber Castell, principal stockholder of the company, and has brought suit for breach of contract.

Brant was served some time ago with a dispossess notice, but refused to vacate, claiming that he was entitled to the house rent free under his contract. The Brant family kept some member constantly in the house to make good the "nine points of the law" until last Wednesday, when, finding all the Brants out, the agents of the Countess entered and removed some of the Brants' household goods. Brant employed help and in turn sat down to besiege the dwelling.

Several attempts were made up to yesterday by the Brant army to enter the house, but the doors and windows were heavily barred and their attempts failed.

Late Saturday night, while Brant's pickets were guarding the front of the house, several large covered vans were moved up across vacant lots to the rear of the building, and a large force of men, shod in felt, succeeded in removing nearly all the household furniture to a storage warehouse. The trick was discovered when the vans were moving away, and a riot ensued, which was quelled, after shots were fired, by Fifth Precinct policemen.

Last night the agents of the Countess were still in possession, and Brant's pickets, wrapped in blankets, were under the shelter of the front vestibule.

Plainfield, N. J., March 20, 1906.

North Plainfield's taxpayers will no doubt re-elect Samuel Towsend, Hiram Woodruff and Nelson A. Miller as trustees at the annual school meeting tonight. This appears to be the order of business mapped out by those who appear to have the best interests of that community at heart. All three candidates have discharged their duties satisfactorily and they are representative of the fine type of citizens with which North Plainfield is blessed.

KENNEY AND LA PORTE'S REVISED "ROMEO & JULIET."

Press Agent Announces Premiere Performance to Take Place in a Barn.

Clyde Fitch, Theodore Kremer and other prolific writers of the drama, will have to look to their laurels if they wish to remain in the limelight. They have local rivals in the persons of Eddie La Porte and Eddie Kenney, of the borough, who have collaborated in writing a revised and up-to-date version of "Romeo and Juliet." They have gone the big authors one or two better by attending to the producing end themselves and it will be presented in Edmund La Porte's barn on Jackson avenue next Saturday afternoon, for the benefit of the Herkimer A. C., a very worthy institution that is now becoming a power in borough athletics on Fairview avenue and vicinity at least.

The following all star cast is announced by Press Agent Kenney: "Romeo," Edmund La Porte; "Juliet," Edward Kenney; "villain," Conville Harper; "King," Francis Mc Donough; "guards," Vincent La Porte, Jack Harper and Martin Mc Donough. Soldiers, sailors, trees, rocks, etc., will be played by other members of the company and in order to cater to all classes of amusement seekers, moving pictures, acrobatic stunts and monologues will be injected between the acts. For the opening the best orchestra chairs will sell at three cents each but as soon as the company goes on the road, Kenney & LaPorte, who are in charge of the booking, have promised to play only the high class houses. Plainfielders are accordingly advised to secure seats early.

BURIED IN CATHOLIC CEMETERY.

Protestant's Body, However, Is Walled Off from Consecrated Earth, at Jersey City.

Jersey City, March 20.—Conforming with the rule of the Roman Catholic Church forbidding the burial of non-Catholics in consecrated ground, the body of Peter Henry Beckman, of this city, who died on Thursday in his seventy-ninth year, was deposited in a concrete vault in Holy Name cemetery Sunday. A large crowd, attracted by curiosity, mingled with the mouners and saw the body put into the vault, a stone placed over the top and the earth thrown in.

Mr. Beckman was a member of the Second Reformed church. His widow and children are Roman Catholics. Complying with his dying request, Rev. Emil A. Meury, pastor of the Second Reformed church, officiated at the funeral services in his home at 444 Palisade avenue. Mr. Beckman also asked that his body be allowed to rest in his wife's plot in Holy Name cemetery.

Permission was given by Bishop O'Connor, bishop of the Diocese of Newark, who stipulated that the body be walled in so that it would not come in contact with consecrated ground.

MORE ACTORS OR MINISTERS IN PRISON?

H. E. DIXIE MAKES WAGER BECAUSE Y.M.C.A. REFUSED TO ADMIT PLAYERS.

Cleveland, O., March 20.—A poll has been made of the State prisons of the United States to determine whether they contain more actors than clergymen, or the reverse. The result is as yet not definite, since there is some uncetainty concerning the right of some of the incarcerated persons to be regarded either as of the stage or of the pulpit. Upon the face of the returns Henry E. Dixey will apparently not be compelled to pay the $1,000 he has promised to give to charity if it were found there were more actors than clergymen in prison. Nevertheless, the polls indicate that he will have to make good the $1,000 he pledged himself to pay if there could be found any State prison that did not have at least one minister in custody.

Mr. Dixey was moved to make his novel offer by indignation on account of the action of the Pittsburg Y. M. C. A., in declining to receive an actor into membership merely on the ground that he was an actor. The comedian, in offering to give his money away, defended his profession, calling attention to the manner in which the stage lightens the cares of life, educates the public, is always first in charity and the high character and repute of so many of the stage folk, and to the fact that acting is no syno-laughter-making mission with what he termed the "gloomy" aspect of the man of the pulpit, declaring that as a beneficent missionary to mankind the stage was at least as valuable as the church.

Mr. Dixey declared that the action of the Pittsburg Y. M. C. A. was one of bigotry. He ascribed the bigotry existing among clergymen to their ignorance of life—of men and things—which leaves them unqualified to judge clearly and without prejudice. The actor, on the contrary, lived in the world, and was constantly holding the mirror up to human nature, teaching great truths and correcting evils.

Aside from considering men as to whose antecedents there is doubt, the poll of the prisons stands as follows:

Arkansas—Four clergymen; no actors.

Arizona—Two clergymen; no actors.

Connecticut—One clergyman; no actors.

Colorado—No clergymen; no actors.

Delaware—No one of either.

Florida—Many colored preachers; no actors.

Georgia—Seven colored preachers; no actors.

Idaho—No clergymen or actors.

Indiana—Neither actor nor clergyman.

Iowa—Three actors; no clergymen.

Kansas—One negro preacher; no actors.

Kentucky—Three ministers; one actor.

Louisiana—None of either.

Maine—Neither clergyman nor actor.

Maryland—No clergymen; one actor, a minstrel.

Massachusetts—Neither profession represented.

Michigan—One actor; one clergyman.

Minnesota—Three actors; one clergyman.

Montana—One clergyman.

Missouri—One actress; no clergymen.

Nebraska—Two clergymen expected; no actors.

New Jersey—Four ministers; no actors.

New Hampshire—Entirely out of both.

New Mexico, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota—None of either.

Rhode Island—One clergyman; no actors.

South Carolina—No actors; no white ministers.

Tennessee—Four clergymen; no actors.

Texas—Nine clergymen; six actors.

Utah—Never had one of either profession.

Vermont—Four actors; one clergyman.

Virginia—One preacher (dark); no actors.

West Virginia—One alleged minister; no actors.

Wisconsin—Nit.

Wyoming—No preachers; once had an actor.

STEAMER LUCKILY FLOATED.

The Cearense Got Off the Jersey Shore Just Before Storm Broke.

Point Pleasant, March 20.—At 4:15 yesterday afternoon the steamer Cearense, which stranded near the Toms River Life Saving Station last Friday morning, was floated by the Merritt-Chapman Wrecking Company and started for New York. She was assisted by two of the wrecking tugs, the I. K. Merritt and the Chapman, as her rudder had been badly damaged by pounding on the beach. Aside from the damage to the steering gear, she had suffered little from her three days on the beach.

There is a fierce northeast storm raging here and had the ship remained on the beach three hours longer she could not have been floated and might have proved a total loss.

Say He Fired First Shot at Sumter.

Elizabeth, March 20.—Thomas Mulligan, of this city, who died Friday, was a veteran of the Civil War and one of the heroic defenders of Fort Sumter under Major Anderson when that historic fort was bombarded by the Confederate batteries in Charleston Harbor in 1861. It is asserted that Mulligan, who was a gunner, fired the first shot from Sumter in reply to the attack made upon it, and was severely wounded in the fight. He was a brave soldier, but declined to talk much about his war record. He was not connected with any Grand Army Post. He was in receipt of a pension. He leaves a widow and daughter.

BUT NINETEEN LAWS MADE SO FAR THIS SEASON

During the ten weeks the Legislature has been in session a total of 672 bills have been introduced, and sixty-six, or less than ten per cent. have been finally acted upon by both branches and submitted to the Governor, who has approved nineteen and has forty-seven others under advisement.

At the same ratio of progress, if the lawmakers were disposed to consider all the bills pending, it would take ten weeks more to clear up the work of the session, even were it determined to receive no more new bills. Such a course is not probable, as several important measures, including the annual appropriation bills, are still due as well as others that may be offered embodying recommendations of commissions which have not yet reported. Last week the total number of bills added to the list was sixty-nine, or three more than the total disposed of, and unless a rule is adopted fixing a date after which no additional bills will be received, the proportionate increase will continue until the eve of final adjournment.

It has always been the custom to withhold bills which the sponsors do not desire to have exposed to careful scrutiny to the closing hours and endeavor to rush them to final passage with the plea that they merely cure a defect in some existing law.

The Avis amendment to the State Board of Equalization act, which was introduced on the eve of adjournment last week, is a sample of this class of legislation.

The manner in which this game is worked may be seen from a glance at the following table, which shows that a total of 352, or more than three-fifths of all the bills introduced, are still held in the committees to which they were referred, and that 146 others, which passed the house in which they were introduced, are held up in the house, where concurrence is required:

Status of Bills.	Assembly.	Senate.	Total
Number introduced	422	250	672
Passed both houses	18	25	43
Signed by Governor	5	14	19
Lost by vote	8	7	15
Withdrawn	7	1	8
For final action	33	33	66
Passed one house	89	57	146
Reported by committee.	71	37	108
Partial action	160	94	254
Awaiting action	229	123	352

Another interesting feature which the foregoing table will show is the ease with which the Senate obtains favorable Assembly action as compared with the consideration shown Assembly bills in the Senate. The latter branch, up to adjournment, had passed eighty-two Senate bills, of which twenty-five were concurred in by the Assembly, leaving only fifty-seven, not more than half of which had reached the House, pending. On the other hand, of 109 bills passed by the Assembly, nearly all of which have been submitted to the Senate, the latter has concurred in only eighteen, or less than one-sixth, and holds eighty-nine in the custody of committees. In handling their own bills the Senators are more industrious than the Assemblymen, with a record of 127 out of 250 acted upon by the former, as compared with 193 out of 422 by the latter.

Of the forty-three bills which have reached final passage none are of general State importance and, with the exception of the Scovel bill, to create a State board of undertakers, the majority are of a strictly local character and were so explained when on final passage.

The most important measures that have passed were in the form of joint action as bills. Seventeen of these were introduced in the Senate and three have passed. One relates to the acquisition of the potable waters of the State by the State, another for an investigation by a committee of three Senators into the sale and leases of riparian lands, and still another commends the work of Captain Mark Casto, in saving the crew and passengers of the Cherokee.

Of the six House resolutions the most important is the Elvins resolution, appropriating $10,000 for extra counsel to ascertain the rights of the State in the "tide-water baisin of 1867," claimed by the Lehigh Valley Railroad. Like the Perkins tax bill, it has passed the House and awaits Senate action.

The most important bills passed by the Senate are the limited franchise, trolley freight, abolition of fees for county officers, automobile regulation bills and anti-lobby bills, all of which are pending in the House.

GOT PHONOGRAPH TO ANNOY WIFE.

It Played Tunes of Love of Girl Who, Woman Says, Stole Husband's Heart.

Trenton, March 20.—Moses Holtum fell in love with Nellie Schertel, a boarder, and when Mrs. Holtum sought to get back her husband's love by dismissing Miss Schertel the man took revenge by depriving his wife of money and by placing at the door of her bedroom a phonograph which night after night was made to sing love songs about Nellie and "I've Got Money in My Clothes."

These are the grounds on which Mrs. Holtum, of 13 South Eleventh street, Newark, bases the petition which she has filed in the Court of Chancery to require her husband to provide for her support. From the time of their marriage, November 12, 1879, until 1898, the Holtums lived happily. Then Miss Schertel came into the family as a boarder. From that time Mrs. Holtum says her husband began to love Miss Schertel.

When Mrs. Holtum finally got rid of Miss Schertel her husband made things unpleasant for her. He frequently struck and choked her. When she refused to take Nellie back Holtum procured the phonograph.

Alleged Gamblers Held.

Elizabeth, March 20.—By order of Chief of Police Tenney, a detail of police, led by Sergeants Henry and Gerstung, raided Saturday night the saloon of Thomas Hayes, 247 Union street, and surprised a number of men who, the police say, were gambling in a back room. Charles Hayes, George W. Doty, John Sullivan, Joseph Scheckler and Frank Keppliss were captured and taken to headquarters, as also was Hayes, the proprietor. The prisoners were arraigned Sunday in the police court before Judge Mahon. Hayes was held in $300 bail to await the Grand Jury's action. The others were fined $7.85 each and were also held in $100 bail apiece to appear against Hayes.

TRICKED, HE SAYS, OUT OF $100,000.

Lemuel Smith, Jr., Accuses His Father's Executors and His Sisters of Wronging Him.

Trenton, March 20.—A bill in chancery has been filed here by Lemuel Smith, Jr., and Emma Smith, his wife, of Brooklyn, against I. S. W. Thompson and Josephine C. Thompson, his wife, of Morristown; Maud A. Smith, now Mrs. William H. Thompson, of Morris Plains; Mary H. De Barry, wife of Louis De Barry, of New York City, and William F. Wilson, of New York City, for the recovery of about $100,000, representing Smith's portion of his father's estate.

Lemuel Smith, Sr., died in Atlantic Highlands February 16, 1889, leaving a will disposing of his estate of about $350,000, and making J. S. W. Thompson, W. F. Wilson and Louis De Barry his executors. The son charges that at the time he was in Cheyenne, Wyo., and in such financial difficulties that he was induced by the executors, to protect his share in the property, to sign releases and other papers, including two bonds and mortgages for $50,000 each, running to the estate. These instruments, he says, were without consideration, and were executed with the understanding and on the promise that his share of the estate would be paid to him just as though no releases or other documents had been signed. He says the executors told him that the documents were necessary to keep his estate from his creditors.

After this was done, so the bill alleges, Smith found himself unable to obtain any satisfactory settlement with the sisters or executors. His repeated demands for money were finally met with the statement that he had no claim on the estate.

The bill charges that the executors and sisters divided among themselves a valuable collection of rare paintings, a library and works of art, without making any proper accounting, and alleges that the executors' account filed in the surrogate's office of Monmouth county shows on its face a deficiency of $10,000.

He asks for the cancellation of six receipts and releases alleged to be held by the estate against Smith, and for the cancellation of the two mortgages.

MRS. TOLLA IN PRISON.

Taken to Trenton to Begin Her Sentence for Killing Joseph Sonta.

Trenton, March 20.—Mrs. Antoinette Tolla was brought to State prison here yesterday to serve her seven and a half years imprisonment for the murder of Joseph Sonta, the Board of Pardons having saved her from the gallows ten days ago. In order to avoid the crowd of curious people, Sheriff Mercer left the Hackensack jail, where Mrs Tolla had been confined, three hours earlier than intended, and with his prisoner was driven to Bogota, a station one mile south of Hackensack, where he took the train for this city.

Mrs. Tolla's one regret was that she was loath to leave behind her Anna Valentina, a woman who has been like a mother to her in the Hackensack jail for almost a year.

COMMISSIONER GAVETT RIGHT ON HIS JOB

BIG GANG OF MEN AT WORK REMOVING THE SNOW.

Augmenting the regular city force of street workers, twenty-four Italians are engaged today in the task of removing snow from crosswalks, sidewalks, cleaning out gutters and removing surplus snow from the streets. The general force is divided up into five squads and under this system the work is progressing satisfactorily.

It is in the case of unoccupied property that the street commmittee has the greatest trouble, and in many instances the owners live out of town and cannot be easily reached. There are several hundred such properties and unless the committee goes ahead and removes the snow pedestrians are obliged to wade through slush and ice.

Owners of occupied property are doing much better work in cleaning their sidewalks, all of which is quite a help to the street committee. Residents on West Front street, west of Grant avenue and along West End avenue, appreciate the good work done by Charles Debele late yesterday afternoon. After the snowfall he went out with his horse and plow and cleaned the walks for a considerable distance.

It has been suggested that the New England idea of cleaning snow off the walks would work well here. The scheme is to purchase large iron snow plows, place one in each section of the city and following each snowfall clean every walk. This work can be done quickly and thoroughly. This matter may be brought before the street committee for further consideration.

GOLD FOR EVANGELIST.

Watch and Cash for Rev. M. A. Alexander.

Evangelist Alexander, of North Carolina, who has been conducting special services at the Mt. Olive Baptist church during the past six weeks with so much success, left yesterday for his home. In appreciation of his services, the officers and members of the Mt. Olive Baptist church remembered him in a substantial manner before his departure.

The evangelist was presented with $100 in cash, a solid gold watch and a silk hat, all of which was received with grateful appreciation by Mr. Alexander. During his work here 109 persons united with the church and there were fifty-five converts.

P. R. R. MAY ESTABLISH NEW CHICAGO ROUTE.

Rumor Has It That Through Runs Will Skip the Smoky City.

The somewhat startling rumor comes from Pittsburgh that the Pennsylvania Railroad has planned to reduce the running time between New York and Chicago by eliminating Pittsburgh and the heavy grades over the Allegheny Mountains on the through run.

This move is said to have become necessary because the New York Central will soon lop off sixty miles of the distance from New York to Chicago by using the Franklin-Clearfield cut-off. This reduction will make the New York Central route from New York to Chicago about 920 miles or 10 miles longer than the present Pennsylvania route. The new Pennsylvania low grade route would make the distance about 10 miles longer, or about the same as the New York Central, but through the absence of grades it is thought by the Pennsylvania people they can outfoot the New York Central from city to city.

Inquiry was made at the Pennsylvania offices in this city as to the probable truth of the rumor and the best that could be learned was that nothing was known about it.

RAISED TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS IN TEN MINUTES.

Morristown Pastor Gave Church a Novel Blackboard Entertainment and Paid a Debt.

Ten thousand dollars was raised in ten minutes at the service in the Methodist Episcopal church of Morristown Sunday.

Pastor Ralph B. Urmy announced that a debt of $10,000 on the parsonage and church must be paid. A blackboard was placed on the pulpit and ruled off into one hundred squares. A legacy of $2,000 from the Skidmore estate cancelled twenty squares and two subscriptions of $1,000 cancelled twenty more. Then the pastor told of ten $100 subscriptions, which were duly noted on the board. A contribution from the Ladies' Aid Society cancelled more.

"Now," said Mr. Urmy, "the stewards will go down the aisles, and when the balance is promised we will go home to dinner."

It did not take long to raise the money, an dthe congregation are congratulating themselves on having the parsonage and church free from debt.

MAYOR FAGAN GETS SOME REAL SHAMROCKS.

Sent from Ireland by Jersey City Man, They Are Accompanied by Good Wishes in Verse.

Mayor Fagan, of Jersey City, received Saturday from Alfred K. Moe, consul general at Dublin, a box of shamrocks gathered at Ballsbridge. Mr. Moe is a Jersey City man and a member of the Samuel S. Dickinson Association. The shamrocks were accompanied with a note with this printed inscription:

From the green isle of Erin,
Far over the sea,
This shamrock now speeds
On its message to thee;
Bringing my wishes and
Prayers for today,
That God in His keeping,
May have thee alway.

Lamp Inspector John Boyd distributed yesterday some shamrocks which had been sent him by a sister in Dublin.

SOLDIER ACCUSED OF DESERTION AND BIGAMY.

Frank Newton Mount, of Newark, a Prisoner at Fort Wood, in a Peck of Trouble.

Frank Newton Mount, a Newark soldier in the regular army, is a prisoner at Fort Wood, charged with being a deserter. It is probable also that he will have to answer to a charge of bigamy and defend a suit for divorce.

In May, 1902, Mount married Miss Louise Reiff, daughter of Henry Reiff, a builder, of 135 Mount Prospect avenue, Newark, in Stapleton, S. I. Recently Mrs. Mount was visited by a young woman of Manhattan, who introduced herself as Mrs. Frank Newton. The two women became convinced that "Newton" and Mount were the same man. The alleged desertion of Mount, after obtaining a short leave of absence, was the means of exposure of his alleged bigamous marriage.

MARRIAGE SECRET OUT.

H. G. Walters, Assembly Bill Clerk, Wedded Miss Meeker Last Fall.

It was announced in Newark Sunday that Harry G. Walters, of 52 Hartford street, Newark, a lawyer and a bill clerk of the Assembly at Trenton, was married secretly on September 30 last to Anna M. Meeker, of 247 Roseville avenue, Newark.

The young couple were married by the Rev. Joseph F. Shaw, pastor of the Methodist church in New Brunswick. They agreed to keep the marriage secret, but the bride, having to sign a transfer of property, let out the secret necessarily by signing her marriage name.

Plan a Fagan Dollar Dinner.

The Fagan Republican City Committee will give a dollar dinner the latter part of next month, if the plans of the executive committee are ratified. The dinner will be held after the close of the Legislature, and it is expected that some sharp prodding will be done, as Senator Colby, Corporation Counsel Record and Mayor Fagan will be among the speakers.

MRS. APPLEGATE WELL AGAIN!

"I have had a bruised leg and foot for several years, caused by the brass eyelets of my shoe, which became very sore and painful especially at night. It itched, burned and ached me till it nearly set me crazy. I used everything I found and was suggested to ease it and nothing gave me any relief till I found and applied Azienza Cream which I think is a wonderful remedy for all sores and inflammation of the skin. The hard knots on my legs were as painful as bee stings, with discolored and purple spots. A running sore on my instep size of a half-dollar; the top of my foot a seething sore clean around to my heel. The bone was sore for a whole year and very painful. I used five and one-half jars of Azienza Cream and healed the sore all up. The foot remained tender and I continued to use to strengthen and toughen the skin until now it is entirely well." (Signed) Mrs. Hannah Applegate, Evergreen Ave., Avon, N. J., Sept. 3rd, 1905. 50 cents. Ask the druggist or by mail. Azienza Specialties Co., Jersey City, N. J.

SHE WON'T SUCCEED.

The woman who starts out without any practical training.

The woman who can turn her mind to anything and does nothing thoroughly.

The woman who expects to begin at the top, instead of slowly climbing there.

The woman who spends her nights seeking amusements or in "society," instead of rest and recreation.

The woman who is never on time.

The woman who is hampered by unsuitable dress.

The woman whose thoughts are all on her appearance and the impression she is making.

The woman who makes every casual acquaintance a bosom friend.

The woman who is stiff and unsocial, repelling all friendly advances.

The woman who lets pleasure come ahead of her work.

The woman who talks too much.—Newark Advertiser.

USES FOR KEROSENE.

A teaspoonful of kerosene to a quart of boiled starch keeps it from sticking.

To prevent scorching rub the iron on a cloth saturated with kerosene.

For iron rust put on kerosene and let the article remain covered for some time. The oil will loosen the rust so that it will come off.

Clean the bath tub, the sink or marble, wash bowl with a cloth wet with kerosene.

To clean sewing machines cover all the bearings with kerosene, work the machine quickly for a few minutes, then rub all the oil off with a soft rag and apply the machine oil when needed.

Clean furiture with a flannel cloth on which is a little kerosene. It will remove soiled spots from light painted doors, also white spots from dining tables if applied as soon as the spot is made.—Newark Advertiser.

MEDITATIONS OF A SPINSTER.

The eyes are Love's tell-tales.

Funny how old maids indulge in passion for glorified underclothes.

Love is a dream, marriage a nightmare.

Kisses are like mercy, blessing him who takes and her who gives.

Half the fun of being in love is guessing whether the other one is or not.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

The Sultan's Hobby.

His majesty of Turkey is probably at this moment the most worried sovereign in Europe or out of it. He likes ease and peace, but the times will let him have none of either. The sultan, like most of his brother sovereigns, has his hobbies. Among other things, he is an indefatigable collector of carriages. When he dies or takes to motoring there will be five or six hundred interesting vehicles in the market—enough to make the fortune of a west end auctioneer on commission. If the sultan is a collector of carriages, the emperor of Japan may be classed as a collector of horses. He keeps two or three thousand of his own, and were the contents of his stables to be added to those of the sultan's coach houses the resultant sale would beggar half the curio-hunting millionaires of the age.—London Bystander.

Dry Apples for Winter Use.

Peel, core and cut the apples into quarters, thread them on string, but do not let them touch each other. Hang them up in a dry room that is thoroughly ventilated, and examine them from time to time to remove any that show the least sign of turning bad; when quite dry they may be packed away in the boxes. They will retain their flavor from one and a half to two years. When required for use soak in water all night, then make into pies, apple sauce, or stew them, as desired. A few cloves and a small piece of lemon peel should be added, as well as sugar, when they are cooked.

Without giving him so much as a glance, she swept past him and sank on her knees at her father's side, taking his hands by the wrists and pressing them down from his face.

"Father, tell him he lies. Tell him he lies!" Ah, the entreaty, the love, the anxiety, the terror that blended her tones!

He strove to look away.

"Father, you are all I have," she cried brokenly. "Look at me! Look at me and tell him that he lies! . . . You will not look at me? God have mercy on me, it is true then!" She rose and spread her arms toward heaven to entreat God to witness her despair. "I did not think or know that such base things were done . . . That these loving hands should have helped to encompass my father's dishonor, his degradation! . . . For money! What is money? You knew, father, that what was mine was likewise yours. Why did you not tell me? I should have laughed; we should have begun all over again; I could have earned a living with my music; we should have been honest and happy. And now! . . . And I drew those plans with a heart full of love and happiness. Oh, it is not that you gambled, that you have foolishly wasted a fortune; it is not these that hurt here,"—pressing her heart. "It is the knowledge that you, my father, should let me draw those horrible things. It hurts! Ah, how it hurts!" A sob choked her. She knelt again at her parent's side and flung her arms around the unhappy, wretched man. "Father, you have committed a crime to shield a foolish act. I know, I know! What you have done you did for my sake, to give me back what you thought was my own. Oh, how well I know that you had no thought of yourself; it was all for me, and I thank God for that. But something has died here, something here in my heart. I have been so happy! . . . too happy! My poor father!" She laid her head against his breast.

"My heart is broken! Would to God that I might die!" Annesley threw one arm across the back of the chair and turned his face to his sleeve.

Karloff, a thousand arrows of regret and shame and pity quivering in his heart, viewed the scene moodily, doggedly. No, he could not go back; there was indeed a wall behind him: pride.

"Well, Mademoiselle?"

She turned, still on her knees.

"You say that if I do not marry you, you will ruin my father, expose him?"

"Yes,"—thinly.

"Listen. I am a proud woman, yet will I beg you not to do this horrible thing—force me into your arms. Take everything, take all that is left; you can not be so utterly base as to threaten such a wrong. See!"—extending her lovely arms. "I am on my knees to you!"

"My daughter!" cried the father.

"Do not interrupt me, father; he will relent; he is not wholly without pity."

"No, no! No, no!" Karloff exclaimed, turning his head aside and repelling with his hands, as if he would stamp out the fires of pity which, at the sound of her voice, had burst anew in his heart. "I will not give you up!"

She drew her sleeves across her eyes and stood up. All at once she wheeled upon him like a lioness protecting its young. In her wrath she was as magnificent as the wife of Aeneas at the funeral pyre of that great captain.

"She knew! That was why she asked me all these questions; that is why she exacted those promises! Mrs. Chadwick knew and dared not tell me! And I trusted you as a friend, as a gentleman, as a man of honor!" Her laughter rang out wildly. "And for these favors you bring dishonor! Shame! Shame! Your wife? Have you thought well of what you are about to do?"

"So well," he declared, "that I shall proceed to the end, to the very end." How beautiful she was! And a mad desire urged him to spring to her, crush her in his arms, and force upon her lips a thousand mad kisses!

"Have you weighed well the consequences?"

"Upon love's most delicate scales."

"Have you calculated what manner of woman I am?"—with subdued fierceness.

"To me you are the woman of all women."

"Do you think that I am a faint-hearted girl? You are making a mistake. I am a woman with a woman's mind, and a thousand years would not alter my utter contempt of you. Force me to marry you, and as there is a God above us to witness, every moment of suffering you now inflict upon me and mine, I shall give back a day, a long, bitter, galling day. Do you think that it will be wise to call me countess?" Her scorn was superb.

"I am waiting for your answer. Will you be my wife, or shall I be forced to make my villainy definitive?"

"Permit me to take upon these shoulders the burden of answering that question," said a voice from the window.

Warburton, dressed in his stable clothes and leggings, hatless and drenched with rain, stepped into the room from the veranda and quickly crossed the intervening space. Before any one of the tragic group could recover from the surprise caused by his unexpected appearance, he had picked up the packet of plans and had dropped it into the fire. Then he leaned with his back against the mantel and faced them, or rather Karloff, of whom he was not quite sure.

CHAPTER XXIII.

SOMETHING ABOUT HEROES.

From Warburton's dramatic entrance upon the scene to Karloff's first movement, scarce a minute has passed, though to the girl and her father an eternity seemed to come and go. Karloff was a brave man. Upon the instant of his recovery he sprang toward Warburton, silently and with premeditation: he must regain some fragment of those plans. He would not, could not, suffer total defeat before this girl's eyes; his blood rebelled against the thought. He expected the groom to strike him, but James simply caught him by the arms and thurst him back.

"No, Count; no, no; they shall burn to the veriest crisp!"

"Stand aside, lackey!" cried Karloff, a sob of rage strangling him. Again he rushed upon Warburton, his clenched hand uplifted. Warburton did not even raise his hands this time. So they stood, their faces within a hand's span of each other, the one smiling coldly, the other in the attitude of striking a blow. Karloff's hand fell unexpectedly, but not on the man in front of him. "Good God, no! a gentleman does not strike a lackey! Stand aside, stand aside!"

"They shall burn, Count,"—quietly; "they shall burn, because I am physically the stronger." Warburton turned quickly and with the toe of his boot shifted the glowing packet and renewed the flames. "I never realized till tonight that I loved my country half so well. Lackey? Yes, for the present."

He had not looked at the girl.

"Ah!" Karloff cried, intelligence lighting his face. "You are no lackey!"—subduing his voice.

James smiled. "You are quite remarkable."

"Who are you? I demand to know!"

"First and foremost. I am a citizen of the United States; I have been a soldier besides. It was my common right to destroy these plans, which indirectly menaced my country's safety. These,"—pointing to the bank-notes, "are yours, I believe. Nothing further requires your presence here."

"Yes, yes; I remember now! Fool that I have been!" Karloff struck his forehead in helpless rage. "I never observed you closely till now. I recall. The secret service: Europe, New York, Washington; you have known it all along. Spy!"

"That is an epithet which easily rebounds. Spy? Why, yes; I do for my country what you do for yours."

"The name, the name! I can not recollect the name! The beard is gone, but that does not matter,"—excitedly.

Warburton breathed easier. While he did not want the girl to know who he was just then, he was glad that Karloff's memory had taken his thought away from the grate and its valuable but rapidly disappearing fuel.

"Father! Father, what is it?" cried the girl, her voice keyed to agony. "Father!"

Drying the Face.

A soft towel should always be used in drying the face, either after soap or any other, for a rough or bath towel only irritates the skin and serves to work it some injury. The following recipe is also a very good one: Dissolve one can of lye into a quart of cold water. Try out five pounds of mutton tallow until perfectly pure. Have the grease as cool as it can be without congealing, then pour it in, a drop at a time, and beat constantly into the dissolved lye.

GOTHAM'S AMUSEMENTS

A notable event in New York theatricals this week is the revival with all the circumstance of an original production of Brandon Thomas' great comedy, "Charley's Aunt," at the Manhattan theatre. Old theatregoers will remember that this phenomenally successful play had its original production at this theatre thirteen years ago, and that here and elsewhere throughout the country it duplicated its enormous success in London, England, where it perhaps holds the record for a long run. It is by common consent one of the most amusing plays ever produced in English, and its revival is more than timely. On its orginal run in New York, it will be remembered that Etienne Girardot, the accomplished English comedian, who has since become thoroughly an American actor, was as responsible for its success here as Penley was responsible for the English vogue of the play, although Mr. Girardot played on original lines, and aws in no sense an imitator of Mr. Penley, who originated the part of the bogus aunt. It augurs well for this revival of "Charley's Aunt" that Mr. Girardot has been engaged for his original role, and there is no doubt that again he will impart to the performance his inimitable charm as a comedian. It is said that the new company to support Mr. Girardot is as good as the company that formerly supported him; while the management has had the play equipped newly throughout, the scenery being by Gates and Morange, and all accessories being of the first class. It will be strange indeed if "Charley's Aunt" does not again capture New York and run indefinitely.

SAY HE ROBBED A CHURCH.

Newark Man Jailed In Morristown—Says He Is Innocent.

A man who said he was Simeon Monahan, of No. 14 Harlon street, Newark, was committed to jail in Morristown on the charge of robbing a church collection.

Monahan sat in a rear pew of the Church of the Assumption Sunday morning. After the collection had been taken up and a part of it placed in a basket in an ante-room, Monahan walked out. Soon afterward some of the money was missed. Monahan was arrested on the street. He protested innocence. Eight dollars in change, said to be about the amount of church money missing, was found on him.

The Pen in the War Office.

The sword seems to have had a fascination for men of the pen, for several war secretaries have been noted for their literary achievements. Macaulay was war minister under Melbourne. Windham, who held office under Pit, could claim to be a true journalist, for he helped Corbett to start the Political Register. He also was a member of the famous Literary Club, and stood by Johnson's death-bed. Wynn, who was war secretary in Grey's administration, was a man of literary attainments, and numbered among his personal friends Southey, Hallam, and Carlyle.—London Chronicle.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

President Ebbetts, of Brooklyn, says that he is prepared to swap enough players to make a complete team for just one first-class pitcher.

"Pete" Lamar, formerly of the Plainfield team, has signed to catch for Summit this season. Duquette, who pitched for Dover last year, will also be with Summit.

There is a strong probability that a city amateur baseball league will be organized in Elizabeth this season. The prospects for a professional team for Saturday games are very slim.

Manager Daab will be prepared within a couple of weeks to announce his lineup for the season. It is sure to be a winning combination, and in the words of Mayor Smalley, "the real article."

Patsy Donovan, the new manager of the Brooklyn Nationals, is forty-two years old, but can play as good a game as any man in the major leagues, which is due to the excellent care he has taken of himself.

"Mike" Donlin has restored himself to the good graces of Manager McGraw and everything is lovely again. During the suspension, McGraw wired Manager Irwin, of the Tri-State League, asking him for terms for Donlin's services, and Irwin wired back: "We don't need such players in our league."

Manager Bogert T. Conklin, of the West Ends, Somerville, denies that Montross and Allen will be the permanent battery for that team. They will probably wear the West End uniform, but not as the regular battery. Something stronger is in sight, all of which makes it more apparent that Somerville expects to meet Plainfield on the diamond this season.

The Loraine Baseball Club, of New York city, has organized for this season and is now booking games for Saturdays and Sundays and all holidays with clubs who offer suitable guarantees, and would be pleased to schedule games with teams from Plainfield. Address A. R. Hilsinger, 63 Morningside avenue, New York city. The Loraine Club is a member of the Inter-City Baseball Association.

The Westfield Baseball Association expects to have a meeting this month and decide whether to have a team this season. It is said that Assemblyman Randolph Perkins and former Assemblyman Charles N. Codding are anxious to see the town represented by a strong aggregation. What has become of Manager Charles Denman? Despite his former statements that he will not be in the game this year, the fans confidently believe that he will again be at the head of a team.

Managers are bidding at a lively pace for Lindeman's services as a twirler. Last season he received $55 per game. This year Manager Hussey, of the Ridgewoods, offered him $60 a game and also paid him $100 for accepting the offer. Now it is said that the manager of the Brightons has thrown out an alluring offer which eclipses the Ridgewood agreement. The Brighton's will also play on Saturday and want the services of Lindeman for two games. "Al." Farmer will catch Lindeman wherever he goes, and he is also holding off for big money.

The Orange Athletic Association, of the Lackawanna Baseball League, is a thing of the past as far as E. E. Mills, manager of the team in former years and president of the league, is concerned. This announcement was made by Mr. Mills after he effected a lease for another year on Orange Oval. The result of this is not known now, but it is possible that the Clifton A. C. will take over the field in the afternoon for baseball and that this team will take Orange's place in the Lackawanna League, taking over the franchise from Mr. Mills. At present there are four clubs in the league, Irvington, Chatham, Dover and Summit. It is believed that Morristown will also join the league, although the fans have been mighty slow in acting. The indications are that Madison will be without a professional team this year, but an amateur aggregation will represent the town.

NEW MAIL FOR NEWARK IS ON THE SCHEDULE.

Pouch's Roundabout Trip to New York Straightened by Postmaster Bird.

Postmaster Bird has secured a change in the railway postal service through here that will land a mail in Newark three hours earlier. Until the change was made the first morning mail for Newark from here was delivered at its destination about noon. It went out at 7 o'clock, but traveled to Newark by way of New York.

Mr. Bird received complaints of that sort of delivery from business men, and he made up his mind to have the service bettered. He called the railway department's attention to the matter, and arrangements were promptly effected to receive a Newark pouch on the 7:28 train, for direct shipment to Newark. It will reach Newark about 8:15, get to the postoffice by 8:30, and go into the second morning delivery at 9 o'clock.

Masque Ball Plans.

Arrangements are rapidly being completed for the masquerade ball to be given at the Casino Easter Monday night. It has been decided that no one who is not masked will be allowed on the floor prior to 12 o'clock midnight, but accommodations will be provided for those who desire to attend merely as spectators and who do not want to mask. The committee is planning to make the ball the most elaborate ever given by society here and every detail will be carried out with this purpose in view.

Papers Read at Women's Club.

Although the attendance at the Monday Afternoon Club meeting in the Casino yesterday was small on account of the storm, those present thoroughly enjoyed two very interesting papers, one by Mrs. Charles Sikes on Thomas Carlyle's "Sartor Resartus," and the other by Mrs. Josiah Browne on Carlyle's "Heroes and Hero Worship." Both papers were received with favorable comment and were followed with a discussion of the subjects.

McIntyre Chamber Concert.

The McIntyre chamber concert at the Casino on Thursday evening will be the last of this excellent series, and a programme of unusual interest has been arranged. Mr. McIntyre and Mr. Dubinsky will be the soloists and the assisting solo artist will be Mrs. Aimee Horton Dalzell, the charming Brooklyn soprano.

WESTFIELD WILL HAVE SAME TEAM IN ACTION

AND CHARLEY CODDING IS READY TO MANAGE IT.

Baseball prospects are getting brighter every day in Westfield. It is almost a certainty that the old standard will be flaunted from Mt. Ararat, bidding defiance to the whole round world, and Plainfield in particular.

Charles N. Codding is shaping up to take the helm. Denman has absolutely declined to assume the managerial office, although he declares himself ready to help the team through the season in the capacity of sub-lieutenant. That and the question of whether there will actually be a team is to be definitely settled at a meeting this week.

Mr. Codding, with Mayor-Assemblyman Perkins, is the god in the baseball machine. Mr. Codding is convinced that the town will support a team like last year's in entirely satisfactory style, and that prospects were never brighter for a lively and paying season.

"It's foolishness to think of giving up the game," said Mr. Codding yesterday. "There are better reasons for organizing this year than there were last year. The prospect of Somerville getting into the struggle makes the outlook so much better. Somerville hunting for Plainfield's scalp will naturally be interested in getting at Westfield, and the three teams will find themselves in a series of games that will land them better than even on the balance sheet.

"The question of management isn't causing us any worriment. If Denman won't take the job, I'll manage the team myself. It won't be the first time I've managed a nine."

The combination in view is practically the same as last year's. Fandom should know positively by the end of the week whether or not it is to dispute honors with Plainfield again. Codding is an old-time manager and knows the ropes. He handled Westfield in the palmy days when Jack Warner was a comer. Jack was one of his friends.

WASHINGTON VALLEY FARMER FOUND DEAD.

Stricken With Apoplexy, John Berwind Expired in the Kitchen of His Home.

John Berwind, aged seventy-seven years, was found dead yesterday noon on the kitchen floor of his home in Washington Valley near the Scotch Plains road. He had been living alone since the death of his wife eleven years ago and had evidently been stricken with apoplexy. Dr. Westcott, of Fanwood, was summoned, and declared that he had died some time Sunday morning.

Berwind was a well known farmer and had lived in the Valley for twenty-five years. He was somewhat of a recluse but was a regular attendant at services in the Stony Hill Catholic church. The only known relative is a niece who is supposed to reside in New York.

Because of the condition of the body and the surroundings at the house the body was brought to Cole's undertaking rooms, this city. The funeral will be held at St. Joseph's church Thursday morning at 9 o'clock.

Plainfield May Need Attention.

Heretofore Plainfield, N. J., has been among the lowest-rated cities of the State; but if the action proposed by the Common Council is consummated, the results are likely to be such as to demand the attention of fire underwriters (with a possible increase in premium rates), and especially of the fire department committee of the National Board of Fire Underwriters. The city now has an effective fire department, consisting of a chief, assistant chief, and eleven other full-paid men, and a second assistant chief and twenty-three other call men (unpaid, except the nominal sum of $100 per annum to the second assistant chief). The Council now purposes abolishing the office (now vacant) of second assistant chief, rather than appoint a call man to fill it; but as that office is regarded by the call men—who render excellent service on occasion—as their particular perquisite, to be occupied by their representative, it is altogether likely that the service would be badly impaired by the resignation of all the call men following the abolition of the office of second assistant chief. If the Common Council really has the interest of the city at heart, it would better appoint a good man from the ranks of the call men to be second assistant, and thus retain, gratis, the interest and willing service of the well-trained firemen now subject to call, and who make up about two-thirds of the department force.—The Spectator.

In the Borough Court.

James McGauley and Oscar Waldron, who were arrested for drunkenness and disorderly conduct in the borough Saturday night, had sentence suspended by Mayor Smalley, last night. Both were warned that a repetition of the offense would result in their being sent to Somerville for a long term.

BALL FUND IS CLIMBING

Additional Subscriptions to Association Stock Are Reported Today.

Yesterday while snow-flakes were falling thick and fast, several additional subscriptions to stock in the Plainfield Baseball Association drifted into The Daily Press office to help swell the list. There was previously reported $775, and $310 subscribed by others has not yet been reported by members of the committee. Since yesterday seven additional shares have been purchased. These, together with the amount previously reported and those not reported, make a grand total of $1,120 subscribed.

While this is not ideal weather to agitate baseball, the fans are warming up in good shape, and when the time arrives to play ball there is no doubt but that fandom will be on hand to witness the initial contest with the All-Cubans, the team that played the locals a 1 to 0 game last season. This game was conceded to be the best played here during the season, and as the Cubans are just as strong this year, a battle royal is assured.

Encouraging news was received yesterday from Manager Daab, when he announced that Michael Angelo Leonard, considered the best third baseman in semi-professional ranks and the equal of many professionals, had signed to play in Plainfield this season. "Mike" is a great favorite with the fans and can be depended upon to guard third base as faultless as in the past. It is expected that the rest of the team will be signed by the end of the week, when the full lineup will be announced.

The subscriptions thus far received are as follows:

COMMENT ON STOKE'S SPEECH CONTINUES AT ELIZABETH.

Elizabeth Still Talking About the Address Made by the Governor at Dinner.

Elizabeth, March 20.—Those who attended the dinner given Saturday night by the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick are still talking of the speech made by Governor Stokes. The Governor said in part:

"There are three days in the calendar year when the American people gather and offer up homage upon the altar of American indigestion. One of these days is the birthday of that great Virginian who freed America from invaders, another is the anniversary of the great commoner who brought about the emancipation, and the third is the anniversary of the man who assumed the most difficult role; that of freeing Ireland from sinners.

"In the dark days of this Republic when its fate was held in the balance, the sons of Erin stood by the flag, the Stars and the Stripes, and won freedom. Prominent among those who fought in the wars of this country witness the names of Phil Kearny, Sheridan, Kilpatrick and a host of others, the deeds of all of whom attest their loyalty to their Western home.

"I remember when men of Irish descent hesitated about admitting the country of their birth or ancestry. Today it is different. Many are proud to admit it, even though they do so through their wives. As I look over this festive board I see Englishmen, Frenchmen, Americans and, yes, even a Dutchman, here and there, all trying to claim Irish ancestry. Nor is that desire without reason, for this country was begotten by a son of Ireland, George Washington. This country has been saved by other sons of Ireland. I have reference to General Ulysses S. Grant. What a magnificent nation it is which today stands as a monument of the achievement of these great men, and how it has grown!"

JERSEY CITY CLUB WILL TRAIN HERE?

EASTERN LEAGUERS WANT TO USE CRESCENT OVAL FOR TEN DAYS.

As a preliminary to the opening of the baseball season here by the Plainfield Baseball Association, it is quite probable that the Jersey City Eastern League team will do its training on Crescent Oval. Mr. Kissam, of the Jersey City Club, representing Manager Murray, of the team, was in Plainfield yesterday consulting with City Judge William N. Runyon, president of the Plainfield Baseball Association, with a view to securing the use of the oval from April 5 to the 15th.

The proposition was favorably received by President Runyon and he promised to take the matter up at once with Manager Daab and expressed the opinion that he thought satisfactory arrangements could be made.

President Runyon communicated with Manager Daab today and he expects a favorable reply, which will be followed with the necessary arrangements. It was suggested by Mr. Kissam that games might be arranged between a local team and the Jersey City nine and in this way revenue be secured by the local association. The Jersey City team will carry between twelve and fifteen men and they promise to make a lively race for the Eastern League championship this season.

Bowling Cracks to Roll at Park Club.

A bowling contest of much interest to lovers of this sport will be rolled on the Park Club alleys tonight between Howe and West, of the Roselle Casino team, and William Barlow and F. O. Ball, of the Parks. The contest will be the best three out of five, and as all four bowlers are considered the cracks of the Central Journal Bowling League the match should be well worth seeing.

WON'T HAVE YOUNG DOCTOR VACCINATE.

Women Teachers in Rebellion Over an Order that They Must Be Inoculated.

Every principal and teacher of the public schools in Paterson will have to submit to vaccination unless they can show that they have been inoculated within four years.

The smallpox scare resulting from the cases that have been found in Prospect Park borough has resulted in this order being issued. There have been a number of cases reported in Paterson, and all of them are said to have been traceable to the infected borough.

The order, which has been promulgated by School Superintendent Chancellor, has caused considerable comment among the women teachers, especially the younger ones. It is proposed to send a corps of doctors to the schools to operate on the teachers, and many of the young women declare that they will not submit to anything of the kind.

"The idea," said one of the youngest and prettiest of the teachers, in talking about the new order; "just think of a strange doctor—and probably a young one, too—coming in here and wanting to vaccinate me. I wouldn't think of permitting such a thing, and that's all there is to it."

The doctors are expected to start today on their vaccination tour of the schools.

PLAINFIELD AROUSED TO DANGER OF TUBERCULOSIS

Secretary of National Movement For Prevention, and Others Address Big Meeting.

STARTLING STATEMENTS

Terrible Record of the Disease Forcefully Presented, and Need of a General Crusade Made Plain.

Leaders in the great fight that is being waged against consumption and tubercular diseases sounded a strong call to the Plainfield public last night. The seriousness of the danger that confronts the people of every community, the need of general co-operation in meeting it, and the certainty of victory if the proper measures are taken to combat it, were graphically presented at a public meeting held in the auditorium of the new high school, Arlington avenue and Ninth street, under the auspices of the Plainfield Clinical Society.

The meeting was planned for laymen. It was designed to bring the Plainfield public actively into the campaign against the great white plague that is just being started throughout New Jersey, and the central idea was to draw members into the state society that has been organized to carry on the fight. Arranged by a general committee on which well known laymen served, the meeting drew an audience that almost filled the auditorium. Very nearly 500 people were present, and their interest in the subject, their desire to know more of, and do more to prevent, the blighting disease was evidenced by the unwavering attention given to the speakers.

Dr. B. vanD. Hedges, chairman of the original committee of three in which the Clinical Society placed the arrangements for the meeting, presided. Besides the five speakers, there were Charles J. Fisk, of the Board of Health; Rev. Father Bogan, of St. Mary's R. C. church; Rev. J. O. McKelvey, of Warren chapel; Drs. F. C. Ard, T. S. Davis and N. H. Probasco on the platform.

Dr. Hedges presented the situation to the audience very forcefully, in opening the meeting.

"You will perhaps realize strongly how grave is the danger," he said in part, "when I tell you that of the people of Plainfield and North Plainfield 3,500 are destined, according to past statistics, to die of consumption. It may strike you more poignantly to realize that of the people before me, seventy-five will die of consumption in one form or another. I want to urge everybody in Plainfield and North Plainfield to join in this fight against the disease. It is preventable, and it should be prevented, but we need the help of everybody in overcoming it."

Dr. Livingston Farrand, executive secretary of the National Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, the first speaker, spoke on the general campaign against the disease.

Dr. Farrand called attention first to the seriousness of the general situation with regard to tuberculosis and particularly that form known as consumption. He stated that a conservative estimate was over a million deaths a year from this disease in the civilized world and over one hundred and fifty thousand deaths in the United States.

"The demand for organized effort to fight tuberculosis," he said, "is due to the admitted preventability of the disease. It is now certain that tuberculosis is infectious, that it is preventable, that it is not inherited, and that it is often curable. It is known that the infection in the vast majority of cases is spread through the dried sputum of consumptive patients. It is therefore necessary to take steps to see that this sputum is disposed of in such a way that it cannot become a menace to others. Anti-spitting ordinances are of use but it is still more necessary to educate the people to a point where public sentiment will demand that indiscriminate spitting shall not endanger the well and where tubercular patients shall recognize the responsibility resting upon them and so conduct themselves that they are not a menace to those about them.

"To the people at large the problem of the day is not so much that of curing the sick as of keeping the well well. This problem reduces itself to a campaign of education. The wide-spread ignorance regarding tuberculosis and the ever present dangers of infection demand an organized campaign in every community in the civilized world in order to successfully fight the disease."

Dr. Farrand described the organization of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis showing how it is endeavoring to organize affiliated societies in every state in the Union and to co-operate with every existing agency of standing in an endeavor to reach all classes of the people. Such National bodies as the American Federation of Labor, the Young Men's Christian Associations and other existing organizations are working hand in hand with the National Association in carrying out their plans.

The series of tuberculosis exhibitions now being held in different cities of the country was also described and it was stated that within the last three months over 100,000 people have visited these exhibitions and obtained visual demonstration of the conditions.

In closing, the duty of the municipality in the struggle was discussed, and the speaker mentioned five points as essential in the programme of work to be pursued by every community. (1.) Early diagnosis of every case of consumption by the family physician and the attempt to secure compliance with his advice as to treatment. (2.) Notification and registration of all cases whether in city or country such registration to be regarded as confidential and not to be followed by any unnecessary interference on the part of Boards of Health or other authorities. It was insisted, however, that notification is an absolute necessity of the situation in order that the authorities may have accurate knowledge of the conditions with which they have to contend. (3.) Establishment of adequate facilities for the care of advanced cases of tuberculosis. (4.) The establishment of adequate provision by state, municipal, and private sanatoria for the treatment of incipient or curable cases of tuberculosis. (5.) The education of the public through every possible channel of instruction.

Dr. J. H. Huddleston, of New York, one of the recognized leaders in the fight against the disease in the metropolis, spoke on the municipality's part in fighting the disease, and on the medical aspect of the question. Cases in the early stages, he declared, could be cured, by a maximum of fresh air, good food and rest. Climate no longer figured in the cure; the local air, so long as the patient gets it fresh and in plentious quantities, was as good, if not so rapidly recuperative as Western or Southern air. It was no longer said "The patient must go away," but "must the patient go away?"

"The relation of a municipality to tuberculosis," said Dr. Huddleston in part, "is comprised in three fields of work: First, the definition of the problem by the record of the number of cases, the places in which those cases are found, and the conditions under which they live; second, the care of the cases not under other competent care; third, the disinfection of the places occupied by the cases.

"Compulsory notification is an absolutely necessary precedent to municipal control, and for that the municipality must have the power and the will to exact reports of cases from institutions and from private physicians. The requirement of notification should be supported by public opinion led by medical advice

"Care of cases not under other competent care involves, first, such supervision of the rules of institutions as may be necessary to provide that cases shall not infect non-tubercular inmates of the institutions, and second, for cases not in the hands of private physicians or of institutions, that the Board of Health of the municipality shall be prepared to treat ambulant and bed cases, willing and refractory cases. Ambulant cases may be efficiently cared for in special classes of existing dispensaries, but if such classes do not exist, the Health Board must see that they are brought into existence, either as parts of existing institutions or in a special Health Board dispensary.

"The care of bed cases involves the provision by the municipality of a sufficient number of free beds to receive those who are unable to be treated at home. For the care of both ambulant and bed cases, with the necessary attention, so important a part of the treatment of tuberculosis, to home hygiene, it is necessary that persons be provided to visit the homes. Trained nurses employed for the purpose are usually found to be in this matter the most suitable agents.

"Inasmuch as the supply of proper food is quite as necessary to the care of tuberculosis as the proper hygiene, and much more necessary usually than medicine, the municipality must be prepared to supply to indigent cases additional food, usually in the shape of milk and eggs.

"Willing cases can be easily cared for in the ways mentioned, but home-

SCHOOL MEETING QUIET

Rumored Opposition to Borough's Regular Ticket Fails to Develop.

ONLY 100 VOTES POLLED

Messrs. Townsend, Miller and Woodruff Re-elected Trustees and John S. Johnston Succeeds H. E. Needham, Resigned.

For the first time in several long and turbulent years harmony, with a big "H," attended the annual school meeting in the borough last night. The scare thrown into the camp of the regulars yesterday amounted to nothing and everything was so quiet and peaceful that a dozen or more of the faithful had to pinch themselves to see if they were really awake. The one ticket prepared went through without a sign of opposition, returning Samuel Townsend, Nelson A. Miller and Hiram A. Woodruff to the Board of Education for a term of three years, and electing John S. Johnston for one year to fill the unexpired term of Henry E Needham, resigned. There was a total of 100 votes cast for the trustees and sixty for the appropriation of $21,830, polls for the latter being closed a half hour earlier.

The meeting was called to order by Mayor Newton B. Smalley, and he was made chairman. James K. Arnold was elected secretary, William Demarest and J. W. A. Bauersaches tellers for the vote on trustees, and Fred Bettman and George H. Kenyon for the appropriation. The annual report of President James R. Joy, of the Board of Education, was read by District Clerk Steiner, and after its acceptance nominations were called for. Only the prepared ticket was announced and though there were numerous prominent "Cits" in the gathering, no sign of hostilities came from them. The polls were kept open an hour and the total vote was as follows: Townsend, 100; Johnston, 100; Miller, 99; Woodruff, 98.

In the course of his report President Joy gave the following:

"This is the fiftieth year of the North Plainfield public schools, the beginning having been made in a building at Race and Harmony streets in 1857. The cost of land and building was $4,500. That building was superseded in 1877 by one on Chatham street. In 1882 the original brick building on Somerset street was erected; in 1893 this was enlarged by eight rooms. In 1898-9 the Watchung School (six rooms) was built on Mountain avenue, at a cost of $20,000. In 1901, by the aid of C. W. McCutchen and the bounty of the State the Manual Training building was erected, at a cost of $4,200. This year we are occupying for the first time the new north wing of the Somerset building, which has cost for ground, construction and equipment $40,000. This building enables us to give a seat and full time instruction to every enrolled pupil, and puts an end for a few years at least to the distressing period of part-time classes and makeshift school rooms. The new wing is utilized as follows: first floor, library, office, teachers' room, kindergarten, and two first grade rooms; second floor, High School classical and commercial departments, two second grade rooms, and supply room. The $4,000 voted by the district July 3, 1905, enabled us to equip the entire Somerset street plant with an electric clock and signal bell system, together with a four-face tower clock, which may be illuminated whenever the necessary funds shall be available.

"A fire alarm system has also been installed and the pupils have been drilled to leave the building quickly and in order at the stroke of the gong. The old part of the Somerset building has been rewired in conformity with the requirements of the Underwriters. The ground about the new building has been rough-graded and the broken flagging on Park place and Vine street has been relaid in a thorough manner. Those windows in the old building which were darkened by the new structure have been reglazed with prisms which, with the whitening of the reflecting exterior walls, has relieved this difficulty.

"The gift of an alumnus, supplemented by donations from several members of the board, has secured from the State geologist a highly instructive collection of typical minerals of New Jersey Another citizen has offered to deposit with us for the use of the school his large and valuable collection of Indian relics and curios. Last year the Manual Training School received a unique gift of a collection of decorative designs in plaster, which are now shown on the walls. Yet another citizen by a loan of his invaluable collection of Lincolniana enabled us to make unusually impressive our commemoration of Lincoln's Birthday. With these gifts and loans should be men-

The New Brunswick aerie was instituted by the local organization and there was a warm feeling of friendship between them.

ACKERMAN NOT LINED UP

Union County's Senator Opposed to Equal Taxation Bill Without Some Amendments.

POINTS OUT DEFECTS

Plainfielder Takes Position that No Unjust and Inequitable Burden Should Be Placed on Railroads.

Although Senator Ernest R. Ackerman is quoted in dispatches from Trenton as being in line for the Perkins equal taxation measure, which has passed the House and has been referred back to the Senate, the Plainfield legislator in the upper halls at Trenton does not favor the bill in its present shape. In fact, he is strongly in favor of certain amendments which he declares would make the workings of the act more equitable in all its phases. This much he stated to a representative of The Daily Press, who drew his attention today to an article that said he was counted upon to vote for the bill just as it has come back from the Assembly:

"While I am aware," said the Senator, "that in some of the various States a franchise or the right to do business is considered as property, yet to my mind it is not fair to consider as property of enormous value the simple right which permits a railroad corporation to do business. A franchise is a necessity for every business, be it railroad, express, telephone or manufacturing company, and if railroads are by law compelled to consider it as property and be taxed thereunder at an 'average rate' of the State, instead of the usual rate of 1-10 of one per cent., why should not all corporations be compelled to pay the same, even though the railroads are given the power of condemnation or right of eminent domain. And if all corporations were compelled to pay the same rate of tax, how long would corporations continue to incorporate under the laws of New Jersey?

"The Governor in his message," declared the Senator, "intimates that the great business companies now incorporated in our State, from whom the State received nearly two and one-half millions of dollars last year, are likely in the near future to seek incorporation under national laws,' and, in my opinion, if you tax all 'franchises' in order to produce equality in that particular with the railroad company, the State will only hasten the manner of their reincorporation somewhere else.

"According to the articles in the public press," Mr. Ackerman said, "House bill No. 1 is laid on lines very similar to that of the present law of Michigan on the subject, the constitutionality of which is now being argued in the United States Supreme Court on the ground that the law comes into conflict with the provisions of the fourteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which the railroads of that State claim deprives them of their property without due process of law and denies them the equal protection of the laws."

Continuing, Mr. Ackerman said: "The railroads are not some special form of human beings, they are the people themselves, the stockholders, the bondholders. Their securities comprise the assets in great part of all our financial institutions; the State itself is a holder of railroad securities. If the rate of taxation is unduly burdensome the people, sooner or later, will be compelled to foot the bill, either by the means of decreased dividends or interest or increased charges on traffic to meet the increased expenses of taxation,

"Whoever has taken the pains to examine the report of the State comptroller," he said, "cannot fail to have noticed how in detail every item of the railroads' property is scheduled and is valued at its true worth. More revenue was collected in 1905 from the railroads than ever before by nearly a half million of dollars.

"The Governor, in his message," added Mr. Ackerman, "says that during this period of increased income from the State local taxes have increased. Is it not a fair conclusion to assume that inasmuch as during the past ten years local taxes have not been decreased, that they will not decrease in the future, even though the revenue of the State is greater because of the demand for State aid? On page 37 of the Governor's annual message the State aid, he says, for penal and reform institutions is growing from year to year, State aid is being asked for the purification of the Passaic River, the State ownership of potable waters may become a duty which the State must assume in the interest of the health and happiness of the people, and, in my opinion, this act, if it become a law, will not equalize the rate of taxation as it is expected to do."

MISSIONARY TALKS ON WORK IN INDIA

REV. H. J. SCUDDER ADDRESSES LOCAL CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS.

Under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Local Union, comprising all the Endeavor societies in Plainfield and vicinity, a mass meeting was held in the Sunday school of Trinity Reformed church last night. Rev. Dr. H. J. Scudder, a returned missionary from India, gave a lengthy illustrated lecture on that country, especially the missionary phase of it. Dr. Scudder has been in India for several years.

The views depicted the life, manners and customs of India and the speaker described in an entertaining and forcible manner the many religions and told of the superstition of the natives which leads them to follow customs resulting in torture. In spite of this, Dr. Scudder said that the cause of Christianity is progressing in India and the missionaries are doing a good work there.

Among the many views exhibited by Dr. Scudder there were several showing the gorgeous temples in which the worshippers of the various religions gather and the expensive idols worshipped. The natives have great faith in these idols, believing that they can grant every wish. Regarding this, the speaker said that the work of the missionaries is rapidly effecting a change and leading the followers of superstition to see the truth as it is in Christ.

At the close of the lecture an offering was received for the Christian Endeavor work. The lantern was operated by John Neagle.

Nicholl and F. W. Westcott to succeed themselves, while John L. Hatfield was chosen to fill the unexpired term of Arthur Haskard, who recently removed to Newark.

The annual report of the district clerk, T. J. Nicholl, showed the school to be in a good condition, the attendance during the past year being a decided increase. The appropriations asked for by the board were all carried as follows: Tuition pupils in adjoining district, $500; repairs, $300; books, $50; current expenses, $4,450.

A THRONG AT AFFAIR

Music a Feature — Refreshments Served—Lists on General and Other Committees.

The annual reception tendered Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Chambliss by the members of the First Baptist church and congregation attracted a large number of people. The affair was arranged by the women of the church for the purpose of affording everyone an opportunity to become better acquainted with the pastor and his wife, and especially the large number which has been received during the year.

Dr. and Mrs. Chambliss were assisted in receiving by the deacons of the church and their wives. They took a position at the center of the room, where the platform was prettily decorated with cut flowers and palms, and throughout the evening they were kept busy greeting the people present and exchanging good wishes.

The Sunday school rooms, where the reception was held, was unusually attractive in its decorations. Well arranged draperies, rugs, cozy corners filled with pretty sofa pillows, banquet lamps, together with the various colored electric lights, all combined to make the scene very homelike. There was also a profusion of palms and roses which added to the general attractiveness.

A marked feature of the evening was the programme of music rendered by the Sagamore Banjo and Mandolin Club. At frequent intervals the club played popular selections which were well received.

During the evening refreshments were served by a committee of young women under the direction of the refreshment committee. Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen and Mrs. George A. Chapman poured coffee.

The general committee in charge of the affair comprised Mrs. Harold Serrell, chairman; Mrs. B. J. Shreve, secretary, and Mrs. J. Herbert Case, treasurer. Exposition of Spring Fashion

Thursday Last of the Formal Opening Days. But every day from now forward this store will be a veritable panorama of fashion, a show place for charming Hats and beautiful Gowns.

Wonderful Show of Costumes.

A Display Worthy of Newark's Store Beautiful.

VISITORS to the opening the past two days have been surprised and delighted with the beautiful picture this store presents. Our friends may be pardoned for going into ecstacies over the splendid gowns and tailored suits and wraps and charming waists which are seen in every part of what is conceded to be the most magnificent, the most beautifully appointed and the most completely stocked apparel store in the Metropolitan District.

Never---we say it without boasting---has any Newark store nearly approached the display we are making.

We do not think that any pretend to equal it. No store in New Jersey has anything like the facilities for showing and selling goods that this store possesses. In no New York establishment will you see a more varied or comprehensive representation of the productions of the master tailors and dressmakers of the Metropolis.

We have gathered beautiful costumes from every good source that we knew of. We have taken every advantage of our power to command the best that is produced. We have not confined ourselves to a few makers, but have chosen from the products of a very large number, making selections most carefully, and we think judiciously, and bringing to Newark gowns of such character as will add glory to this establishment and bring great credit to the city. It should be a source of pride to all Newarkers to know that there is at least one establishment in the city in which the highest class garments can be sold. It is another step toward the metropolitanization of Newark.

Mingle With the Costumes. Examine Them Closely. Drink in Their Beauties.

Here is a magnificent Dinner and Reception Gown of Alice gray radium and chiffon stripe, made over silver mirage silk in circular shape, with deep bands of gray radium. The corsage high necked, filled in artistically with cluny lace, outlined with corded radium silk and tiny buttons of the same. The sleeves are quarter length and are exquisitely finished with silk and cluny edging. This gown is being praised to the skies by all who see it. The price is $149.

A charming Ball Gown of the new Liene Cream Lace, combined with Escurial over chiffon and taffeta of a deeper hue, will appeal to all who are appreciative of exquisite needlework. The bottom of the skirt is finished with a ruffle of lace headed with several bands of satin; medallions of lace are artistically arranged above the bands and finished with insertions of Liene. The waist is a marvel of beauty; the sleeves are of lace and medallions over chiffon finished with tiny rows of narrow lace; the girdle is high and is studded front and back with rhinestone buttons. This gown is marked $198.

A handsome Princess Toilette is this one of Black Ring Net made over shell pink silk. The skirt is striped with narrow rows of velvet and Princess lace insertions; the bottom has deep ruffles of lace bordered with chiffon bands; the bodice is of ring net with alternating stripes of insertion and velvet, and has a pointed yoke and collar of cream embroidered net finished with bands of pink silk. The front and back of the bodice is trimmed with small velvet bows and dainty rhinestone garnet buckles; one of the most charming gowns in our collection, priced $175.

An extremely pretty though moderately priced Dress is this one of Blue Messaline Silk, the skirt of which is built on circular lines with deep hem and double box plaits intervened with side plaits, making a very effective full skirt. The bodice is made full with yoke of fancy stitching in new designs; the sleeves are full with deep cuffs and a fancy shirred girdle completes this dainty practical Summer gown. We have this style in all popular shades at the low price of $29.50.

Here is a charming Gown of pink Crepe de Chine, one of which we are particularly proud. We believe it is the most beautifully made dress that has ever been produced at the price we are going to sell it for. It is made over silk drop of corresponding shade; the skirt is very full with deep hem and five two-inch tucks separated becomingly. The bodice is made over silk draped to correspond with tucks in skirt, with square yoke and collar of German Valenciennes lace, finished with deep girdle; the sleeves are in the new length with cuffs of German Valenciennes. We have this beautiful gown in all the leading shades for only $27.50.

DANGER OF TUBERCULOSIS

less cases or refractory cases, cases unwilling to follow instruction or too unintelligent to carry them out, cases who, therefore, cannot be properly controlled at home and who are discharged on account of discipline from institutions, are especially dangers to their neighbors and to the public, and most of all need the care of the Health Board. These, the Health Board must have the power to remove, forcibly if necessary, to a place of quarantine, and to detain as long as the danger they represent exists.

"The call for disinfection follows naturally from the knowledge of cases obtained through notification, and demands that when a case of tuberculosis dies or moves from its residence, that residence shall be made safe.

"These three fields comprise for the most part as has been said, the municipality's functions relative to the disease, but to explain the necessity and means of notification, to point out the dangers arising from lack of care in tubercular cases, and to emphasize the safety always present when the cases follow the usual simple rules for the disposal of sputum, the Health Board may, and in fact should, instruct the public by means of placards, circulars and notes of information of various sorts."

Hugh F. Fox, of this city, president of the State Charities Aid Association, who is one of the leading authorities on the subject among laymen in the country, spoke on "Fighting the Death Rate." He said in part:

"I hope, after what we have heard from Dr. Farrand and Dr. Huddleston, that the doctrine of pre-destination as applied to consumption, is completely exploded in Plainfield. If we can only do away with the idea that it is a hereditary disease, the hopelessness of it will disappear. But old superstitions die hard. It took the Europeans 700 years to overcome the superstition that scrofula—which included tuberculosis—was a disease which could only be cured by the Royal touch. It was mixed up somehow with the Divine Right of Kings and came to be known as the 'King's Evil.' In the reign of Charles the 2d of England, 92,107 persons were touched, and according to the King's physician—Dr. Wiseman—they were nearly all cured! The custom lasted from the time of Edward the Confessor to that of George the First. We have no 'King' to touch us here—and the problem is one for democracy to solve. Suppose we measure it first. I am not going to bore you with a mass of statistics; just a little simple arithmetic.

"You have heard that consumption has been spread to a greater proportion of the people than any other disease, and that it is the most dangerous communicable disease with which sanitoria have to deal. It is said to kill one-seventh of the human race! There are at least 330,000 living consumptives in the United States, and the deaths from this disease number at least 110,000 a year. Perhaps we can grasp what this means better if we compare it with the costliest tragedy in our nation's history—the Civil War—which last four years and caused the deaths of 359,528 Union soldiers. There were only 67,058 killed in action; those who died from their wounds numbered 43,012 and the deaths from disease were 224,586. (There are now nearly a million Civil War pensioners on the roll and our pension bill amounts to $142,000,000 a year!)

"The deaths from tuberculosis in the last four years were probably 120,000 more than are credited to the whole Civil War. The deaths in a single year number 10,000 more than all the Union soldiers who fell in action or died from their wounds! And there is no pension fund for the families of consumptives! The total death rate of the Union army from all causes, was about 13 per cent., but the killed and those who died from wounds were only 3½ per cent. The death rate from consumption in the cities of the United States during the same period was probably about ½ of 1 per cent. If therefore, a life insurance company had been called upon to choose between the battle hazard and the tuberculosis hazard, the tables of mortality only, have given the city stay-at-homes seven chances to one in the comparison between bacilli and bullets.

"Now let us consider for a moment the social urgency of the problem. The losses from consumption under the age of 15 are very small. Its chief havoc is worked between the ages of 15 and 45. That is to say it attacks preferably young men and women who are just beginning to repay to society the capital that has been invested in them through the years of their helplessness and education; or those who, a little further on in life, are at the height of their productive capacity, and have families dependent on them.' (Lilian Brandt). Not only does it make an enormous loss in the aggregate productive power of the social body, but it has a large place among the causes of poverty. The records of the relief societies show that sickness is the cause of poverty in at least one case out of four. The long duration of consumption and its liability to fall on the chief wage-earner of the family gives it importance as a cause of poverty, out of proportion even to its importance as a cause of death! Remember that no laws, and no administrative measures can increase the number of births, but we can fight the death rate! The prevention of disease is not merely a matter for doctors. To lower the death rate is a part of social reform. In fact to multiply life's chances and apportunities is the very passion of the democracy!

"Just a word more as to the Plainfield point of view. The health of a community is said to be the measure of its well-being, and this city has been one of the first in the State to treat his question seriously. The death rate from tuberculosis in Plainfield is lower that in most cities, but it is larger than it need be! Mr. Thurlow will tell you presently what is being done, and what may be done to make this a model, not only for the State but for the Nation. The point I want to impress upon you is that our duty to our neighbor is social, as well as personal, and that we are concerned in the conditions of Jersey City, and Newark, and other places, almost as vitally as though we lived there. The suburbs must help the cities to fight this evil. This is essentially a city problem, and two-thirds of the population of New Jersey are living in the cities! We cannot separate ourselves from the mass of the people, even by living in model suburbs. There are very few places in New Jersey—or anywhere else for that matter—which have as definite municipal ideals as Plainfield has. We are still in the experimental stage of municipal organization and government in this country. In Europe, as Dr. Shaw puts it, 'the honesty and general efficiency of municipal government are not seriously in question anywhere. Municipal government from Scotland to Hungary is exalting the bacteriologist and the technical school and inquiring anxiously about the housing of the people.'

"In New York city, physicians are required to report their cases, just as in Plainfield. The reduction in the mortality from tuberculosis in New York since 1886 has been about 40 per cent.

"And now in closing, I want to explain Dr. Hedges' appeal to the people of Plainfield, to help along the newly organized State Association for the Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis. The membership fee has been put at a dollar a year in the hope that a large number will join. This is the first general appeal that has been made for it, and it would be a fine thing if Plainfield could lead the way tonight with a hundred applications!"

Dr. William H. Murray, who is a member of the State Board of Health, spoke of the importance of the crusade as viewed by the Board. He said:

"That the state is sadly in need of such a movement as was started in Newark a few weeks ago and as we hope is now being started in Plainfield, there can be no doubt. Our state statistics show that 3,380 persons died from consumption in New Jersey during the year 1904. Think of it! In one year in our state nearly 4,000 persons died of a disease the very existence of which it is possible to prevent.

"It is unnecessary to quote any more statistics to prove that this subject ought to lie deeply on the hearts and consciences of those of us who are state officials and especially of those of us who are charged with the care of the public health. While the work of stamping out tuberculosis is one which must of necessity be carried on mainly by local Boards of Health or by societies formed in the different communities, the State can do much by the passage of proper laws and the erection of proper sanitoria to hasten the extermination of this evil. The State or New Jersey has already begun the erection of an institution for the care of unfortunates who have contracted this disease and who must be treated in a hospital; for it is obviously wrong to expect such patients to be treated in the general hospitals throughout the state.

"The state is already doing much toward the stamping out of this malady in cattle, and thereby diminishing the chances of its transmission to mankind by meat and milk. And the State Board of Health is doing what it can with the limited funds afforded it to prevent the spread of tuberculosis through railroad cars, especially sleeping cars, and steamboats.

"Perhaps the work carried on by our State Laboratory is at present the most valuable to physicians and local Boards of Health; here at the small expense of 18 cents for postage for each examination, a test is made which will enable any physician to early determine the positive presence of this disorder, and showing beyond peradventure of a doubt the necessity for at once taking radical measures for curing this sickness in any given case.

"The law has prescribed that when any disease shall be declared by the State Board of Health to be dangerously communicable, then local Boards of Health may pass ordinances compelling physicians to report cases of the disease in question, and thereby enabling local Boards of Health to take the necessary steps for stamping it out. This malady has already been declared by your State Board to be of this nature, and splendidly have the members of your local Board taken up their part of the work. It is for you and me as citizens to hold up their hands by word of mouth and by encouraging the appropriation of money by the city, thus enabling them to maintain an effective warfare against this common foe.

"And just here may I say a word to my brother physicians who may be present: Gentlemen, you must help the local Board of Health more freely than you have done in the past; you must tell them promptly of the location of your cases or the Board can do nothing. Some years ago the local Board sent a courteous note to each physician requesting him to notify the Board of the location of any case of tuberculosis in his practice or to state that he had no cases. But two of the physicians made any response, but a third used the accompanying stamped envelope to send a communication to the Board on another subject, thereby saving himself two cents.

"It has been said that this is at present, a campaign of education. No doubt this is so, but it must soon become a campaign of action and I earnestly hope that within a short time we of Plainfield may point with pride at the improvement in our death rate as well as the improvement in other and larger fields.

"Again, on the part of the State Board of Health, let me wish this movement every success."

Health Inspector Leon R. Thurlow delivered the closing address, speaking on the work of the Plainfield Board of Health against consumption. He spoke as follows:

"Plainfield, in common with every city in the United States, has a high death rate from tuberculosis. During the past five years there have been 167 deaths from tuberculosis in Plainfield alone. This is 12 per cent. of the total deaths and an average of three deaths per month. This past year of 1905. there were 35 deaths, over 15 per cent. of which were persons between the ages of 20 and 40 years.

"The Plainfield Board of Health realizing that tuberculosis was a preventable disease, made its first move in 1901 in the adoption of an ordinance prohibiting spitting on the sidewalks of the public streets and upon the floors of public buildings and in street cars. Signs were posted in prominent places in public buildings and in railway cars; and, while up to the present time, this ordinance has not been strictly enforced and no arrests have been made as in some of the larger cities, the moral effect has been very good, especially in regard to the street cars and depot platforms. Today, the policemen and car conductors are supplied with a small yellow card on which is printed a warning against spitting; one of these cards handed to a passenger in a crowded car will usually be very effective.

"In 1902 tuberculosis was declared by the Board of Health to be communicable and dangerous to the public health, and physicians were required to report all cases coming under their professional attendance. Much trouble was experienced in compelling the physicians to report these cases promptly, but gradually the feeling against this is being overcome. In the majority of cases reported, no action is taken by the Board beyond recording them. But if the consumptive has the disease in an advanced stage and lives in a crowded boarding house or similar place, he will be required to move to some place where there is less danger of spreading the disease.

"Our house-to-house inspection of the past two years has shown that the housing facilities of Plainfield are very satisfactory. We are fortunate in having very few tenement houses and a correspondingly few instances of overcrowding. There are, however, a number of houses, principally single dwelling houses, that are in an unsanitary and uninhabitable condition and it is against these that we are now making a crusade. The work has already met with some success. One property is to be torn down and others are to be repaired and put in tenantable condition. It is the intention of the Board to continue this work until the city is entirely rid of such disease breeding places.

"Our inspection of milk and other food supplies which has been carried on so successfully for the past four years, has resulted in raising the standard of market milk sold in Plainfield. Today, the city is supplied with a good, wholesome milk, and this cannot but help to aid in the lessening of the number of deaths from tuberculosis.

"Disinfection is a very important part of a Board of Health's fight against consumption. In Plainfield, rooms which are vacated by a consumptive either on account of death or removal, are immediately disinfected and the family instructed to thoroughly clean the rooms. This work of disinfection is greatly handicapped by the frequent change of residence of a consumptive and the difficulty of obtaining knowledge of these changes. There is no doubt but that, when consumption is thoroughly understood that the family of a consumptive will be compelled by ordinance to report any change of residence.

"The Board of Health is aiding in the education of the people on the subject of tuberculosis by the wide distribution of circulars and also through the local papers. Circulars containing general information for the consumptive and those living with him, are supplied to all physicians for their use among their patients. This work of the Board would be more effective if supplemented by a well organized Anti-Tuberculosis Society. Such an association could send a nurse into the homes of the consumptives and show them the details of the treatment and how to live without being a danger to their family and friends.

"Such a movement, in combination with the work of the Board of Health, would undoubtedly greatly lessen the number of deaths from this dreaded disease."

In closing the meeting Dr. Hedges called attention to the fact that it was in caring for the infected sputum that the fundamental step in the prevention of tuberculosis lay. The dried sputum of consumptives, flying from the streets and the floors of public places, constituted the greatest danger in the spread of the disease. He strongly emphasized the need of compelling consumptives to dispose of the sputum by sanitary and hygienic ways.

CREATIONS IN MILLINERY CONSPICUOUSLY DISPLAYED.

The White Store's Showing in Charge of Miss Curns Attracts Attention.

The millinery showing at "The White Store," A. E. Force & Co., proprietors, is perhaps the most elaborate yet seen here. The window display includes two apple trees in full bloom with several hats of Parisian fashion arranged artistically in the foreground. The department is now reopened on the second floor, which the old firm discontinued two years ago. There are no old goods to offer, everything being new and fashionable.

Miss S. J. Curns, of Baltimore, formerly with Madame Stewart, who was in Paris for fifteen years, is in charge of the department. The hats shown at "The White Store" are her own design. Perhaps the most attractive is the "Elite," showing a combination of blue, red and green shades. This is a copy of the famous Mon. Virot French pattern. Another style shown is the Camille Roger, a natty shape filled in with lilies-of-the-valley and roses in green and pink, the right side having a cabershon encased in rosette of pink satin ribbon. Flowers will be used in profusion this year and Miss Burns has a large and choice stock of lilacs, Jack roses and bride roses, as well as all kinds of trimmings.

The general improvement of the store since January 1 is remarkable. New arc lights have been installed, the store has been papered and painted in white, and the new prism lights are effective, doing away with artificial light entirely. Other improvements include handsome new show windows, panelled oak doors, and the whole tone of the house has been transformed. The store is filled with all new goods and a most attractive feature is the prices which are moderate and perceptibly under New York prices. Women will find the millinery department a desirable place to visit. It is handsomely furnished and decorated with French plate mirrors, palms and roses.

A Record Breaker.

THE SALE AT

HEYMAN'S

SUCCESS

CROWDS ARE

IMMENSE

S. Heyman's Departm't Store

began a ten-day sale March 12, that, as a "crowd bringer" has never been equalled in Newark.

Mr. Heyman announced the fact in his advertisements heralding this sale that it was to be Sensational, and it truly is, not only from the standpoint of reductions, which are marked to even the most casual observer, but the throngs of customers that have simply swamped the store all day today have been marvelous. Long before the opening hour, which was scheduled for 9 o'clock, the throngs that packed the sidewalk in front of the store might have been likened to a mighty tidal wave, that swept through the aisles the moment the doors were thrown open. The large selling force had been strengthened by over one hundred additional salespeople.

It was a typical cosmopolitan gathering; old and young, big and little, rich and poor, grave and gay, blondes and brunettes; all with but a single thought, and that to share in the truly wonderful bargains that Heyman is giving.

Exclamations of pleasure and delight were heard on all sides as the qualities were examined and the low prices named.

This is unlike any other sale that has ever been put on in Newark, for it comes at the beginning of the season, whereas heretofore sales of various descriptions have always been held after the demand for merchandise has diminished; but, as Mr. Heyman announced, it was intended as a store advertisment, and as such he fully realized that in order to reap after benefits, it must leave only the most pleasant recollections in the minds of his patrons, and all Newark knows that S. Heyman's name in connection with any promise is a guarantee of its fulfillment to the letter.

The display alone is worth any shopper's time to visit this store. It is like a tour of discovery, for on every side and at every turn there is something there to please the eye—from the basement with its compact stock of sensible, serviceable, practical merchandise to the filmy, gauzy, sheer, clinging dainty lingerie on the second floor, it is one grand panorama of Spring's newest and best merchandise to fill every want.

We should employ hundreds of appropriated adjectives to do this vast assemblage, compassed by the five floors of this emporium, full justice. It has been gathered lavishly and judiciously. The variety is almost limitless.

S. HEYMAN.

MRS. APPLEGATE WELL AGAIN!

"I have had a bruised leg and foot for several years, caused by the brass eyelets of my shoe, which became very sore and painful especially at night. It itched, burned and ached me till it nearly set me crazy. I used everything I found and was suggested to ease it and nothing gave me any relief till I found and applied Axienza Cream which I think is a wonderful remedy for all sores and inflammation of the skin. The hard knots on my legs were as painful as bee stings, with discolored and purple spots. A running sore on my instep size of a half-dollar; the toe of my foot a seething sore clean around to my heel. The bone was sore for a whole year and very painful. I used five and one-half jars of Axienza Cream and healed the sore all up. The foot remained tender and I continued to use to strengthen and toughen the skin until now it is entirely well." (Signed) Mrs. Hannah Applegate, Evergreen Ave., Avon, N. J., Sept. 3rd, 1905. 50 cents. Ask the druggist or by mail. Axienza Specialties Co., Jersey City, N. J.

"The Man on the Box"

By HAROLD MacGRATH

Author of "The Grey Cloak," "The Puppet Crown."

Copyright, 1894, The Bobbs-Merrill Company.

The two men turned about. Annesley had fainted in his chair. Both Warburton and Karloff mechanically started forward to offer aid, but she repelled their approach.

"Do not come near me; you have done enough. Father, dear!" She slapped the colonel's wrists and unloosed his collar.

The antagonists, forgetting their own battle, stood silently watching hers. Warburton's mind was first to clear and without a moment's hesitation he darted from the room and immediately returned with a glass of water. He held it out to the girl. Their glances clashed; a thousand mute, angry questions in her eyes; a thousand mute, humble answers in his. She accepted the glass, and her hand trembled as she dipped her fingers into the cool depths and flecked the drops into the unconscious man's face.

Meanwhile Karloff stood with folded arms staring melancholically into the grate where his dreams had disappeared in smoke.

By and by the colonel sighed and opened his eyes. For a time he did not know where he was, and his gaze wandered mistily from face to face. Then recollection came back to him, recollection bristling with thorns. He struggled to his feet and faced Warburton. The girl put her arms around him to steady him, but he gently disengaged himself.

"Are you from the secret service, sir? If so, I am ready to accompany you wherever you say. I, who have left my blood on many a battle-ground, was about to commit a treasonable act. Allow me first to straighten up my affairs, then you may do with me as you please. I am guilty of a crime; I have the courage to pay the penalty." His calm was extraordinary, and even Karloff looked at him with a sparkle of admiration.

As a plummet plunges into the sea, so the girl's look plunged into Warburton's soul; and had he been an officer of the law, he knew that he would have utterly disregarded his duty.

"I am not a secret service man, sir," he replied unevenly. "If I were,"—pointing to the grate, "your plans would not have fed the fire."

"Who are you, then, and what do you in my house, in this guise?"—proudly.

"I am your head stable-man—for the present. It was all by chance. I came into this room yesterday to get a book on veterinary surgery. I accidently saw a plan. I have been a soldier. I knew that such a thing had no rightful place in this house. . . . I was coming across the lawn, when I looked into the window. . . . It is not for me to judge you, sir. My duty lay in destroying those plans before they harmed any one."

"No, it is not for you to judge me," said the colonel. "I have gambled away my daughter's fortune. To keep her in ignorance of the fact and to return to her the amount I had wrongfully used, I consented to sell to Russia the coast fortification plans of my country, such as I could draw from memory. No, it is not for you to judge me; only God has the right to do that."

"I am only a groom," said Warburton, simply. "What I have heard I shall forget."

Ah, had he but looked at the girl's face then!

A change came over Karloff's countenance; his shoulders drooped; the melancholy fire died out of his face and eyes. With an air of resignation and a clear sense of the proportion of things, he reached out and took up the note upon which Annesley had scrawled his signature.

Warburton, always alert, seized the count's wrist. He saw the name of a bank and the sum of five figures.

"What is this?" he demanded.

"It is mine," replied the count, haughtily.

Warburton released him.

"He speaks truly," said the colonel. "It is his."

"The hour of madness is past," the Russian began, slowly and musically. The tone was musing. He seemed oblivious of his surroundings and that three pairs of curious eyes were leveled in his direction. He studied the note, creased it, drew it through his fingers, smoothed it and caressed it. "And I should have done exactly as I threatened. There is, then, a Providence which watches jealously over the innocent? And I was a skeptic! . . . Two hundred thousand dollars,"—picking up the packet of bank-notes and balancing it on his hand. "Well it is a sum large enough to tempt any man. How the plans and schemes of men crumble to the touch! Ambition is but the pursuit of mirages. . . . . Mademoiselle, you will never know what the ignominy of this moment has cost me—nor how well I love you. I come of a race of men who pursue their heart's desire through fire and water. Obstacles are nothing; the end is everything. In Europe I should have won, in honor or in dishonor. But this American people, I do not quite understand them; and that is why I have played the villain to no purpose."

He paused, and a sad, bitter smile played over his face.

"Mademoiselle," he continued, "henceforth, wherever I may go, your face and the sound of your voice shall abide with me. I do not ask you to forget, but I ask you to forgive." Again he paused.

She uttered no sound.

"Well, one does not forget nor forgive these things in so short a time. And, after all, it was your father's folly. Fate threw him across my path at a critical moment—but I had reckoned without you. Your father is a brave man, for he has the courage to offer himself to the law; I have the courage to give you up. I, too, am a soldier; I recognize the value of retreat." To Warburton he said: "A groom, a hostler, to upset such plans as these! I do not know who you are, sir, nor how to account for your timely and peculiar appearance. But I fully recognize the falseness of your presence here. Eh, well, this is what comes of race prejudice, the seas less battle which has always been and always will be waged between the noble and the peasant. Had I observed you at the proper time, our positions might relatively have been changed. Useless retrospection!" To Annesley: "Sir, we are equally culpable. Here is this note of yours. I might, as a small contribution toward righting the comparative wrong which I have done you, I might cast it into the fire. But between gentlemen, situated as we are, the act would be as useless as it would be impossible. I might destroy the note, but you would refuse to accept such generosity at my hands,—which is well."

"What you say is perfectly true." The colonel drew his daughter closer to him.

"So," went on the count, putting the note in his pocket, "tomorrow I shall have my ducats."

"My bank will discount the note," said the colonel, with a proud look; "my indebtedness shall be paid in full."

THUMPING HEADACHES.

Many Plainfield Women Have Them, But Few Know the Real Cause.

Dull, thumping headaches,
Sick, prostrating headaches,
Dizzy, whirling, blind headaches—
Point to disorders of the kidneys,
Tell of uric poisons in the blood.
Narcotics may ease the pain
But won't cure the cause.
Doan's Kidney Pills cure the kidneys,
Remove uric poisons, purify the blood,
Banish headache, backache, urinary ills.
Here's Plainfield testimony to prove it.

Mrs. E. Derflinger, of 219 Mansion place, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Several weeks ago I began to have heavy dull pains in the top and back of my head. Backache continually clung to me and it seemed to me that my kidneys were weak and gradually breaking down. I also had a tired feeling, with a sort of languor or general depression. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, and as it was a case of 'any port in a storm,' I got a supply of this medicine at Randolph's pharmacy and before I had taken two boxes of it I found that my kidneys were acting stronger and better and the pains were leaving me. I continued with the treatment and am now able to say that Doan's Kidney Pills have cured me—at least I am not troubled any more and feel well and strong in every way."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

tioned the generous offer of still another citizen to donate all the shrubbery which may be needed to beautify the school grounds.

"The introduction of departmental instruction in the higher grammar grades, the abolition of mid-year promotions, and the stiffening of the High School curriculum by the restriction of electives, the thorough revision of the courses, and the extension of the commercial course to four years, are radical changes which will, we think, soon prove their value.

"The total enrollment of pupils for the school year 1904-5 was 1,171, and the average attendance 836. This year, to the first of March, the enrollment is 1,120, and the average attendance 926. The gain in regularity is largely due to freedom this year from the diseases of children, usually prevalent, and to the open weather of these winter months as compared with that of the previous year."

The financial report detailed the following figures: Receipts—Building fund, balance March 21, 1905, $16,364.02; sale of bonds, $4,000; total, $20,364.02. Manual training fund, $7,270.84; general fund, from all sources, $54,703.16; library fund, $196.88; total receipts, $82,534.90. Disbursements—Building fund, $20,242; manual training, $4,672.42; general fund, $39,225.20; library, $76.57. Balance in hands of custodian, $18,318.71.

Gift for Father Smyth.

Very Rev. Dean P. E. Smyth, rector of St. Joseph's R. C. church, Baldwin avenue, Jersey City, formerly of St. Mary's church, this city, was pleasantly remembered at the "Feast Day" exercises held last week at the parochial school, under the direction of Rev. Father Farley. It is the custom of the school to honor St. Patrick each year with special exercises, and as their beloved rector, Dean Smyth, bears the same name as the good Saint Patrick, he is honored at the same time.

William Newcorn, of this city, was among those who spoke in favor of them.

Thomas Hanna Returns From Erin Where He Saw American Machinery in General Use

IRELAND PROSPEROUS

Plainfielder Visited Scenes of His Youth and Incidently Witnessed An Election Typically American.

Thomas Hanna, a well known Plainfielder, returned to the city yesterday after spending three months abroad, principally at his old home in the north of Ireland. He reached New York Tuesday on the steamship Columbia after a pleasant voyage, enjoying the best of health.

Mr. Hanna sailed last December in order to be with relatives on the Emerald Isle on Christmas Day, and reached there almost to the hour he had anticipated. The trip over was made on the maiden voyage of the Carmania, the Cunard line's new turbine steamer, and he is enthusiastic over its behavior. A dozen or more experts were on board to watch every action of the vessel and they were unanimous in their declaration that this new type of seagoing craft is a complete success. As a result of their report two other Cunard boats now ped with turbine engines and quadruple propellers that will develop a speed of twenty-five knots and cut the trans-Atlantic running time to less than five days. The Caronia, built at the same time as the Carmania, is driven by the familiar expansion engines, and the comparison between the two shows that the turbines will soon be used exclusively.

The Plainfielder's principal stopping place was at Bangor, near Belfast, the home of the Royal Ulster Yacht Club, of which Sir Thomas Lipton is a member When he arrived there on Christmas the verdure was as green as it is here in May and cattle were grazing in the fields. This seems remarkable in contrast to this section of the country, when it is considered that Ireland is fifteen degrees further north than New York and he says it is no wonder that it is called the Emerald Isle. He found the country in a very prosperous condition and was gratified to see the farmers using American reapers, binders and plows. The Irish manufacturers also depend on America to no small extent for their machinery. One of Mr. Hanna's fellow voyagers on the way over was a Yankee bound for an inland city to set up machines in a factory that contained American made hosiery machinery. This fact was also noted by him during his travels in Scotland and England, taken in connection with his visit.

Being more or less familiar with the American political "game," Mr. Hanna was particularly interested in an election that took place while he was at Bangor. The contest was for members of Parliament, with Home Rule and Unionism, Free Trade and Protection as the principal issues. The candidates toured the districts in automobiles and adopted practically every method known on this side of the pond to secure votes. The contest varied little from those agitating Union county once a year, but there was a decided difference in getting the returns. The election was held on Saturday, and though it was a "hot" one, the voters were content to wait until late Monday morning to learn the results.

When engaging passage for his return trip, Mr. Hanna was struck to note the large exodus of Irish folk to western Canada. Though the island is now in a better condition industrially than it has been in many years, the emigrating continues without cessation and it is becoming a matter for serious contemplation on the part of the government.

CIRCUS TWO NIGHTS.

Dates of Boys' Affair Announced; Strong Features.

Final arrangements are being made for the Boys' Club circus. It was announced yesterday that the affair would be presented two nights, Thursday and Friday, April 19 and 20.

Strong features will be on the programme. One of the novelties is to be a series of difficult pyramids on Roman ladders. The moves make up a novelty requiring considerable strength and accurate balancing. The ladders are no fastened in any way and must be steadied by the performers. The boys are working hard at rehearsals, under Clarence Pope's direction.

—Neuman Brothers are the local selling agents for Rockdale print and creamery butter. Use it once and you will use it always.

Miss Ida Furman, of Craig place, is detained at home by an attack of tonsilitis.

MUSICAL BY PUPILS OF FRANKLIN SCHOOL

ENJOYABLE PROGRAMME ADMIRABLY PRESENTED BEFORE LARGE AUDIENCE.

For the benefit of the chapel and class-room decoration fund, the pupils of Franklin School held a musical entertainment last night, in the assembly room of the school. There was a large attendance.

The entertainment was markedly successful. The programme was well balanced, and the numbers were admirably executed. Even if much of the audience had not been composed of mammas and papas and brothers and sisters and friends of the pupils, the entertainers would have won warm applause.

A chorus of forty voices, trained by Miss Alice C. Miller, of the faculty, took part in the programme. Piano solos were played by Margery Miller, Felix Janke, Elsie Tier, Irene Samuel, Helen Woolley, Helen Ford, Ethel Searing, Amy Horner, Laura Bristol and Miss Miller., Miss Searle, of the faculty, sang. She and Miss Miller played a duet on the piano. Helen Woolley recited. The programme consisted of eighteen numbers, divided into two parts.

Miss Bullock, principal of the school, arranged the musicale, assisted by Miss Miller.

WEIGHTY COPS WIN FROM SLENDER MATES.

Comic Opera Basketball Game Exalts Avoirdupois Over Numbers and Skill.

Avoirdupois proved a mighty factor in basketball yesterday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. Made irresistible by their aggregate weight, four fast cops defeated four lean cops and a svelt baseball pitcher. The game was part of the cops' weekly gymnasium training. Lou Wiltse, the twirler, was taking his daily work-out, and joined the bluecoats. The fat quartette landed the victory by a score of 10 to 6.

The game was planned originally on ordinary lines, but the fat heavyweights clamored to be allowed to play together. The slender sleuths protested, but finally agreed to go on if the fat ones would rate their quartette as equal to five ordinary men. The lineup agreed to was as follows: Heavyweights—Higgins, Overbaugh, Payne and Frederickson; Lightweights—McKeon, Keefe, Stillwell, McCarthy-Wiltse (counted one man).

The lightweights chuckled when the game began. They thought they were about to play rings around the heavies. The chuckles died away when the fat team got into action. It was ponderous, but it had the get-there faculty of avalanches and pile-drivers. When Payne bumped into McCarthy-Wiltse, the dual collapse that followed was disheartening to the mates of the combination player. Overbaugh and Higgins did mighty execution. The lightweights put up a lively fight, but they were outbumped. Lou Wiltse, however, gave a great exhibition of speedy footwork.

VAN ALSTYNE-FITCH.

Westfield Girl Becomes Wife of Chatham, N. Y., Man.

Miss Bessie Allen Fitch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Fitch, of Elm street, Westfield, and Hugh Van-Alstyne, of Old Chatham, N. Y., were married at 8:15 o'clock last night, at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. Dr. J. W. Wright, pastor of the M. E. church, performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. Mr. Anderson, of Jersey City, and Rev. Mr. Starks, of Montclair.

The bride was attended by Miss Marjorie Fitch, of Dunellen, a niece, as maid-of-honor, and Ralph Fitch was the best man. The flower girls were Virginia Pearsall, Eleanor Pearsall and Dorothy Pearsal, cousins of the bride.

The house was profusely decorated with flowers, palms and ferns, the arrangements being very effective in the parlor and dining room. There was a large gathering of relatives and friends, and the bride was generously remembered with handsome gifts.

The couple left during the evening on a honeymoon trip and upon their return will reside at Old Chatham, N. Y., where the groom is engaged in business.

New Orient Members.

A large delegation of Juniors went to Dunellen last night, when the Dunellen Orient degree men took in five members. The work was done by the team of O. C. No. 14, of this city. Refreshments were served after the agony.

Dates for Religious Meetings.

Arrangements have been completed by the Religious Society of Friends for the special services to be held at the meeting-house on Watchung avenue. The dates decided upon are Saturday and Sunday, April 21-22.

BOOKS FOR PRISONERS

Senator Ackerman Introduces Bill For State Support of Traveling Libraries.

ON THIRD READING

Measure Provides for Literature Being Supplied to Penal and Correctional Institutions.

Senator Ackerman introduced another measure of importance in the Legislature, yesterday, which will prove a boon to men behind prison walls should it become a law. The measure provides that traveling libraries may be furnished to the penal and correctional institutions of the State. It appropriates for that purpose $1,000 as a nucleus for a fund to carry on the work.

The bill was refererd to the committee on educational and was immediately brought out again with favorable recommendations. It was passed on second reading and as soon as possible Senator Ackerman will bring it up for final passage. So far as can be learned there is no opposition to the scheme in the Senate. What view the House will take of it is not known.

The Senator's bill was introduced as a result of the work of a committee appointed by the State Charities Aid Association. On this committee are Dr. Henry M. Maxson, Mrs. Dexter Tiffany, James P. Murray and Miss Emma Adams, all of Plainfield. They are working hard to have it acted upon favorably and will use their efforts to enlist the Governor's interest.

A provision of the bill precludes any possibility of the books sent to penal and correctional institutions ever circulating in any municipality. Should it become a law the prisoners in the Union county jail and at the Rahway Reformatory will have good wholesome literature supplied to them regularly.

Y. M. C. A. PLANS TO DRAW 300 MORE MEMBERS.

Aiming at the 1,000 Mark; General Campaign Is Outlined.

Plans for a campaign of enlargement were announced at the Y. M. C. A. this morning. An effort is to be made to swell the membership to 1,000. It is 700 at present.

The membership committee recently met to consider ways and means of building the association up, and it was decided that a general campaign should be started. Every member, by means of letters and personal appeals, will be urged to join it. The association officials are sanguine of speedy success. Last year, a campaign conducted on lines less aggressive than has just been planned swelled the membership by 300.

In connection with the plans for growth, the association is arranging improvements for the rooms. One of the new features will be a well-equipped game room.

GAMES IN NEW GYM.

High School Fives to Play There Tomorrow.

First actual use of their new spick-and-span gymnasium will be made by the High School boys tomorrow night. The two basketball teams will play strong fives, and strive to initiate the gymn with two rattling victories. The first team will play the Wanamassa quintet and the second team will meet the Hope chapel juniors.

The first combination, which is champion of the interscholastic association of the borough and city, will line up as follows: Smith, Collier, forwards; S. Freeman, centre; Doane, Caldwell, H. Freeman, guards.

A big crowd is expected at the games. A chance to see the new gymnasium in use is counted on to attract a large audience, even if the prospect of the games themselves does not.

Concluding Chamber Concert.

The last of the McIntyre chamber concerts for this season will be given at the Casino tonight and the well selected programme and artists who will appear assures a treat to music lovers. Mr. McIntyre, whose work as a pianist is well known here, will have Vladimir Dubinsky, 'cellist, as his soloist, and the assisting artist will be Mrs. Aimee Horton Dalzell, soprano, of Brooklyn. Isidor Schnitzler will be the violinist and Josef Kovarik, viola.

Justice Mosher's Court.

The contract case brought by Thatcher & Co., wholesale milk dealers, against John N. Stillwell, in Justice Mosher's court, was decided for the plaintiff yesterday by default. C. M. Dolliver was the plaintiffs' lawyer.

EXCELLENT MENU AT CHURCH SUPPER

THE SEVENTH-DAY BAPTIST CHURCH WOMEN'S ANNUAL AFFAIR.

The annual supper under the auspices of the Women's Society for Christian Work of the Seventh-Day Baptist church was held in the parlors last night from 6 to 8 o'clock and during those hours liberal patronage was accorded. The parlors were attractively decorated and the numerous small tables at which supper was served were garnished with flowers and candelabra.

The menu was an excellent one and was served ala carte, giving patrons the choice of many delectable dishes from clam bisque soup to ice cream and coffee, with the more substantial food between.

The supper committee from the society comprised Mrs. Marcus L. Clawson, chairman; Mrs. Joseph G. Miller,, Mrs. T. C. Smith and Mrs. Arthur L. Titsworth. The dining room was in charge of Mrs. Asa F. Randolph and the waitresses were Mrs. Charles H. Dunham, Miss Etta Randolph, Miss Silpha Williams, Mrs. Nathan E. Lewis, Mrs. George L. Homan, Miss Ethel Titsworth, Miss Matie Green, Miss Mildred Green, Miss Mary St. John, Dr. Martha R. Stillman, Miss Ernestine C. Smith. Mrs. F. A. Dunham was the cashier.

After the supper an entertainment was provided by H. Bernard Coombe, who gave a number of phonograph selections, comprising some of the latest musical productions.

The feature of the entertainment was readings by Henry A. McGee, of North Plainfield, of selections from his journal on his trip around the world. Mr. McGee took this trip about a year ago and he reduced to writing many interesting incidents which form the basis of an instructive talk concerning foreign countries. Mr. McGee has given this talk on one of two other occasions, but it was new to those who heard it last night and was fully enjoyed. After the talk, Mr. Coombe rendered additional selections on his phonograph.

The proceeds from last night's affair will be placed in the treasury of the society to assist in the many departments of work in which it is interested.

COLBY'S OPPOSITION

Lively Skirmish Over Union County Senator's Amendment—No Action Until Next Tuesday.

Senator Ackerman presented an amendment to the Perkins railroad tax bill in the Senate yesterday striking out the words "including franchises." This would take out of the bill the taxing of railroad franchises. Mr. Ackerman said franchises should not be taxed because it was a tax on brains. His position on the bill was told exclusively in The Daily Press yesterday.

Senator Colby opposed this amendment.

After this preliminary skirmish, Leader Hillery took a hand and secured the delay until next Tuesday. During the discussion Senator Wakelee declared that the Senate would pass an equal tax bill if it took all summer. Senator Hillery took the ground that while senators might vote for or against amendments, they might wish to do differently when the bill was considered as a whole.

He suggested that all amendments be submitted to the Senate and then be printed and sent to the members of the Assembly at once. Then when all came next Tuesday the work of considering this important measure would be greatly facilitated, and could be done much more intelligently. Senator Hillery said that no man could sit at his desk and vote intelligently on amendments when they were offered, whereas if they were presented and printed, and the legislators had time to consider them, they could tell exactly how they desired to vote.

Senator Horner of Burlington supported Mr. Hillery to have the amendments printed. Then Senator Wakelee of Bergen made the motion to lay the whole matter over for a time. Senator Colby asked when this would be, and Senator Wakelee proposed next Tuesday.

Talking on this motion, Mr. Colby declared that delay was unnecessary, as every member of the Senate knew what the amendments would be.

Senator McKee of Passaic said: "I agree with the proposition to postpone the consideration of amendments until Tuesday. If the matter was to come up this afternoon and the bill go on third reading, I am ready to vote for the Perkins bill as it stands, but if amendments were proposed, that would change the situation."

Senator Wakelee's motion to postpone consideration until Tuesday was adopted.

Senator Colby offered a substitute bill calling for the assessment and taxation of all railroad property by the municipalities at local rates. This is the bill introduced in the House earlier in the session by Assemblyman Arrowsmith, the Colbyite from Hudson.

Senator Bradley offered as a substitute the bill which he drew, and which he had Assemblyman Scovel introduce in the House some time ago. This taxes railroad franchises at one per cent, instead of the average State rate as proposed by the Perkins bill, and means a saving in taxes for the railroads of nearly $1,000,000 as compared with the Perkins measure. It would be greatly to the advantage of the railroads to have this substitute pass. In fact, it is believed that the railroads had the measure drawn.

Senator Minturn, Democratic leader, also offered an amendment, providing for the taxation of all railroad property at the local rates. The amendments will all be printed, and will be taken up Tuesday morning.

The Perkins bill, which taxes railroad main property at the average State tax rate, was taken up in the Senate and after a discussion, during which various amendments were offered, was made the special order for next Tuesday morning. In the House Leader Perkins introduced a bill providing for the assessment and taxation of second-class railroad property by the municipalities at local rates. This bill repeals the Duffield act, passed last year, under which the State assesses and taxes second-class property at the local rate, collects the tax and returns it to the municipalities.

Plan to Increase Revenue.

For the purpose of increasing the revenue, the committee of twenty from the Men's Club of the First Baptist church has undertaken the task of getting every member to contribute toward the support of the church through the envelope system, agreeing to give a stated amount each week. The envelope system has been in use at the church for some time and has proven a success. The effort now is to get every one to lend his support by the system.

MEMORIAL TABLET FOR REV. DR. YERKES

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH DECIDES UPON IT AT ANNUAL MEETING.

In memor of the late Rev. Dr. David J. Yerkes, who was pastor of the First Baptist church for nearly fifty years, a tablet will be placed in the church, besides those erected in memory of preceding pastors. This action was taken at the business meeting of the church, last night, upon the recommendation of the Board of Deacons, and a committee will be appointed to see that the work is done.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Osgood and son were received by letter from the Clarendon Street Baptist church, Boston, and Mrs. Philip Drake was received on confession, while letters were granted to several members to unite with churches in other cities.

Owing to the rapidly increasing membership of the church it was recommended that the Board of Deacons be increased by four additional officers. Thomas C. Aldrich, Samuel P. Case, Reuben Knox and B. J. Shreve were chosen. The resignation of Henry E. Needham, who has moved to Newark, was accepted and at the next business meeting his successor will be elected.

Dr. J. B. Probasco, of the Board of Deacons, submitted the treasurer's report of the poor fund, which showed receipts of about $700 and expenditures of about $600, with a balance of over $90 on hand

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE TENDERED HARRY BLIMM.

Delightful Affair Arranged in Honor of His Twenty-first Natal Day.

In honor of the twenty-first anniversary of his birthday, friends of Harry Blimm, of Somerset street, tendered him a surprise party, last night. He was inveigled out of the house shortly after 8 o'clock and when he returned an hour later he was ushered into the parlor where the gathering of young people was quietly awaiting his coming. The surprise was complete and it was several minutes before the victim recovered his composure.

The feature of the fun that followed was the playing of progressive games. The prizes were won by Miss Sadie Brown and George Pope, firsts, and Mrs. Edward Clark and Walter Emmons, seconds. There were also vocal and instrumental selections by Edward Clark, Thomas DeMeza, Geo. C. M. Smith, Jack Hall and Jack Todd. Dancing was taken up and continued until after midnight. Mr. Blimm received several handsome and appropriate presents.

Among those in attendance were Miss Sadie Brown, Miss Florence Altz and Miss Alta McConnell, of New York; the Misses Badum, of Dunellen; the Misses Agnes Bailey, Elizabeth Guinee, Mayme Brady, Rose Brady, May Duckworth, and Katharine Blimm, Mrs. George Pope and Mrs. Edward Clark; Clarence Brokaw, George Pope, Edward and Bertram Clark, Jack Todd, Bertram C. Firstbrook, Thomas M. Muir, Walter Emmons, George C. M. Smith, Harry and Thomas DeMeza, William Doud and Edward Bennett. The surprise was arranged by Mrs. Clark and Miss Katherine Blimm.

STOLE SHINEY SHOES.

Nathaniel Harvey's Love of the Beautiful Leads to Arrest.

John Robinson, colored, appeared against Nathaniel Harvey, also colored, before Justice Mosher this morning, to press a charge of petty larceny. The prisoner was accused of stealing the defendant's best pair of patent leather shoes.

Robinson and Harvey are waiters in a fashionable boarding house. A month ago Robinson bought a pair of $3.50 pats, and their glistening splendor ravaged the feelings of Harvey. One day the shoes disappeared from his room. He had his suspicions but it wasn't until his wife, sleuthing about the shoemakers' shops in the neighborhood of the boulevard, saw Patrick Corrigan, of Liberty street, at work on a familiar pair of shiney shoes that the disappearance could be traced to Harvey.

He had no defense to offer, and Justice Mosher held him for the grand jury in $100 bail.

Indoor Baseball Practice.

The High School pitching staff, and a few selected infield possibilities, will turn out for first real indoor practice in the school gymnasium tomorrow afternoon. The whole team will not get together for a week or two. Only the selected few will be allowed to use the gymnasium. The faculty has decided to restrain the pupils from general use of the gymnasium until after Easter.

Arion Club Dance.

An informal dance will be held in Co. K armory, West Front street, Tuesday night, April 3, under the auspices of the Arion Club. Music will be furnished by Suhr's Imperial Orchestra.

BOROUGH BILL PASSES

Measure to Incorporate South Plainfield Goes Through the Assembly.

NOW IN THE SENATE

Introduced by Assemblyman Drake on January 22—Final Action Taken Yesterday.

Through the persistent efforts of residents of the village, a proposed act to incorporate South Plainfield as a borough has landed in the Senate and as quicky as action is taken there, it will be up to Governor Stokes to sign the measure. When that is done, South Plainfield will no longer be a part in the government of Piscataway township but can go ahead and elect a mayor and other borough officials.

Assemblyman Drake presented the measure on January 23, known as house bill No. 75, and there was no opposition to it from his colleagues at that time. The contest had taken place in the committee room, where residents of other parts of Piscataway had put up a stubborn fight to kill the bill. Their opposition to the secession arose from the fact that South Plainfield pays more than one-third of the taxes and had more than one-third of the inhabitants of the entire township. A party of South Plainfielders, including Col. J. I. Holly and William Hamilton, were on hand yesterday in the Assembly to help to see the bill go through on final passage, and did much to convince others that the bill was just.

The proposed law follows:

"Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

"The inhabitants of that portion of the township of Piscataway, in the county of Middlesex and State of New Jersey, hereinafter mentioned and described, are hereby constituted and declared to be a body corporate in fact and in law by the name of 'The Borough of South Plainfield,' and as such shall be governed by the general laws of that State relating to boroughs.

"The boundaries of said borough shall be as follows:

"Beginning at the junction of the Union county line and Seventh street; thence southwest along Seventh street to New Brunswick avenue; thence southerly along New Brunswick avenue to the Samptown creek; thence following the Samptown creek easterly to a point three hundred feet east of the county bridge at Samptown; thence southerly in a direct line from that point to the northwest corner of A. Steengraff's farm; thence along the west line of said farm to the west line of Samuel R. Manning's farm; thence along said Manning's west line to the public road; thence along this public road southeast to the west line of McAdams and Titus farms; thence southerly along the west lines of McAdams' and Titus' farms to the southwest corner of the Titus farm, and thence easterly to the Raritan township line; thence northeast along said line to the Union county line to the point or place of beginning.

"This act shall take effect immediately."

LOCAL ELKS TO ASSIST.

Members of Plainfield Lodge Will Participate in Dedication.

New Brunswick Lodge of Elks will dedicate its new hall tonight and Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, has been specially invited to assist in the ceremony. The Plainfielders have planned to attend, leaving by special trolley from the Watchung avenue terminus at 7 o'clock. The dedication is to be conducted on a large scale and delegations will be present from all parts of the State. A street parade is to precede the ceremonies in the building.

The local arrangements have been in the hands of a committee composed of William J. O'Keefe, George Johnson and John Slevin.

Miss Ethel Gregg to Sing.

An attractive programme has been prepared for the Lenten organ recital to be given at the Holy Cross church Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock, by Mr. Lee, organist and choirmaster. A WOMAN TO BE PRETTY

Must Have Luxuriant and Glossy Hair, No Matter What Color.

The finest contour of a female face, the sweetest smile of a female mouth, loses something if the head is crowned with scant hair. Scant and falling hair, it is now known, is caused by a parasite that burrows into the scalp to the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality. The little white scales the germ throws up in burrowing are called dandruff. To cure dandruff permanently, then, and to stop falling hair, that germ must be killed. Newbro's Herpicide, an entirely new result of the chemical laboratory, destroys the dandruff germ, and, of course, stops the falling hair, and prevents baldness. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

This report while not official was said to have been "practically confirmed" by Charles A. Conant, vice president of the Morton Trust Company, of which Thomas F. Ryan is the dominant factor. This also brought out the alleged long-standing rivalry between Mr. Ryan and J. Pierpont Morgan for the honor and profit of being fiscal agent of the Pope in America.

LITERARY.

In Munich and Vienna, the churches on Good Friday are the scene of a very striking picture of the burial of Christ. A figure of the Saviour is carried in state around the church to the altar, where is a sepulcher, to which access, through an opening formed by artificial rocks, awaits it. The windows are darkened and, through the gloom, the eyes of thousands of awed worshipers are drawn to the tomb, where a solitary light illumines the white-palled figure of the crucified Christ....One of the most peculiar of these continental celebrations of Easter is that which for centuries has been practised by the monks of Ronoevaux. As day breaks on the morning of Good Friday, a long procession of the monks files out through the gateway of the abbey each bearing on his back an enormous and heavy cross, by way of annual penance and inimitation of what they consider to have been one of the severest forms of Christ's physical suffering. Through hamlets and villages, this pathetic procession makes its way, in spite of the trembling knees and aching muscles, while the villagers, with bare and bowed heads, do homage to the cross. That their penance may lack nothing of severity, these monks strike into the country, choosing the steepest and roughest paths.—The April Metropolitan Magazine.

David Graham Phillips has written an appreciation for the April number of Appleton's Booklover's Magazine entitled "Tom Johnson: A Type of the Commonsense American." It is an extraordinary description written in an entirely new vein, virile, interesting, and convincing. The writer thinks that the East is becoming effete, and that we must look to the West for the best type of American. He says: "Now that England and aristocratic Europe have spread over almost the whole of the prosperous, educated, leading classes in the East the slather of superciliousness, we have to look to the West for our typical American—simple, self-respecting, no cringer, no faker, with a sense of humor, not solemn, not a despiser or a looker-down—the American gentleman. Tom Johnson stands as a very fair, all-round specimen of this species. And there are millions like him. And that fact should give us firm faith that the reign of money bags, interrupted but hardly disturbed by occasional reigns of wind bags, will not be permanent."

Most people do no know that the most powerful trust in the world is the Coal Trust, dominated at present by that remarkable personality, George Franklin Baer. The whole story of this alarming monopoly, its origin, history, and present power, is told for the first time in two notable articles by Hartley Davis on "The Coal Trust, the Labor Trust, and the People who Pay." Read the first of these articles in the April Everybody's and see what you think about the probable future of this omnipotent commercial monster. Contrast, too, with this story of greed and violence Charles Edward Russell's peaceful picture of Switzerland, the Trust-less country, in the current instalment of "Soldiers of the Common Good." The happiest, most honest, best-governed people in the world are, according to Mr. Russell, the Swiss. In this miniature republic, the civic, national, commercial problems that are so sorely afflicting us have reached an almost perfect solution; Switzerland is our best object lesson. Her citizens know nothing of corruption or monopolies; and they are contended with their lot: a people worth reading about.

GOTHAM'S AMUSEMENTS

Raymond Hitchcock continues to be one of the favorite attractions in the metropolis, and his humorous characterization of Copeland Schuyler, a make-believe war correspondent in Richard Harding Davis' merry farce, "The Galloper," at the Garden theatre, is demonstrated nightly before large audiences. Nothing that this genial and popular comedian has lately done is more suited to his talents than the above mentioned part. His affable and insistent comedy methods, the satirical and brilliant epigrammatic lines and the situations of the comedy all combine to make it an entertainment par excellence.

Hitchcock recently met an old friend, a Parisian, who was touring this country for the first time. Calling upon Mr. Hitchcock at the Garden theatre, he was discussing the charms of American women. Asked Hitchcock:

"Do you like a lady with blue, gray, brown or black eyes?"

"Mon Dieu," replied his French friend, "I care not what ze color of ze eye of mademoiselle is as long as she has ze green back."

"Mexicana," which has had a successful run of many weeks at the Lyric, has many song successes to its credit. On the night of the premiere in New York, "Supposing," a catchy number, designed to send an audience away whistling and humming it, was repeatedly demanded. Miss Christie MacDonald and Edmund Stanley "suppose" many things about each other, which are easily explained away by the refrain "I Was Just Supposing." The play is gorgeously mounted. With its adobe church, its blood red flowers, the deep blue of the Indian maidens' gowns, it quickly wins the eye. Thos. Q. Seabrooke has many opportunities to use his comedy methods, which bring him much applause, and dainty Christie MacDonald, as Tita, an Indian pottery vender, in her brown gown and many-coloured beads, lifts the little maiden into a prominence not usual. Edmund Stanley has one solo, "United We Stand." A large chorus, most beautifully costumed with brilliant serapes, conical shaped hats, velvets and silks richly embroidered in gold and silver, bright beads and gorgeously colored draperies, is one of the features of the play. As usual, the Messrs. Shubert have outdone themselves in the way of beautiful and appropriate settings. The book was written by Clara E. Driscoll, who was born in Texas and knows her "Mananaland" perfectly. Raymond Hubbell's music is so universally of the popular type that it has caught the fancy of the public and is now to be heard everywhere.

The Sultan's "Devil Wagon."

The Sultan, who alone of all European sovereigns has until now remained impervious to the attractions of motoring, has through the good offices of the Khedive of Egypt been induced to accept a present of a superb uatomobile from a well know Parisian firm of manufacturers. His Majesty, however, declined to get into the car, or "devil wagon" as he terms it, until every bit of machinery had been taken apart and explained to him with the view of proving its solidity. Abdul Hamid is no lover of novelties; wireless telegraphy he characterized as an "invention of the evil one," and ordered out of his presence the experts who came to demonstrate its power, with orders never to bring the apparatus before him again. He will oppose its introduction into the Turkish capital.—London Tid-Bits.

General Booth's Daily Menu.

It is interesting to know what a man of Gen. Booth's age and vitality lives on. Here is his day's menu. For breakfast he takes a moderate quantity of buttered toast, with strong tea and an equal portion of milk. Between breakfast and lunch he eats a few raisins. For lunch he has a bowl of vegetable soup with dry toast soaked in it, vegetables, especially potatoes cooked in their jackets, and whatever green stuff is in season. Then he sleeps from a quarter to half an hour. Tea is similar to breakfast, with the occasional addition of a few mushrooms. For supper he takes invariably a plate of rice and milk.

A LETTER ALL WOMEN SHOULD READ.

"My Bissell sweeper is one of the treasures of my home. Two years ago I was an invalid, making sweeping and dusting duties to be dreaded. Reading about the Bissell sweeper, I concluded to buy one, and feel it my duty to tell you how greatly pleased I am with it. I can do my sweeping now in much less time, and without fatigue, and don't have to use the dust pan or duster. The sweeper gives a gratifying freshness to my carpets, and with no dust settling back upon draperies or curtains, or carrying disease to the household, I look upon the Bissell sweeper as a priceless invention. I would not be without one for four times the price."

We have received thousands of letters of this tenor from users of our sweepers throughout the world.

Its a Funny Idea

some dealers have about our stock being just the same. We know it isn't. Beef, Veal, Lamb, or Pork which has been carefully raised and fed will taste better and give more nourishment than "wild" meats. We don't sell any but prime Meats, and a customer can sit down to a roast or steak, or chops from here without fear of hurting his teeth or his sense of taste. Prices won't hurt anybody's pocket, either. We sell Arens' delicious Broilers.

MRS. APPLEGATE WELL AGAIN!

"I have had a bruised leg and foot for several years, caused by the brass eyelets of my shoe, which became very sore and painful especially at night. It itched, burned and ached me till it nearly set me crazy. I used everything I found and was suggested to ease it and nothing gave me any relief till I found and applied Azienza Cream which I think is a wonderful remedy for all sores and inflammation of the skin. The hard knots on my legs were as painful as bee stings, with discolored and purple spots. A running sore on my instep size of a half-dollar; the toe of my foot a seething sore clean around to my heel. The bone was sore for a whole year and very painful. I used five and one-half jars of Azienza Cream and healed the sore all up. The foot remained tender and I continued to use to strengthen and toughen the skin until now it is entirely well." LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The new drama, "Lincoln," which is the offering at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night, has been declared by the press, public and pulpit of the larger New England cities, where it has been seen during the past five weeks, as the most powerful production of the year on the dramatic stage. Benjamin Chapin, who appears in the leading role, that of President Lincoln, is the author of the play. He is supported by a strong metropolitan cast, including such well known players as Maude Granger, Daisy Lovering, Francis McGinn, Malcolm Duncan, W. H. Pascoe, Francis Barton, J. H. Lewis, George Clarke and others. The drama is one that appeals both to the patriotic, humorous and sympathetic sentiments of the audience. From all parts of the house, from the gallery as well as the boxes, come laughter, tears, applause and cheers. An interesting, fascinating story is told in an engaging way of stirring incidents of the War of the Rebellion, beginning with the fall of Fort Sumter and including the victory of the North at Gettysburg. A sweet love story runs throughout the plot. Besides depicting scenes historically true of the times, the great character of Abramham Lincoln is drawn with natural and distinct strokes as the central figure of the picture, all the other incidents and scenes fitting into a background full of color and life.

James Lackaye, who has done the best work of his stage career as Simon Peter Martin, the irrascible village boss of "York State Folks," will be seen in his original role upon the special engagement in Plainfield of this biggest of rural successes.

"At Piney Ridge," which comes to the New Plainfield theatre Monday night, is a strong well written production that has a story to tell and tells it well. The interest is intense, the tone of it breezy as the pine hills of Tennessee from which it takes its name, and in which it is located. There is a love story in the main threads that leads the listener along without pause or lack of interest. He is held in rapt attention at every turn of the play. The plot is sustained to the fall of the final curtain and no character overtires by too much, if such a term may be used. Mr. Higgins has so balanced his scenes that one part contrasts with some other, to the advantage of both. Fine new settings of this beautiful drama are to be shown and all its opportunities are well utilized to make a worthy and adequate entertainment.

One of the best bits of negro comedy acting of the season will be seen in "As Told in the Hills," which will play at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday night. The play is regarded as the strongest melodrama produced this season and one that has met with deserved success from its first performance. Miss Emily Gale, the talented young actress who has been starring in "The Moonshiner's Daughter" for the last three years, will play the leading part, which was written for her especially.

No melodrama of late years has met with such phenomenal success and unbounded praise from patrons and press alike as "The Convict's Daughter." Young and old, people of all conditions and classes and all localities, flock to see this pretty little play season after season, with the same enthusiasm. Manager Counihan announces the appearance of "The Convict's Daughter" at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night.

Thomas Dixon, Jr., author of "The Clansman," which will be played at the New Plainfield theatre on Friday,

Thomas Dixon, Jr., Author of "The Clansman," at New Plainfield Theatre March 30.

March 30, recently challenged Booker T. Washington to a joint debate on the negro problem and offered to contribute ten thousand dollars from the profits of "The Clansman" to Tuskegee Institute if the mulatto college president could furnish proof that he was personally opposed to social equality of the white and colored races. The offer is still standing. Brother Washington is mum.

Plainfield, N. J., March 22, 1906.

No one will dispute that the members of the Legislature are earning their salt this year.

"Judge" Hamilton's bombardment of words only goes to show that "when thieves fall out it is time for honest men to get together."

South Plainfield is determined to paddle its own canoe. The first successful effort in its move to quit working for the township was made yesterday and in a few months there is every probability that it will hear of a mayor being chosen in that community.

Senator Ackerman's bill to provide wholesome literature for prisoners at State expense is a good one. Should it become a law, the inmates of all penal and correctional institutions in New Jersey will be supplied with such books as are generally recommended by librarians. This will be done through the medium of traveling libraries conducted somewhat on the order of one or two private concerns which are well known. That the measure is warmly supported is shown by the interest taken in it by the State Charities Aid Association and kindred organizations.

It would be difficult to believe that any member of the Legislature would be mean and narrow enough to vote against Assemblyman Arrowsmith's bill for teachers' pensions. His excellent measure provides that pedagogues may be retired after thirty-five years service on one-half the pay they received during the last five years on duty The work of a teacher is a peculiarly exacting one and the compensation for the painstaking occupation is not much more than is given a manual laborer in many places. Indeed the way they are treated in proportion to the service they render is a blot on the nation. If the law-makers will only think for a moment where they would be on life's ladder were it not for the instruction received in the public schools, the Arrowsmith law will surely become a law.

TRADING STAMP BUSINESS TO BE MADE UNLAWFUL.

Bill Passes House Giving Concerns Until July To Quit.

The business of trading stamps was hit a jolt in the House at Trenton yesterday when the Kayser bill, House 334, was passed. This measure provides for the revocation of the charter of any trading stamp concern, and makes it illegal to carry on the business of a trading stamp company.

The bill makes it a misdemeanor for violation of its provisions, and the trading stamp companies are given until July 4 next to go out of the business.

When the measure was up for final passage, Mr. Kayser, Essex, said that the business of the small dealers was in many cases ruined by the large people giving trading stamps. The trading stamps prevented active competition on fair grounds. Others spoke in the same vein and the House passed the measure unanimously.

Preparing for Memorial Day.

The Women's Relief Corps will hold its meeting in Grand Army Hall tomorrow night, when plans will be discussed for the observance of Memorial Day. A committee will be appointed to meet with the committee from Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., to look after the details of the programme.

Puts Out Tenant.

Charles L. Treat secured possession of the upper rooms of the house at 311 East Fourth street, from Fred O'Brien yesterday, by a decision of Justice Hand in the landlord and tenant action he instituted. Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., appeared for the plaintiff and J. P. Owens for the defendant.

PARK AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH PROGRESSING

INCREASE IN BENEVOLENT GIVING REPORTED AT ANNUAL MEETING.

Reports of good work in every department and society were received at the annual meeting of the Park Avenue Baptist church, Park avenue and Ninth street, last night. Increase in all forms of contributions were reported.

Two deacons, church clerk and the treasurer of the Benevolent Fund were elected. Deacons Theodore I. Runyon and David M. Runyon were re-elected, and Clerk Harry C. Runyon and E. Frank Vail, the treasurer of the Fund, were continued in office. All elections were by one ballot.

The gist of the reports is as follows:

The Sunday-school has a total membership of 200, an increase of fifteen, with an average attendance of 99. There are eight officers and 19 teachers. The school took in $464 and disbursed $435. Eight scholars joined the church. Features peculiar to the school include blackboard illustrations to Sunday-school lessons and an orchestra.

The deacons' report showed advancement everywhere. An unusually large percentage of faith and giving, it said, had been shown throughout the church membership during the year. The membership rested at 297, accessions and diminutions balancing at 17. There were ten taken in by baptism, four by letter and three by experience. Deacon Runyon reported $70 in the Fellowship Fund.

Benevolent collections were as follows: Foreign missions, $88; home missions, $41; New Jersey Baptist State convention, $25; Newark Baptist Home for Aged, $22; Baptist Ministers' Home, $11; Education Society, $11; Sunday-school, $44.

The Ladies' Aid Society held eight meetings, with an average attendance of twelve. It did o lot of work during the year. The task that loomed most prominent in the mind of the writer of the report was a general cleaning out of the church parlors. The useless things were put in the cellar, and the report slyly suggested that the men of the church might take a whack at the cellar some time.

The Women's Foreign Mission Society held eight regular meetings and one special. The average attendance was fifteen. The receipts were $113 and there is a balance of $5.79 on hand.

The Women's Foreign Missionary Society held nine meetings, with an average attendance of seventeen, an increase of five. Receipts were $133 and disbursements $132.

The Y. P. S. C. E. had a year of marked progress. It has a membership of sixty, an increase of five, with six active committees. Receipts amounted to $76 and disbursements $69. Through the missionary committee the society helped the Sunday-school give food and delicacies, at Thanksgiving, and toys, at Christmas, to the poor. Whatsoever Circle, King's Daughters, has seven new members. It is planning a sociable for next month.

At the close of the meeting Rev. A. E. Finn read a comparative statement of the benevolent expenditures for the two years, to show how the donations had increased in every society and department. "It is a most encouraging sign," he said. "The benevolences of a church show the virility of its spirit and its activity. These increases are the most gratifying sign of our advancement."

Four candidates for membership were received. Fred B. L. Goodwin was accepted on experience, and Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Tinsman and Miss Marion C. Mortimer were posted for baptism on Sunday night.

SAVED FROM DEATH BY CIRCUS GIANT.

Freak Rescued from Drowning Man Who Had Attempted to Commit Suicide.

A circus giant saved yesterday morning Ernest Waack, of No. 121 Bloomfield street, Hoboken, from drowning. The man jumped into the river at the foot of Seventh street with suicidal intent. Waack, who is said to have had family troubles, was followed to the pier by friends, who suspected his intention of doing away with himself.

They seized him before he had a chance to jump and took him away with them. Later he elude his friends, and returning to the pier plunged into the river. Henry Meyer, of No. 202 Bloomfield street, who is twenty-two years old and stands seven feet four inches in his socks, saw the man jump, as did also William Hoock, of the same address.

It was low tide, and there was only about six feet eight inches of water in the slip. Meyer dropped into the water, and seizing Waack kept his head above the surface until Hoock helped them both out of the water.

Waack was taken into a shanty, where his clothing was dried and stimulants were given to him. He afterward was arraigned before Recorder Stanton, who sent him to the county jail for ten days.

Meyer travels with circuses as a giant in the summer.

Miss Ella Benedict, of Putnam avenue, has returned to business after a week's illness with bronchitis.

SAY GOULD WILL OWN "FAST TROLLEY."

Bankers Believe He Will Reach New York via Elizabeth.

That George Gould will reach New York with an extension of the Wabash Railroad is the opinion of men who have been watching recent developments in the railroad world. In Wall street it is believed that the so-called fast trolley line between Newark and Milltown will be utilized by Gould for that purpose.

Developments in Philadelphia yesterday when the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company was forced to give up a number of franchises revealed the fact that Gould is the real power behind the Philadelphia and Western Railroad, which has been knocking at the gates of Philadelphia for a long time for franchises to become a competitor of the transit company. The franchises that have been relinquished will all be taken up by the Philadelphia and Western, whose tracks now run from Parkersburg, Pa., to Sixty-third and Market streets, in the Quaker city. Fifty miles from Parkersburg, at Hanover, Pa., there runs the Western Maryland, a Wabash connection. That gap will be easily filled.

The New York and Philadelphia company, which is the builder of the so-called fast trolley line, has a one-hundred foot right of way clear across the State of New Jersey, terminating for the present at Newark. The headquarters of the New York and Philadelphia company are in Philadelphia and the bonds for the construction of the road are being floated by the firm of A. N. Chandler & Co., also of New York, who have a branch office in New York. Part of this line is in operation between New Brunswick and Philadelphia. The Raritan River is to be bridged. Being a private right of way the company has had to secure no franchise privileges and his quietly gone ahead and bought property from here to Milltown for its right of way.

NEGROES DENOUNCE THOS. DIXON'S PLAY.

Want Scranton's Mayor to Prevent Production of "The Clansman."

Scranton, March 22—At two monster mass-meetings in this city last night the negroes adopted resolutions condemning the play and drafted a petition calling upon the mayor to suppress "The Clansman," which is booked for presentation in the Lyceum theatre Monday night. The most prominent colored men of this city in speeches bitterly denounced the author, Thomas Dixon, Jr., and his books, declaring Mr. Dixon had grossly libelled the negro race. As a result of the meeting tonight Congressman Dale, of this district, will be presented with a petition and a bill for introduction in Congress prohibiting the presentation on the American stage of such plays as "The Clansman," and this play in particular.

The negroes in this section of Pennsylvania are aroused over the coming of "The Clansman," and it is feared that any effort to play here next Monday will be attended with trouble The petitions asking the mayor to suppress the play will be presented tomorrow, but it is not believed that he will take any action as it is not within his power to prevent the play appearing here.

"The Clansman" is booked to appear in this city on Friday night, March 30.

AUTO HITS CARRIAGE; HE SUES THE P. S. C.

E. J. Phillips Says Trolley Car Forced the Machine Against His Rig.

Through Lawyer Louis A. Clement, suit has been brought against the P. S. C. by Edward J. Phillips, of Dunellen, for $200, in Justice Hand's court. The papers were served yesterday on Adjuster Edward R. Collins by Constable Manley.

The plaintiff sues to recover for damage done to his carriage in a collision on North avenue, Dunellen, last December. It was an automobile and not a trolley car that hit his carriage, but it is claimed that the car forced the automobile over on the Phillips rig. The carriage was badly smashed, and Mr. Phillips narrowly escaped severe injury.

INSURANCE PROBE GETS DEATH BLOW

SENATOR MINTURN, TOO, RELUCTANTLY HAS TO ABANDON OIL INQUIRY.

Trenton, March 21.—By a vote of 37 to 22 the Assembly defeated yesterday the attempt of Assemblyman Martin, of Essex county, one of the New Jersey reformers, to have the Banking and Insurance Committee relieved of his resolution calling for an investigation of the Prudential Insurance Company. This is practically the same resolution as was defeated in the Senate last week and is aimed at United States Senator Dryden.

In making his fight on the floor of the House yesterday Mr. Martin took a fall out of former United States Senator James Smith, Jr., the Democratic leader of the State. Mr. Martin declared that some months ago Mr. Smith had a claim against the Public Service Corporation for a large amount of money, and the Newark Daily Advertiser, which, he said, is popularly supposed to be owned by Senator Smith, had been very strongly in favor of an insurance investigation. Subsequently the claim of Mr. Smith had been settled, and since that time, Mr. Martin declared, the Advertiser had been fighting tooth and nail to prevent an investigation.

Assemblyman Barber, of this city, made the principal speech against relieving the committee of the resolution. He called attention to the rumor that George L. Record, one of the reformers, was anxious to succeed Senator Dryden in the United States Senate. He said:

"Mr. Record declared that the insurance investigation in New York resulted in the smirching of a number of prominent men, and he intimated that the same results would occur from an investigation in New Jersey. When Mr. Record does not deny that he aspires to Senator Dryden's place, and yet insists that this investigation shall take place, there may be no politics in it, but it looks suspicious."

Senator Minturn has been unable to secure the attendance of any of his witnesses at a hearing on his joint resolution to investigate the Standard Oil Company.

Thomas F. Lawson has not replied to Senator Minturn's letter; Attorney General Hadley, of Missouri, and Congressman Campbell, of Kansas, cannot be present, and Miss Ida Tarbell has sent word she will not attend. Nothing has been heard from Lincoln Steffens, and the proposed hearing is off for the session.

Senator Minturn did his utmost to bring about the investigation, claiming that the people of New Jersey demanded that the Standard Oil Company should be put under the probe. From the time the resolution was introduced in the Senate until yesterday Senator Minturn had every hope of its success and consequent disaster to the oil concern, but from the disappointments he has met with he has reluctantly determined to abandon the proposition for the present at least.

NOT TO OPPOSE DISTRICT LINES.

Organization Men Withdraw Request for Hearing on Pending Measure.

In a letter sent to Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, chairman of the Committee on Judiciary, of the House of Assembly, the committee appointed by the Essex County Republican committee to divide this county into eleven Assembly districts, has formally withdrawn the request made in its behalf for a hearing on Assembly bill 422.

This is the measure introduced by Mr. Perkins last week, "for the Committee on Judiciary," by which it is proposed to change the basis of Assembly representation back to the old form of election by districts, instead of by counties. The members of the regular organization of the Republican party in Esesx county, which had indorsed the district division as submitted by its committee, and rejected a plan submitted by the Colby faction of the County Committee, were pained to learn that in Mr. Perkins' bill, the Colbyite division had been taken up and the recommendations of the County Committee thrown out.

The request for a hearing tomorrow was made by Frederick R. Lehlbach, chairman, and other members of the redistricting committee. Their reason for now withdrawing this request is embodied in the letter to Mr. Perkins, which is signed by Mr. Lehlbach, Edward D. Duffield, Malcolm MacLear, Franklin W. Fort and George E. Russell.

Plans for Princeton Dormitory.

Princeton, March 22.—Plans have been accepted for the erection of the new dormitory, donated to the college by DeWitt C. Blair, '56, the alumnus who gave Blair Hall, the finest college dormitory, to Princeton. The dormitory is to complete the western end of Blair Hall as far as the Halsted Observatory. The stone used and the general features of the architecture will be the same as Blair Hall. The dormitory, as far as the drive entering the campus from University place, will be two stories high. It will be completed by September.

Halstead Compton, of West Front street, who has had a slight attack of gastritis, is much improved.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning March 25.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Bountiful sowing; our gifts to Christ's cause.—Luke vi. 38; II Cor. ix. 1-15. (A missionary meeting.)

Salvation is free, but the extension of Christ's kingdom in the world is expensive. Yet this is the mission of Christ's church, for He Himself gave the command, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature." And the money necessary for carrying forward the work of God must come from the Christian people of the world. We should not expect the state to furnish funds for Christian missions, and it is not the duty of the people of the world to do it. The duty and responsibility of supplying the means for the spread of the gospel rest upon Christians alone, and they should consider it a privilege and a joy as well as a duty and a responsibility. Moreover, the money for this purpose is to be given. The word of God lays great stress upon giving, but it nowhere intimates that the church is to become a business concern and to raise its funds by engaging in money making schemes, even such as are legitimate among men for the accumulation of wealth. In laying down this law God must have had a good purpose even toward the givers, and, therefore, for our own sakes, as well as for the good of the cause, we should not shirk this Christian duty, but heartily and liberally respond to it.

The inspiration to bountiful giving for Christ's cause is in the promises of God. God has definitely promised in His word that if we will give to Him He will give to us even in greater measure than we have given; and on the other hand that if we fail in the performance of this duty He will fail in blessing us. Christ says, "Give and it shall be given unto you; good measure, pressed down and shaken together and running over, men shall give into your bosom." The apostle Paul, emphasizing the same fact, declares, "He which soweth sparingly shall reap also sparingly, and he which soweth bountifully shall reap also bountifully." The principles here set down are simply those of nature. He that gives receives. The farmer who sows but little reaps a small harvest, while he who sows plentifully reaps an abundant harvest, but back of this natural law is the promise of God. Crops may fail, whether the sowing is sparing or bountiful, but God's promises never fail. In the spiritual world, therefore, we have the natural law plus the promise of God. If, therefore, we trust God, we should give bountifully to Christ's cause. If we do not trust God we can withhold our gifts, but when there come heaviness of soul and dearth of spiritual harvest let us remember that the burden rests upon our own shoulders. Having sown nothing we cannot expect to reap anything, and if we do we shall be sadly disappointed.

The methods of giving as set forth in the Scriptures are simple and practicable. God asks nothing impossible of any man. The rule of giving is possessing. Only in proportion as God blesses us does He ask us to give to Him, but He does ask and expect that of us. If we have much we should give large gifts. If we have but little our gifts must be small, but for this reason they should not be withheld. We should not be too proud to give what we can because we cannot give as much as some one else. The effectiveness of money does not always depend upon the amount of it. Out of a little money some men make a fortune, while out of a fortune others make a failure. The value of money depends upon how it is used. Our God can make the smallest gift, if it be in proportion to our ability and cheerfully given, accomplish great results. As He blesses us, therefore, let us give bountifully, willingly and cheerfully and wait for the harvest of souls, and when that day comes our only regret will be not that we gave what we did, but that we did not give more.

BIBLE READINGS.

Gen. xxviii, 20-22; Prov. xi, 24-26; Mal. iii, 10; Matt. 10, 7-10; xxviii, 19, 20; Acts xv, 22-26; xx, 35; I Cor. xvi, 1-3; II Cor. viii, 1-12; Rev. xxii, 17.

The Message For the Year.

The state secretary for New York at the holiday season addressed a personal note to every district secretary in the state and accompanied it with a wall card, with its message in the handwriting of Dr. R. A. Torrey, the famous evangelist. The card was like this:

The state secretary reminded his workers of some of the wonders being wrought by prayer and suggested that a daily practice of the prayer life would contribute to the largest efficiency of Endeavor work in the Empire State.

The Personal Equation.

Yong Kay, a former active Chinese Endeavorer in Boston, but now government interpreter at Richford, Vt., has fifteen young Chinamen pledged for a Christian Endeavor society there.

Dr. Charles E. Jefferson, pastor of the Broadway tabernacle, New York, recently said in a sermon that the most memorable meeting of his pastorate was the farewell meeting of the Endeavor society to a charter member going as a missionary to Karput, Turkey.—Christian Endeavor World.

March 25: Africa, "Daybreak on the Dark Continent"—Joshua 1, 1-9. Public Programme by Mission Study Class.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

"Be strong and of good courage; be not affrighted, neither be thou dismayed."

It was a great undertaking which Joshua had in hand. It was to get a land for a people not a half century out of slavery. And more than the conquest of a land was the need of consolidation of the mixed elements of the mass of the people into society under right laws and customs. A beginning had been made, but not much progress had been marked.

So it is with the great continent and people of Africa. A half century since and the greater part of the vast land was marked on the best maps of the world as unexplored—that is, the civilized world was in ignorance of what was held in the interior. But all that wonderful stretch of territory was peopled and life after a sort had for ages been moving on there.

Whether the outside world knew or did not know its affairs would not much signify had that life in its limits been a worthy life. If the people had been rising in righteousness and reaching the real end of human existence they could not long have remained isolated. No nation can long shut itself off from the remainder of mankind when it comes to realization of the duties of life.

Africa has been discovered. This is all so recent that it seems but yesterday that we knew not the secret of the Nile nor the Kongo. Since Livingstone was lost in the wilds of the far interior and Stanley went to seek him how greatly all has changed. Now they talk of a railroad to cross the continent from north to south, and already considerable of it is builded and in operation.

Hunters have done a little to give us information of the conditions of affairs in the land. Traders have done some more. Explorers in the interests of science have contributed their quota, but the greatest benefactors have been the Christian missionaries. The names of these will ever be headed by that of the indefatigable Livingstone, who died in the interior with only his faithful natives with him.

Discovery is only the forerunner of evangelization. The Christian world is awaking to a realization of her Christ given task of world evangelization. The work has been started. White missionaries have settled on all her coasts and taken the native paths for the interior. Daybreak has come. The natives have been aroused to religious life in Christ and are fitting themselves for work among their kin. Down the west coast Liberia and Sierra Leone have seen the day star rise. Angola, which Livingstone predicted would some day be found by the Christian missionary, now sees the light. The story of Wesleyan missions in the south and that of the American board in Natal is full of fascination. The scenes occurring here during the evangelization tour of William Taylor, afterward bishop of Africa, are thrilling in the extreme.

But a little while since Umtila's kingdom was pioneered, but for lack of funds could not be entered for work. Now the man who first looked it over is in charge of all our east coast work in Inhambane, and the name of Dr. Richards stands high among those who have given all for the uplift of this darkened land.

What a story is that of the turning of Uganda to God! Well may our leagues devote much time to the study of this work. We need to know what has already been done and what is now urgently needed. We should know the young people in our institutions of learning in this country who are fitting themselves for work in that land. We have native scholars from there who rank second to none in our schools and who are looking forward to service in their own country as soon as fitted for it.

The work of our own church under the oversight of Bishops Hartzell and Scott moves well in comparison with what was its condition some years since. But more prayer, money and workers is the great need at the present time.

When Influence Need Not Count.

No man ever failed solely for the lack of good influences. Many a man likes to believe that he would have done better if the influences about him had been better, but the man who believes that would not be likely to profit by better influences if he had them. The only influence that we need to be concerned about is that which we control. It is our duty to shed a right influence on others, and it is our duty to seek right influences if we can. For the influences or the lack of influences upon our lives which are beyond our control we have no responsibility. God can enable us to do our best without the favorable surroundings that we lack or in spite of the unfavorable conditions that we regret. God's influence is at hand for all of us. If we will not respond to that the best of earthly friends could not help us.—Richmond (Va.) Christian Monthly.

Getting Home.

My ship is nearing its harbor,
Just entering the narrows now;
The engines have slacked their throbbing;
The evening shadows bow.

It has sailed over many waters,
It has weathered many gales,
The sunny days have been many,
The peace that has kept prevails.

The merciful Father of oceans
Has saved from a shipwreck's fate,
And the harbor lights are gleaming;
The shores of liberty wait.

And the long gone friends are watching,
And my soul swells high with praise.
For if soon shall be moored forever
'Neath the Harbor Master's gaze.

"The Man on the Box"

By HAROLD MacGRATH

Author of "The Grey Cloak," "The Puppet Crown."

"As I have not the slightest doubt Mademoiselle, fortune ignores you but temporarily; misfortune has brushed only the hem of your garment, as it were. Do not let the fear of poverty alarm you,"—lightly. "I prophesy a great public future for you. And when you play that Largo of Handel's, to a breathless audience, who knows that I may not be hidden behind the curtain of some stall, drinking in the heavenly sound made by that loving bow? . . . Romance enters every human being's life; like love, and hate, it is primitive. But to every book fate writes finis."

He thrust the bank notes carelessly into his coat pocket, and walked slowly toward the hallway. At the threshold he stopped and looked back. The girl could not resist the magnetism of his dark eyes. She was momentarily fascinated and her heart beat painfully.

"If only I might go with the memory of your forgiveness," he said.

"I forgive you."

"Thank you." Then Karloff resolutely proceeded; the portiere fell behind him. Shortly after she heard the sound of closing doors, the rattle of a carriage and then all became still. Thus the handsome barbarian passed from the scene.

The colonel resumed his chair, his arm propped on a knee and his head bowed in his hand. Quickly the girl fell to her knees, hid her face on his breast, and regardless of the groom's presence, silently wept.

"My poor child!" faltered the colonel. "God could not have intended to give you so wretched a father. Poverty and dishonor, poverty and dishonor; I who love you so well have brought you these!"

Warburton, biting his trembling lips, tiptoed cautiously to the window, opened it and stepped outside. He raised his fevered face gratefully to the icy rain. A great and noble plan had come to him.

As Mrs. Chadwick said, love is magnificent only when it gives all without question.

CHAPTER XXIV.

A FINE LOVER.

Karloff remained in seclusion till the following Tuesday; after that day he was seen no more in Washington. From time to time some news of him filters through the diplomatic circles of half a dozen capitals to Washington. The latest I heard of him, he was at Port Arthur. It was evident that Russia valued his personal address too highly to exile him because of his failure in Washington. Had he threatened or gone about noisily, we should all have forgotten him completely. As it is, the memory of him to-day is as vivid as his actual presence. Thus, I give him what dramatists call an agreeable exit.

I was in the Baltimore and Potomac station the morning after that unforgetable night at Senator Blank's house. I had gone there to see about the departure of night trains, preparatory to making a flying trip to New York, and was leaving the station when a gloved hand touched me on the arm. The hand belonged to Mrs. Chadwick. She was dressed in the conventional traveling gray, and but for the dark lines under her eyes she would have made a picture for any man to admire. She looked tired, very tired, as women look who have not slept well.

"Good morning, Mr. Orator," she said, saluting me with a smile.

"You are going away?" I asked, shaking her hand cordially.

"'Way, 'way away! I am leaving for Nice, where I intend to spend the winter. I had intended to remain in Washington till the holidays; but I plead guilty to a roving disposition, and I frequently change my mind."

"Woman's most charming prerogative," said I gallantly.

What a mask the human countenance is! How little I dreamed that I was jesting with a woman whose heart was breaking, and numbed with a terrible pain!

Her maid came up to announce that everything was ready for her reception in the state-room, and that the train was about to draw out of the station. Mrs. Chadwick and I bade each other good-by. Two years passed before I saw her again.

At eleven o'clock I returned to my rooms to pack a case and have the thing off my mind. Tramping restlessly up and down before my bachelor apartment house I discerned M'sieu Zhames. His face was pale and troubled, but the angle of his jaw told me that he had determined upon something or other.

"Ha!" I said railingly. He wore a decently respectable suit of ready-made clothes: "Lost your job and want me to give you a recommendation?"

"I want a few words with you, Chuck, and no fooling. Don't say that you can't spare the time. You've simply got to."

"With whom am I to talk, James, the groom, or Warburton, the gentleman?"

"You are to talk with the man whose sister you are to marry."

I became curious, naturally. "No police affair?"

"No, its not the police. I can very well go to a lawyer, but I desire absolute secrecy. Let us go up to your rooms at once."

I led the way. I was beginning to desire to know what all this meant.

"Has anybody recognized you?" I asked, unlocking the door to my apartment.

"No; and I shouldn't care a hang if they had."

"Oho!"

Warburton flung himself into a chair and lighted a cigar. He puffed it rapidly, while I got together my shaving and toilet sets.

"Start her up," said I.

"Chuck, when my father died he left nearly a quarter of a million in five per cents; that is to say, Jack, Nancy and I were given a yearly income of about $4,500. Nancy's portion and mine are still in bonds which do not mature till 1900. Jack has made several bad investments, and about half of his is gone, but his wife has plenty, so his losses do not trouble him. Now, I have been rather frugal during the past seven years. I have lived entirely upon my army pay. I must have something like $20,000 lying in the bank in New York. On Monday, between three and four o'clock, Col. Annesley will become practically a beggar, a pauper."

"What?" My shaving mug slipped from my hand and crashed to the floor, where it lay in a hundred pieces.

"Yes. He and his daughter will not have a roof of their own: all gone, every stick and stone. Don't ask any questions; only do as I ask of you." He took out his check-book and filled out two blanks. These he handed to me. "The large one I want you to place in the Union bank, to the credit of Col. Annesley."

I looked at the check. "Twenty-thousand dollars?" I gasped.

"The Union bank has this day discounted the colonel's note. It falls due on Monday. In order to meet it, he will have to sell what is left of the Virginia estate and his fine horses. The interest will be inconsiderable."

WOULD CHANGE THE JUDICIARY OF NEW JERSEY

SPECIAL COMMISSION SUBMITS TO LEGISLATURE LENGTHY REPORT.

Trenton, March 22—The report of the special commission to arrange for a constitutional change in the judiciary has been given to the Legislature, through former GovernorGriggs its chairman. In substance, the report provides for a complete change in the judicial system, from the court of last resort down to the justice of the peace, which is abolished as a constitutional office, but retained as one that may be created by statute.

All the inferior county courts as now established are eliminated and in their stead is created a county court with all the powers and duties of the existing courts and somewhat extended jurisdiction, with power of judgment reviewable only by the Appellate Court.

Instead of one county judge as now provided, it will be one county court for which as many judges may be appointed in a county as the Legislature may determine These judges will have, as stated, all the powers of the present county judges,and in addition the powers of circuit judges, an office that will be abolished.

The Supreme Court will consist of a chief justice, who shall preside in the Appellate division; a chancellor, who shall preside in the Chancery division; a president judge of the law division and sixteen other judges. The court upon its formation shall be divided into an Appellate division, or court of last resort, consisting of the chief justice and four other judges; and a law division, consisting of a president judge and six other judges.

All equity cases shall be tried in the Chancery division and all law cases in the law division, and an equity case started erroneously in the law division may be transferred to the Chancery division without prejudice, and vice versa. This is done to avert the cost and delay to litigants by cause of actions being nonsuited when found in the wrong court. That was the principal feature of the Voorhees amendments of 1898, and the report really embodies a combination of the Voorhees and Johnson plans as at that time submitted.

The principal change is in the abolition of the so-called "Lay" element in the court of last resort, the establishment of an independent Court of Appeals, abolition of the office of circuit judge and the ancient forms of county courts, the enlargement of the power of the new county courts from which appeals will go direct to the Appellate Court and the abolition of the justice of the peace as a constitutional officer.

The terms of office and salaries will remain as at present, and all the judges now serving will continue in office until their present term expires.

If the amendments which were offered in the form of a bill are ratified by the present and next session of the Legislature and approved by a vote of the people they will become operative in the latter part of 1907.

The divisions provided would then be made and the additional judges apppointd.

The report, which was unanimous, was signed by John W. Griggs, Franklin Murphy, Bennet VanSyckel, John R. Hardin and Charles L. Corbin.

The bill was introduced by Senator Hillery.

GRAND LODGE SESSION

Nearly 1,000 Delegates — Membership In New Jersey 24,987 — Sketch of Chandler.

The one hundred and nineteenth annual communication of the Grand Lodge of Free Masons was begun in Masonic temple at Trenton yesterday morning. Grand Master Benjamin F. Wakefield, of Passaic, called the meeting to order.

Nearly 1,000 members of the fraternity are in attendance, including delegates of Anchor Lodge, No. 149, and Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, both of this city, besides a large number of visitors from New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware and Connecticut.

In making his annual report Grand Master Wakefield spoke of the excellent condition of the order in this State, there being of membership of 24,987.

The afternoon session was taken up with the reading of reports of the Masonic home, grand secretary and and various committees.

Grand Master Wakefield's successor as the Masonic head of New Jersey will be Walter Chandler, of Elizabeth, the present deputy grand master. This will, according to the present outlook, result in the moving up of Senior Grand Warden Austen H. McGregor, of Newark, to the office of deputy grand master, and of Joseph H. Hough, of Camden, from junior to senior warden, and the election of a new junior grand warden to succeed Mr. Hough. The grand secretary and deputy grand secretary will remain the same.

Walter Chandler, the prospective head of the fraternity in the State, is beginning to reap some of the rewards of his labors in Masonic fields. He has been one of the busy Masons of the jurisdiction of New Jersey, occupying difficult and important positions in the various Masonic bodies, particularly as an instructor of the esoteric ritual. He was the originator of the district lodges for instruction, as now held, having been commissioned by M. W. Grand Master Congdon in 1885 a D. D. G. M., and has been prominently identified with the work of the A. A. S. R., particularly as M. W. and P. M. of Jersey City Chapter of Rose Croix.

He is a member of Orient Lodge of Elizabeth, where he was entered, passed and raised in 1876, filling all the chairs and becoming worshipful master in 1882. He became most excellent high priest of Washington Chapter, R. A. M., in 1883; eminent commander of St. John's Commandery, K. T., in 1888; received the thirty-second degree in the A. A. S. R. Valley of Jersey City in 1896, and most wise and perfect master in Jersey City Chapter of Rose Croix, De H. R. D. M. in 1903.

He was also district deputy grand master of the Fifth Masonic District of the Grand Lodge of New Jersey for the term 1885-7; representative of the Grand Lodge of the Island of Cuba to the Grand Lodge of New Jersey, 1892-3; representative of the Grand Lodge of Maryland to the Grand Lodge of New Jersey, 1893-1897; member of the finance committee of the Grand Lodge, 1892-6; senior grand deacon, 1896-1900; district deputy, 1900-1902, and elected R. W. junior grand warden, 1902; unanimously re-elected 1903; unanimously elected R. W. senior grand warden, 1904, and R. W. deputy grand master, 1905.

At the annual session of the Supreme Council of Sovereign Grand Inspectors General, Thirty-third Degree, Northern Masonic Jurisdiction of the United States, held at Wilwaukee, Wis., September 18, 1901, Brother Chandler was elected to receive the thirty-third and last degree, and at the annual session of the Supreme Council, held at Providence, R. I., September 16, 1902, he was crowned and made an honorary member of the Supreme Council.

Brother Chandler is also a charter member of Salaam Temple, Mystic Shrine, established in Newark, 1903.

VOTE ON SEWER QUESTION

North Plainfield Officials Arranging For Special Election to Decide the Matter.

ENGINEER IS ENGAGED

George H. Pierson Retained to Prepare Plans and Estimates of Cost for Sewage Disposal System.

The second sewer conference between the North Plainfield Common Council and the Board of Trade, last night, resulted in more definite action than has been accomplished in months and indicates that the present agitation is sure to bring about the installation of an up-to-date system. Engineer George H. Pierson, who was in attendance, was engaged to continue investigations as to the best method to adopt, the probable cost and the place of disposal, and he will make his first formal report at the Council's next regular meeting. In addition, a resolution offered by Councilman McGee to bring the matter before the people, was passed, and on the whole the meeting was highly satisfactory. This resolution was as follows:

"Resolved, That the corporation counsel be directed to draw the necessary ordinance for the holding of an election for the purpose of voting on the question of bond issue and all other papers and ordinances required to bring the question of a sewage disposal for our borough to an early completion; and we urge that the said counsel report at the next regular meeting in April."

The officials who attended the conference were Mayor Smalley, Messrs. McGee, Smith and Krewson representing the Council, Messrs. Osgood, Doud and Kenney for the Board of Health, and Engineer Pierson. Before continuing the discussion from the point where it was left off two weeks ago, Mayor Smalley announced that he has written a letter to Mayor Buckle, of the city, in regard to having the borough's proposed system empty in the Plainfield beds and that as yet he had received no reply. The letter read as follows:

"At a recent joint meeting of the Mayor and Council and Board of Health of the borough of North Plainfield, I was instructed to ascertain if possible:

"First, whether Plainfield's sewage disposal plant is capable of taking care, in addition to the sewage of Plainfield, of such quantity of sewage as would reasonably result from the installation of a general system of sewers in the borough.

"Second, whether, if the first question be answered in the affirmative, Plainfield would be willing to undertake, for a proper consideration, the disposal at its plants of the sewage of North Plainfield, which sewage it is proposed would be delivered by the borough to the city in its disposal plant.

"Third, upon what terms and conditions, generally speaking, would Plainfield undertake (if at all) to receive, convert, and dispose of, at the city plant, the sewage delivered there by the borough.

"Of course, I do not expect in answer to the last question more than a general statement at this time, but would like to obtain some general idea both as to the probable expense to the borough of such an arrangement, if it could be made, and the term of years for which such contract, if made, might continue.

"Anything which you may do to facilitate an authovitative answer to the foregoing, will be greatly appreciated.

Very truly yours,
"NEWTON B. SMALLEY,
"Mayor of North Plainfield'."

The mayor explained that he expected to have his questions answered as soon as the City Council or some official in a position to know could give them consideration. In the meantime, he said, he saw no reason why the borough should not go ahead with the idea of installing an independent plant and so, at least, get some sort of a visible start. Engineer Pierson, he said, had been engaged by North Plainfield three years ago to look into the question of a sewer system and being familiar to some extent with the ground was in a position to speak. He then called upon the engineer and the latter presented his views, based upon his original surveys of the territory and prospecting trips taken within the past week.

In the course of his remarks, he declared that three years ago it was thought that the only way for North Plainfield to do was to unite with the city but his investigations had shown that it was just as easy to build independent disposal beds or empty in the Raritan river. The chaper method of the ow could only be decided upon after a more careful comparison of figures than had been

SINGLE TAXERS NAME PLEYDELL VICE-PRES'T

HE AND MOODY MADE OFFICERS OF NEW JERSEY ASSOCIATION.

Arthur C. Pleydell, of North Plainfield, has been chosen as a vice president of the New Jersey State Single Tax League. A similar honor was accorded John Moody, of Cranford, the newly-elected president of radical Democrats' association. They represent Somerset and Union county respectively.

Both Mr. Pleydell and Mr. Moody made characteristic speeches at the annual meeting in Newark. In the course of his remarks, the North Plainfield single taxer said that he considered the present system of taxation idiotic.

"As practised in Camden today," he added, "the tax on personal property puts a premium on lying, and makes the honest man a sufferer, as they are endeavoring to find the value of a man's personal property by going around asking how many watches and how much jewelry, etc., he owns. This system is the easiest of all methods of taxation to attack. What we need to do is to get the people talking taxation, and the people are ready to listen to any talk on taxation at the present time. This is because the railroads and public service corporations have so battered and banged them that they have awakened to the fact that they are getting their dues from these corporations in the matter of taxes, so that now the people are ready and willing to discuss a problem that ten years ago would have been considered too radical for serious thought."

IRISHMEN REASSURED AS TO "M'FADDEN'S FLATS"

CONVINCED BY MGR. COUNIHAN THAT IT DOES NOT BELITTLE THE RACE.

Because of rumors that the production of "McFadden's Flats," billed to appear at the New Plainfield theatre on April 5, for Treasurer Cunningham's benefit, is a glaring caricature of the Irish race, a delegation from Division No. 4, A. O. H., called on Manager Counihan last night to discuss the matter with a view to having him cancel the booking. The committee was composed of Patrick Harrington, John Hurley and Bryan Hanrahan, a fourth member, Dr. Brennan, not being able to attend. The men were cordially received by Manager Counihan and after a friendly chat of an hour, the minds of the Hibernians were set at rest as to whether there was anything in the show to offend the most loyal son of the Emerald isle. They departed fully satisfied that the rumors were idle stories and that any Iishman could view it without any personal feeling.

"McFadden's Flats" has been on the road for several years and about two years ago some hoodlums in the Harlem theatre, New York, threw vegetables at the actors. Their act led to some wild newspaper stories about outraged Celts in the audience having done it because of the manner in which the Irishman was burlesqued and the show suffered in consequence for a long time afterward. Manager Counihan, himself a product of the "old sod," knows every line in the play, having been employed by Gus Hill, who owns it, and he would not have thought of booking it if there was anything in it to belittle his own race.

He was very much surprised when informed by the Hibernians that the members of Division No. 4 had protested against it and he undertook to prove what he had to say about it. He showed them all the lithographs used in billing, none of which are offensive, and also gave them his word as a Plainfield citizen that he would not permit any production to appear at the New Plainfield that would subject him to criticism. In conclusion he offered to pay the expenses of the committee to Trenton, where they could view the play before it came here and if then they thought it was not the thing for Plainfield, he would cancel it.

His sincerity convinced the delegation and they assured him that the matter would be dropped. Before they left Mr. Counihan called Dr. Brennan on the telephone and the latter expressed himself as fully satisfied that everything would be all right.

BIG MASONIC FUNCTION

Imposing Ceremony at Tabernacle of the Royal Arch Masons.

CONFER HIGH DEGREE

Orient Chapter Companions In Ancient Robes Work Rite at Jerusalem Chapter—Prominent Masons Present.

Orient Chapter, No. 138, Royal Arch Masons, of Brooklyn, assisted by the officers and several companions of Jerusalem Chapter, No. 24, Royal Arch Masons, of this city, conferred the first and second sections of the Most Excellent Master's Degree on twelve candidates at a stated convocation of Jerusalem Chapter last night in the tabernacle of the Masonic Hall.

The occasion was noteworthy because of the visitation of Orient Chapter, which has the reputation for its work, and the large number of prominent candidates upon whom was conferred the first degree in the chapter. Orient Chapter made the trip to Plainfield in a special car, reaching here about 8 o'clock. The companions of Jerusalem Chapter met at 7 o'clock and conferred the first section of the degree, so as not to prolong the ceremonies later in the evening.

It was about 8:30 o'clock when the officers and companions of Orient Chapter took charge and conferred the second section of the degree on these candidates: Milton H. Phillips, Atlas Lodge, No. 125, N. J.; Rev. Abel Charles McCrea, Richmond Lodge, No. 66, N. Y.; Jeremiah Fields TenEyck, Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26; Sidney S. Schuyler, St. Nicholas Lodge, No. 321, N. Y.; Ephraim S. Pease, Bedford Lodge, No. 574, N. Y.; Charles Joel Fisk, Anchor Lodge, No. 149; Samuel Burnett Howe, Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26; Rollin Pierson Grant, Atlas Lodge, No. 125, N. J.; Frederic W. Butler, J. Stephen Higham, Stephen B. Joseph and Peter A. Emmons, Anchor Lodge, No. 149.

This is the first time that Orient Chapter has conferred the degree here and its proficiency in the work won high praise from the members of the Masonic fraternity present. The officers and companions appeared in ful regalia and an impressive feature was the special organ and quartette selections, the famous Metropolitan Quartette singing the entire choral service. At the conclusion of the degree work an adjournment was taken to the banquet hall.

The committee on reception and banquet consisted of Grand Commander Jacob Kirkner, Past High Priests Clarence Goss and Charles G. Little, the latter of Orient Chapter; Robert Rushmore, James F. Buckle, William A. Pinto, James S. Pray and Henry L. Hall.

There were about 300 Masonic members present and among the prominent ones were Grand High Priest Palmer, of the State of New York, and Grand High Priest Peter McGill, of this State. There were also many visitors from New York, Newark and other nearby places.

WARREN CHAPEL MEN HOLD AN ANNIVERSARY.

Brotherhood Entertains Friends in Celebration of Its Third Birthday.

In celebration of its third anniversary as an organization, the Young Men's Brotherhood of Warren chapel entertained its friends at a social last night. The programme presented comprised piano selections by Miss Florence Moorehouse, vocal selections by Miss Agnes Bailey and Miss Norah Schenck, feats of magic by H. Warren Rankin, a musical melange by Musical Stewart and duets by the Misses Bailey and Schenck. The contributions by H. Warren Rankin were not only amusing but mystifying and his work as a magician closely approaches the strictly professional. Refreshments and a social hour concluded the evening.

The committee which arranged and had charge of the affair consisted of H. Warren Rankin, chairman; Fred Winn, William Welch, Earl Smith and Alexander Galloway. The Brotherhood started three years ago with ten members and now has forty. It is a strong organization in every way and adds a great deal to the social and religious life of the chapel.

Charles Bullman, a prospector and mining engineer, well-known in this city, where he lived for many years, is dead in South America. He went there a month ago to look after some mining interests.

A cablegram telling of his death was received last night by J. Fred MacDonald, of East Front street. No particulars, not even the time of death, were given. Mr. MacDonald went to New York today to learn details.

It is reported that he was killed by an earthquake that visited that country recently.

MISS SCHAFFER'S DEBUT PRAISED BY THE CRITICS.

May Be Seen in This Country Next Season in "Saronna."

Miss Josephine Schaffer, the former Plainfield young woman who has been winning laurels on the operatic stage, made a successful debut as a prima donna in Le Grand Howland's "Saronna" at Florence, Italy, March 1. Newspaper advices received from there state that singer and production were so favorably received that both will be heard in other Italian cities before the season is over and that next year the opera will be staged in this country. If mounted here, Miss Schaffer will be seen in the part she created abroad.

Speaking of Miss Schaffer's success, the musical critic of the Newark Evening News in last night's issue gave the following: "When Manager Conried, of the Metropolitan Opera Company, established his school of opera in connection with that organization, Miss Schaffer was one of the few accepted from the many applicants for admission. With several other gifted pupils in the school and with Mme. Jaegar, its directress, as chaperon, she was sent abroad by Manager Conried at the close of the first season to continue her studies in Munich and other places. Last July she again went to Germany, and in Munich pursued her studies of both vocal and dramatic art to such good purpose that those who were acquainted with the progress she had made did not hesitate to predict success for her should she decide to make her debut as a prima donna abroad. That they were not mistaken in their belief in her ability is evident from the favorable reports received from Florence."

BANKING METHODS.

Mr. Gilbert Gives High School Pupils Finance Talk.

A series of talks by business men, on the way they make their money, is to be given before the pupils of the city High School. The first of the series was delivered at the assembly exercises this morning by former Mayor Alexander Gilbert on "Banking." Mr. Gilbert is president of the Fulton and Market National Bank, New York.

He explained the two uses of money, medium of exchange and standard of value. He described the system of credit necessary to banking operations.

Miss Emma Clay.

Miss Emma Clay, colored, died this morning at 311 Park avenue, after a short illness. She was born in Virginia and had lived in this city five years. Announcement of funeral will be made later.

Justice Mosher is not well today and was obliged to adjourn a jury trial that was set in his court.

INSURANCE MEN ANGRY

Deny That is Politics in the Local Fire Department.

NO RAISE IN THE RATES

Stories Published in The Spectator and The Chronicle Called to Attention of National Board of Underwriters.

Reputable New York insurance men residing in this city and the vicinity are incensed over articles reflecting on the Common Council and the fire department which have appeared in two insurance papers recently. So much are they wrought up over an attempt to hurt the city that they have called the attention of the rate committee of the National Board of Underwriters to the matter and it is hinted that drastic action is likely to be taken against the man alleged to have furnished the periodicals with untrue matters upon which the articles were based.

During the last few weeks both The Spectator and The Chronicle, papers devoted to insurance affairs, have given publication to stories which bear the earmarks of having emanated from the same source if not written by the same person. These stories allege that the underwriters give their attention to the alleged introduction of politics in the Plainfield fire department over the matter of the second assistant chiefship. One hints that there is a possibility that the board will raise the rates here as a result of the contest.

As is well known, Mayor Buckle sent the name of John Cose, a call man, to the Common Council for confirmation of his appointment as second assistant chief. The Mayor's appointment was turned down through the efforts of the anti-administration councilmen, who preferred to have the office abolished altogether rather than promotion refused to Senior Captain William Townley, of the regular service. The independent councilmen took the stand on the ground that the appointment of Cose was the alleged payment of a political debt.

The New York manager of an insurance company residing here told a representative of The Daily Press last night that he had turned over copies of the articles published in the papers named to members of the rate commission of the National Board and explained the situation fully.

This manager said: "The rate committee understands full well the local conditions of affairs and you can state positively that there will be no raise in insurance rates in Plainfield. They know where those articles came from and there is apt to be something doing. As a matter of fact, the rate commission men fully approve of the doing away with the office of second assitant chief here, for they know that the department has not been impaired. You can also say that the board approves of the Common Council's action, if you like. As long as I live in Plainfield I will see to it that the rate committee is kept informed and there will be no increase in rates for any future attempt to turn the fire department over to politicians will be blocked."

Three other New York insurance men expressed themselves in like fashion.

Following is the story published in the New York Chronicle:

"Thus far in the history of Plainfield, one of the most attractive and progressive of the New Jersey suburban towns, its fire department has been singularly free from political interference, which fact accounts in large part for the efficiency of the service. A change in present conditions—so satisfactory to property owners and underwriters—is now threatened, however, and insurance men, and particularly members of the Fire Department Committee of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, will do well to keep close watch of the motion just passed to its second reading by the Plainfield Common Council, to abolish the office of second assistant chief of the fire department, rather than appoint to the post, now vacant, one of the call men concerning whose ability as a fireman there is no question. The only objection, so far as we can learn, to making the present appointment, is upon political grounds, which, from a practical standpoint is not a reason for action, but merely an excuse, and a cheap one, too. Fire underwriters have no interest in party squabbles in towns or municipalities, but they, in common with property owners, have a very vital concern in the fire protection service, for upon its degree of efficiency or the reverse are their premium rates based, and if the fire department of Plainfield, a rapidly growing town, is to become merely a plaything for politicians, a change in existing tariffs may be necessary."

George Angleman, of Newport, Delaware, is visiting his cousin, Martin Hines, of West Front street.

H. F. FOX CHAMPIONS CHILD LABOR BILL

PLAINFIELDER SPEAKS BEFORE HOUSE COMMITTEE ON MR. PERKINS' BILL.

Hugh F. Fox, of this city, president of the New Jersey State Children's Alliance, is fighting tooth and nail for the adoption of Assemblyman Randolph Perkins' bill, which prevents the employment of children under sixteen years of age in factories between the hours of 6 p. m. and 7 a. m. At the hearing before the House committee on labor and industries, he took the leading part in advocating the measure, which is opposed by South Jersey glass blowers principally.

Mr. Fox explained the measure. He thought the merits of the bill would appeal to all. He said the text of the arguments of the friends of the bill was a statement made by former Governor Murphy, that the welfare of the children was more to be considered than the difference between child's labor and man's labor.

President Fox said opposition was to be expected from manufacturers, because it would change the conditions in many factories, but that was no argument against the righteousness of the measure. It was shown that the bill would mainly hit the glass manufacturers. The speaker was willing to concede, he said, that the change should not be made too suddenly, and he was willing to amend the bill by making it take effect a year hence.

MORE HONORS FOR FORMER LOCAL FIREMAN

AUGUSTE SALTZMAN A MEMBER OF TWO IMPORTANT EUROPEAN ORGANIZATIONS

In a letter received by Chief Doane yesterday, Auguste Saltzman, former chief of the Plainfield department during the volunteer days, now living in Geneva, Switzerland, announces that additional honors have been conferred upon him. He has recently been made honorary life member of the National Fire Brigade Union of England and also a member of honor of the International Congress of Firemen, which takes place in Milan, Italy, in May. In addition he has received a fine badge and diploma from the Duke of Luxembourg in recognition of his ability as a fire fighter.

Mr. Saltzman's household was recently increased by the arrival of a young son who has been named Theodore William, as he states, in honor of President Roosevelt and the Emperor of Germany.

Two years ago, Mr. Saltzman received a gold medal from the President of France in recognition of his services at an International meeting of firemen. About the same time he received a similar honor from the Emperor of Germany.

The chief mentions the fact that in Geneva they "luckily" have very few fires as the department is very slow. "They are fine for theory and parade," he writes, "but when actual work is needed they fail to come up to the mark."

J. P. MURRAY ELECTED COUNTRY CLUB SECRETARY.

Also Elected to Fill Vacancy on Board of Trustees.

Leighton Calkins resigned as secretary of the Plainfield Country Club at a meeting of the trustees held last night, and James P. Murray was elected to fill the vacancy, and he was also chosen to fill the vacancy on the Board of Trustees caused by the resignation of Lewis E. Waring. Mr. Calkins was elected chairman of the greens committee, succeeding E. T. Barrows.

The officers and chairmen of committees for 1906 are as follows:

President, George P. Mellick; vice president, Ernest R. Ackerman; secretary, James P. Murray; treasurer, Joseph M. Shellabarger; chairman house committee, L. G. Timpson; chairman green committee, Leighton Calkins; chairman golf committee, Thomas R. VanBoskerck; chairman of the tennis committee, T. M. Day.

Fred Ivamy Will Move.

Fred Ivamy, the seafood dealer, is about to make a change in the location of his business which has been established at West Second street and Madison avenue for many years. He has leased Charles W. McCutchen's building on West Second street, adjoining the New Plainfield theatre, and will take possession about April 1. Mr. Ivamy will have his seafood market on the first floor and will reside in the flat above. He proposes to make the market up-to-date in every detail, enabling him to handle his increasing trade.

TALK BY AN IRONMASTER

Dr. Richard Moldenke Tells How Castings Are Made.

BEFORE CHURCH CLUB

Topic Treated In An Absorbingly Interesting Way—Even the Women Enjoyed It and Gathered Knowledge.

The Men's Club of the First Presbyterian church held its monthly social meeting last night, and for the feature of the occasion the committee had Dr. Richard Moldenke, of Washington Valley, talk on iron casting. Dr. Moldenke is a recognized authority on iron work, known wherever foundrymen of the country hold forth as a scientific expert in his particular field, which is the making of malleable castings.

The talk was absorbingly interesting. Speaking with perfect informality, Dr. Moldenke carefully kept technicalities from his talk, and even the women, present by special invitation from the club, followed him without trouble. They were as interested as the men.

Dr. Moldenke speaks on the iron business from the inside. Until a few month ago he was actively engaged in it. He was interested in a large plant at Pittsburg, where thousands of malleable casting were made yearly. Most of the journal boxes seen on the Central and P. & R. cars were made at Dr. Moldenke's plant.

The speaker, for the most part, dealt with cast iron, but touched at some length on every form of the metal. Iron costing, he said, dated from early in the sixteenth century. The first castings in this country were made in New England in 1730. A little later the Germans brought it to Pennsylvania.

The process of melting the pig iron for casting was simple enough, he explained. Alternate layers of iron and coke, with a blast of air passed through the mass, reduced the iron to a molten state. He explained the composition of iron, and how the absence or presence of sulphur, manganese, silicon, phosphorus and carbon, served to change the character of the casting. The amount of silicon, for instance, governed its hardness; the phosphorus made it soft, so that a very fluid mass, designed to run in the smallest crevices of the mould, was made rich in phophorus. Iron of that character was used in art castings. The manner of making moulds for such castings was explained.

The ordinary moulds were made of a damp mixture of sand and clay—just enough clay to hold the sand together in the required shape. It had to be just wet enough. Too dry, it fell to pieces; too wet, it caused an explosion. In some forms of casting, sand, set and dried in iron boxes, was used. Loam moulds were used for especially fine work, like the casting of steel rollers, which a hard white surface with a tough body of gray iron was required.

The study of iron was in itself a work for a lifetime. Two kinds of iron marked the extremes of texture in the metal. The white was very hard, the gray soft; there were various grades between. The different classes of iron numbered thirteen, and they were put to forty different uses.

Iron casting was put on a scientific basis only about ten years ago. Until that time casting was all guesswork. Nowadays the ironmaster figured the silicon, the manganese, the phosphorus and the carbon exactly and got just the iron he wanted whenever he wanted it.

Dr. Moldenke dealt at length with malleable castings. He was held on the floor for more than half an hour after his talk by questions from all over the room. He told some shivery tales of the dangers that stalk beside the foundryman every day of his work.

ELKS' HALL DEDICATED.

Plainfield Lodge Members Assist New Brunswickers in Exercises.

A large delegation of local Elks went to New Brunswick by special trolley last night and took part in the dedication exercises of New Brunswick lodge's new rooms. It was a gala night for the wearers of the antlers, many of the most prominent members of the order being present. Champ S. Andrews, past exalted ruler of New York Lodge, No. 1, made the dedicatory address, and Past Exalted Ruler William N. Runyon, of this city, was prominent in the exercises. The Plainfielders also furnished a good part of the entertainment programme.

The committee in charge of the local end of the affair comprised William J. O'Keefe, George Johnson and John Slevin.

—Rockdale print and creamery butter is used in every part of the country. It always pleases. Neuman Brothers are the local selling agents.

PLAN NOW TO TAKE THE RARITAN'S WATER

UNNAMED CAPITALISTS PUSHING MAINS TOWARD ELIZABETH AND S. I.

Somerville, March 23.—A syndicate which has made large expenditures in securing water rights in the Raritan River in this section during recent years has made application to the Bridgewater Township Committee for a franchise to lay thirty-six-inch water mains along the public highways of the township. The syndicate is represented by Horace J. Subers, of 25 Broadway, New York, who has refused to reveal the identity of the men composing the syndicate, or the object in securing water rights. The syndicate has already paid $217,000 in cash for the stock of the Somerville Water Company and has expended many thousands for mills and water rights along the north branch of the Raritan.

There is a rumor that the syndicate intends to supply either the city of Elizabeth or Staten Island. This is borne out by the fact that the syndicate has already secured a franchise from the Somerset County Board of Freeholders to lay a thirty-six-inch main along a county road for a distance of four miles in the direction of Elizabeth. As a concession for this franchise the syndicate has agreed to pay the county $500 and to supply the $12,000 Lord Memorial Fountain, to be erected in front of the county courthouse, with water forever.

The Syndicate's right of way along the county road through Bound Brook was blocked by the Bound Brook Water Company, which resented the encroachment of its territory by a foreign company. The blockade was complete inasmuch as the Bound Brook concern owned the land through which the pipe line must pass to connect with Elizabeth. It is now authoritatively stated that an agreement has been made between the syndicate and the water company which binds the former to carry its line through Bound Brook without competing for the water supply of the town, in return for the right of way through the water company's land.

The syndicate has struck another snag in its attempt to secure an extensive franchise from the Bridgewater Township Committee. There are certain members who characterize the syndicate as "a pig in a poke," and they are determined that its representative must reveal the identity of the men behind it and state its object in laying pipe lines before they will vote to grant it a valuable franchise.

It has been repeatedly asserted that James B. Duke was one of the backers of the mysterious syndicate, but the tobacco magnate now emphatically denies that he has any connection with it, and has recently set about protecting his own extensive water rights in the Raritan River against encroachment.

Mr. Subers was asked yesterday who he was representing in the matter, but refused to give any information further than to admit that an application to lay a thirty-six-inch water main through the public highways of Bridgewater Township had been made and that he expected it to be granted. Mr. Subers' office is in the same building—25 Broadway—as the Hudson County Water Company, of which Turner A. Beall is president. The water company quite recently moved there from 26 Broadway, the Standard Oil Company's building, where Mr. Beall has an office. Mr. Subers would not say whether or not Mr. Beall was interested in the Somerset county enterprise.

BATTLESHIP NEW JERSEY GIVEN UNOFFICIAL TEST.

On Trip Through Massachusetts Bay —Government Trip Begins On Wednesday Next.

Quincy, Mass., March 23.—The battleship New Jersey, which was constructed for the government by the Fore River Shipbuilding Company, left the Fore River dock yesterday for a run through Massachusetts Bay, for an unofficial test of her engines and crews. It was planned that the warship would anchor at Boston Harbor last night, and that today she would be placed on the drydock at Charlestown Navy Yard.

The official trial trip of the New Jersey will be held on March 28 or 29, when she will be required to make nineteen knots an hour.

Want Negro Letter-carriers.

Elizabeth, March 23.—The negro voters in Elizabeth have started a movement to get a colored man appointed on the letter-carrier force, and the colored auxiliary to the Republican City Committee has been requested to use its best endeavors to have the negro Republican voters' support recognized in this manner. It is pointed out that in Newark the negro Republican vote gets recognition from the postoffice department, and it is claimed the same should be done in Elizabeth.

Trenton, March 23.—The House Judiciary Committee held yesterday what Chairman Perkins says was an "informal conference" over the Frelinghuysen automobile bill. All is not plain sailing for the measure on the Assembly side of the State house, and the probabilities are that it will be further amended before it gets through. Although himself an automobilist, Leader Perkins is considered "fair" toward the measure.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

The Jersey City team will make its headquarters at the Hotel Iroquois during its ten days' stay in Plainfield.

George Bausewine is no longer a National League umpire. His tendency to get homesick was the reason for his downfall.

McGraw is said to have offered Catcher Marshall and $2,500 for Grady, of the St. Louis Browns, but afterward withdrew the offer.

Nothing has been heard from "Dave" Driscoll as yet, but the popular first baseman will undoubtedly be here when the roll is called.

It is welcome news to fandom that "Tip" O'Neil has signed to play here this season. Besides being a good receiver, "Tip" can line 'em out when it is necessary.

The P. H. S. baseball team expects to play its home games on Crescent Oval, and is counting on some good practice with the Jersey City Club during its training season here.

The task of raising $2,000 among 25,000 people in Plainfield and North Plainfield should not be a difficult one. It will be worth more than that as an advertisement to the city.

The Plainfield Baseball Association will meet at the Hotel Iroquois tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. Let every fan attend and join the movement for good baseball through the summer. Manager Daab will probably be prepared to announce the lineup of his team at this time.

President Pulliam, of the National League, declares that the umpires will be stricter than ever in their interpretation of the playing rules, and particularly the balk rule, the coming season in the National League at least. This is as it should be. Rules are made to be enforced; lacking that they soon fall into contempt.

There's a hen on at Westfield. Fandom in that thriving burg is beginning to arouse from its winter slumbers and take on new life. Many local fans will remember when Charley Codding successfully managed a team there and he believes he can do it again. Plainfield's activity is too much for Westfield and she had to do something.

President Johnson, of the American League, confirms the report that the National Commission will, within a short time, pass a special rule forbidding the employment of contract-breaking or reserve-jumping ball players in any capacity whatsoever, including bench-management. Messrs. Johnson and Herrmann favor such a rule and it only remains to secure Mr. Pulliam's assent to adopt such a rule. That assent is confidently looked for soon.

Manager Joe Gavett has issued a call for candidates for the P. H. S. battery for the coming baseball season, and it is expected that there will be several at the new High School gymnasium tomorrow. Among the candidates for pitchers are Mahaffey, formerly of the Brooklyn "Poly;" Stuart Freeman, Phil. Smith, last year's star; John Lindabury, and every one looks good for the position. Thus far there are two candidtes for the receiving end, Malcolm Davis and William Douglass.

"Dave" Fultz, well-known as the star fielder on the New York American League team last season, addressed the Y. M. C. A. meeting at Red Bank, last Sunday, and it is said that the audience was the largest in the history of the association. It is quite likely that Mr. Fultz will speak at the local association in the near future. He has given up baseball and will devote his time in the future to the practice of law. The former player is a graduate of Brown University and has always been interested in Christian work for men.

Now that both leagues must waive claim to players, the farming business received practically a death blow, for holding players in this way is now a losing proposition. The National Commission will make every effort to stop farming. It is a violation of the National agreement, and yet all offenders have gone unpunished. It is an expensive business and cost one major league club at least $1,000 last year, and it never strengthened its team one iota, simply because the players picked up lacked the essential points of greatness.

Through Sleeping Car to Rochester Via the Lehigh Valley Railroad.

WASHING WITHOUT WATER
Is Like Trying to Get Rid of Dandruff Without Herpicide.
Did you ever see any one trying to wash themselves without soap or water?
If you did what would you say of him?
It is every bit as foolish to try to get rid of Dandruff and to prevent Baldness by feeding the germs which cause it, with Canthrarides, Vaseline, Glycerine and similar substances which form the principal ingredients of most so-called Hair Vigors.
Newbro's Herpicide is successful because it attacks and kills the parasitic germ which feeds on the hair roots.
It is the original and only genuine scalp germicide manufactured.
Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Mr. and Mrs. James W. Jackson, of Crescent Avenue, will entertain the Brotherhood of the First M. E. church at their home tonight.

Members of the Women's Christian Temperance Union spent yesterday at the rooms making comfort bags for the sailors on the Battleship New Jersey. Considerable progress was made.

These officers have been elected by the Sunday-school of the First Presbyterian church: Superintendent, I. B. Hill; first assistant, Leroy H. Gates; second assistant, Miss Jennie Abbott; secretary, Frank R. Hazeltine; assistant, Edgar D. George, Jr.; treasurer, Freeman J. Shotwell; librarian, Warren Townley; superintendent primary department, Mrs. Grace Williams; superintendent home department, Mrs. E. J. Olssen. The school now has a membership of 374 pupils, eight officers, twenty-seven teachers in the main department and seven in the primary department. During the year fifty-two pupils have joined the school, and of this number eight have joined the church. The school raised for missions during the year $314.40, and there is a balance of $200 in the treasury. It has been decided to change the hour for holding Sunday-school from 12 o'clock noon to 2:30, the old hour, it being found impossible for many children to attend at noon.

PERSONAL.

A. H. Searing is confined to his home in Westervelt avenue by illness.

Miss Marguerite Serrell, of Myrtle avenue, is much improved from an attack of tonsilitis.

Former Senator Charles A. Reed, of the firm of Reed & Codington, is detained at home with tonsilitis.

Miss Adella Phelps, of the Babcock building, has been visiting her mother and sister at Ocean Grove.

Charles Hurtt, of West Fifth street, who is ill with pneumonia at Muhlenberg Hospital, is improving.

Mrs. D. H. Rowland, of West Seventh street, will entertain the Lenten Sewing Class of Grace church at her home on Wednesday, March 28.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Frost, Francis Frost and Miss Edith Weston, of Watchung avenue, are home from Genoa, Italy, arriving yesterday on the steamship "Koenig."

—John W. Perkins, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. of Erie, Pa., in writing of Robert Freeman, who will speak to men in the Plainfield theatre Sunday, says: "He is a speaker with a great deal of personal magnetism, has a quaint striking way of presenting known truths so that they strike in and is particularly well adapted to speak to men. He never fails to get and hold their attention and always gives something worth while."

done. This calls for detailed work, he explained, and it would be necessary to secure complete and concise data before the matter could be presented to the taxpayers. He entered into a detailed explanation of the condition of the lower end of the borough where disposal beds could be located and also explained clearly many points that would have to be considered before any definite course could be taken. Up to this time, Mr. Pierson had not been engaged permanently and in order to carry out his suggestions, the resolution was introduced that makes him the directing engineer for the present, at least.

When this point was determined, he was instructed to compile within the next two weeks, if possible, the cost of laying pipes in the streets where sanitary conditions demand relief as soon as possible, the cost of a trunk line to tide-water, the cost of building a septic tank and the cost of erecting a pumping station to force sewage into the Plainfield beds. He replied that the snow might hamper him somewhat but that in all probability he would be ready to present the figures to the Council in the time specified. If not they will be made known at a special session called for this purpose.

Before adjournment, Mayor Smalley congratulated the Board of Health members on the activity they have displayed in bringing the sewer question to a head. In seven years past, he said, he had tried in vain to have this organization help in agitating it but there had never been any response until the present board was organized. He, at least, appreciated it, he said, and he was sure the residents of the borough would feel grateful toward them for what they have already done.

The engineer engaged is a man of recognized ability and has had wide experience in installing sewer and water plants. He had charge of the work at Somerville when water was put in and because of other contracts in Union and Somerset counties possesses a knowledge of local soil and drainage conditions that will be of great value to him in his investigations for the borough. In explaining his conclusions, the facts are presented to men not familiar with engineering problems in such a way that they can readily grasp his intent and follow him with a clear understanding.

FOOTPADS ROB YOUTH.

Polish Miner Traveling Afoot Knocked Down Near Cranford.

While walking near Cranford Wednesday night, traveling afoot from Pennsylvania to Paterson, John Lefka, an eighteen-year-old Polish miner, was accosted by two men. One of them asked him if he wanted work. He replied in the affirmative and was told to follow them. A short distance beyond the two men knocked him down and robbed him of $50, all that was left of his savings. Then they took his shoes and skipped.

Lefka walked nearly a mile to Cranford in his stocking feet, suffering from cold and half dead with fright. He was found by two constables, who took charge of him and brought him to Elizabeth. He will continue his journey to Paterson today.

CHAMBER CONCERT DELIGHTFUL AFFAIR

LAST IN M'INTYRE SERIES OF MUSICALS DRAWS A CROWD.

Vladmir Dubinsky, 'cellist; Mrs. Aimee Horton Dalzell, soprano, and Joseph McIntyre, pianist, shared the honors at the third and last McIntyre chamber concert given at the Casino, last night, before a large gathering of music-lovers. Mr. Dubinsky was a great favorite, his brilliant work on the 'cello winning much praise. Mrs. Dalzell's reception was a flattering one. Her sweet voice was heard to the best advantage. She received a handsome bouquet of carnations from admiring friends.

Mr. McIntyre appeared as accompanist as well as in the rendition of the "Ride of the Valkyries," by Wagner, which closed the programme. This was his first appearance this season as a soloist, and his work was delightful.

Other artists assisting were Isidor Schnitzler, violin, and Herbert Borodkin, viola, and they appeared with Mr. McIntyre and Mr. Dubinsky in the quartette and trio selections.

The programme opened with piano quartette in G minor-allegro, andante, rondo, (allegro,) by Mozart. The second number comprised three songs, by Mrs. Dalzell. The first two were "Toujours a Toi," by Tschikowsky, and "My Mother Bids Me Bind My Hair," by Hadyn. Mr. Dubinsky's solo number was "Kol Nedrei," old Hebrew melody, which he gave with his characteristic spirit and in a finished manner. The next number was a trio, "Serenade for strings in D," comprising "Marcia," "Adagio," "Scherzo," "Allegretta alla Pollacca," "Andante," and "Marcia." The programme was concluded with Wagner's composition, "Ride of the Valkyries." Mr. McIntyre will give another series of concerts next season.

TRINITY ENDEAVORERS HOLD BIG SOCIABLE

MOTHER GOOSE AFFAIR ENJOYED BY A LARGE GATHERING.

The Christian Endeavorers of Trinity Reformed church, West Second street, held their first big sociable of the year last night. It was a "Mother Goose" affair, and was as great a success of its kind as the classic of the nursery. There was a large attendance and an altogether delightful programme.

The features were a Mother Goose game and a Mother Goose cantata. In the game, pasteboard geese, with amputated rhymes on them, were passed among the players, and the latter went about matching the sections of verse to find their partners for the evening. Some of the geese had numbers on them, and as the numbers were called the holders went to a blackboard and illustrated the verse in his possession. The rest of the players were required to guess the verse from the alleged illustration. Some of the illustrations were poor, but a lot of the guesses were poorer, which made fun that was as good as the drawings and guesses were bad, in combined badness.

The Mother Goose songs were admirably sung. Those who took the main parts in the cantata were the Misses Harriet Randall, Anna Randall, Bessie Randall, Eva Dunavan, Eliza Dufford, Minnie Wyman, Lyda Wyman, Mamie Davenport, Edith Leek, Mrs. William Tunison, Roy Layton, Allen Layton, Floyd Miller, Roy Woodhull and William Kriney.

Chester Briggs played mandolin solos, accompanied by Irving Martin. Mr. Martin sang. Refreshments were served.

The social committee, which arranged the affair, is made up of Miss Harriet Randall, chairman; Miss Lucy Coriell, Miss Anna Randall, William Kriney and Henry Seader.

VETO SCHOOL SCHEME.

Bound Brook Citizen Against Bond Issue.

While the voters of Bound Brook carried the appropriation of $6,800 for the coming year's school expenses, the proposition to issue bonds for $20,000 for another school building was defeated at the annual school meeting held Tuesday night. The crowded condition of the present building enlarged in 1899, will compel further action within a short time. The proposition was lost by twenty-six votes.

The following were elected members of the Board of Education: John Olenderf, re-elected; Fred J. Pettengill and Archibald I. Coddington to succeed M. W. Baxter, who declined a renomination and E. A. Lloyd, recently elected a councilman.

Basketball Game Tonight.

The basketball game between the Plainfield High School boys' team and the Wanamassa Boat Club will take place this evening in the new High School gymnasium at 8 o'clock. The second team of the High School will play the preliminary game with the Hope chapel Juniors. The only entrance open to spectators will be on the Arlington avenue side of the building.

AUTO PUPILS WILL STUDY IN JUMPERS

OWNERS TO BECOME ACQUAINTED WITH CAR'S INSIDES.

Preliminary to the organization of the class, Clarence Brokaw, who is to conduct the automobile school at the Y. M. C. A., delivered a lecture to a gathering of auto enthusiasts at the association auditorium, last night. He gave them a general survey of the field to be covered by the course.

The lecture is not part of the course. It was designed merely to bring those interested together and see whether men enough were ready to enter on the course to make it worth carrying out. It is designed to form a class of not more than fifteen owners, and names enough to make it a certainty were signed.

Mr. Brokaw is principal of the Y. M. C. A. automobile school, New York, the biggest school of its kind in the world, and he knows automobiles from their last layer of varnish to the inner consciousness of the thingamajig that makes it go. His plans for the course are thorough. In the course of the twelve lessons, the pupils will learn everything of the workings of cars that an owner need know. Different types of machines will be brought into the auditorium and taken apart. The pupils will learn how to put them together again. Before the lessons end the pupils will be busy in jumpers and overalls scraping an acquaintance with the bubbles' vitals.

The course is designed solely for owners. Chauffeurs cannot be trained in twelve lessons, without road work, as men who earn money driving cars should be trained. The cars used for demonstration will be types popular in Plainfield—the Olds, the Auto-Car, the Cadillac, the Rambler and the Franklin. The Olds machine will be taken up first.

Mr. Brokaw's talk last night was on the relation of the different parts, one to another and to the whole mechanism, and on the functions of the parts. It was illustrated by stereopticon views.

Lectured on Pilgrim's Progress.

Rev. George A. Francis, a retired Baptist clergyman, gave an illustrated lecture at Reform Hall, last night, on "The Pilgrim's Progress." The views were fine and the descriptive talk by Mr. Francis very instructive.

THE FORUM.

Fun and Fatality.

Editor, The Daily Press:

A gentleman who was in Trenton this week learned that House Bill No. 42, which allows an open season on doves, was introduced to afford sport for the glass blowers of Cumberland county during their summer vacation. What a creditable sport it will be, indeed, for these men to blow out the brains of these innocent domestic creatures, devourers of the farmers' weeds and the gentle pets of th children! Possibly the marksmen skilfull enough to bring down such game may try a bead on the farmer's cow next. She would be quite as vulnerable a target. In the meantime members of the Audubon Society throughout the State believe that the Legislature will lend its influence to no such petty cruelty, for, having voted pigeon shooting, from the traps, down and out, New Jersey does not wish to blacken that good record with this foul blot. A. C. N.

—Horace J. Martin is removing today from Marion avenue to 505 Watchung avenue.

—New bulletin boards were put up at the city High School this morning. On these the pupils will find notices to their advantage.

MACCABEE TENT TO BE STARTED HERE

WILL BEGIN WITH FORTY OR FIFTY MEMBERS.

Definite plans for the reorganization of the Knights of the Maccabees in the city were made at a meeting in F. J. Huff's law office last night. The meeting was attended by a score or more local men, members of the old tent for the most part, and organizers of the order. The latter reported an encouraging field, and the interest shown in the project by those present resulted in a decision to go ahead with reorganization.

Saturday, March 31, was settled on as the date for launching the tent. The organization will be done at Jr. O. U. A. M. Hall, Scheuer building. It is expected that the lodge, to be known as Plainfield Tent, will start with between 40 and 50 members.

Carteret Tent will come to this city to initiate the candidates. Officers will be chosen at a meeting to be held in Mr. Huff's office next Thursday night.

A spread and a come-all-ye will mark the institution.

Frank Drake Dead.

Frank Drake, known familiarly as "Wackie," died in Muhlenberg Hospital, last night, after a short illness with pneumonia. He was twenty-three years old and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Drake, of Richmond street. He is survived by two sisters, the Misses Nellie and Mary Drake, and three brothers, William, Harry and Charles. The funeral will be held at St. Mary's church tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock and interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

Fell Through Bridge.

John Featherstone, residence unknown, destination Paterson, fell through the Lehigh Valley Railroad bridge at South Plainfield last night and received a scalp wound. He was brought to the hospital in a carriage and Dr. Anthony, the house physician, attended to the man's injuries. This morning he continued his journey.

Evangelist Spiegel will speak on the subject of "The Extended Hand" at the Christian church, Grove street, tonight. Mr. Sturgis will sing.

THEY DO NOT ACCEPT LEADER JOHN MOODY

PROMINENT DEMOCRATS REPUDIATE ORGANIZATION FORMED ON TUESDAY.

Men who are generally looked upon as representing Democratic sentiment in Essex county have repudiated the organization formed at the conference last Tuesday at the New Auditorium. They take the ground that the men who controled the conference were not actuated by a desire to build up the Democratic party, but to create a new party on the basis of radical doctrines and to bring into one fold the apostles and disciples of every conceivable political heresy.

Many of the Essex Democrats indorse the stand taken by Charles C. Black, who withdrew from the conference after the adoption of the radical doctrine of municipal and federal ownership of public utilities. Mr. Black is quoted as saying:

"I did not go to Newark to organize a new party. I expected the conference to preach good, helpful Democratic doctrine. I found men who were cutting away from Democratic doctrine and doing things on a wide, wild scale. They had their minds made up to get a new party under way from the start. I am through with the crowd and with whatever else they may do."

Action will be taken by the executive committee of the Democratic League of Essex county tonight in relation to the result of the Auditorium conference. The leading members of the league will probably urge the adoption of a resolution repudiating the new organization and denying its right to appear as a representative body of Democrats.

In speaking of the conference and the league's attitude, President Simon P. Northrup said yesterday:

"The conference failed because the committee in charge filled it with men who shared their views, instead of men who represented the Democracy of New Jersey. The mission of the conference was to bring to leadership the best men to correctly declare party principles. Honnecker, Whittier and Buchanan, People's party leaders; Moody and Rusby, Single Taxers; Arthur W. Millbury, the Hearst promoter, who was kicked out the brush, and a few more Hearst men and Socialists are the proposed leaders."

The Newark News yesterday received from Archibald S. Alexander, of Hoboken, the following letter:

"I would be glad if you will publish my resignation as treasurer of this new 'Democratic' movement.

"I was elected after I had left the conference and without a word having been said to me beforehand about it."

SALESMEN WANTED

For several really high-grade specialty salesmen—the kind no salary offer would ordinarily interest—we have very attractive openings. We know of men who are earning from $1,000 to $5,000 annually, simply selling to dealers for a large and well known manufacturer a well advertised staple. To any successful salesman who is now selling a general line and who can handle a profitable and attractive side line, an excellent proposition will also be made.

"CAR AHEAD" SUIT.

Three Men Who Stayed in Trolley All Night Get $100 Apiece Damages.

Orange, March 23.—It has cost the Public Service Corporation so far $300, besides court costs, to fail to run a car through to the terminus as marked. In the Orange District Court yesterday Thomas W. Coffey and Edward C. Glaster each sued for $300 damages and got a verdict of $100 each. Recently Thomas J. Kearney recovered $100. The three men, with Edward T. Jeffries, boarded a car marked "West Orange" in Newark on the night of April 9. When the car got as far as Lincoln avenue, Orange, the passengers were ordered to get out and wait for the next car.

Some of the passengers protested, but in the end all got out except the four. The conductor finally ran the car back to the car barns in Newark. The four men stuck to it all night, and when morning came left the car and, declining offers of free transportation, took a train for Orange. They decided to bring suit, and as all have recovered except Jeffries he will enter an action now.

Rahway Firemen's Parade Talk.

Rahway, March 23.—H. L. Lamphear was elected president of the firemen's parade committee at its meeting in Protection Hose Company's parlors this week. The meeting was called for the purpose of discussing the advisibility of holding a parade here next October and the feeling, as indicated by a rising vote, was unanimously for so doing. The time talked of was about the middle of October. Each delegate was instructed to consult with his own company at its next meeting, report the sentiment of the last night's gathering and report the decision of his company at the next meeting of the general committee on Wednesday evening, April 19. A committee needed to raise needed funds, estimated at about $2,000, was discussed and laid over.

Small Says He'll Tell Story.

Mt. Holly, March 23.—Now that George Small has been notified that his counsel, Thomas L. Gaskill, determined that the ends of justice would not be served by taking out any writ of habeas corpus or writ of error, and that there is no legal barrier to be interposed between him and his execution, set for Saturday next, the authorities say his demeanor has undergone a decided change. Small has already made a virtual admission that his denials of guilt are false, by stating to his watch, John Throckmorton, Jr., that before he is hung he will make a statement and tell the true story of the crime.

McKinley's Bodyguard Still Held.

Trenton, March 23.—Judge William M. Lanning, in the United States Court Wednesday, heard argument in the habeas corpus proceedings for the liberation from prison of B. C. Peek, the former Secret Service man, who was the body guard of President McKinley during his administration, and who is now serving five years for conspiracy to commit a crime against the government postal service in sending illegal letters through the mails. The case was submitted on brief and decision will be announced later.

The Champion.

The picture that attracted attention from coast to coast, and even became famed abroad, was Charles Dana Gibson's cartoon of Jim Jeffries, illustrated as a giant with an admiring throng surrounding him. The title of the picture is "The Champion." This picture, printed on white paper in half-tone black on a light buff tint, suitable for home decoration, will be given with the Sunday World of March 25. Advance copies should be ordered from newsdealers if one would be sure of getting this picture supplement.

Bill Abolishing Police Judges.

Trenton, March 23.—Mayor Fagan, Police Justice Frank Higgins, Corporation Counsel George L. Record, Corporation Attorney Robert Carey and anumber of supporters of the Mayor from Jersey City were at the State House yesterday looking after the bill introduced by Mr. Galvin, of Hudson, which abolishes the present police justices in cities of between 65,000 and 150,000 inhabitants, and gives to the Governor power to appoint two in their place.

Sell Trenton Driving Park.

The property of the Trenton Driving Park Association was sold Wednesday at sheriff's sale to Jos. Martin, Peter F. Farrell and Michael Hurley for $36,000. The purchasers are stockholders of the association. The sale was brought about through the foreclosure proceedings of a mortgage for $16,000 held by the Bucks County Trust Company. The total encumbrances on the place amounted to $72,000.

Stokes to Attend Dinner.

Passaic, March 23.—Governor Stokes will be present at the banquet given by the Board of Trade at the Passaic Club here on the evening of April 3. Mayor Greenlie, George P. Rust, Richard Morrell and Robert D. Benson waited on Governor Stokes in the executive chambers at the State House in Trenton yesterday and got his final answer to the Board of Trades invitation.

ALPHABET OF PROVERBS.

A grain of prudence is worth a pound of craft.

Boasters are cousins to liars.

Denying a fault doubles it.

Envy shoots at others and wounds herself.

Foolish fears double danger.

God teaches us good things by our own hands.

He has hard work who has nothing to do.

It costs more to revenge wrongs than to suffer them.

Learning makes a man fit company for himself.

Modesty is a guard to virtue.

Not to hear conscience is the way to silence it.

Richest is he that wants least.

Small faults indulged are little thieves that let in great ones.

The boughs that bear most hang lowest.

Upright walking is sure walking.

Virtue and happiness are mother and daughter.

Wise men make more opportunities than they find.

BROKEN ENGLISH.

It is all very well to poke fun at the intelligent foreigner who makes a hash of our beautiful, expressive language, but really he has many difficulties to contend with.

"I begin to understand your language better," said a French gentleman recently. "But your verbs, they trouble me still. For instance, I saw Mrs. Brown the schoolmistress just now, and she told me that she intends to break down her school——"

"Break up her school, she said, surely!"

"Ah, yes, I remember break up—it was that she said."

"And why is she doing it?"

"Because her health it is broken into."

"Broken down, you mean."

"Certainly! Broken down is correct. And, indeed, since the influenza has broken up into her school."

"Broken out. Is she going to leave the house to look after itself, then?"

"No; she is afraid it will be broken—broken. How do I say that, please?"

"Broken into."

"Ah, good!"

"What about that son of hers—is he married yet?"

"No; that engagement is broken out."

"Broken off, excuse me. Ah, I hadn't heard!"

"Indeed! Mrs. Brown is very worried about it. Her son only broke the news down to her last week. Is that correct?"

"No, merely broke."

It is really to be wondered at that foreigners mostly speak broken English?—Exchange.

ADVICE FROM SOLOMON, A YOUNG PUBLISHER.

Don't crawl! Worms get stepped on!

Don't lie! One lie in which you are caught will make others think you always lie.

Never count the cost of your picnic until you get back home.

When a man asks you for a thousand dollars security on a ten-dollar-a-week job, call in the police.

Wilhemina When a Child.

An amusing story is told of Queen Wilhelmina when she was quite a little child. Her majesty was not allowed to share dinner with the elder members of the royal household, but was permitted to make her appearance at dessert and place herself beside some particular favorite. On day she sat by a courtly old general, and after eating some fruit the little girl turned and gazed at him. Presently she exclaimed:

"I wonder you're not afraid to sit next to me?"

Everybody in the room turned at the sound of her childish treble.

"On the contrary, I am but too pleased and honored to sit next to my little queen," replied the old general. "But why should I be afraid?"

Assuming a woebegone expression, the little queen replied:

"Because all my dolls have the measles; they're all of them down with it!"

The Crown Prince's Moustache.

While the kaiser cultivates a moustache with the well-known upward twirl, his son, the young crown prince, clips his straight across, toothbrush fashion, after the style affected by old soldiers in this country thirty or forty years ago. He seems to be developing an individuality of his own in other respects as well, and bids fair to become the antithesis of his father. The Germans, be it said, are proud of the kaiser, but the crown prince is popular in a sense in which his father never was. There are not many things outside a restaurant over which the average German can get up his enthusiasm, but I have seen stolid and bespectacled herrs become quite enthusiastic over the kronprinz.—London Tatler.

Englewood May Raise License.

Hackensack, March 23.—The Bishops' Liquor bill, that has stirred the New Jersey Legislature at Trenton for several weeks, was outdone at Englewood last evening, when the City Council there accepted an ordinance on second reading that jumped the license fee from $100 to $500. Englewood has twelve hotels, five saloons, four wholesale places and two bottlers. The jump will no doubt wipe out the saloons, wholesalers and bottlers, and probably three or four of the hotel men will retire. The bill will come up for final passage tomorrow.

Stricken at Side of Son's Coffin.

Camden, March 23.—After pinning a rose in the coat of his son as he lay in his coffin, the aged father of George W. Shields, one of the three firemen killed in the armory fire, fell to the floor, smitten by paralysis. The wife of the dead man is also in a serious state from shock.

The Victim.

"My dear, that miserable little beast of yours just bit the baby."

"And the baby's got the measles! Oh! my poor little Fido!"—Cleveland American.

Mrs. George Mooney, of Monroe avenue, is recovering from an illness that has detained her at home for a few days.

—Alexander Kane, of this city, is one of many persons to make a bid for the old Court House building at Somerville. The desire to secure this old structure is making the competition sharp.

Store Closes at 6 Evenings Except Saturday

Pretty Hats Need Not Be Costly

When there are so many fine hats on exhibition one is likely to be misled into the belief that to get really pretty hats a high price must be paid, but this is far from true, as is readily proven by the beautiful hats we show and sell at popular prices. We are particularly proud of the hats we produce to sell at $4.75, and from that to $10. In the collection of $4.75 Hats many beautiful models are found. They possess all the style and dash and color that is found in much higher-priced hats and they are very acceptable to economical dressers.

Beautiful Gowns for only $27.50

This is a dress that we believe cannot be equalled anywhere at the price we have placed upon it, for it is the result of many conferences with one of the best dressmakers we know of and with whom we labored hard to get the very best gown possible to sell at this moderate price.

These gowns are beautifully made of Crepe de Chine in the prevailing fashionable shades. The bodice is made over silk drop to correspond with the tucks in the skirt, with square yoke and collar of German Valenciennes lace, and is finished with deep girdle; the sleeves are in the fashionable length with cuffs of German Valenciennes lace; the skirt is very full with deep hem and five 2-inch tucks separated becomingly. It is made over a silk drop of corresponding shade. The effect is beautiful indeed, and though low in price has been one of the most admired dresses shown at our opening. The price we name is $27.50.

Other dresses here at $29.50, $35, $40 and so on up to $198. Plenty of styles here sure to satisfy everyone.

The Opening Display has been preserved intact, and you will find here tomorrow a show of gowns far surpassing that seen in any other Newark store, and equaling any display in New York.

White Waists. Great Values.

In our unmatched Waist Section we will place on sale tomorrow two lots of White Waists which will prove extraordinary value to all who secure them at our special prices.

White Waists of Persian lawn of the daintiest sort, in pretty models; the entire front of embroidery in spray design, button front, long sleeves with deep cuff to elbow, made of tucking and insertions of Valenciennes lace, sizes 34 to 44; charming waists that we sell at $3.98, priced for Saturday at 2.98

MRS. APPLEGATE WELL AGAIN!

"I have had a bruised leg and foot for several years, caused by the brass eyelets of my shoe, which became very sore and painful especially at night. It itched, burned and ached me till it nearly set me crazy. I used everything I found and was suggested to ease it and nothing gave me any relief till I found and applied Azienza Cream which I think is a wonderful remedy for all sores and inflammation of the skin. The hard knots on my legs were as painful as bee stings, with discolored and purple spots. A running sore on my instep size of a half-dollar; the top of my foot a seething sore clean around to my heel. The bone was sore for a whole year and very painful. I used five and one-half jars of Azienza Cream and healed the sore all up. The foot remained tender and I continued to use to strengthen and toughen the skin until now it is entirely well." (Signed) Mrs. Hannah Applegate, Evergreen Ave., Avon, N. J., Sept. 3rd, 1905. 50 cents. Ask the druggist or by mail. Azienza Specialties Co., Jersey City, N. J.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Manager Counihan wishes to inform New Plainfield theatre patrons that the production of Thomas Dixon's "The Clansman," to be shown here next Friday night, is one that was built for New York and crowded the capacity of the Liberty theatre in that city for many weeks. The production is probably the most expensive now on tour and with rare exceptions it will be presented only in the week-stand cities. The cost of it ran up into six figures and improvements have been constantly made to add to the realism of the Southern scenes and the beauty of the lighting and costuming effects. After a short tour of the Eastern cities this metropolitan edition of "The Clansman" returns to New York for a big run at the Academy of Music or the New York theatre.

With its mirth making scenes, its clever specialties, pretty girls, bright costumes, tuneful music and elaborate mountings, "McFadden's Flats" comes to the New Plainfield theatre April 5. No comedy extravaganza of the season has satisfied theatregoers in a better measure than this favorite laugh maker.

"York State Folks," which made such a pronounced hit when presented in New York this season and has been hailed everywhere as the legitimate successor of "The Old Homestead" and "Shore Acres," will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre Wednesday evening, March 28. The simple strength of its sentiment and its droll, dry humor took instant hold of its audiences, while the entire absence of mock heroics, stage villainy and clowning was a delightful novelty in a play of this class. The engagement will bring the original cast and production.

Wilton Lackaye will appear at the New Plainfield theatre next Thursday night in William A. Brady's long promised production of Frank Norris' thrilling story of Chicago, "The Pit." The play made by Channing Pollock has created a sensation wherever it has been seen and has been welcomed as one of the greatest American plays ever produced. Manager Brady has mounted the piece very lavishly and the production is not only unusually large but unusually attractive.

"At Piney Ridge," "a good, strong, human American story," will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre next Monday night. This well known and well liked Southern play, by David Higgins, holds a definite place in the esteem of the public that seems to be fixed for some years to come. It is a persistently interesting drama written along sensible lines and not lacking in fervor and climax interest. It is peopled with men and women whom you feel sorry to leave when it is time to go home. The play is presented by a competent cast and is well staged and well acted. Mr. Van Kinzie will be seen in the role of the young mountaineer, Jack Rose.

One of the stellar attractions of the local theatrical season will be "The Convict's Daughter," a new, original sensational melodrama by J. A. Fraser, Jr. It is described as a play of intense heart interest and containing uncommon scenic realism as well as lifelike characters. The escape of an innocent convict on a freight train is a thrilling scene. The company is a large and capable one. The play is booked at the New Plainfield theatre for tomorrow afternoon and night.

Miss Emily Gale, who plays the part of Pamnena, an Indian girl, in "As Told in the Hills," spent two months on the Government reservation near Yellowstone Park last spring studying the character of the Indian girls there in order that she might give a realistic portrayal of the interesting character that she has in the play. Careful attention to detail in all of her work has characterized all of Miss Gale's acting, and in her present play she is scoring one of her greatest successes. The play will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre next Wednesday night.

In the company supporting Benjamin Chapin in "Lincoln" there are such well known players of the first class as Maude Granger, Daisy Lovering, Malcolm Duncan, W. H. Pascoe, Francis Barton, George Clarke and others. Mr. Chapin himself plays the title role of Lincoln, and although unknown to the dramatic stage a little more than a month ago, he is today regarded in the theatrical world as one of its most striking characters and greatest men. It is said that he lives his part of Lincoln, does not act it, as Marc Klaw, the head of the great Klaw & Erlanger theatrical syndicate, says of him: "He is not an actor; he is a genius." "Lincoln" begins a run at the Liberty theatre, New York, March 26, but will be seen here at the New Plainfield theatre tonight.

Back Talk.

"The nerve of you arguing with me!" snapped the boorish old fellow. "Why, you impudent young pup! I've forgotten more than you ever knew."

"Very likely," replied the young on, quietly, "and one of the things I never knew and which you appear to have forgotten is that you are a gentleman."

DIAMOND DUST.

Still the subscription are coming in for stock for the Plainfield Baseball Association and the fund is growing every day. Lovers of the National game are coming to the front to assist in putting the sport on the proper organized basis. The officers and members of the association are much encouraged by the outlook and they feel assured now that there is no question as to a successful season.

Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk, William Jeffery and Julius Williams are among those who have subscribed to shares since yesterday, Mr. Jeffery and Mr. Williams each taking five shares. Geer & Demott and Dr. F. F. Wilcox have also joined the movement.

These subscriptions have been reported to The Daily Press since yesterday:

MONEY FOR BUILDING HARD TO SECURE

In reply to a query over failure of real estate men to build more cheap houses when there is a demand for them, William Jeffery gave an explanation to a reporter today.

"Who do people not build cheap houses in Plainfield, since there is such a scarcity of houses for the poorer classes?" said Mr. Jeffery. "The answer is very simple. In the first place, commodities have increased in value from thirty to forty per cent., but land generally has not increased in value. In fact, the argument in favor of Plainfield is very considerable.

"Land values in similar communities near us are at least thirty per cent. higher than here, so that we can't say that one of the reasons why people do not build here is that the land is dear. It is because we have in our community 'a bunch of old crusts' who will not lend the money except on Shylock terms and conditions. They demand that a man shall apply for only fifty per cent. of the value of the lot and building. How can we expect to compete with other towns who will lend up to eighty per cent? What kind of encouragement is this to a man who is struggling to get through and own his own home, when he has to have half of the cost of the new building and lot before he can borrow the other half?

"I have on my lists two hundred people who would like to buy houses on easy terms, and many others who would like to build houses, but who cannot obtain satisfactory loans to help them through.

"And last, but not least, the rates of interest on 50 per cent. loans are 6 per cent., which is an outrage and disgrace. I have heard of some loans which have cost the borrowers more than that, and it is not only an injustice to the borrower but owing to the fact that up to 90 per cent. of the value has been loaned, is conclusive evidence to my mind that it is an injustice to those who lend.

"I shall soon present to the people of Plainfield, particularly to those who want help, a plan by which houses can be bought or built, and Shylock money lenders ignored. I have kept my ear to the ground for a long time and it is about time somebody said something, and next to beleving things is to have the moral fortitude to tell other people what you believe. Anyone who is interested in this can write or call on me, and I shall be pleased to go into details."

Graduate Nurses Meet.

The Alumni Association of Muhlenberg Hospital Training School for Nurses met at the Nurses' Home, yesterday afternoon, adopted a constitution and bylaws. The membership now comprises fifteen active nurse graduates of the local training school. After the transaction of business a social house was enjoyed.

School Paper Editors.

At the meetings of the several classes in the city High School yesterday the following board of editors for the coming edition of the Oracle, the school paper, was elected: Junior class, Miss Mildred Berry and Fred Smith; Sophomore class, Miss Elizabeth Pound and Rollin Williams; Freshman class, Miss Eleanor Van Tuyl. The duties of this board begin with the April number of the paper.

Freedom Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle, will exemplify the initiatory work at the grand lodge meeting to be held at Trenton on Thursday, March 29, and will confer the three degrees at the institution of a new castle in Orange on April 3.

"What—" I began, but he interrupted me.

"I shall not answer a single question. The check for $3,000 is for the purchase of the horses, which will be put on sale Saturday morning. They are easily worth this amount. Through whatever agency you please, buy these horses for me, but not in my name. As for the note, cash my check first and present the currency for the note. No one will know anything about it then. You can not trace money."

"Good Lord, Bob, you are crazy! You are giving away a fortune." I remonstrated.

"It is my own, and my capital remains untouched."

"Have you told her that you love her? Does she know who you are?" I was very much excited.

"No,"—sadly. "I haven't told her that I love her. She does not know who I am. What is more, I never want her to know. I have thrown my arms roughly around her, thinking her to be Nancy, and have kissed her. Some reparation is due her. On Monday I shall pack up quietly and return to the west."

"YOU ARE CRAZY."

"Annesley beggared? What in heaven's name does this mean?" I was confounded.

"Some day, Chuck, when you have entered the family properly as my sister's husband, perhaps I may confide in you. At present the secret isn't mine. Let it suffice that through peculiar circumstances, the father of the girl I love is ruined. I am not doing this for any theatrical play, gratitude and all that rot,"—with half a smile. "I admire and respect Col. Annesley; I love his daughter, hopelessly enough. I have never been of much use to any one. Other persons' troubles never worried me to any extent; I was happy-go-lucky, careless and thoughtless. True, I never passed a beggar without dropping a coin into his cup. But often this act was the result of a good dinner and a special vintage. The $20,000 will keep the colonel's home, the house his child was born in and her mother before her. I am doing this crazy thing, as you call it, because it is going to make me rather happy. I shall disappear Monday. They may or they may not suspect who has come to their aid. They may even trace the thing to you; but you will be honor-bound to reveal nothing. When you have taken up the note, mail it to Annesley. You will find Count Karloff's name on it."

"Karloff?" I was in utter darkness.

"Yes. Annesley borrowed $20,000 of him on a three month's note. Both men are well known at the Union bank, Karloff having a temporary large deposit there, and Annesley always having done his banking at the same place. Karloff, for reasons which I can not tell you, did not turn in the note till this morning. You will take it up this afternoon."

"Annesley, whom I believed to be a millionaire, penniless: Karloff one of his creditors? Bob, I do not think that you are treating me fairly. I can't go into this thing blind."

"If you will not do it under these conditions, I shall have to find some one who will."—resolutely.

I looked at the checks and then at him. . . . Twenty-three thousand dollars! It was more than I ever before held in my hand at one time. And he was giving it away as carelessly as I should have given away a dime. Then the bigness of the act, the absolute disinterestedness of it, came to me suddenly.

"Bob, you are the finest lover in all the world! And if Miss Annesley ever knows who you are, she isn't a woman if she does not fall immediately in love with you." I slapped him on the shoulder. I was something of a lover myself, and I could understand.

"She will never know. I don't want her to know. That is why I am going away. I want to do a good deed, and be left in the dark to enjoy it. That is all. After doing this, I could never look her in the eyes as Robert Warburton. I shall dine with the folks on Sunday. I shall confess all only to Nancy, who has always been the only confidante I have ever had among the women."

There was a pause. I could bring no words to my lips. Finally I stammered out: "Nancy knows. I told her everything last night. I broke my word with you, Bob, but I could not help it. She was crying again over what she thinks to be your heartlessness. I had to tell her."

"What did she say?"—rising abruptly.

"She laughed, and I do not know when I have seen her look so happy. There'll be a double wedding yet, my boy." I was full of enthusiasm.

"I wish I could believe you, Chuck: I wish I could. I'm rather glad you told Nan. I love her, and I don't want her to worry about me." He gripped my hand. "You will do just as I ask?"

"To the very letter. Will you have a little Scotch to perk you up a bit? You look rather seedy."

"No,"—smiling dryly. "If she smelt liquor on my breath I should lose my position. Goodby, then, till Sunday."

I did not go to New York that night. I forgot all about going. Instead, I went to Nancy, to whom I still go whenever I am in trouble or in doubt.

LITERARY NOTES.

The April Century offers as its leading feature publication entire of Lady DeLancey's remarkable narratives of scenes during and after the battle of Waterloo—her record of her experiences at the bedside of her wounded husband, Colonel Sir William Howe DeLancey, of Wellington's staff, written for the information of her brother, Captain Basil Hall, R.N. Additional interest attaches to this unusual and tragic record from the fact that Colonel DeLancey was born in New York about 1781, of the well-known family of that name, a son of Stephen and a grandson of Oliver DeLancey, the latter a royalist and a brigadier-general in his Majesty's service during the Revolutionary War. Considerable light is thrown upon the primitive conditions of Wellington's surgical service. The manuscript was submitted privately by Captain Hall to Sir Walter Scott and to Charles Dickens, both of whom were much affected by its reading. Sir Walter Scott wrote of it to Captain Hall, that he considered it "one of the most valuable and important documents which could be published as illustrative of the throes of war;" and Dickens in along letter, also to Captain Hall, wrote: "To say that the reading of that most astonishing and tremendous account has constituted an epoch in my life—that I shall never forget the slightest word of it—that I cannot throw the impression aside, and never saw anything so real, so touching and so actually present before my eyes, is nothing. What I have always looked upon as masterpieces of powerful and affecting description seem as nothing in my eyes." The narrative is given added vividness by reproductions of a number of letters and portraits, one, the frontispiece of the number, Sir Thomas Lawrence's portrait of Wellington.

TELEPHONE INDEPENDENTS.

Run Against a Snag in North Tarrytown.

For some time past the Great Eastern Telephone Company has been endeavoring to obtain a franchise for operating a service in New York city. It has, as a matter of fact, claimed such a franchise by virtue of an old grant to the New York Electric Lines Company. It planned to secure long distance connections through the State Line Telephone Company. Application for a franchise was made by the latter company to the Board of Trustees of North Tarrytown. This application has been denied unanimously. The State Line Company, in its application, promised to establish and maintain a system of telephones in North Tarrytown, and to connect it with the villages of Dobbs Ferry, Irvington, Arsdley, Abbottsford, East Irvington, Irving, Hastings and Tarrytown. Investigations by William G. Given, counsel to the village of North Tarrytown, showed that the petitioner had obtained no franchise in any of the places named, and in some of them had been denied the necessary permit, and that the State Line Company could not fulfill its promises. Mr. Given also reported that the alleged franchise claimed by the Great Eastern Company had been repudiated by New York city. The action of the North Tarrytown authorities is important, as it makes an important gap in the long distance service which the Great Eastern promoters are attempting to put through.

AS GEO. WASHINGTON DID

Roosevelt Will Lay Cornerstone in Ceremony Conducted by Masonic Order.

PROGRAM DUPLICATED

New Office Building for Members of the House to Be the Scene of Imposing Ceremony.

Washington, March 23—President Roosevelt will take part in the laying of the cornerstone of the new office building for members of the House of Representatives on Saturday, April 7, at 2:30 in the afternoon, at which time the ceremony will be almost identical with the laying of the cornerstone of the United States Capitol by President Washington nearly 113 years ago.

The Federal Masonic Lodge, which had charge of the first ceremony, will have the honor of directing the swinging of the cornerstone of the House annex into place. Walter A. Brown, the grand master of the Masonic Lodge of the District of Columbia, will superintend the exercises, and addresses will be made by the President and Speaker Cannon.

Three thousand invitations will be issued. The cabinet, diplomatic corps, senators, members of the House, the United States Supreme Court, governors of the various states, prominent army and naval officers, and other government officials will attend the ceremony. The Marine Band will escort the Federal Lodge to the site of the new building, immediately south of the Capitol grounds, and will play during the laying of the cornerstone

In accordance with tradition the stone is at the northeast corner of the building and its location corresponds with that of the Capitol cornerstone. Since the original Capitol was built, wings have been added at the north and south ends, so the keystone of the building is now well toward the centre of the great structure.

The foundation of the magnificent new office building is completed, and the floor beams for the first story are now in place. Upon these a temporary floor will be laid and seats provided for the guests who will view the ceremony.

In accordance with Masonic traditions, one ceremony will be in the open air and the persons who participate in it will have no protection from the weather, regardless of what conditions may be. Simplicity will mark the event and all pretension will be avoided. In every detail it will correspond as nearly as possible with the ceremony in which President Washington participated.

The articles placed in the cornerstone, as far as practicable, will be identical with those deposited in the Capitol stone by Federal Lodge, and as both President Roosevelt and Speaker Cannon are members of the Masonic order the occasion will in every way harmonize with the spirit of the ceremony directed by the Virginia jurisdiction.

The Senate office building, which is in course of construction immediately north of the Capitol grounds, is not so far advanced as the House building, and its cornerstone cannot be laid at the present session of Congress.

These two buildings when completed will take the place of additions originally proposed to the Capitol building, but which were objected to on the ground that they would mar the architectural scheme of that structure.

Each of the new buildings will occupy a complete square of ground, and they will be magnificent white structures of classic design to harmonize with the Capitol and Library of Congress.

ROYAL ARCANUM FIGHT.

Wilcox Gets An Injunction Against The Supreme Council.

Syracuse, N. Y., March 23.—Frank Z. Wilcox, who is one of the leaders of the opposition to the increased rates of the Royal Arcanum and who was recently expelled by Supreme Regent Howard C. Wiggins, of Rome, on findings of a committee of the Supreme Council after trial, has secured from Justice Watson M. Rogers here an injunction, the effect of which is to give him all privileges of membership in the order, pending the final determination of a suit brought by him against the Supreme Council for reinstatement.

The injunction forbids the publication of the proceedings before the trial committee, which were to have been published in the April Bulletin, the organ of the order. Mr. Wilcox declares he will continue as chairman of the local joint committee of the reception and entertainment of the Grand Council, which will meet here on April 24.

He has been invited by Forest City Council of Ithaca to speak there on April 5, when the Ithaca council will entertain the Past Regents' Association of Central New York. Supreme and grand regents were invited, but refused to attend and discuss rates with him. On March 29 he will speak at Spring Valley before a joint meeting of five councils of Rockland county.

GRADUATE COLLEGE COURSE FOUNDED BY GENEROSITY OF SWANN OF PRINCETON

The entire estate of Mrs. Thomas Swann, of Princeton, with the exception of about $50,000, is divided into public bequests. Her will was entered for probate at the surrogate's office yesterday by Bayard F. Stockton.

The largest bequest, which includes all the residue after other bequests have been taken out, will go for the construction of a building at Princeton to be called "The John R. Thompson Graduate College." It is estimated that it will take more than $100,000 to carry out the plans of Mrs. Swann for the erection of this structure.

Those scholars who have taken the degree of bachelor of arts will be eligible to enter the new college and the fellowships in the college will be known as the "John R. Thompson Fellowships." Students from Princeton University will be given the preference and next will come students from Mercer county, third, students from any part of New Jersey will be admitted, and if there are any vacancies after these students have been admitted any person of American birth will be received.

Mrs. Swann's home on Stockton street, Princeton, is given to the residents of Princeton for use as a public hall and garden. The house, buildings and beautiful grounds are bequeathed directly to the executors, William Milligan Sloane, of Princeton; Bayard Stockton, of Princeton, and Francis Larkin, of Ossining, N. Y., to be kept in trust for the citizens of the borough.

The house, known as "Belgrade," is to be remodeled for public hall, in which must be built the offices of the Mayor of the borough of Princeton and a council chamber. The grounds are also to be remodeled for a public park Mrs. Swann's valuable collection of pictures and relics are to be placed in certain rooms in the house for perpetual exhibition.

For the work of remodeling the house and grounds the sum of $25,000 is bequeather, and an additional sum of $30,000 is left to the executors to be invested to produce an income to be used for the maintenance of the house and grounds.

The third large public bequest is one of $12,000 to the Protestant Episcopal church of Princeton.

In the event of the death of any one of the three trustees the surviving trustees are to petition the Chancellor of the State of New Jersey to appoint the successors, thus making it a perpetual trust.

SOME FAMOUS TREES AND THEIR LOCATION.

Do You Know of Any in New Jersey?

A list of noted trees has been compiled by the American Civic Association and it is interesting enough to be preserved. It is as follows:

The Elm Tree at Philadelphia under which William Penn made has famous treaty with nineteen tribes of barbarians.

The Charter Oak at Hartford which preserved the written guarantee of the liberties of the Colony of Connecticut.

The wide-spreading Oak Tree of Flushing, Long Island, under which George Fox, founder of the Society of Friends or Quakers, preached.

The lofty Cypress tree in the Dismal Swamp under which Washington reposed one night in his young manhood.

The huge French Apple tree near Ft. Wayne, Ind., where Little Turtle, the great Miami chief, gathered his warriors.

The Elm tree at Cambridge in the shade of which Washington first took command of the Continental army, on a hot summer's day.

The Tulip tree on King's Mountain battlefield in South Carolina on which the bloodthirsty Tories were hanged at one time.

The tall Pine tree at Ft Edward, N. Y., under which the beautiful Jane McCrea was slain.

The magnificent Black Walnut tree near Haverstraw on the Hudson at which General Wayne mustered his forces at midnight, preparatory to his gallant and successful attack on Stony Point.

The grand Magnolia tree near Charleston, S. C., under which General Lincoln held a council of war previous to surrendering the city.

The great Pecan tree at Villere's plantation, below New Orleans, under which a portion of the remains of General Packenham was buried.

The Pear tree planted, respectively, by Governor Endicott, of Massachusetts, and Governor Stuyvesant, of New York, more than two hundred years ago.

The Freedman's Oak, or Emancipation Oak, Hampton Institute, Hampton, Virginia, under which the slaves of this region first heard read President Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation.

The Eliot Oak, of Newton, Mass., under which the apostle, John Eliot, taught the Indians Christianity.

The old Liberty Elm, of Boston, planted and dedicated by a schoolmaster to the independence of the colonies, and the rallying point for patriots before, during and after the Revolutionary War.

The Burgoyne Elm, of Albany, N. Y., planted the day Burgoyne was brought there a prisoner.

The Ash and Tulip trees planted at Mt. Vernon by Washington.

The Elm tree planted by General Grant on the Capitol Grounds at Washington.

Sequola—Palo Alto, California.

The Cary Tree, planted by Alice and Phoebe Cary in 1832, a large and beautiful Sycamore seen from the Hamilton turnpike, between College Hill and Mt. Pleasant, Hamilton county, Ohio.

The Jersey City Journal notes the strange fact that not one famous tree is located in New Jersey, according to this catalogue, and makes the suggestion that if anyone can recall one that should be so considered to make public an account of it before the next bulletin is issued and endeavor to have New Jersey share in the distribution of honors.

Answers.

"Noah's wife," wrote a boy in an examination, "was called Joan of Arc." "Water," wrote another, "is composed of two gases, oxygen and cambrigen." "Lava," said a third, "is what the barber puts on your face." "A Blizzard," declared another child, "is the inside of a fowl." —New York Tribune.

Distress Signal in Starbuck.

The Star enters upon her third year today, as crazy and "hard up" as ever. In fact, as we look over her past life we find that she is gradually growing worse; and unless the public comes to her rescue she will either be in the asylum or her shirt tail before long.—Starbuck (Ore.) Star.

Editor Gets a Hot One.

While we have "pi" in our office and sometimes plenty ofe it, and at very rare intervals we have pie like mother used to make, but Wednesday we had pie that was sure 'nuff pie. It was a huge one of the mince variety, which was brought up steaming hot by our very good friend, Mrs. C. A. Seward, and it was the best mince pie we ever tasted; in fact, we ate so much we almost "pied" our forms. Many thanks, Mrs. Seward. It was certainly appreciated,—Dearborn (Mo.) Democrat.

Editor Hires a Pegasus.

We take pleasure in announcing that D. M. Clark, of Angelus, is now regularly on the staff of the Carolina Citizen, occupying the chair of poetry. Mr. Clark will furnish at least one original production weekly. We present this week "November Nineteen Four," a pathetic bit of verse, which the author has dedicated to the memory of a lady. In the order named we will published the following verses by Mr. Clark: "Friendship," "In Good Old Summer Time," and "Choosing One of Two." These will be followed by others, and as spring approaches we think we can promise our readers some choice sentimental productions from the pen of our bright young friend.—Cheraw Citizen.

Posey Suspends Activity.

Everybody works but Posey. S. Diener's genial, jovial clerk spent a number of days this week in the city of Remington. Mr. Jasper says he had a good time—but it was just a little muddy! We do not know about the mud, but Posey came back with the smile that never wears off.—Culpepper (Va.) Enterprise.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Some men don't care how dull business is if it is equally bad with their rivals.

About the third time some people show you a kindness you find they want to sell you something.

Patience is that which you have to have with others, but which no one is called upon to have with you.

Society is a good deal like our rich kin—we are mighty nice to its face, but make fun of it behind its back.

Some people are like a worthless team of horses—always have to be helped when it comes to pulling a load uphill.

There is one way of starting on the pathway to get rich which is seldom traveled these days—running a store and living over it.

It sometimes happens that deference is shown a man not in recognition of his greatness, but because he will be cranky if it isn't.—Atchison Globe.

Windmills as Newspapers.

In Holland births, marriages and deaths, instead of being recorded in newspapers, are indicated by windmills. When a miller gets married he stops his mill with the arms of the wheel in a slanting position and with the sails unfurled. His friends and guests frequently do likewise with mills, in token of the ceremony. To indicate a birth the wheel is stopped with the arms in a slanting position, but at a more acute angle than for a marriage, and with the two upper sails of his mill are all furled, and the wheel is turned round until the arms form an upright cross, in which position they are left until after the funeral has taken place.—Exchange.

JUST A MILLION PENNIES IN ONE DAY

STRANGE MACHINE USED BY UNCLE SAM FOR COUNTING COIN.

A million pennies day—that is the capacity of a strange machine which Uncle Sam uses in the Philadelphia mint to count the coin of smallest value made by this government. The machine, known as a counting table, was shown as a part of Uncle Sam's $800,000 display on the peninsula in Guild's Lake, at the Lewis and Clark Exposition.

The counting board is about as large as a big kneading board such as housewives use. The surface of it is wide enough to hold a row of forty pennies. When the pennies are to be counted several thousand are heaped on to the board, which as placed above a hopper. Then an operator tips the board backward and forward and sideways, so that the pennies slide about, and finally settle in the grooves made by the brass partition strips. When the board is full there are 1,000 pennies in it. It is then dumped into a receptable just outside the hopper, and the pennies which have slipped off the board into the hopper are caught by a box underneath. Pennies are coined at the Philadelphia mint, and the government finds the coining of them profitable, because the value of the metal they contain is only about three-fourths of a cent.

The upsetting machine is another interesting mechanical contrivance. It is used for turning the edges of coins. The coin disks of the proper size and thickness, but with their edges still rough, are put into tubes made to fit them. These tubes are placed upright beside a round-topped, revolving table. At each revolution of the table one of the disks drops into a groove between the table and an outer shell, and the pressure on the edges of the disks make them smooth.

Stamping the coin is the latest process, and this is done by means of a great machine which weighs fifteen tons and costs $15,000. Thre are twenty-four such machines in the Philadelphia mint. The disks which are to be coins are placed in a tube, as in the case of the upsetting machine. Two steel fingers take hold of the bottom disk and move it over the die. Then the die above presses down on the disk so that the impression is made on both sides. At the same time the edges of the disk are milled, and when the upper die rises, the steel fingers push the finished coin out of the way and bring a disk into position.

The machine at the Portland Exposition, which is used in stamping $20 gold pieces, has a capacity of ninety a minute. A pressure of 180 tons is necessary to stamp a silver dollar, but 130 tons' pressure will stamp a double eagle. Smaller coins require less pressure.

In connection with the exhibit at the Western World's Fair coins of this year's make in all denominations except the silver dollar are displayer. None of the mints is now coining dollars, because the government has on hand 600,000,000 which are being held for the purpose of redeeming silver certificates. There is also on exhibition at Portland the first coining press ever used by the United States government—a crude machine, which was operated by hand and was used in 1793 for making copper pennies. THE SAYINGS OF SOLOMON.

Never got into business with relatives. They'll skin you even if you get St. Peter for doorkeeper and the Recording Angel for the bookkeeper!

Beware of false profits! A penny over-charged may cause you to lose a dollar customer.

When you hear a man say "do others before they do you," look out for him! He is one of the evildoers!

When you are down, take knocks without howling. But when you get up again just sock it to your enemy with compound interest.

Mark Twain says—"Be good and you will be lonesome!" Your Uncle Solomon says—

"Better be alone in good company than sociable in bad!"

The ready lender generally finds out that when he gets broke there is a great deal of truth in the old saying that "He who goes a-borrowing, goes a-sorrowing!"

Paste this over your desk! If you haven't a desk on your looking glass! If you haven't a looking glass, over your bed! If you haven't a bed, wear it next to your heart! Be sure to keep it by you so that you may remember, a dollar is your best friend!

Never answer advertisements that promise to pay you thirty dollars a week for sitting home, doing nothing! Save your stamps and your common sense! The postoffice hasn't cornered all the frauds yet!

Never run from a policeman or a dog! They'll think you are guilty whether you are or not! Then you are sure to get a clubbing, or a biting, no matter how little you may deserve it. There are times when it pays to stand still!—American Magazine.

TAX BUDGET FIGURING

Councilmanic Finance Committee Ordinance in Shape For Next Meeting.

NO DELAY PROBABLE

Street Department Will Want More Money—Hinted That a Return Will Be Made to the $2.52 Figure.

Nothwithstanding a report to the contrary, the finance committee from the Common Council is busily engaged in getting estimates from the various city departments with a view to preparing the tax budget for the coming year. A member of the Common Council in speaking about the reported delay said today that he did not believe that the committee would wait on the action of the Legislature in fixing the budget. The Legislature is scheduled to adjourn on March 29, and it will be known by that time what disposition will be made of the law providing for a uniform tax rate.

This would allow time for preparing the local budget so that the ordinance could be presented at the next regular meeting, Monday, April 2. It is the custom for the Common Council to finally adopt the tax ordinance at the May meeting, so that the assessors can make their rounds. The uncertainty of the Hillery act is not making any difference with the finance committee in its work and the members are going ahead just as though it was not pending legislative action. The Hillery bill has been amended several times to meet certain conditions and localities, and as yet no one knows what the outcome will be.

While it is too early to state what the tax rate for the year will be, whether it will be increased or not, there is a feeling that it will probably be returned to $2.52, the old rate, at least. The street department is sure to want more money this year than last, if it is possible to get it, and a member of the Common Council said today that it could use $35,000 and make a good showing for it. Last year the appropriation was $29,400. This same member said that it was a mistake last year to lower the rate at all, while everyone was satisfied with the $2.52 figures.

The police board is also sure to ask for more money this year. There is the urgent need for more patrolmen and unless the appropriation is increased they cannot be employed. There is a call for more policemen in the Netherwood district, as well as the West End, and the taxpayers feel as though their requests are not unreasonable.

A city official, in speaking about the fire department, remarked that while last year's committee showed a saving in money, it did very little in keeping up the equipment of the department, such as the purchase of new hose and other necessary things. This means that the present committee will have to make the expenditure out of this year's appropriation, and the expense will be greater.

Until it is definitely known what the appropriations will be and how much assessable property there is in the city no improvements can be planned for the year. It is believed that the natural increase in real and personal property this year will amount to considerable and help to keep the rate down. An important item from now on will be the paying for the new Plainfield High School, but the yearly tax on these bonds will not be large enough to cause any uneasiness.

A Farewell Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kellogg, of Oak Tree, who are to remove shortly to near Martinsville, were given a farewell party by neighbors and friends Thursday night. Dancing was the feature of the gathering, music being furnished by Professor Naylor, of this city, and it was continued until an early hour yesterday morning. Among those in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lott, Mr. and Mrs. Tappen, Mr. and Mrs. Huff, Mr. and Mrs. John Melick, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Melick, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Melick, Lester Melick, John, Daniel, Edward and Elmer Terry, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Terry, the Misses Harriet and Sadie Herry, Mr. Duncan, Miss Duncan, Miss Carpenter, Miss Rowley, Miss Belle Melick, Miss Grace Van Nest, Miss Ethlyn Terry, Miss Edith Rouch, Gus Deitz, Harry Colburn, Edith Rouch, Oliver Compton and Fred Stover.

Back from Orange Groves.

Harry Campbell, who has been spending some time in Florida looking after his orange groves, sailed today for home. His partner, C. B. Clifton, who with Mrs. Clifton, has been at Bradentown, Fla., will sail for home on Tuesday, March 27, and expects to arrive here on April 2. On Tuesday last the thermometer was 82 degrees in the shade and the weather has been delightful in that part of the South.

ADELE VON OHL IN HIPPODROME SENSATION

SHE RIDES ONE OF THE PLUNGING HORSES AS IT LEAPS INTO BIG TANK.

Miss Adele Von Ohl, of this city, a member of the Hippodrome chorus, and one of the most expert horsewomen in the country, figures as the heroine in a new sensation, surpassing anything ever produced on a stage, at the Hippodrome, arranged by Frederic W. Thompson, wherein will be introduced in "A Society Circus" Thompson & Dundy's famous plunging horses, fifteen in number. The entire scenario of the jungle scene, the first in the second act, has been changed to permit of the introduction of the plunging horses.

The idea will give added interest to the theme of the production. It will be recalled by those who have seen "A Society Circus" that Paul Pasky (Edwin Clarke), and the prospective husband of Lady Volumnia (Miss Rose La Harte) is abducted by a band of gypsies, escapes through the mazes of the forest to the side of his fiancee. This has now been changed. Pasky, bound to a tree by the gypsies, is rescued by his bride and both flee. The escape is discovered by the band, who pursue on horseback.

The chase leads across a lake, the big tank of the Hippodrome being utilized for the purpose. The pursuers are urged on by a young girl, one of their tribe, and the most daring horsewoman among them. She is the leader. The lake reached, she does not pause, but plunges in, the others following. Pasky, however, escapes.

BURGLARS IN LEHIGH STATION AT NEW MARKET

HAUL CONSISTS OF $1 IN STAMPS AND PENNIES.

Burglars broke into the New Market station of the Lehigh Valley Railroad last night. The job netted them a dollar, and fifty cents of that was in stamps. The poor pickings must have discouraged them, because no other places in the village were entered. The burglarious hobo usually takes in as many places as possible in a railroad village.

Station Agent S. E. Merkel discovered the robbery this morning, when he opened the office at 7 o'clock. Entrance had been gained by forcing a window. Fifty cents in pennies and a string of twenty-five two-cent stamps, which had been in a drawer in the desk, were the only things missing. The ticket box was smashed but none of the tickets were taken. The day's receipts, about $25, which the crooks probably hoped to get, are always taken home by Merkel when he doesn't send them into headquarters.

The police here were notified of the case, but take only an academic interest in such cases. There isn't one chance in a thousand of a hobo crook, working on the Lehigh, getting into their bailiwick very soon.

BROWN'S CHESS PLAYER BARRED FROM GREAT MATCH.

Philip Van Arsdale, of This City Affected by Study Conditions.

Philip Van Arsdale, of this city, the Brown University chess player, will not be able to participate in the international college chess match today between American and England, because of conditions in his studies, a fact greatly regretted by his friends. Since going to Brown Van Arsdale has established quite a reputation as a chess player and has been considered one of the strongest men in the university.

Van Arsdale was graduated from Leal's School and has the reputation of being a consistent student. Brown's sole representative in the match will be P. N. Sweet. Van Arsdale's place is likely to be taken by a Pennsylvania collegian.

Cop Has Appendicitis.

Patrolman Theodore Martin was operated upon at the hospital yesterday afternoon for appendicitis. The operation was successful, although Martin was much weakened. He has been at the hospital for several days. Chief Kiely and several of his mates have been to see him, bringing delicacies and cheering words. Martin is a new cop, but he is well liked in the department.

N. P. H. S. Play.

The Athletic Association of the North Plainfield High School has decided to give the "Great Pumpkin Case," a mock trial, as its annual production. Rehearsals are being held now and it is expected that the entertainment will be given within the next few weeks.

ALPHONSO GETS LICENSE

Will Marry Miss Baker Some Time Next Week.

KEEPING DATE QUIET

Bride-to-Be Says They Want To Avoid Publicity—Lutheran Pastor to Perform Cemetery.

The marriage of Alphonso Zelaya, son of the Nicaragua president and former Plainfield schoolboy, will take place next week.

Alphonso took out a license yesterday in Washington to marry Miss Marguerite Lee Baker, daughter of Dr. William W. Baker, of Washington, his fiancee. He gave his age as twenty-one and that of Miss Baker as eighteen.

Miss Baker said the wedding will be some time next week, and that the Rev. I. O. Baker, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Atonement, will officiate. The license was procured early, she said, in order to avoid unwelcome publicity on the day of the wedding, as it would be kept as quiet as possible.

Young Zelaya was kidnapped from Washington last December and hustled off to Nicaragua. His father opposed his marriage. Detectives helped an officious American to take the young man away. He was hauled out of the parlor where he was talking with his sweetheart. Zelaya went to Nicaragua and pleaded so successfully with his father that he was allowed to return to this country. He arrived in New Orleans six weeks ago and was stricken with appendicitis there. He was operated on and remained in the hospital until a few days ago.

He returned to Washington last Sunday and announced that he intended to marry Miss Baker at once. A military career in his native land had been planned for him, but instead he will go to New Orleans and go into business there.

MEN'S BIG MEETING AT LOCAL THEATRE

SPEAKER AND ORCHESTRA FOR TOMORROW'S PUBLIC SERVICE.

Robert G. Freeman, a strong and eloquent speaker with a national reputation, will address the meeting for men to be held at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. The Lotus Glee Club and the Y. M. C. A. orchestra will furnish a special programme. The orchestral programme will be conducted by Martin A. Korff and there will be singing by a male chorus under the leadership of William C. Leek. Every man in the city is invited to the meeting.

Mr. Freeman has the best recommendations as a speaker and Christian worker from Y. M. C. A. secretaries. Secretary D. M. Cloghorn, of Morristown, says: "We have had Mr. Freeman twice and are to have him again. All I can tell you of him is that he draws a larger crowd each time he appears."

Secretary John S. Moore, of St. Louis, says: "Would say that no young man has appeared in St. Louis in recent years that has occasioned more favorable comment than has Mr. Freeman."

The secretary of the Buffalo Association says: "Freeman is a power; crowded audiences in Delaware Avenue Baptist church, largest in the city, greeted him in Buffalo for three months last winter."

John W. Perkins, secretary at Erie, Pa., says: "He is a speaker with a great deal of personal magnetism, has a quaint, striking way of presenting known truths so that they strike in."

The Plainfield Business College and Technical Institute.

T. Willard White, son of J. P. White, express agent at Bound Brook, was placed in a fine position as stenographer in the offices of the Pedrick & Ayer Co., of this city. The position affords Mr. White a great opportunity for advancement, such as any bright young man well prepared in shorthand and typewriting is sure to have. The Plainfield Business College and Technical Institute has been open five days and nights during the past winter and has had the largest attendance in its history, many good stenographers and bookkeepers have been graduated and placed in good positions, but the college cannot keep up with the demand for young men and women who can do good work in these lines. A good big work is being done and Prof. Herr has decided to keep the college open all through the summer and students can enter at any time with nothing to interrupt their courses.

NO WORD FROM COLOMBIA

Details of Charles Bullman's Death are Still Lacking.

HIS COMPANY CABLES

Seeking Communication with One of Dead Prospector's Associates—He Was Supposed to Be in Earthquake Territory.

Cabled queries for information concerning the death of Charles Bullman, of this city, have been sent to South America by the Colombian Exploration, Mining and Trading Company, in the interest of which the mining man was working in Colombia. He was president of the concern, in which other Plainfielders are interested.

As reported exclusively in yesterday's Daily Press, the bare announcement that Bullman was dead reached J. Fred MacDonald, of East Front street, one of the company officers, by cable. The message come from Bryant Caine, of New York, who, with A. C. Barlow, another New Yorker interested in the company, went with Bullman to Colombia. There was nothing in the message to hint at the manner of Bullman's death. The request for more information was sent to Caine as soon as his message was received, but as yet no reply has come. The widespread and devastating earthquake that shocked Colombia late in January broke off cable communication over a large area, and this accounts for the delay in cable advices.

Buenaventura, Colombia, is in the section of the country that sustained the heaviest shock, in which 2,000 people are believed to have perished, and Bullman was due to arrive in Buenaventura five days before the earthquake occurred. The inference that he died in the cataclysm follows from the two facts. Tidal waves figured largely in the inferno of death and destruction that followed the shocks.

Dr. J. T. Fritts, Dr. O. L. Jenkins, W. S. Angleman, J. T. Loizeaux, General Updyke, are in the company, besides Mr. MacDonald. Bullman organized it last fall, after his return from a long prospecting trip through South America, with a capitalization of $100,000. New Yorkers and capitalists from other places joined in the scheme. Bullman was made president, Mr. Angleman secretary and Mrs. MacDonald treasurer. The concern held mining claims in Colombia an dplanned to engage in a general mining and trading business. The South American headquarters was in Beunaventura.

Bullman was the son of Mrs. Emma Van Name, of Third place. He was a graduate of the Columbia School of Mines, and an expert mining engineer and prospector. His life was an adventurous one. He graduated from the Plainfield High School in 1879, and was well known here.

COP EXAMINATIONS

To Be Held Next Week—Applicants Scarce.

Assistant City Clerk George Wean is making arrangements to examine applicants for positions on the police force next week. There are several vacancies to be filled.

The exact number of officers to be appointed by the Council is unknown. The department could use four or five men without any appearance of overcrowding, but whether the Council will see its way clear to adding more than one man to the force is a question that only the Council itself can answer. Not a great number of applicants are clamoring for the job. There are perhaps four applications on file at the city clerk's office, and no more in sight. Police work here doesn't offer a lot of attractions to men healthy and bright enough to stand the tests. The pay does not amount to much and the work is exacting. The police officials don't like such things said of the department, but it is the undecorated truth all the same.

S. S. Class Entertained.

Miss Juliet S. Hill entertained her Sunday-school class Thursday evening at her home on Westervelt avenue. The young women invited to meet them were the Misses Caroline Lambzert, Corinne Tennyson, Mabel Cook, Emily Templin and Frances Rittenhouse. The guest of honor was Rowland Reighton, who is to leave Plainfield soon. The other members of the class were Frank Marsh, George Cole and Raymond Scribner. Progressive peanuts and other games were played.

L. R. Walton Very Ill.

Lester R. Walton, Jr., young son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester R. Walton, formerly of this city, but now of New York, is very ill with meningitis at the base of the brain. Dr. Sidney Smith, a specialist, was called in consultation last night and he offers very little hope of recovery.

FROWNS ON PARTY SPLIT

James E. Martine Does Not Favor "True Democracy" Movement.

PRAISES MR. MOODY

Believes Cranford Man Actuated by Unselfish Motives—To Stick to the Old Party.

While he professes great friendship and admiration for John Moody, of Cranford, president of the newly-organized "True Democracy," Farmer-Orator James E. Martine, of this city, one of the party's veteran stalwarts, repudiates any purpose on his part at least to desert Dame Democracy for any new love. He has courted her for forty years and during all that time has been uswerving in his devotion. Like Charles C. Black and others prominent in the councils of the party, he argues that the organization of a new party is of doubtful expediency.

To a representative of The Daily Press Mr. Martine said today:

"I was not present at the Newark conference, though I signed the original call. I have the greatest respect for the honesty and earnestness of John Moody. I am satisfied that he has no selfish or mean purpose to serve through his identification with this movement. Of course I need not say 'I am a Democrat,' and love my party."

Continuing, he declared, "I believe in municipal ownership of public utilities, and ultimately ownership and control of telegraphs and railroads in this country. But while I favor most earnestly these thoughts I feel it may best and more quickly be obtained through the Democratic party, and to that end shall, as I have in the past, fight to bring these measures to a realization.

"A new party is of most doubtful expediency," added the farmer-orator.

BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATION PROSPERS

PLAINFIELD CONCERN SHOWS YEAR'S GROSS RECEIPTS $92,924.05.

The twenty-second annual report of the Plainfield Building and Loan Association for the year ending March 5 last has been issued and shows a gratifying financial condition of affairs. An important feature is that with one more payment the fourth series, started eleven years and seven months ago, will be retired and there will be distribution among the holders of the 268½ shares the sum of $53,157.63, which means that every share of stock is worth an even $200. During the course of this series there has been paid in on each share $138, or a total of $37,053 paid to date. The profits to date amount to $16,104.63.

The financial statement shows the assets of the association to be $245,705.91, and the liabilities the same. The gross receipts for the year were $92,924.05, and the disbursements, including the cash on hand, $21,301.02, the same. This is the oldest and one of the most reliable associations in the State and is conducted along progressive lines. A new series will be opened on Monday night, March 26, and as shares will be limited, applications should be made early.

EDITOR TO SPEAK AT CHURCH SERVICE.

James R. Joy, assistant editor of the Christian Advocate, who attended the recent convention of the Student Volunteers held at Nashville, Tenn., will speak on this subject at the evening service in the First M. E. church tomorrow.

During the morning and evening services the vested choir will render these selections: "Praise Ye, the Father," Gounod; "The King of Love," Schnecker; "Consider the Lilies," Topliff; "These Are They," Stair. The pastor, Rev. A. C. McCrea, will preach in the morning, the subject being "In the Judgment Hall."

W. D. Murray Receives an Umbrella.

The last session of W. D. Murray's Bible Class was held at the Y. M. C. A. Thursday night and at the close of the study he was presented with a handsome silk umbrella by U. B. Crane, on behalf of the class. In the presentation speech Mr. Crane referred to the help the class had received through Mr. Murray's instruction and extended him the thanks of the class. Mr. Murray responded in his usual happy manner and after a handshake all around the class disbanded for the season.

CUPID SCORES IN HALLS OF LEARNING

TEACHERS IN BOROUGH HIGH SCHOOL TO WED.

The seniors of the North Plainfield High School were invited to a party by Miss Margaret Hallock, one of their instructors, last night. They anticipated an ordinary party, but they found very far from ordinary. When the young people had gathered, Miss Hallock blushingly announced that the party was designed to let them know that she and M. K. W. Heicker, head of the North Plainfield manual training department had become engaged. Mr. Heicker was present, and smilingly shared in the congratulations showered on his fiancee.

Mr. Heicker and Miss Hallock formed their acquaintance at the school. Cupid chuckled when he saw them meet, and sharpened up his arrows. Between lessons he indulged in target practice and it was not many days before he scored bullseyes.

Mr. Heicker and his bride will spend their honeymoon in Japan. Early in the fall the young man will give up his teaching to enter on mission work. Miss Hallock has naturally become interested in mission work, and will assist her husband in his labors among the Orientals. The date of the marriage has not been fixed, but it will probably be some time in September.

The party last night was given at Miss Hallock's boarding house on West Fourth street. Mr. Heicker and Miss Turner helped her to arrange it.

POLICE WILL GUARD AGAINST RACE TROUBLE

CHIEF KIELY HAS ARRANGED FOR THE "CLANSMAN'S" COMING.

Chief of Police Kiely has taken note of the dislike for "The Clansman," Thomas Dixon, Jr.'s Ku-Klux play, evinced by negroes in towns where the production has been given, and has marked a little red sign on the date it is to appear here, which is next Friday.

"There will be no trouble at the theatre that night," said the chief last evening. "We will see to that, and don't you forget it. If there is a negro in that audience who makes the slightest crack at a rumpus he will be yanked out so quick his teeth will travel through the back of his head. If they start any troubles as though they meant it, they will find that clubs are trumps all through the game.

"But I don't expect any excitement tnat night," the chief added. "I think our colored people are too sensible of the temper of this city to attempt anything of the sort. They know, or should know, that anything of the sort will be met with prompt and stern repression. We will not even stand for insulting remarks or threatening talk. The law will be on guard next Friday night with wide open eyes and ears."

CLOSE OF THE FAIR.

Juniors' Sale and Week-Long Dance Ends Tonight.

The Juniors will close their fair at Company K Armory tonight, after a week's run. The attendance, with the exception of one stormy night, has been good, and the councils interested, Franklin and Somerset, stand to clear a neat sum.

The crowd last night was as large as the fair managers could have wished. There was scarcely room for the dancers to circle, and all the pleasure seekers had a good time. The record crowd of the week is looked for tonight.

Hard Couch for Brooklynite.

Richard Waller, twenty years old, who acknowledges that Brooklyn is his home, applied for a lodging at police headquarters late last night. He said he was on his way home from Philadelphia, where he had been working in a brass foundry. He was allowed to dent himself on an iron bunk in cell No. 3.

Drunk Didn't Wait for Wagon.

There was a telephone call for the patrol wagon from a woman living in a house on East Second street yesterday afternoon. She said a drunk was lying in the street. When Driver O'Gorman reached the scene the drunk had disappeared.

Cop Building House.

Patrolman Messler is having a house built in the West End. Property-owning cops are not a novelty in the department. Former Patrolman James Totten built six or seven while doing police duty.

Rev. F. B. Horn as Preacher.

Rev. F. B. Horn will preach at Grace M. E. church tomorrow evening in place of the pastor, Rev. Dr. C. W. Parsons.

CARPENTERS CELEBRATE

Observe the Twentieth Anniversary of Their Prosperous Local Union.

GOOD ENTERTAINMENT

James E. Martine Speaks—Newark Man Also Talks—Dancing As a Feature.

Local Carpenters' Union, No. 155, observed the twentieth anniversary of its organization last night by giving an entertainment and dance in Saengerbund Hall. Five hundred people were in attendance and the affair was a big success from several points of view.

One of the features of the programme was an address by Farmer-Orator" James E. Martine, who gave a characteristic talk on "Unionism." Mr. Martine has become thoroughly conversant with the subject and he was selected by the committee after many available men had been considered. He said in part that the tendency of the age is for organization and the fact has been realized by men in labor circles. Instead of labor union being a cause for alarm to the people, they should be a cause for rejoicing, as combines in labor are beneficial to the community as well as the organizers. He expressed himself as being in favor of shorter hours for labor, as it was not intended that man should toil from "the cradle to the grave," and that recreation is an essential. Continuing, Mr. Martine said:

"The best results can be derived from working days if they be divided into three equal parts for labor, rest and recreation. If this were done, everyone would be satisfied and employes would be a happy, contented lot of men. There is no need of conflicts between capital and labor and I hope that the future has none in store for us. Both sides are beginning to realize this as each one recognizes the value of the other. There is one menace to harmony, however, and that is faulty legislation. If you trained workmen will cast your votes for the party that will bring legislation in your favor, everything will be quiet and peaceful and the laborer will get full value for the energy he expends."

Other numbers on the programme were a comedy musical act by Kassel and Winans, of New York; violin and piano selections by the Misses McInness and acrobatic work by Meyer and Hansen. A second address was made by James McLean, of eNwark, a well known labor organizer who also spoke on "Unionism." Refreshments were served in conclusion and the floor was cleared for dancing, music being furnished by Suhr's Imperial Orchestra.

The committee which arranged and had charge of the affair consisted of William Bodine, chairman; John Ebberly, George Wyckoff, William Lunger and Swan Smalley.

Entertained Her Class.

Miss Edna Moffett entertained her Sunday-school class of the First Baptist church and their friends at her home on Central avenue Thursday evening. The evning was pleasantly spent in the playing of games, vocal and instrumental music and the serving of refreshments. Those in attendance were the Misses Gladys Leland, Beulah VanWinkle, Amy Moore, Edith Glanzer, Ruth Moore, Margaret Higgins, Etta Titus, Mary Moffett.

Mrs. Mary Smalley Dead.

Mrs. Annie Smalley, widow of Andrew Smalley, died last night at Chief Marshal Weiss' home on Duer street, where she resided. She was seventy years old and had been ill but a short time. She was an aunt of Mayor Smalley by marriage. The funeral will be held from her late home tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 and interment will be made in Evergreen cemetery.

Picture Play Enjoyed.

Albert Armstrong's pictorial representation of the country of Lorna Doone, with the story of the book to add interest, was enjoyed by a good sized audience at the Crescent Avenue church last night. The production was under the auspices of the Young People's Society. The committee in charge was headed by Lester Glenny.

N. P. H. S. Class Day.

The following class day committee has been appointed by the senior class of the North Plainfield High School: Miss Mary Robley, chairman; Miss Marion Overton, Miss Mary Neal, Stanley Fisher and Leo Kenney. Plans are being made to present something novel at this year's exercises.

Its a Funny Idea

some dealers have about our stock being just the same. We know it isn't. Beef, Veal, Lamb, or Pork which has been carefully raised and fed will taste better and give more nourishment than "wild" meats. We don't sell any but prime Meats, and a customer can sit down to a roast or steak, or chops from here without fear of hurting his teeth or his sense of taste. Prices won't hurt anybody's pocket, either. We sell Siegfried Arens' delicious Broilers.

HIGHWAYMEN IN SLEIGH HOLD UP A DRIVER.

Latter Escapes by Abandoning Rig and Running to Nearby Farm.

Morristown, March 24.—D. Irvin Shaner, who drives a grocery route for Acker, Merrill & Condit from Morristown to Bernardsville, was held up by three men in a sleigh last evening on his way home on the Mountain road, but escaped by leaving his horse in the middle of the road and running into a farm house, where he aroused the inmates by calling for help.

As he was driving through Glen Alpin, one of the loneliest parts of this road, forming a deep depression between two hills thickly wooded on either side, a sleigh containing three men drew up behind Shaner's rig and two of the men, jumping out, ran toward him and called upon him to stop, but he lashed up his horse and left them.

They then got into their own sleigh again and running their horse, passed the grocer's sleigh and drew their rig directly across the road. Two of the men again jumped out, ready to attack him when he drove up. The whole party had by that time arrived near a farm house and abandoning his horse Shaner ran in for help and the would-be highwaymen made off. Although Shaner at times carries a large sum of money on his route he has always gone unarmed.

LAWYER BROWN GETS MAXIMUM SENTENCE.

Twenty-Year Term Imposed on Former Westfield Bible Class Teacher.

New York, March 24—Henry Hoffman Brown, the lawyer who was convicted last week before Judge Foster in the Court of General Sessions of forgery in the first degree, was sentenced this morning by the same judge to twenty years in Sing Sing prison. This is the maximum sentence for forgery in the first degree.

Brown was a real estate lawyer and formerly had an office at 198 Broadway. At one time he taught a Bible class at Westfield, N. J. He was convicted of having tried to rob the Ebbe Peterson estate in the Bronx. This estate is said to be worth $1,000,000, and its original owner, together with his wife and child, was drowned at sea in a steamship collision in the early eighties, while they were returning to the old home in Sweden.

Brown, knowing the estate was without heirs, forged a series of conveyances and distributed the property to fictitious persons.

—Miss Grace Garretson, of East Millstone, has taken a position in Plainfield as a saleswoman.

—Mrs. Levi C. Backer, of this city, has moved back to her former home in Whitehouse, where she will occupy the John V. Voorhees property.

To the Trustees of Grace Church, Plainfield, First Baptist Church:
Gentlemen:

Don't allow your church to pay 8 cents per pound for wood.

If they buy 100 pounds of White Lead in kegs they get 88 pounds of White Lead and 12 pounds of wood; but when they buy L. & M. Paint they get a full gallon of paint that won't wear off for 10 or 15 years, because L. & M. Zinc hardens L. & M. White Lead and makes L. & M. Paint wear like iron.

4 gallons L. & M. mixed with 3 gallons Linseed Oil will paint a moderate sized house.

Actual cost L. & M. about $1.20 per gallon.

C. S., Andrews, Ex-Mayor. Danbury, Conn., writes, "Painted my house 19 years ago with L. & M. Looks well today."

Victor Moore, who stands out as the biggest hit in "Forty-five Minutes From Broadway," worked in John Drew's company for a season of thirty weeks at $4 a week. Moore is a native of New Jersey and the first half of his thirty years of life were spent on a farm in the northern part of the State.

BILL CURBING A VOTER SEEMS DOOMED TO DIE.

Bars Participants in Primary from Signing Certain Nominating Petitions.

Trenton, March 24.—Assemblyman Martin, in the House Wednesday afternoon, vigorously opposed the passage of Senator Cresse's bill which provides that when a voter participates in the primary he shall not sign any petition nominating candidates for the same office for which candidates were nominated at the primaries in which he participated. Mr. Martin said he was opposed to the bil because it took out of the primaries citizens who were in favor of good government, as it provided that any one who participates in a primary cannot sign a petition for an independent ticket. It had little or no significance in a national or State election, the Essex man continued, but in local affairs it was all-important. If it should subsequently appear that the candidate named at the primary was unfit for the office, and it should become necessary to have an independent candidate, the citizens who voted for him at the primary could not sign a petition for that purpose.

Mr. Martin's argument convinced enough members of the House to insure the defeat of the bill.

The Rt. Rev. Dr. Edwin S. Lines, bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Newark, announced yesterday that the diocesan convention of 1906 would be held on May 15. The bishop selected Trinity church, Newark, as the scene of the gathering. The diocesan journal of 1905, which should have been issued last fall, has just been distributed. It had been held back, the bishop said, by the trouble of the printer with his union journeymen.

ANOTHER WONDER OF SCIENCE.

Biology has Proved that Dandruff is Caused by a Germ.

Science is donig wonders these days in medicine as well as in mechanics. Since Adam lived, the human race has been troubled with dandruff, for which no hair preparation has heretofore proved a successful cure until Newbro's Herpicide was put on the market. It is a scientific preparation that kills the germ that makes dandruff or scurf by digging into the scalp to get at the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality; causing itching scalp, falling hair, and finally baldness. Without dandruff hair must grow luxuriantly. It is the only destroyer of dandruff. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

"I am sending you my photograph to show what Newbro's Herpicide has done for me.
"Since I first tried Herpicide upon my hair I have used it exclusively in giving scalp treatments to others, and I would not think of trying to get along with out.
(Signed) "MRS. ANNA CONNER.
"2807 Archer Ave., Chicago, Ill."

Hundreds of lady scalp specialists and hair dressers use and recommend Newbro's Herpicide, instead of products of their own manufacture, upon which a much large profit could be made They claim that Herpicide makes friends for them and gives much better satisfaction. Some hair dressers use Herpicide for obstinate cases only, but why not use the best first?

Herpicide is a delightful dressing that can be used when there is no disease of the hair or scalp, and as an actual remedy for dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair it stands in a class singularly its own.

Many ladies object to a gummy and sticky hair dressing, or one that is full of sedimentary chemicals intended to dye the hair. The marked preference for a clean and dainty preparation, particularly one that overcomes excessive oiliness and leaves the hair light and fluffy, is reflected in the enormous sale of Newbro's Herpicide. Discriminating ladies become enthusiastic over its refreshing quality and exquisite fragrance. It stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

A LETTER ALL WOMEN SHOULD READ.

"My Bissell sweeper is one of the treasures of my home. Two years ago I was an invalid, making sweeping and dusting duties to be dreaded. Reading about the Bissell sweeper, I concluded to buy one, and feel it my duty to tell you how greatly pleased I am with it. I can do my sweeping now in much less time, and without fatigue, and don't have to use the dust pan or duster. The sweeper gives a gratifying freshness to my carpets, and with no dust settling back upon draperies or curtains, or carrying disease to the household, I look upon the Bissell sweeper as a priceless invention. I would not be without one for four times the price."

We have received thousands of letters of this tenor from users of our sweepers throughout the world.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

The Lafayette College baseball squad left this week for the South, where it will do its training.

All the Highlanders are under Clark Griffith's wings at Birmingham except Elberfield and Kleinow, who are still at Hot Springs.

Manager Daab has not yet announced definitely his slab artists for the season, but Plainfield is assured of having a top-notcher.

Manager Conklin, of the West Ends, of Somerville, is after a crack-a-jack twirler for the season, and has hopes of signing him.

Oldring, formerly of the Plainfield team, now with the Philadelphia Athletics, is doing fine work in the South and he looks good for a regular place.

Plainfield's championship pennant, won last season, will soon be taken from the moth-ball chest and prepared for its aerial flight during the season.

During the past week Manager Daab has been busy arranging his schedule of games for the season. He expects to present a strong list of attractions.

Manager William Murray, of the Jersey City Eastern League Club, will visit Plainfield soon to complete arrangements for the stay of his team here in April.

The Plainfield Baseball Association has decided to curtail the "free pass" privileges this season. Those who receive such passes will be entitled to them.

After May 1 all the trades in Plainfield will enjoy the half-holiday on Saturday and this should be the means of boosting the attendance at the ball games.

The thousand and one baseball teams in Pennsylvania are getting busy for the coming season, which promises to be the best in the history of the game.

Jerome Leary, proprietor of the Hotel Iroquois, has planned to fit up comfortable quarters for the Plainfield team, including a shower bath and lockers for clothes.

"Dick" Watt, famous once as an umpire, has been elected a director of the Garwood A. C. Club. It has not been stated yet whether he will handle the indicator this season or not.

Joe Yeager, of the New York Americans, is wanted by the Washington Americans to take the place of Cassidy at short. The latter is ill and will not be able to play this season.

President William N. Runyon will appoint committees and other important business will be considered at the meeting of the Plainfield Baseball Association tonight. Let every fan be on hand.

Manager John Burke, of the Elizabeth Stars, is getting his team together for the season. He is not sure yet that he will have "Red" Waller to do his box work. By the way "Red" would be quite a favorite in this city.

There is only one way to have first-class baseball as played by the strongest semi-professional teams in this part of the country, and that is to join the Plainfield Baseball Association and subscribe for shares of stock. Send in your subscription and be sure to attend the meeting at the Hotel Iroquois tonight.

BASKET BALL.

There will be a lively basketball game at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium tonight between the local association five and the Montclair team. A week ago the Plainfield team was defeated at Montclair and it will try to get revenge tonight. Undoubtedly the hardest game of the season will be played here a week from tonight, when the crack Orange association five will appear on the local courts. The Orange boys will be accompanied by a large crowd of rooters who have chartered a special trolley car. This will be the last basketball game of the season at the association.

PERMITS BOROUGHS TO DO ADVERTISING.

Measure Allows Them to Raise Money to Make Their Advantages Known.

Trenton, March 24.—Recognition of the value of advertising for municipalities as well as for business enterprises is given by the House of Assembly in a bill which that body has passed unanimously. The bill is House 249 and was introduced by Mr. Henry, of Monmouth county. It permits boroughs of the State to "appropriate and provide for raising by taxation money for the purpose of publicly advertising such borough."

It is provided that the maximum amount to be so used yearly in this way shall not exceed one-half of one mill on each dollar of assessed valuation in the borough.

Several of the boroughs in Monmouth county along the seashore desire to take advantage of the law to attract summer residents. Other boroughs with industrial advantages can make use of the law to attract manufacturing enterprises.

Mrs. Arthur Higgins, of this city, has been visiting Mrs. A. W. Suydam, of Somerville.

MR. AND MRS. JACKSON ENTERTAIN BROTHERHOOD

AT MEETING OF FIRST M. E. SOCIETY PLANS ARE MADE FOR LECTURE.

Mr. and Mrs. James W. Jackson entertained the Brotherhood of the First M. E. church at their home in Crescent avenue last night, about fifty members enjoying the hospitality of the host and hostess.

The forepart of the evening was devoted to the consideration of business. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were presented. These showed the organization to be in a flourishing condition. There was also a report from a special committee on an entertainment to be held at the church on Thursday night, April 26.

At that time there will be an illustrated lecture by Rev. Dr. Jesse L. Hurlbut and in connection with this there will be a strawberry festival and the choir of the church will be the guest of the club, thus insuring a programme of music. The committee in charge of this affair comprises Dr. Frank W. French, James R. Joy, William Symons, Arthur Humble, Maurice McGrath, and each one will select his own assistants. Other business included the election of John Henry, W. R. Codington, J. P. Humble and others, while Arthur Humble was appointed chief usher at the church for the coming month. He will select his assistants.

This concluded the business and the entertainment followed. There was a fine musical programme of classical selections on a talking machine, operated by Mr. Jackson, after which George Rittenhouse, who attended the convention of the National Student Volunteers, held recently at Nashville, Tenn., gave a very interesting talk concerning this conference, where 4,000 students were gathered. James R. Joy and Miss Elsie Horne also attended this convention, and Mr. Joy will give a talk about it at the First M. E. church tomorrow night.

After the entertainment elaborate refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Jackson and social features were enjoyed. Those who presided at the tables were Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. L. M. French and Mrs. A. C. McCrea. While refreshments were served there were other selections on the talking machine.

NURSE HOLDS KEY TO SUICIDE'S RICHES.

May Be Able to Tell if Jutte Was Crazed When Signing Power of Attorney.

Atlantic City, March 24.—The recovery of the $2,000,000 estate of the late W. T. Jutte, the coal operator of Pittsburg, who shot himself in a hotel here last summer, may hinge on the location of a young woman nurse who attended him when he attempted suicide here in 1901. Attorney Pritchard, of Pittsburg, who represents Mrs. Jutte, the widow, is hunting for the girl.

Jutte shot himself both times under a hallucination that he had lost his immense estate, and while in the Atlantic City Hospital after the first attempt at suicide he was persuaded to sign a power of attorney which has since been brought forward in an attempt to wrest control of the estate from the widow.

Attorney Pritchard arrived here yesterday and discovered that City Comptroller Heston, one of the board of managers of the hospital, drew the instrument, and that he believed at the time Jutte was of unsound mind. Mr. Heston will be summoned as a witness. Dr. B. A. Pennington, who attended Jutte at that time, has since died. Expert opinion on the state of the man's mind therefore rests with the nurse.

HIS INHERITANCE WAS CAUSE OF DOWNFALL.

Vice Chancellor Advises Divorce for Mrs. Johnson, but Without Any Alimony.

Vice Chancellor Stevens has filed at Newark a decision in the divorce suit brought by Mrs. B. Augusta Johnson, formerly of Glen Ridge, but now of Princeton, against her husband, George A. Johnson, who is at present living in Newark.

The court advises a decree in favor of Mrs. Johnson, but does not allow her any alimony because she has in her name a house in Glen Ridge valued at $11,000, which her husband gave her before their domestic troubles began.

Drunkenness and cruelty were charged by the plaintiff in her action. At the trial Mrs. Johnson's daughter testified for her, while the son testified for the father.

Johnson was a mechanic at the time of the marriage, nearly forty years ago, and was a model husband until he inherited a fortune from an uncle who died in California. He then took to drink.

By the decree Mrs. Johnson will, in case her husband receives a further portion of the California estate, be permitted to apply for alimony.

HELD FAST AN HOUR.

Man's Foot Was Caught When Car Crashed Into His Engine.

A coal car on the Junction Railway, which connects the Central Railroad of New Jersey with Summit, started yesterday down a long, steep grade from Summit with no one on it. While travelling at full speed it hit a drill engine, which was standing on the rails. The engine was wrecked and the car derailed and smashed.

James Gray, fireman of the engine, was caught by his right foot, and it was so badly crushed it will probably have to be amputated. He was held a prisoner for an hour until jacks lifted the engine so his leg could be released.

While he was held down Freeholder Peter H. Meisler hitched up a team of fast horses, and when Gray was released he was placed in the rig and fast time was made to the General Hospital at Elizabeth.

BOUGHT A CHURCH TO GET LIQUOR LICENSE.

Applicant Startled Court by Unique Method He Adopted in Removing Opposition.

Pittsburg, March 24.—John Cline applied for a license to sell liquor last year, but there was such a remonstrance against the granting of the license that it was refused. The principal reason for refusing it was that a church was located in the square in which Cline desired to open his saloon.

Yesterday Cline was back in court again with another application, and there were no church people present to protest.

Judge McClung thought this strange and questioned Cline. He found that Cline had got around that problem by buying the church property and compelling the congregation to move.

The court has his application under advisement.

Leaps From Window.

Mrs. Rose Katz, twenty-three years old, of No. 658 South 14th street, Newark, jumped from a third story window at her home yesterday to escape what she thought was going to be a serious blaze caused by the explosion of a can of gasolene. She is now in the City Hospital, and may lose her right foot, which was crushed when she landed on the pavement more than thirty feet below.

NURSERY CARED FOR 200 CHILDREN IN MARCH

NOW PLANS TO OPEN A SUMMER CAMP ON THE MOUNTAIN.

Since March 1 there has been 200 children cared for at the King's Daughters' Day Nursery and the work is progressing satisfactorily. Any financial assistance or aid is always appreciated by this charitable organization in maintaining the institution. The nursery will be continued during the summer, with the exception of the month of August, when it will be closed to give the matron a vacation.

The King's Daughters are gradually preparing plans for the opening of the summer camp on the mountain. This work will not interfere with that of the day nursery, and as it was such a success last season the organization feels encouraged to continue it this year.

MASKED BURGLARS FIND THE MONEY.

One with Pistol Guards Butcher, While Other Makes a Search of Room.

Frank Mathias, a butcher, of Main street, Bound Brook, was visited by burglars early yesterday morning. They didn't resort to violence, because while they threatened one of them searched the room and found the hiding place of the butcher's money.

Mathias made his collections Thursday. This fact apparently was known to the intruders. The butcher sleeps in a room above the store. About 3 a. m. he was awakened by two men in the room, one of whom had him covered with a revolver. This man said:

"Mr. Mathias, we are after your money. We know you have it, so please fork up."

Mathias said he had none, and was told he made his collections Thursday and that he must have that money anyhow, as he had not returned to the store until after the banks had closed.

The men threatened to use violence unless the money was produced. While Mathias and the man with the gun were talking the other man was making a rapid and thorough search of the room. He stumbled upon the hiding place, where there was $400.

This satisfied the men, and they left the roo mand made their escape. Both wore masks and were well dressed. Mathias says he would hardly be able to identify the men unless, possibly, by hearing the voice of the one who covered him with the revolver.

WOULD BURN DOWN THE MINISTER'S HOME.

Saloonkeepers Thus Try to Force Dominie to Help Then Get a License.

Woodbury, March 24.—Rev. George R. Middleton, returned by Conference to the Hammonton M. E. church, is spending a few days with his father-in-law, W. H. Geiger, in this city. Yesterday he received an unsigned threatening letter, supposed to be from a man who wants a liquor license in Hammonton. The writer states that unless Mr. Middleton returns at once and assists in procuring this license his house "will be burned with 30 gallons of gasoline."

The dominie did not seem much worried over the letter, but immediately sent a dispatch to one of his parishioners to keep a look-out, and the house was watched last night. This morning Mr. Middleton took his family to their home and has placed the letter in the hands of the postal authorities. The preacher had previously fought the license application.

PLAN TO ADMIT ANOTHER CLUB NOW

EAST JERSEY GOLF LEAGUE WILL PROBABLY INCREASE ITS MEMBERSHIP.

George B. Jenkinson, president of the East Jersey Golf League, has appointed the handicap committee and the spring tournament committee for the coming season. He said yesterday that there was a good chance of another club being taken into membership in the near future, as the general sentiment among the league officials favored six in preference to five clubs.

The new committees are as follows:

Handicap Committee—M. D. W. Thurston, chairman; Elmer E. Wood, Paul E. Heller, A. F. C. Milligan, Howard Giffin and Ward G. Thomas.

Spring Tournament Committee—R. A. Waterbury, chairman; Elmer E. Wood and Howard Giffin.

Bob Peebles, for the past two years engaged as the professional of the South Orange Field Club, has secured the green at the Fairview Country Club, Tuckahoe, N. Y., for the coming season. Peebles has been in this city and vicinity during the greater part of the winter. Philip O'Connor, a graduate from the caddie ranks at the Essex County Country Club, has applied for the South Orange green. O'Connor is a capital player and more than a match for any of the country club's members.

The links of the Nassau Country Club will be the scene of the first annual championship of the Women's Eastern Golf Association and the tri-city team matches June 5, 6, 7 and 8. This announcement was made last night by one official of the association and it settles the much-mooted question as to where the tournament would be held, ever since it was decided not to go to the Brae Burn Country Club.

Immediately after the executive committee of the United States Golf Association selected the Brae Burn links for the women's national championship, Mrs. E. F. Sanford, president of the Eastern body, wrote to several prominent clubs, asking if they would be willing to offer their courses for the tournament. The clubs communicated with were the Nassau Country Club, Country Club of Lakewood, Baltusrol Golf Club, Atlantic City Country Club, Deal Golf Club and New Haven Country Club. Favorable replies were received from practically all directions, but Nassau received the preference, mainly because the Boston women had expressed a wish for that green. The wishes of the Boston women had to be respected, as they were kind enough to waive their claim to the tri-city matches.

Jerome D. Travers, of the Nassau Country Club, probably the most brilliant young player in the country, will do most of his golfing over New Jersey links this season. His father, Vincent P. Travers, has sold his summer home at Oyster Bay, Long Island, and has decided to locate, for a time, in this State. Jerome Travers said last night that they had not decided as yet just where they would go. He wants to get in a little practise at Englewood, however, before the national championship, which is to be held there the middle of July. He expects to enter Princeton next fall.

MONTCLAIR COUNTRY CLUB.

Has Bought Land and Will Extend Its Golf Links.

At the annual meeting Thursday of the Montclair Country Club Dr. A. H. Wallace, L. Hamilton Turner, Franklin Fisher and Dr. Morgan W. Ayres were elected members of the governing committee for two years. The membership limit war raised to tow hundred and the annual dues from $15 to $20.

Thirty-two acres of land have been added to the club grounds, which will be laid out as golf links, with twelve holes. This, with six holes on the present course, which will be retained, will give the club one of the finest golf links in Essex county.

Mrs. Christiana R. Straughn, of Kingston, N. Y., has been visting her cousin, J. D. Moon, of Grandview avenue.

Trustless Government.

Articles of incorporation for the Citizen's Progressive Association of Perth Amboy were filed at the County Clerk's office this morning. The association is a Democratic organization which has for its object the running of a government without interference from trusts, according to the incorporation papers. The office of the concern is at 235 Smith street, Perth Amboy, and the five incorporators are former Freeholders August Kroeger, James H. S. Cassidy, George Westfield, Peter Mekon and George W. Jolly.

Van Kinzie in "At Piney Bridge," at New Plainfield Theatre Next Monday Night.

Wilton Lackaye in "The Pit," at New Plainfield theatre Thursday Night, March 29.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The good old melodramas of twenty years ago are on the shelf and some of the current ones ought to join them. "The Convict's Daughter," that will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre this afternoon and tonight, is unlike and far above the commonplace plays of its class. The plot is original and reasonably developed in five acts of intense action, sensational action and scenic realism, eclipsing all previous efforts in stage mechanism.

That most excellent and stirring drama, "At Piney Ridge," will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre Monday night. A play that has met with profitable recognition ever since its opening night in New York several seasons ago. Its presentation leaves such a favorable and lasting impression on the mind that full houses is its invariable experience. "At Piney Ridge" presents a story of human interest with a serious side mingled with a most acceptable and wholesome vein of comedy. Its humor is especially good. There is a thrilling and touching love story interwoven and the whole piece is exceptionally good.

The engagement of "As Told in the Hills," the new melodrama of Western life, in which Miss Emily Gale is starring this season, will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday night. The play is regarded as the best of the new offerings of the season in the melodramatic line and has met with unqualified success from its first performance. It has a strong plot, original and cleverly conceived, and the play is written with true dramatic skill and literary excellence.

Heart interest is the keynote of "York State Folks," the beautiful rural play which comes to the New Plainfield theatre next Wednesday night. The customary straining for the melodramatic effect so usual in plays of this class is missing in "York State Folks," and the "atmosphere" is carefully preserved even in the scenes with the minor characters. The beautiful idyl of life in Northern New York has just finished its run at the Majestic theatre in New York and comes to the New Plainfield with its New York cast complete.

Wilton Lackaye will appear at the New Plainfield theatre Thursday night in William A. Brady's long promised production of Frank Norris' thrilling story of Chicago, "The Pit." The play made by Channing Pollock has created a sensation wherever it has been seen and has been welcomed as one of the greatest American plays ever produced. Manager Brady has mounted the piece very lavishly and the production is not only large but unusually attractive.

The first performance of "The Clansman" in New York City was an extraordinary occasion. An outbreak against the play had been looked for on the part of negro sympathizers. No such turbulence developed for the simple reason that the play carried every spectator off his feet, bringing innumerable curtain calls and compelling the playwright to address the frenzied audience. Mr. Dixon said that there was now no North and no South, and that his play furthered the feelings of brotherhood between the white men of every clime. Mr. Dixon's play is expected to repeat its triumph in this city next Friday night at the New Plainfield theatre.

"McFadden's Flats," which comes to the New Plainfield theatre Thursday, April 5, matinee and night, is one of the best of Gus Hill's productions—it is an ideal for lovers of comedy and abounds in charming music of melodic quality, surrounding a story told in a light, rollicking way, overflowing with merriment and good humor, and permitting the interpolation of many genuinely clever specialties. The production of "McFadden's Flats" this year is nothing more or less than spectacular farcical comedy, new and elaborate special scenery is used throughout the play and a large handsomely dressed chorus of girls makes a very finished performance from beginning to end.

NOT SO BRUTAL.

He struck his little wife, and they
Had been wed but a week;
And yet he struck her, sad to say!
Now, wasn't he a sneak?
He struck his fragile wife, alas!
This tale is very sad.
How come such happenings to pass?
How can men be so bad?

And yet on second thought, you know,
His was no bad intent;
His little wife possessed the dough,
And he had not a cent.
He struck his little wife, 'tis true,
Within a week's brief time,
But there was nothing else to do—
He had to have a dime.

GOTHAM'S AMUSEMENTS

Extravagance of phrase is not only allowable, but necessary, in so far as is possible, the glory, grandeur, beauty and magnificence of "A Society Circus" at the New York Hippodrome. That is the universal opinion, who are also agreed that the programme excels anthing hitherto offered in theatricals in merit, variety and immensity, combining as it does the best in drama, opera and circus. The scenic effects are marvelous in their magnificence and affect the proper background for the great ensembles and grand choruses. No better music has been heard in any production than that arranged by Mr. Klein, the musical director, and it is admirably interpreted by the trained chorus, the largest in the world. The costumes used are almost dazzling, a very riot of color, and yet each in contrast with the others produces in the whole an effect perfect in harmony. In "A Society Circus" Thompson and Dundy have justified their reputation of being the giants of the amusement world. The new circus includes acts that have never before been seen on this continent, and the hour they consume is one of the most entertaining of the whole show. The flower ballet and "The Court of the Golden Fountains" cannot be described. They must be seen to be appreciated. In fact, after witnessing the production the stranger does not wonder at the first question of the New Yorker, "Have you seen the Hippodrome?" Matinees are given daily.

CHAPTER XXV.

A FINE HEROINE TOO.

Friday morning.

Miss Annesley possessed more than the ordinary amount of force and power of will. Though the knowledge of it was not patent to her, she was a philosopher. She always submitted gracefully to the inevitable. She was religious, too, feeling assured that God would provide. She did not go about the house, moaning and weeping; she simply studied all sides of the calamity, and looked around to see what could be saved. There were moments when she was even cheerful. There were no new lines in her face; her eyes were bright and eager. All persons of genuine talent look the world confidently in the face; they know exactly what they can accomplish. As Karloff had advised her, she did not trouble herself about the future. Her violin would support her and her father, perhaps in comfortable circumstances. The knowledge of this gave her a silent happiness, that kind which leaves upon the face a serene and beautiful calm.

At this moment she stood on the veranda, her hand shading her eyes. She was studying the sky. The afternoon would be clear; the last ride should be a memorable one. The last ride! Tears blurred her eyes and there was a smothering sensation in her throat. The last ride! After to-day Jane would have a new, strange mistress. If only she might go to this possible mistress and tell her how much she loved the animal, to obtain from her the promise that she would be kind to it always. How mysteriously the human heart spreads its tendrils around the object of its love! What is there in the loving of a dog or a horse that, losing one or the other, an emptiness is created? Perhaps it is because the heart goes out wholly without distrust to the faithful, to the undeceiving, to the dumb but loving beast, which, for all its strength, is so helpless.

She dropped her hand and spoke to James, who was waiting near by for her orders.

"James, you will have Pierre fill a saddle-hamper; two plates, two knives and forks, and so forth. We shall ride in the north country this afternoon. It will be your last ride. To-morrow the horses will be sold." How bravely she said it!

"Yes, Miss Annesley." Whom were they going to meet in the north country? "At what hour shall I bring the horses around?"

"At three."

She entered the house and directed her steps to the study. She found her father arranging the morning's mail. She drew up a chair beside him, and ran through her own letters. An invitation to lunch with Mrs. Secretary-of-State; she tossed it into the waste-basket. A dinner-dance at the Country Club, a ball at the Brazilian legation, a tea at the German embassy, a box party at some coming play, an informal dinner at the executive mansion; one by one they fluttered into the basket. A bill for winter furs, a bill from the dressmaker, one from the milliner, one from the glover, and one from the florist; these she laid aside, reckoning their sum-total, and frowning. How could she have been so extravagant? She chanced to look at her father. He was staring, rather stupidly at a slip of paper which he held in his trembling fingers.

"What is it?" she asked, vaguely troubled.

"I do not understand," he said, extending the paper for her inspection.

Neither did she at first.

"Karloff has not done this," went on her father, "for it shows that he has had it discounted at the bank. It is canceled; it is paid. I did not have $20,000 in the bank; I did not have even a quarter of that amount to my credit. There has been some mistake. Our real estate agent expects to realize on the home not earlier than Monday morning. In case it was not sold then, he was to take up the note personally. This is not his work, or I should have been notified." Then, with a burst of grief: "Betty, my poor Betty! How can you forgive me? How can I forgive myself?"

"Father, I am brave. Let us forget. It will be better so."

She kissed his hand and drew it lovingly across her cheek. Then she rose and moved toward the light. She studied the note carefully. There was nothing on it save Karloff's writing and her father's and the red imprint of the bank's cancellation. Out of the window and beyond she saw James leading the horses to the watering trough. Her face suddenly grew crimson with shame, and as suddenly as it came the color faded. She folded the note and absently tucked it into the bosom of her dress. Then, as if struck by some strange thought, her figure grew tense and rigid against the blue background of the sky. The glow which stole over her features this time had no shame in it, and her eyes shone like the waters of sunlit seas. It must never be; no it must never be.

"We shall make inquiries at the bank," she said. "And do not be downcast, father, the worst is over. What mistakes you have made are forgotten. The future looks bright to me."

"Through innocent young eyes the future is ever bright, but as we age we find most of the sunshine on either side, and we stand in the shadow between. Brave heart, I glory in your courage. God will provide for you; He will not let my shadow fall on you. Yours shall be the joy of living, mine shall be the pain. God bless you! I wonder how I shall ever meet your mother's accusing eyes?"

"Father, you must not dwell upon this any longer; for my sake you must not. When everything is paid there will be a little left, enough till I and my violin find something to do. After all, the world's applause must be a fine thing. I can even now see the criticisms in the great newspapers. 'A former young society woman, well-known in the fashionable circles of Washington, made her debut as a concert player last night. She is a stunning young person.' 'A young queen of the diplomatic circles, here and abroad, appeared in public as a violinist last night. She is a member of the most exclusive sets, and society was out to do her homage.' 'One of Washington's brilliant young horsewomen,' and so forth. Away down at the bottom of the column, somewhere, they will add that I play the violin rather well for an amateur." In all her trial this was the one bitter expression, and she was sorry for it the moment it escaped her.

Happily her father was not listening. He was wholly absorbed in the mystery of the canceled note.

She had mounted Jane and was gathering up the reins, while James strapped on the saddle-hamper. This done, he climbed into the saddle and signified by touching his cap that all was ready. So they rode forth in the sweet freshness of that November afternoon. A steady wind was blowing, the compact white clouds sailed swiftly across the brilliant heaven, leaves whispered and fluttered, hither and thither, wherever the wind listed; it was the day of days. It was the last ride, and fate owed them the consolation of a beautiful afternoon.

The last ride! Warburton's mouth drooped. Never again to ride with her! How the thought tightened his heart! What a tug it was going to be to give her up! But so it must be. He could never face her gratitude. He must disappear, like the good fairies in the story-books. If he left now, and she found out what he had done, she would always think kindly of him, even tenderly. At twilight, when she took out her violin and played soft measures, perhaps a thought or two would be given to him. After what had happened—this contemptible masquerading and the crisis through which her father had just passed—it would be impossible for her to love him. She would always regard him with suspicion, as a witness of her innocent shame.

He recalled the two wooden plates in the hamper. Whom was she going to meet? Ah, well, what mattered it? After to-day the abyss of eternity would yawn between them. How he loved her! How he adored the exquisite profile, the warm-tinted skin, the shining hair! . . . And he had lost her! Ah, that last ride!

Plainfield Citizens Gladly Testify and Confidently Recommend Doan's Kidney Pills.

It is testimony like the following that has placed "the old Quaker Remedy" so far above competitors. When people right here at home raise their voice in praise there is no room left for doubt. Read the public statement of a Plainfield citizen:

Albert Naylor, music teacher, of 436 East Fifth street, Plainfield, N. Jr., says: "Several years ago I was afflicted with a dull aching in the small of my back and sharp pains when stooping or lifting. I resorted to the use of Doan's Kidney Pills for same, as I had been told that they were a cure for such pain as I had been having. I think that I took only two boxes before the pains left me, and I was soon feeling first-class in every respect. I have often endorsed and recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to those suffering from backache as I was."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

MRS. APPLEGATE WELL AGAIN!

"I have had a bruised leg and foot for several years, caused by the brass eyelets of my shoe, which became very sore and painful especially at night. It itched, burned and ached me till it nearly set me crazy. I used everything I found and was suggested to ease it and nothing gave me any relief till I found and applied Azienza Cream which I think is a wonderful remedy for all sores and inflammation of the skin. The hard knots on my legs were as painful as bee stings, with discolored and purple spots. A running sore on my instep size of a half-dollar; the top of my foot a seething sore clean around to my heel. The bone was sore for a whole year and very painful. I used five and one-half jars of Azienza Cream and healed the sore all up. The foot remained tender and I continued to use to strengthen and toughen the skin until now it is entirely well." (Signed) Mrs. Hannah Applegate, Evergreen Ave., Avon, N. J., Sept. 3rd, 1905. 50 cents. Ask the druggist or by mail. Azienza Specialties Co., Jersey City, N. J.

LITERARY NOTES.

The Chinaman, unlike the European, regards America as only temporarily his home, preserves his national customs and peculiarities, and finally returns, carrying his savings with him. He is not attracted by our institutions and brings with him no love of American ideals. To him the United States is a field to be exploited, but nothing more. The European casts in his lot with us, mingles with the population, and, in a few generations, his identity is lost in our composite race. He has neither peculiarities of thought nor of dress to distinguish him from those among whom he labors, and his children are soon an undistinguishable part of the community. Not so with the Chinese. They are not only distinguished by their dress, langauge, and habits, but they remain entirely separate and apart from those among whom they dwell. The difference is due not only to the wide dissimilarity in history, tradition, and habit, but also to the absence of any permanent or patriotic interest in the land in which they sojourn. It would require generations to bring our people down to a plane upon which they could compete with the Chinese, and this would involve a large impairment of the efficiency of their work. It is not just to the laboring men of the United States that they should be compelled to labor upon the basis of Chinese coolie labor or stand idle and allow their places to be filled by an alien race with no thought of permanent identification with our country. The American laborer not only produces the wealth of our nation in time of peace, but he is also its sure defender in time of war—who will say that his welfare and the welfare of his family shall be subordinated to the interests of those who abide with us for but a time, who, while with us, are exempt from draft or military burden, and who, on their return, drain our country of its currency? A foreign landlord system is almost universally recognized as a curse to a nation, because the rent money is sent out of the country. Chinese immigration on a large scale would give us the evil effects of foreign landlordism in addition to its other objectionable features.—William Jennings Bryan in "Success Magazine."

There will be special interest in the community, even among those who seldom read fiction, in a short story in the April number of Lippincott's Magazine. It has for its hero a bank cashier who is turned from more or less frenzied finance to a realization of his higher duty by a revival held in a tabernacle by an evangelist. The story is pure fiction. The author makes much of the uplifting power of a good woman upon her husband, although the influence of the evangelist is not minimized. It is this evangelist who appeals to the thousands of persons who have been attending revival meetings all over our broad land. The scene in which the bank cashier makes an about face, morally and religiously, is painted in words so graphic that the reader will see that it is drawn from life by one who has had excellent means of observation. The conversation between the cashier and the evangelist sounds as natural as if it came from a phonograph, and the picture of the preaching standing on a desk and calling for converts is as accurate in every detail as an historical painting. The story is called "The Mettle of Mr. Matthews," and is by Walter Barr, who for a time was special reporter of revival meetings through the West. It is supposed that "Billy" Sunday, the old-time baseball star, and now the most unique evangelist in America, furnished the model for the preacher in "The Mettle of Mr. Matthews."

OLD SECOND BRIGADE WILL HOLD BIG REUNION

PLAINFIELDERS BELONG—MAYOR FAGAN AND DAN SICKLES TO SPEAK.

Invitations have been issued to the members of the Second New Jersey Brigade, to which Frank Whiteley and Thomas McDonald, of this city, belong, for the ninteenth annual reunion of the society, which will occur in the rooms of G. Van Houten Post, G. A. R., 94 Belmont avenue, Jersey City, beginning at 11 o'clock a. m., April 9 next, the anniversary of the surrender of Robert E. Lee, at Appomattox court house, in 1865.

During the war the Second New Jersey Brigade, under Generals Sickles and Hooker, division commanders, was composed of the following regiments. Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Eighth and Eleventh New Jersey; Second and One Hundred and Twentieth New York; Twenty-sixth and One Hundred and Fifteenth Pennsylvania; First, Eleventh and Sixteenth Massachusetts, and the First Massachusetts Light Artillery. The brigade has a long record of hard service.

The members will be made welcome to Jersey City in an address by Mayor Mark Fagan. Other prominent speakers will give addresses, including their old commander, General Daniel E. Sickles.

Among the illustrious names of the division commanders under whom the brigade served may be noted Sickles, Heintzelman, Hancock, Mott, McAllister and Carr, and among the brigade commanders were Star, Sewell, Ramsey, Patterson and Burling.

Elaborate preparations are being made for the reception of the society in Jersey City, and in the invitations being sent is contained a special plea for a full attendance of the members. They are getting fewer in number more rapidly now than before, on account of the advanced ages of the survivors, and these reunions are the only means the members have of meeting each other and exchanging reminiscences.

P. H. S. GYMNASIUM OPENED LAST NIGHT

THE HIGH SCHOOL TEAM DEFEATED WANAMASSA—45 TO 24.

The new Plainfield High School gymnasium was formally opened last night, when a game of basketball was played between the High School team and the Wanamassa Boat Club, of this city. The High School boys played all around their opponents and overwhelmed them by a score of 45-24.

The play was fast and furious throughout by both teams, and while the boat club managed to keep their score close to that of the school boys in the first period of play, still they fell down in the second half and Plainfield High School ran way ahead. The team play of the High School was perfect, Collier, Smith and Freeman doing very well.

The line up: P. H. S.—Freeman, centre; Collier and Smith, forwards; Doane, Caldwell and Line, guards. Wanamassa—Whitney, centre; Aalholm and Phillips, forwards; Martin and Hoagland, guards. Umpire, Cullingworth; referee, Scull.

Between the halves of the big game, the P. H. S. II team defeated the Hope Chapel Juniors in a fiercely contested game, score 20-18. Gavett did well for the second team. Line up: P. H. S. II—Gavet, centre; Leggett and Morris, forwards; Lambert and Pound, guards. Hope Juniors—Snyder, centre; Hunter and Mortimer, forwards; Rimmer and Kenny, guards.

Discharged from the Hospital.

Louis Deverigo, the Italian who recently lost a part of his leg, the result of an accident of the New Jersey Central, was discharged from Muhlenberg Hospital, today, and he returned to his home in Cottage place. Philip DeHart, the employe at the Pond Machine Tool Works, who lost a portion of his hand at the works a week ago, was also discharged today from the hospital.

School Boys' Schedule.

Arthur Van Arsdale, manager of the North Plainfield High School baseball team, is hard at work completing his schedule for this season. Already games have been booked with Somerville H. S., Cranford H. S., Westfield H. S., Rahway H. S., and Plainfield H. S. A call for candidates for the borough team will be made in a few days.

FIREMEN'S MEDALS FOR LIFE MEMBERS.

State Association Distributing Bronze Badges.

The new badges for life members of the New Jersey State Firemen's Association, which were ordered last September at the annual convention of that body in Atlantic City, have been received by the State association. They are now being distributed to the firemen who are life members of the association by virtue of having been elected a vice president of the organization or in attending the conventions as a delegate for five consecutive years.

The badges are of bronze, about the size of a half-dollar. In the centre is embossed the seal of the State. Above this is the inscription, "N. J. State Firemen's Association." Under the seal are the words, "Life Member."

The badges were issued because of the trouble experienced each year in procuring a proper insignia for the life members, who have a vote at all conventions. It was decided to adopt a badge which would be presented by the association to the life members and which would at all times admit the member and do away with the issuance of special badges each year.

The association is composed of firemen from all parts of the State. The object is relief of injured firemen and assistance to widows and orphans of firemen. The source of revenue is derived from a fund received from the State for a two per cent. tax levied upon foreign insurance companies. This applies to all insurance companies organized outside the State. The amount is divided among the associations which comprise the State association, and is distributed by the State banking commissioner. Each local association also receives two per cent. from the agents of foreign insurance companies who do business in the municipality. This fund is disposed of under the direction of the board of trustees.

Three delegates from each association and the chief of the department are sent to the convention each year. In order to become a delegate a member of the department must first be elected a member of the board of representatives of the relief association and then elected a delegate by the representatives. Vice presidents are also elected from each of the congressional districts in the State.

Mattison Sale.

By order of L. V. F. Randolph, the executor, the personal effects and drug stock of the late Dr. W. E. Mattison were sold at his home on Somerset street yesterday afternoon. The doctor lived back of his drug store and everything in the store, as well as the household goods, was sold. The sale was well attended and lively. Everything went in rapid order, under Auctioneer Hezekiah Hand's persuasive flow of language. The drugs brought good prices.

MR. WINCKLER WANTS DAMAGES REDUCED.

Former Plainfielder Objects to Paying $850 to Litigant.

Counselor James D. Carton, on behalf of his client, Thomas J. Winckler, of Asbury Park, formerly of this city, made application before Judge Foster in Freehold yesterday to have the verdict of $850 damages obtained against Mr. Winckler by Madeline Schneider, who fell down an areaway in front of his store on Mattison avenue, Asbury Park, reduced.

The judge stated that in his opinion the judgment would have been more equitable at $500, but that he would not question the judgment of the twelve jurors who determined the matter.

Mr. Carton then consulted with Counselors Robert P. Bell and Charles F. Cook, attorneys for the complainant, who agreed to reduce the amount of damages $100, but this Mr. Carton refused to accept. He will try to secure additional evidence and upset the verdict.

MR. CHAPIN'S "LINCOLN."

Presentation of the Play and Part a Lasting Lesson in Patriotism.

Benjamin Chapin's production of "Lincoln" at the New Plainfield theatre last night, though distinctly different from anything that has been seen at the house this season, proved a highly interesting play, and with a few exceptions equaled anything in the dramatic line yet visiting Plainfield. Many in the audience had a vague idea as to what they were going to see, but when they did there was not one but what was moved by the wonderfully lifelike interpretation of the great President. In the course of the plot the leading characters of the Civil War are made to live again and a lesson in patriotism is given that made a lasting impression.

Mr. Chapin has surrounded himself with an exceptionally capable company and every part is ably handled. The production goes to the Liberty theatre, New York, next week for a run of two months, and possibly more.

At Congregational Church.

Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, will preach tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock on the subject of "Three Kinds of a Man." The evening service will be in charge of the Christian Endeavor Society.

NEW LEADERS FOR JERSEY DEMOCRATS.

Ex-Congressman Benny Tells of Plans to Reorganize the Party.

Ex-Congressman Allan Benny, of Bayonne, who was chairman of the "True Democracy" conference at Newark last Tuesday, from which many prominent Democrats retired when they realized the movement was in the interest of William R. Hearst, said yesterday:

"This movement was not started for the purpose of creating a third party, but to reorganize the Democratic party in New Jersey. It is proposed to adopt a new platform for the consideration of the Democratic party, which at present stands for nothing. I hope to see the multitude flock to the platform, which covers everything.

"If we have the principles we will have no trouble getting the followers, and if we get the followers we will have no trouble getting the leaders. The Democratic party in the State is a counterfeit of the Republican party and is really a third party. There are the regular Republicans, the Colby Republicans, and the Democrats.

"As far as the Senate is concerned, Senator Minturn is the only Democrat in it that I can think of—I mean the only man standing on Democratic principles. The party cannot get lower than it is. It is bowing to the Republicans and apishly following the Republicans, something it never did before.

"The Democratic party in New Jersey stands for nothing. It talks about soaking the corporations. How can it when its leaders are the agents for the corporations or are in partnership with some of the concerns? We want new leaders in many places.

"I do not know of a better leader than Robert Davis, but he has some poor advisers. Mr. Davis is a jovial, open-hearted man and would give you the shirt off his back if he thought you needed it. Two good planks weer adopted at the convention—the municipal ownership plank and the initiative legislation plank. I feel confident the Democrats will adopt the platform. We shall hold other meetings soon and will keep up the movement until it has spread to the uttermost parts of the State."

BALL STOCK FUND $1,230

New Association Plans to Raise $770 More and Issue Bonds.

DAAB TO GET $400

President Runyon Says Club Will Take Half Interest in Franchise—Appoints Several Committees.

Considerable progress was made at the meeting of the Plainfield Baseball Association at the Hotel Iroquois, Saturday night. Encouraging reports were received, President Runyon appointed a committee to handle the bond issue, also committees on grounds, privileges and score cards, while Manager Daab outlined as nearly as possible his plans regarding the team and schedule of games. There was a good attendance of members and the meeting was an enthusiastic one. It was stated that subscriptions to stock amounting to $1,230 were reported and this was considered excellent for two weeks' work. There are yet members of the committee and others to be heard from.

At the outset it was stated by President Runyon that the plan as adopted by the association is to pay Manager Daab $400 for half interest in his franchise, thus making him part owner. The rest of the money subscribed will be put in the treasury to be drawn upon for expenses. The receipts from the games will also be put in the treasury. The partnership papers will be arranged at once so that the deal between the association and Mr. Daab can be consummated. It is understood that 400 bonds will be prepared for selling.

President Runyon appointed Charles W. Runyon, George Voehl and Walter C. Dobbins as a committee to handle the bond issue, that is secure the bonds and see that they reach the subscribers and the money is collected. It was announced that the work of collecting subscriptions would begin April 1, thus giving timely notice to the subscribers. These bonds will be non-assessable.

President Runyon also made a statement regarding the privileges extended to the Jersey City Eastern League Club for the use of Crescent Oval for a couple of weeks beginning April 2. It was decided by the association and Mr. Daab to allow the league club free use of the grounds, it being understood that it would put the grounds in fair condition and stand any expense that might be necessary. It was the opinion that the presence of the leaguers here would be a good advertisement to the city and a benefit to the club.

The question of a committee on grounds arose at this time and President Runyon appointed as such Newton B. Smalley, James R. Blair and William Addis, Sr. This committee will have entire charge of the grounds and is empowered to delegate such assistants as may be necessary.

V. W. Nash, Jr., and F. J. Huff were appointed a committee to look after the official score card for the season and will report back to the association the result of its findings as to certain details and as to whether it will be advisable to make any charge for the cards. It was the opinion that if a sufficient number of advertisement can be secured it might be well to distribute the cards free. The profits from the cards will go to the association.

Roy Phillips and George Conyne were appointed a committee on privileges at the oval, and it will be up to this committee to lease the rights for the sale of soft drinks, peanuts, candy and cigars.

As to the team for the coming season, Manager Daab announced that there would be several changes. "Dave" Driscoll, "Happy" Kiernan, "Dan" Connolly, "Wally" Cosgrave and "Pete" Cregan will not be with the team. They think that they can get more money elsewhere and will seek new pastures. Discoll will play with the Ridgewoods for $15 per game and Connolly will probably play with the same team. Kiernan goes with the Manhattans, while Cosgrave is training the Princeton 'Varsity team . Cregan has not yet found a berth.

LISTENED TO THE WORD

Six Hundred Men Heard Y. M.C.A. Speaker and Heartily Joined in the Singing.

AT THE NEW THEATRE

Orchestra Accompanied Chorus Work—Lotus Glee Club Renders Several Selections.

As a means for reaching out to men who have not been interested in the regular Sunday gatherings at the association hall, the local Y. M. C. A. conducted the first of two religious meetings in the New Plainfield theatre yesterday afternoon. The response was even greater than the promoters had anticipated and the enthusiasm manifested more than repaid them for their efforts. There were fully 600 men in the audience representing the best classes in the city. They sang with fervor and listened to the remarks of the speakers with rapt attention, many of them afterward remaining for a short service of prayer.

Frederic H. Andrews, prominent as a religious and Y. M. C. A. worker, was in charge of the meeting, and officials of the association shared the stage with the Y. M. C. A. orchestra. It was led by M. A. Korff and while the auditorium was filling up, presented a short programme of music. The speaker selected for the occasion was Robert G. Freeman, of Princeton Theological Seminary, regarded as one of the most convincing men's meeting leaders in the country. In his address yesterday he fully sustained the advance reports. Not only did his talk appeal to the gathering, but his method of reading scripture was a revelation to many of those before him.

The main thought in his address was the fact that man must be born again before he can enter the Kingdom of God and God's readiness to help those who seek the new life. Experience, he said, is a dear teacher and it is by suffering sin and darkness that His people appreciate His love when they have turned their backs upon all that is sordid and contaminating. The inexorable law that man must be born again, he continued, is not only a governmental but a scientific law and he quoted from the Bible to sustain him. All through his talk he presented lucid explanations of what might be a technical point and it was interpersed with absorbing comparisons. In the end Mr. Freeman made an appeal to his hearers to lead the better life and when he ended in prayer several hands were raised signifying repentance.

In addition to the selections by the orchestra, the Lotus Glee Club sang several times and Whitney Frazee contributed a cornet solo. The audience was led in singing by William C. Leek and Philip S. Suffern was chairman of the ushers' corps that took charge of seating the men.

A similar meeting will be held in the theatre next Sunday afternoon at 3:30 and another excellent programme is being arranged.

Rev. Dr. James I. Vance, of Newark, will make the address.

JUNIORS' FAIR ENDS WITH A BIG CROWD.

Councils Will Clear Something Like $400 From the Enterprise.

The fair of Franklin and Somerset Councils, Jr. O. U. A. M., closed at Company K armory Saturday night with the biggest jam of its seven-nights' run. Nearly 700 people were on the floor during the evening, and all the booths did a rushing business.

Dancing was billed as the great feature, but the crush made dancing more a matter of intention than of execution. But it was a typical fair crowd and managed, in some mysterious way, to have a real good time. Even Special Cop Jerry Cash, who pretends to be blase since his wife inherited $11,000 from a Swedish relatives, grinned delightedly in the thick of the crowd at the door.

The financial statement of the affair has not yet been made up, but it is estimated that the councils will clear, between them, something in the neighborhood of $400.

CURE FOR LIQUOR EVIL

Rev. Dr. Lewis Says Purificationof the Individual is the Only Remedy.

LEGISLATION FAILS

Says Women Smoke Because They Are Born of Fathers Who Smoke Tobacco—Commends Tyler Ordinance.

With "Temperance" for his topic, Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, editor of the Sabbath Recorder, warned the members of Hope chapel Sunday School yesterday afternoon not only against the liquor habit, but against tobacco, laudanum and cocaine indulgence. The real temperance question, he said, included a consideration of the four evils. With alcohol, he contended, they formed the four prominent forms of intoxication.

Dr. Lewis spoke to the Sunday school during the lesson period, his talk taking the place of the lesson. There was a large attendance. Dr. Lewis opened his talk by explaining the toxic effect of alcohol. He went from that to tobacco. Tobacco, he held, created a thirst for liquor, and with the drug habits helped to feed the saloons. He described the effects of brain paralysis, from alcohol, and of heartt-weakness, from tobacco.

"Why do women smoke?" asked the speaker, touching on that phase of the tobacco evil. "Because girls must be born of fathers who use tobacco; because girls are fools enough to do what the boys they associate with are doing."

Dr. Lewis declared cigarettes were the most poisonous things of their kind that he knew of. He said the manufacturers put ground-up cigar butts into them.

The only effective cure for the liquor evil, Dr. Lewis, said, was the purification of the individual. He had no faith in the hope of legislating it out of existence. He regarded the license, however, as the greatest protection for the saloon. It legalized their business, and put the State under obligation to protect and maintain them. He was glad the law compelling the removal o fall screens from saloons had been introduced, and expressed approval of the districting ordinance of this city. He compared the Tyler ordinance with an effort to isolate a malignant contagious disease.

Dr. Lewis did not make any great reference to the drug habits. He intimated, however, that women were peculiarly open to the danger of acquiring them through the use of medicines prescribed by "cruel and foolish physicians."

J. S. ANTHONY GETS A LEGACY OF $2,500

FORMER PLAINFIELD REPORTER REMEMBERED IN WOMAN'S WILL.

James Stowell Anthony, who lived in Netherwood eight years old, is named as a beneficiary under the will of the late Miss Amelia Geissenhainer, who was a sister-in-law of the late Mrs. George C. Kip, of Morristown. His legacy is $2,500.

The will provides that if he has died, the bequest goes to the Lutheran seminary in Philadelphia. One of Mr. Anthony's friends said this morning that he wasn't dead. He was married in Geneva, Switzerland, last August, and shortly afterwards took up his residence in New York. None of his friends here, a reporter was told, had received any hint of his death since. The wording of the will, it was conjectured, was merely a bit of legal phraseology, not based on any unconfirmed rumor of Mr. Anthony's demise.

Anthony was a reporter on The Daily Press at one time. He went to Cleveland, O., from here.

DEACONS HIT CLANSMAN

Mount Olive Church Officials Denounce the Dixon Play.

INDIGNANT AT KIELY

Say the Chief Shouldn't Have Talked As Strongly As He Did of Suppressing Disorder.

More protest against "The Clansman," Thomas Dixon, Jr.'s, anti-negro play, was heard in colored church circles yesterday. At the Mt. Olive Baptist church, Liberty street, all the deacons scored the play, and urged their fellows to say away from the theatre next Friday night. Mt. Olive church has no regular man, and the deacons conduct the services. Every one of the deacons spoke yesterday and each one took a whack at "The Clansman."

They said it was unfit to be seen, and wondered why the mayor and other city officials empowered to control public amusements, allowed it to come here. No self-respecting colored man, with a proper regard for the rights and dignity of his race, would go to see "The Clansman," they held.

They referred to the Rev. Mr. Dixon's recent statement that no colored woman was steadfast in virtue with indignation. They were almost as indignant over Chief Kiely's statement of his preparations for possible trouble from incensed colored men at the theatre Friday night. They said the chief had no right to talk as he did. There would be no trouble, they were sure.

The play, and Chief Kiely's vigorous announcement that any attempt at disorder would be promptly and sternly repressed, form the general topic of conversation among colored people. Mixed with their indignation is a strong desire to learn what the play is like.

FORMER PLAINFIELDER DIED IN WESTERN WRECK

CHARLES BLATZ AND SON KILLED IN RIO GRANDE.

J. A. Blatz, of Somerset street, received word this morning that his brother, Charles Blatz, of Denver, Col., a former Plainfielder, had been killed in the wreck on the Rio Grande Railroad in Colorado on March 16. His nineteen-year-old son, Charles, Jr., was killed with him. Father and son were on their way to visit a brother of Mr. Blatz's in San Francisco.

Charles Blatz was fifty-four years old and is survived by a widow and a grown daughter. He visited Joseph Blatz, with the daughter, last summer. It was the first meeting of the brothers in a quarter of a century. Charles left here for the West when in his twenties, and established himself in a prosperous business.

News of the death came to Joseph Blatz in a letter from the family in Denver. The dead man and his son were burned in the wreckage.

STRUCK BY AN EXPRESS

Walter Smalley Nearly Killed on the Newark Bay Bridge.

HUNG OVER THE WATER

Tossed by Train, He Saved Himself From Going Into the Bay by Clinging to Span's Edge.

Walter Smalley, of North Plainfield, an ex-member of the borough police force, got a job on the Central Railroad carpenter gang a week ago, and he was put to work on the Newark Bay drawbridge Saturday morning. In the same gang with him was Thomas Teeter, another North Plainfielder.

Early in the forenoon Smalley was carrying a heavy beam across the bridge when he heard a rumble and a whistle behind him. He looked around and saw for the first time what an old hand would have seen before he started up the track—a Royal Blue Line Express. He was in line with it, and it was hair-raisingly close. Smalley was scared, and lost the one slim chance he had of getting clear of the track. He dropped the beam, and, crouched, in an agony of terror, waiting for the blow.

The engine hit him about the thighs, and threw him twenty feet. He landed, conscious, on the edge of the bridge. He started to slide over, but grasped the edge of the span as he went, and hung, with his feet over the water, as the train rolled by. When the express passed he shouted for help.

Teeter heard the cries and came to Smalley's assistance. He pulled him up on the bridge, and called the other workingmen. Smalley had a long, six-inch gash in the flesh back of the thighs, but he seemed to be unhurt otherwise.

He was taken to the Elizabeth General Hospital, where the cut was dressed and he got something to steady his nerves. The doctors couldn't find anything the matter with him excepting the gash. After resting until afternoon, Smalley insisted on going to his home in North Plainfield.

ARREST ENGINEER FOR TRAIN CRASH

HOPKINS RELEASED ON BAIL BY JUDGE SCHENCK.

Engineer George W. Hopkins, of South Orange, in charge of the "wildcat" locomotive which crashed into a westbound Lackawanna passenger and mail train near Lyons Station about three weeks ago, resulting in the death of Fireman R. B. Jones, of Hoboken, and the injury of several passengers and other trainmen, was arrested Saturday at his home by County Detective Totten by order of County Prosecutor Reger. He was taken to the Somerset County jail at Somerville and held in $2,000 bail by Judge Schenck for the April Grand Jury, on a charge of manslaughter. H. W. Baldwin, a knife manufacturer of Summit, became surety and Hopkins was released.

At the inquest over Jones' body testimony was adduced disclosing that Hopkins was returning from Gladstone to Summit on "wildcat" orders; that he had received a message on his arrival at Bernardsville warning him to be on the lookout for the passenger train. It was asserted Hopkins disregarded his orders, thinking he could make the switch at the Millington stone crusher, a short distance from where the accident happened, and took the chances. After the clash, Hopkins was confined to his home suffering from nervous prostration, under the care of two physicians.

Conductor George Booth, of the passenger train, testified at the inquest that Hopkins told him immediately after the collision that he (Hopkins) was fully at fault.

The verdict of the coroner's jury was to the effect that Hopkins was guilty of negligence.

DEATH'S DOUBLE VISIT

Deprived Mrs. John Dunn of Father and Brother Inside of Twenty-four Hours.

INSEPARABLE IN LIFE

Edward L. Adams, the Elder, Known Throughout the Country As Band Organizer; Curtis E. Adams a Skilled Musician.

Curtis E. Adams, a former resident of Garwood and well known locally, died yesterday morning at 10 o'clock at the home of his sister, Mrs. John Dunn, of East Second street. At 7 o'clock this morning his father, Edward L. Adams, ignorant of the son's demise, passed away in an adjoining room, asking the daughter with almost his last words to take care of the young man. The son had been ill for several months with a pulmonary complaint and though his death was expected, when the end came the condition of the father was such that it was not deemed advisable to tell him of it. The two had been almost inseparable in life and it was practically certain that the information would have only served to add grief to his remaining hours. A double funeral will be held over the bodies in the First Church of Christ Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock and they will be buried together at Hillside.

Edward L. Adams was born at Fort Plain, N. Y., sixty-five years ago and had been a traveling musician the greater part of his life. He was master of nearly a dozen instruments and a composer of note and was known in cities from Maine to California as a band leader and instructor. He organized the old Newark City Band at Newark, since known as Voss' band, and played with it for many years. About four years ago he took up his residence in Garwood, where he organized an orchestra that has played in this city and other places throughout the county a great many times.

Curtis Adams, the son, was twenty-seven years old, and like his father was a versatile musician. He could perform upon nine instruments, but perferred the violin, playing this instrument in the local Y. M. C. A. orchestra. He was employed in the Hall Signal Works at Garwood and when his health began to fail several months ago the father decided to make his home in this city, believing the air here to be better. He continued to grow worse, however, and three weeks ago the elder Curtis, who was then slightly ill with bronchitis, concluded to go South. They went to Charlotte, N. C., but had hardly reached there when the son's condition grew so bad that the father thought it best to return to Plainfield. They arrived in the city last Friday night, but collapsed as they entered the eastbound depot. Both were placed in a cab by attaches and taken to Mrs. Dunn's home, where they continued to grow steadily worse. Their deaths leaves Mrs. Dunn the sole surviving member of the Adams family, one which can be traced back to the days of the colonies, and which was known through New York State and New England.

BAD LITTLE GOYIM IN THE SYNAGOGUE

THREE BOYS THROW ICE INTO THE TEMPLE CHILDREN OF ISRAEL.

Nathan Meyers, president of the synagogue Children of Israel, New street, complained to the police this morning that three tough little Christian boys tried to break up the service on Saturday. The boys, it was said, opened the synagogue door, while the rabbi was at the most solemn period of his player, and threw chunks of ice into the temple. One of the trustees chased the boys, but they escaped him by climbing on a passing grocery wagon.

Mr. Meyers told the chief that the congregational officers wanted the boys warned to stay away from the temple, and the police had promised to notify the trio. Mr. Meyers came back later and said the trustees had decided that arrests were required. It was the fifth or sixth time, he said, that the bad little Goyim had sought to make mock of the tabernacle, and the law should take its course. He didn't have the names of the boys, and the chief told him to get them. Warrants will be issued as soon as the names are secured.

DWELLS ON SACRAMENT

Father Bogan Delivers Instructive Talk On Religious Phase of Engagement at St. Mary's Church.

Rev. B. M. Bogan, rector of St. Mary's church, continued his series of lectures on the sacrament of marriage last night. He spoke in part as follows:

"In continuing the series of instructions on the sacrament of matrimony, inaugurated a few Sundays ago, I invite your consideration this evening to 'The Promise of Marriage,' which usually precedes the reception of the sacrament. I approach this subject fully aware of the spirit of levity with which it is a frequently referred to, but requesting that you join me in an entirely different spirit. For upon the proper consideration of the importance of that time of preparation, called company-keeping, depends much of the after happiness of the married couple.

"Believing, as you do, that in the bond created by the marrying parties there is an indisssoluble sacramental union established, it is consistent with such a serious matter that all that formally leads to it, partakes of its serious character. In this country, where class distinction is not a generally recognized condition of society, and where young people themselves, and not parents or intermediaries, enter into engagements as to future marriage, informal company-keeping is quite common. This kind of association does not necessarily imply any intention of future marriage. It simply means that before young people bind themselves by an engagement to marry, they wish to know each other's disposition, and also if they mutually love each other. It may at any time be honorably discontinued by either party.

"It is in this matter particularly that the wisdom and experience of the parents should be counsel and guide of their children. The mother will impress upon her daughter the sin and dishonor of unchastity in a woman. She will tell her how scornful and unpitying the world is toward a fallen woman; that while both sexes are equally bound before God to be chaste, the want of chastity in a woman is a social sin which the world never forgives.

"When the world of society speaks of a man of honor, it means that he tells the truth and keeps his word; but when it speaks of a woman's honor, it means her chastity. A mother will tell her daughter that to be a flirt or a coquette or ambitious to have many admirers is sure to have its punishment and end in unhappiness. She will tell her that a man who truly loves her is not likely to indulge in extravagant praise, and that real love is always and everywhere respectful.

"Expressions of attachment are perfectly legitimate, but if they spring from truth and love, they will be such that they may be spoken in a father's or a mother's presence. No good mother will allow her daughter to spend hours alone with the person who is paying court to her. Good society, although its principals are entirely worldly, does not tolerate unguarded abuse of this confidence. Need I warn you against the company of a young man who would dare visit you, showing signs of intemperance? Such disrespect should meet with instant rebuke. It would be in proper accord with his insult to have an able bodied brother or father interview him, with a boot properly adjusted for such a meeting.

"Some young men, knowing that Catholic young ladies are attached to their religion and zealous for its propagation, take a delight in being skeptical about fundamental truths, such as the immortality of the soul, a future life, rewards and punishment for conduct in this life. They think this kind of intruding conversation makes them interesting.

"The views of this whole genus of young men on these subjects are wholly without value. A young man of real religious principle will never speak disparagingly of the religious convictions of the lady he visits. Respect for himself forbids it. But when a half-baked, feather-brained young man insists upon ventilating his borrowed impressions on this most serious subject, his conduct is brainless, ill mannered and irreligious, and the wisest treatment would be a request that he pursue his psychological studies elsewhere. From keeping-company proceeds, in due time, the marriage engagement, of which it is important that Catholics have correct notions. The marriage engagement is looked upon as a legal contract. A breach of this contract, some dealers have about our stock being just the same. We know it isn't. Beef, Veal, Lamb, or Pork which has been carefully raised and fed will taste better and give more nourishment than "wild" meats. We don't sell any but prime Meats, and a customer can sit down to a roast or steak, or chops from here without fear of hurting his teeth or his sense of taste. Prices won't hurt anybody's pocket, either. We sell Siegfried Arens' delicious Broilers.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

Faint hope of a ball team loom ahead. William Giles sees a chance to stir the enthusiasts to action, and has planned a meeting. The gathering will be called for some night this week. The reflex interest from Plainfield is apparently beginning to work faintly, and the proposition to represent the borough on the diamond is now by no means as dead as it appeared to be last week. As in former years, it is the intention to make the nine a workable combination of local amateurs and ambitious but unsung semi-professionals.

The Sunday evening after next the Holy Name Society of St. John's church will go to North Plainfield to engage the society of St. Joseph's church in return debate. The local organization has a defeat to wipe out.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kellogg, of the Tappen farm, Mt. Pleasant, have made arrangements to move into the borough shortly. They were tendered a farewell party by their neighbors Thursday night.

A number of members of the Seventh-Day Baptist church went to Plainfield yesterday morning, to hear Rev. H. N. Jordan preach at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church.

A day or two before the first recent fall of snow, one of H. J. Riddington's Rambler rose bushes was in bloom. It has lost its interest in spring finery since then.

Miss Margaret Ritterbush, of Brooklyn, has returned home after a visit to her brother, Henry Ritterbush.

The township school board is holding an organization meeting at Thornton's hotel this afternoon.

The broken gate at the Washington avenue crossing has been replaced by a new one.

William Danz is about as usual, after a severe attack of rheumatism.

Miss May Voorhees has returned from a visit to relatives in Brooklyn.

John Evans has finished the renovation of his house.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

One of the largest real estate deals here in years was the sale Saturday by Edward L. Hand of his hotel property to James McInness, of Somerville. While the price paid has not been announced, it is understood that $8,000 was the amount. This brings the sale up to one of the highest priced ever transacted here, and will no doubt be held as a precedent for business property in town. Mr. and Mrs. Hand removed from the hotel Saturday and will for the present make their home with Mrs. Hand's mother, Mrs. Hosinger. Mr. Hand will continue the real estate and insurance business which he has been engaged in for several years past. Mr. McInness took possession of his property this morning.

Mrs. John Marsh, Jr., announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Josie Meyer Marsh, to Albert Darby Hollingsworth, son of Loftus Hollingsworth, of this place. No date has been set for the wedding but it will take place during April. Mr. Hollingsworth has been a resident of Detroit, Mich., for several years past, being employed by the Government in its civil engineering corps.

The women of All Saints' Episcopal church held a cake and candy sale Saturday afternoon from 4 to 6 at the home of Mrs. J. H. Thompson, of the borough. The sale was well attended and the dainty array of sweets found ready sale among the friends of the church who attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Hyde, who have been making their home at "The Homestead" for some time past, have rented the L. J. Ellis property on Forest avenue, in the borough, and will take possession this week.

Miss Susie Parse spent Saturday with Mrs. Sarah Hart at Bound Brook. Mrs. Hart, who is a former old resident here, celebrated her 90th birthday two weeks ago.

Yesterday was hardly an ideal day for automobiling, but a number of the owners could not resist the temptation to take a spin in the slush.

Miss Hattie Dobbins, who has been spending several weeks with relatives and friends in Newark, has returned home.

The Junior O. U. A. M. fair held every night last week in Company K rooms, Plainfield, closed Saturday night.

Miss Annie Ryno, of Westfield avenue, has been entertaining friends from out of town over Sunday.

The members of the B. Y. P. U. held their weekly gathering last night in the church parlors.

"At Piney Ridge" is Manager Counihan's attraction at the New Plainfield theatre tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Paff, Sr., entertained relatives from out of town over Sunday.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Erskine M. Rodman is quite ill at her home in East Seventh street.

Miss May VanFleet, of Plainfield avenue, has been visiting friends at Somerville.

Miss Edith Glaentzer, of New street, spent yesterday in Newark with friends.

Miss Rae Warnock, of Craig place, has recovered from a week's illness with tonsilitis.

Miss Marguerite Serreli, of Myrtle avenue, has recovered from an attack of tonsilitis.

Miss Grace Clark, of Grandview avenue, has recovered from an attack of tonsilitis.

Dudley S. Miller, the druggist, is detained at his home in Orchard place with tonsilitis.

Mrs. Alice Rutledge, of the borough, has returned from a visit with relatives in Bound Brook.

NATURE SPARES

The Stricken Rose From Grief.

What a fortunate provision of nature it is, that deprives the rose of mental suffering; for how poignant would be its grief to discover, in the height of its blooming glory, that a canker fed at its heart, and that its beauty and fragrance were doomed forever. Nature always spares the suffering; she is a veritable store-house of pleasing rewards, for those who seek her aid. In the years gone by falling hair and grayness have cast a gloom over the lives of thousands of young women, but thanks to the investigations of scientists the true cause of hair destruction is now known to be a germ or parasite that burrows into the hair follicles. Newbro's Herpicide absolutely destroys this germ, thus permitting the hair to grow as nature intended. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

BIG APPROPRIATIONS FOR JAMESTOWN FAIR.

Congress Provides Large Sums in Aid of Coming Exposition.

Washington, March 26.—The House Committee on Arts and Expositions today authorized a favorable report on a bill carrying the following appropriations for the Jamestown Exposition: $250,000 direct appropriation, $400,000 for a government pier, $250,000 for a government building, $80,000 for officers' rendezvous, $100,000 for rendezvous for enlisted men, $100,000 for transportation of soldiers and arms, $100,000 to the Negro Development Company, which will hold an exposition in connection with the event.

The committee also considered an appropriation of $25,000 for a pier at Jamestown Island; $5,000 for enclosing the grounds, and $10,000 to continue excavations there for antiquities.

PUBLIC SERVICE RIVAL.

Mt. Holley Plans Contract with Philadelphia Company for Gas.

Mt. Holly, March 26.—At a public meeting called to discuss the renewal of a contract with the Public Service Corporation to light this city, it was voted by taxpayers and consumers that a five-year contract should be made with the understanding that the gas should be furnished at $1 per 1,000 cubic feet, which is a reduction of twenty-five cents, and also the same price that is being paid at several other places in the county where there is said to be less consumption. The Public Service Corporation has not yet decided what action they will take, but a decision will probably be reached before the end of the present month, when the old contract expires.

Harry Hawkins, Jr., clerk of Northampton township, has received a letter from the Universal Cast Iron Pipe Company of Philadelphia, signed by Walter Whetstone, secretary and treasurer, in which a proposition is made that if granted a franchise to do business as a gas company under the laws of New Jersey they will construct a modern gas plant and furnish gas in Mt. Holly at $1 per 1,000 feet, and will give the town five per cent. of the gross receipts. The company agrees to furnish gas at the works within four months after the passage of the ordinance. It is also agreed that the gas works will not be transferred, sold or leased to any other company, but will give the town the right to purchase the plant at any time, upon six months' notice, at the inventory price, plus twenty-five per cent. and interest.

CONDUCTOR GETS 10 YEARS.

Sent to Prison for Causing Collision That Killed Driver in New York.

Convicted of manslaughter in the first degree in causing the death of Bernard McDonald, of 6 Grant avenue, Astoria, a mail wagon driver, Albert Oreman, of 364 East Fifty-ninth street, New York, a conductor on the Lexington avenue surface line, was sentenced to ten years in State prison last week by Judge Foster in General Sessions.

Oreman was the conductor of a car that hit McDonald's wagon. Robert Seymour was the motorman, but at the time of the accident, about 3 a. m., had gone inside to talk to a woman passenger and Oreman had taken the controller. Oreman lost control of the car and ran into the mail wagon.

The railway company settled with McDonald's family for $20,000.

Breadth and Scope of Furniture Exhibit.

This furniture stock is now so great—so much larger than ever—that even when one takes a bird's-eye view of the vast two-acre space, crowded with new things from the foremost factories, they fail to comprehend the immensity of stock, the almost infinite variety of styles and finishes and the wide price range. Practically every taste is catered to, stopping well this side of trashy products. The floor has never looked more beautiful than it will look when you come in this week. The exhibition of new furniture is indeed grand—well worth seeing—equalling any and surpassing most of the great furniture stores of the country. Many pronounce it the greatest furniture show in America—surely the greatest seen in any department store.

ENORMOUS VARIETY

Some idea of the immense variety you have to choose from is conveyed in these figures:

200 styles of Parlor Suits,
150 styles of Dressers,

50 styles of Brass Beds,
50 styles of Iron Beds,

100 styles of Extension Tables,
50 styles of Side or Serving Tables,
200 styles of Dining Chairs.

DIVERSITY OF DESIGN

To still further enable you to comprehend just what is included in this magnificent display, we marshal the facts that follow.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Van Kenzie is now appearing in the part of "Jack Rose" in "At Piney Ridge," David Higgins' play of life in the Tennessee mountains.

The Somerville Euchre Club has secured an entire row of seats in the orchestra for the performance of "The Clansman" Friday night.

A feature of "York State Folks," the beautiful pastoral play that is to be presented here Wednesday night, will be a choir composed of local boys. They have been selected from among two score applicants and are now rehearsing a selection to be sung.

Haverly's big minstrel combination, a troupe that ranks with Dockstader's or George Primrose's, will be at the New Plainfield for two performances next Saturday. Marion and Pearl, who are well known to Plainfielders through filling engagements at Riverside Park, are at the head of the company of fifty artists.

One hundred "supers" are to be used in the great wheat pit scene of "The Pit" at the local theatre Thursday night. Stage Manager Fred Bennett has been instructed to secure that number and he has already secured half of them. In some cities the play has visited as many as 600 men have been pressed into service for this one part.

Johnny Galvin, of the well known Galvin family, now touring the country with their own production of "The Bell Boy," has been spending the past few days in town, running in from nearby cities where the show is appearing. He announces that the family will return to Plainfield at the close of the season and after a short rest begin rehearsals for a new production they will put on next year.

William Flanders, formerly of this city, but now of the South, is visiting relatives and friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. William Chapman, formerly of this city, but now of Newark, spent yesterday in Plainfield with relatives.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

"Pete" Cregan recently announced in a New York paper that he would like a position for the summer. "Pete" comes high.

Manager Daab's team will play its first game on Sunday in Brooklyn. By May 5, the local opening date, he will have his aggregation in fine condition.

"Mike" Leonard is very popular here and as captain of the local team is sure to attain the best results. He will "ginger" the players and that is what counts.

The Plainfield Baseball Association expects to close the deal with Manager Daab by April 15. The collection of subscriptions will begin April 1. The list is still open to all interested.

"Dave" Driscoll claims that he has been offered $75 a week to captain and manage a team at Coney Island this summer. "Dave" is a good first baseman and can run bases, but his weak point is in stick work.

Manager Daab says that while he is sorry to lose Driscoll, Kiernan and a few others of last year's team, he still believes that there are other players equally as good and he assures the fans that he will have a first-class aggregation to represent Plainfield.

—Frank J. T. VanSpreenwenburg, who has been the agent at the local Union News stand for the past few years, has severed his connection with the company, and taken a position with the Lawrence Cement Co., at Siegfried, Pa., where he removed with his family Saturday. C. W. Lane, the former agent at Jersey City, has taken the local stand.

Mrs. David Smith, of Bound Brook, has returned home after a visit with friends in Plainfield.

Mrs. Andrew Muir, of Essex street, has returned from a visit of several days with New York relatives.

THE FORUM.

Has a Hammer Out.

Editor, The Daily Press:

In your issue of Saturday, March 24, I read the avowed intentions of the Chief of Police to repress any trouble that might arise at the presentation of "The Clansman" on Friday night next, and congratulate him on awakening to the sense of duty his position demands, but trust that he, in his momentary zeal, will not fail to have his "eyes and ears wide open" to any demonstrations of dislike which may be evinced by the Irish who attend the production of "McFadden's Row of Flats" on April 5. I also take this opportunity to simply ignore, in every way, the fact that such a play is produced, knowing well that the Chief and his officers, with their well-known and oftimes openly avowed feelings of race-prejudice, will gladly misconstrue any remark that they may indulge in a brutal beating affray.

Equal Taxation.

Editor The Daily Press:

By a typographical error, I am reported in Friday's Press as having said that the people now get their due share of taxes from the railroads, while I think that they do not. However, there are only two or three other States that get as much from the railroads by taxation in proportion to their value as New Jersey. The present law is unduly burdensome to the railroads because it makes them keep itemized accounts of every change in equipment and look after many different assessments of real estate. Nor is it fair to assess their second class real estate at full value and then subject it to the same local rate as real estate which is assessed at only 50 per cent. of its value.

Senator Ackerman is quite right when he says "brains should not be taxed," but he doesn't really mean it, else he would be an opponent of our present system, that taxes people in proportion to their industry and thrift. And the Senator confuses two things that are different when he says that a railroad franchise should not be taxed because a franchise is necessary to any business. Any one can start in ordinary business, and if a license is required that is an obstruction by the government and not a help. A "franchise" to be a business corporation is simply a permit to come under the operation of certain laws regarding business liability.

The franchise to operate a railroad implies a delegation of the power of government because it gives the right of eminent domain and the privilege of crossing public highways. It would be better probably for the government to lay out such railed highways and then lease the right of operation. The franchise of street railway, telephone and similar companies include the right to use the public highways and such use should not only be properly paid for but be restricted so as to insure reduction of rates to the point of legitimate business profit on real cost.

May I add that while I signed the call for the recent Newark conference, I am not in favor of municipal or governmental operation of all sorts of public utilities. But I do believe that the rights of all public utility corporations are not natural, but derived from the people, and that the government can properly regulate such corporations and prevent any discrimination between individual users, which are far more harmful than excessive charges, since business can adjust itself to known and impartial rates.

MONTCLAIR FIVE WON BY A LARGE MARGIN

RAN AWAY FROM Y. M. C. A. IN THE SECOND HALF.

There was some doubt as to relative superiority of the teams after Plainfield's game with the Montclair Y. M. C. A. five in Montclair a week ago, but there was none at all after the game at the local gym Saturday night. In the first game Montclair was compelled to play an extra fifteen minutes to squeeze out a narrow victory, but Saturday night she roped in the game long before the second half closed, and scored points enough to throw away as many as the locals made and still win out.

The score was 22 to 12. The trouble for Plainfield lay in the second half. She played a rattling block game in the first, and came through that period one point to the good—10 to 9. In the second half Montclair turned on the home five with her teeth bared, and the dismayed Plainfielders were just about able to stay in the game. They were outstripped by the visitors at every point and in every department. Line-up and summary:

Plainfield.	Montclair.
Smith	Rohn
Thompson	J. Calder
forwards.
Scull	L. Calder
center.
Leary	Mills
Utzinger	Lummis
guards.

Goals from field—Mills, 7; J. Calder, 2; Rohn, 3; Scull, 1; Smith, 3; Leary, 1. From fouls—J. Calder, 3; Leary, 3.

After the game the visitors and their chief dependents were entertained at an informal supper in the upper hall.

WARNS YOUNG WOMEN

entitles the injured to recover damages.

"I will consider the matter from an exclusively ecclesiastical standpoint. A marriage engagement is called sponsalia by theologians, and in its definition contains five conditions:

"First—It must be deliberate, that is, it must be sincere, not feigned. The person making the promise must know that by making it he binds himself to keep it.

"Second—The promise must be mutual. If only one of the parties promise there is no sponsalia or formal espousal.

"Third—The promise must be expressed by a sensible sign, not necessarily words. Some sensible sign suited by its nature to express the promise must be used if words are not. Sometimes a ring is used to indicate such a contract. Silence, here, does not give consent.

"Fourth—There must be a promise of marriage. It would not suffice if each of the parties said 'I will never marry any person unless I marry you.'

Fifth—There must be no impediment to the marriage. A promise of marriage between a Catholic and a non-Catholic (remember I am considering the matter from a strictly ecclesiastical standpoint), is not valid, just because of the impediment placed by church-law to such a marriage.

"If the promise of marriage be made on condition that the non-Catholic party be received into the church the sponsalia becomes valid at the fulfillment of the condition.

If when two persons are engaged to be married, all required conditions for such an engagement being fulfilled, neither, under pain of grievous sin of injustice to the other, can refuse to enter the marriage state at the time that has been determined when making the promise. If no time has been determined then the marriage must take place when one of the parties reasonably demands. There are specified conditions that may arise which may justly dissolve this engagement. These I will refer to later.

"An interesting and practical question sometimes arises: If a man who is engaged to be married makes presents to his betrothed, but afterward through his own fault breaks the engagement, is the woman bound to return the presents? Theologians say she is not, because the man forfeits his right to them by unjustly receding from the contract. She may by right retain them, but I think she would be acting within the requirement of strict propriety were she, in the presence of such gross injustice, ship his presents back to him at her earliest convenience, and, if she chose, pay the freight.

"In concluding this evening's very informal instruction it remains for me to state in what way may the espousals be dissolved. All agree in saying the contract may be broken by mutual consent. Also by the advent of a diriment impediment. For instance, if one of the engaged parties should marry somebody else, the injured party is free from the engagement. The contract, ecclesiastically speaking, is dissolved by one of the parties assuming a more perfect religious state. A grave crime on the part of one of the parties—a serious theft, a homicide, or any such thing implying disgrace, would leave the other party free.

"While therefore this most important subject is at times considered in the spirit of levity, I present these considerations in the hope that the true meaning and far-reaching importance of this serious matter may be taken to heart."

GET RIGHT WITH GOD, SAYS EVANGELIST SPIEGEL.

Large Crowd Hears His Appeal at Christian Church.

Evangelist Spiegel delivered a discourse at the Christian church last night, his subject being "Get Right with God." The edifice was thronged. "To whom may this text, 'Prepare to meet thy God,' refer in this age?" the evangelist asked. "To the young whose hearts are tender; to the aged, who have been so often warned; to those who are almost persuaded; to those who have made no preparation.

"Why make this preparation? Because we are unprepared; we are soon going on a last long journey away from the body; we are going alone to face the God who has created us and against whom we have sinned; we are going never to return. How make this preparation? Belief in the divine testimony that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of the Living God and Saviour of sinners; repentance from sin, confession of Jesus as Christ the Lord before men, baptism in obedience to the commandment of the Lord, the new life lived before the world. When prepare? Today is the day of salvation, now is the accepted time."

Mr. Sturgis delighted the audience with two solos. He is a favorite with the people in song. The orchestra assisted at the service. Tonight Evangelist Spiegel will speak on the subject of "Is There Any Room for Jesus in Plainfield?" The service begins at 7:45 o'clock.

Stole Door Key.

Jacob Fass, proprietor of The Paris store, 214 West Front street, went into the place at 10 o'clock last night to turn on the lights. He left the key in the door. When he came out, the key was gone. He reported the disappearance to Patrolman Payn. Mr. Fass thinks the key may have been taken as a joke, but he had the lock changed today as a matter of precaution.

Miss Counihan, If You Please.

Manager William J. Counihan appeared at the box office of the New Plainfield theatre this morning, wearing a broad smile. Since then he has been distributing cigars and smiles with a lavish hand. It's a bouncing girl and came to his home on Spooner avenue early this morning. Mother and daughter are reported as doing nicely.

DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE DECLARES AGAINST ALLIANCE WITH MOVEMENT.

By an emphatic vote the executive committee of the Democratic League of Essex county has passed resolutions repudiating the "true Democracy" as organized out of the conference held last Tuesday at the New Auditorium. The committee recommended that the league take no part whatever in the new organization.

It was apparent that the members of the committee were practically a unit in their attitude toward the auditorium meeting. Their characterization of the men who dominated the conference was to the effect that they were not Democrats and did not have the interests of the Democratic party at heart, and that consequently, regardless of whatever declaration of principles had been made or how nearly the platform adopted subscribed to the declaration of doctrines previously set forth by the Democratic League, the latter body as a Democratic organization could not affiliate.

It was decided ultimately to take no cognizance of the declaration of principles, but to repudiate the whole movement on the ground that it was dominated by men whose political reputations and affiliations were such as to utterly discredit the pretense they made of acting for the upbuilding of the Democratic party in this State.

The resolution that was adopted was prepared by a committee appointed for the purpose. It was as follows:

"Resolved, by the executive committee of the Democratic League, That in our judgment the organization formed at the conference held at the New Auditorium in the city of Newark on the twentieth day of March, 1906, will be ineffectual to improve the condition of the Democratic party in this State.

"And be it further resolved, that we condemn the spirit manifested by the individuals in control of the conference as insincere and undemocratic; and we believe it impossible for the league to work in harmony with them and, therefore, will recommend to the league that no alliance be made with the organization formed at the conference."

It was the opinion of the committee that deception had been practised by the men who were at the bottom of the movement, by which patriotic Democrats, anxious to participate in any effort that would make for the upbuilding of their party, were induced to go into convention with Populists, Socialists and radicals of all sorts.

After flaying the "true Democracy" to its heart's content, the committee made arrangements to put into effect one of the important purposes of its own organization. It was announced that conditions are now ready in the Fifth, Sixth and Eighth wards for the formation of auxiliary leagues, and steps were taken to organize in these wards. Plans were discussed also by which it is expected to raise the membership of the league into the thousands.

EQUAL TAX AND AUTO IN FIGHT

TWO BIG MEASURES WILL ENGAGE ATTENTION OF LAWMAKERS THIS WEEK.

The twelfth week of the Legislature will open this evening with the subjects of equal taxation and automobile regulation occupying the center of the stage and strangely enough these two matters are political bedfellows this week, their fate interwoven.

While the Senate is talking on equal taxation, the House will, tomorrow, talk on automobiles, and, it is believed confidently, that the wishes of the Governor will be done in both matters.

Assemblyman Perkins, Union, leader of the House and the administration agent here, is an enthusiastic automobilists and he is desirous of seeing the Frelinghuysen act amended to better suit the wishes of the autoists. In fact, he went so far last week as to declare that there would be many amendments to the automobile bill before it came out of the House judiciary committee on the floor.

However, Perkins wents to see his equal taxation bill go through the Senate in an amended form and because of this some Senators have taken occasion to inform Perkins that it would not be wise to slash the Frelinghuysen automobile bill, if he expects to get his equal tax measure through the upper House in an unamended form.

The Senate spent many hours on the automobile bill and believes that the measure is as perfect as can be made at this session of the Legislature, and will resent any attempt to modify the provisions of this measure, as the House will resent the Senate's attempt to tear the life out of the Perkins equal tax measure.

The long expected committee substitute for the "bishops' bill" for high license and saloon regulation will make its appearance early this week and go through the Senate. It is positive now that the Legislature will never agree to the drastic provision of taking down screens from saloon windows.

The abolition of the back room will be brought about, and it is condently believed that the feature of making the proprietor of a building join in the application for license of the tenant will be kept in the measure. This provision is being fought very hard by both the saloonkeeper and the owner of property.

In some cases owners of saloon property are women, and they do not want to be made under the law a party to the wrongdoing of the saloonkeeper. If the saloonkeeper is arrested for running a disorderly house, the proprietor is also arrested charged with the same offense.

With a satisfactory settlement of these measures this week, it ought not to be difficult to finally adjourn by April 5. The trolley freight bill is through and up to the Governor for signautre, the limited franchise measure is in the same position, and the anti-fee measure abolishing fees in county offices is also up to the Governor.

The bill creating the county boards of equalization which will be subsidiary to the State board and controlled by that body, is on second reading in the Senate, Senator Avis being desirous to have as much light on the measure as possible to get.

The bill for the creation of Assembly districts has made no progress in the House since it was introduced nearly two weeks ago. What will be done with the measure is not definitely known, though it is said that it will go through before the hours of final adjournment.

CARS JUMP IN THINGS.

Spreading Rails Tangles Up Service on West Front Street.

Loosened by the sloppiness of the ground the rails on the Front street trolley line spread between Cinton and Grant avenues between 4 and 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and every car that came along jumped the track. Car after car plowed in the roadway before the wrecker righted things. Three of them were off at one time.

Traffic naturally suffered, but not to a very great extent. Nobody was hurt, but one of the eastbound cars came uncomfortably close to hitting a tree. The string of jumps started a lot of yellow rumors about town.

Will Give "The Crucifixion."

Under the direction of Clifford Braider, organist, a chorus choir of thirty voices will render the cantata, "The Crucifixion," at the First Presbyterian church on Thursday night, April 10. There will be several soloists and a stringed orchestra will assist.

Cast Nearly Complete.

Miss Elizabeth V. Day will take the part of "Lady Angela," in the comic opera, "Patience," to be given at the Casino in May by the amateur opera company. There remains but one part to be filled in the cast and that will be attended to this week.

Oshkosh Rehearsal.

The Oshkosh Club held a regular rehearsal Saturday for its show to be given within a few weeks at the Casino. The words and music have been selected by J. M. Shellabarger, who is directing the affair.

AN APRIL WEDDING.

A New York wedding of interest to many Plainfielders, following Easter week, is that of Miss Florence T. Southerland, daughter of A. F. Southerland, and Eugene Gray Foster, son of Scott Foster, of New York, and nephew of D. N. Groendyke, of Mercer avenue. The wedding will take place in the Madison avenue Methodist Episcopal church Wednesday afternoon, April 25, and a reception will follow at the bride's home, 145 West Fifty-eighth street.

Miss Anna P. Southerland will be her sister's maid of honor and J. Hegeman Foster will attend his brother as best man. The ushers will be Howard C. Foster, brother of the groom; Joseph S. Stout, cousin of the bride; William Peake, Robert S. Talmage, A. Fillmore Hyde, D. Walter Gibson, Daniel C. Adams and Glen Wright.

MORE RELIGION WANTED.

Rev. Charles E. Herring's Solution For the World.

Taking the subject of Washington Gladdin's new book, "What is the Matter with the World?" Rev. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, delivered an interesting discourse last night. The preacher declared that what is wanted in this world is more religion in business, in corporations and in every walk in life. Religion he thought would do more toward regulating nearly every condition complained of today and would result in the Christianizing of the world.

Ralph L. Morrow attended the Pleiades Club dinner at the Hotel LaFayette-Brevoort, in New York, last night. It was "lawyers' night" and Attorney General Hadley, of Missouri, the "trust buster," was the principal speaker.

General Drake 69.

Yesterday was the sixty-ninth anniversary of the birth of General J. Madison Drake, the veteran editor of the Sunday Leader, of Elizabeth. The event will be observed quietly this evening.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

"At Piney Ridge," a beautiful Southern play, full of strong and absorbing situations and well acted by a very capable company, headed by Van H. Kinzie, is to be at the New Plainfield theatre tonight. The play is a faithful picture of life in the green clad mountains of Tennessee. The story interest begins at the very rise of the first curtain and keeps it up at race horse speed till the final drop is rung down on the concluding picture of this charming romance.

Van H. Kinzie, in "Piney Ridge," at New Plainfield Theatre Tonight.

A clever bit of comedy character acting is done by "J. McIntosh Todd," a "gent of the road," who has a part in "As Told in the Hills," which will come to the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night. In addition to being entirely new in plot and development, as well as characters, the play is one of the strongest from a dramatic standpoint that has been produced this season. The original company, headed by Miss Emily Gale, will be seen in the production. The play is artistically staged, special attention having been given to the details of the scenery showing the Indian fight on the prairie and scenes on the Arkansas farm, with its picturesque rural surroundings that are in keeping with the general tone of the play.

"York State Folks," the beautiful idyllic play of up-country life, comes fresh from its successful New York run at the Majestic theatre to the New Plainfield theatre Wednesday night. Like the author of "David Harum," Arthur Sidman, who wrote "York State Folks," did not live to see the unexampled success of his play, but like Wescott, passed away just as his work was placed before the public.

As virile and as thoroughly American as was the story of "The Pit," by Frank Norris, is the play made from that book for William A. Brady, in which Wilton Lackaye will appear next Thursday night at the New Plainfield theatre. The play has made a tremendous hit everywhere. Thoroughly American in every detail, a faithful picture of the great wheat market of the West and of social American customs and problems of today, the play makes an appeal, stronger perhaps than the dramatization of any romance that has yet been given to the stage. In the role of Curtis Jadwin, Wilton Lackaye, who has appeared with distinction in so many parts, has found his greatest and best opportunity. Manager Brady has staged the play magnificently and has surrounded Wilton Lackaye with an extraordinary cast.

Few playwrights have been so closely identified with their own creations as Thomas Dixon, Jr. Instead of leaving "The Clansman" to the tender mercies of the stage manager and the actors, the former Baptist orator has supervised every detail of the performance, working sixteen hours a day in stage and studio, and defending his views to the public with voice and pen. Although violently attacked, Dixon is superbly able to take care of himself. His speeches before the curtain are always worth hearing. Dixon will probably be present with "The Clansman" when it plays here on Friday night at the New Plainfield theatre.

That funny, farcical, spectacular comedy, "McFadden's Flats," will be the drawing card at the New Plainfield theatre April 5. It comes in its new dress direct from triumphs in other cities, where press and public were delighted with the newly constructed piece and charmed with the scenic and costume splendor, besides the melodious up-to-date music, which was written expressly for this attraction; specially selected specialties are a new feature this year and novelties will be introduced during the action of the comedy by well known artists. A chorus of attractive young women, all of whom go to make up one of the strongest, most complete and largest comedy companies ever organized.

COUNTESS INTERESTED IN SUIT FOR DAMAGES.

Another Phase of the Difficulties with Faber Pencil Works Finds Way to Court.

James S. Brant, former superintendent of the Faber Pencil Works in Newark, has begun suit for $50,000 damages against the concern of which Countess Otillie von Faber-Castell is the owner.

The amount is claimed for damages which Brant alleges he has suffered by the action of the company in taking possession of his home during his absence and having his furniture placed in a storage warehouse, to which he had no access except by process of law.

The suit is the outcome of the discharge of Brant as superintendent, because of differences with the Countess. Under the contract he was to have free rent of the house he occupied, and claiming that the contract had been violated, he refused to vacate the house after he had been deposed.

The matter is still in court, as is a suit for $50,000 brought by the Faber people for trespass.

"The Man on the Box"

By HAROLD MacGRATH

Author of "The Grey Cloak," "The Puppet Crown."

Copyright, 1894, The Bobbs-Merrill Company.

The girl was holding her head high because her heart was full. No more to ride on a bright morning, with the wind rushing past her, bringing the odor of the grasses, of the flowers, of the earth to tingle her nostrils; no more to follow the hounds on a winter's day, with the pack baying beyond the hedges, the gay, red-coated riders sweeping down the field; no more to wander through the halls of her mother's birthplace and her own! Like a breath on a mirror, all was gone. Why? What had she done to be flung down ruthlessly? She, who had been brought up in idleness and luxury, must turn her hands to a living! Without being worldly, she knew the world. Once she appeared upon the stage, she would lose caste among her kind. True, they would tolerate her, but no longer would her voice be heard or her word have weight.

Soon she would be tossed about on the whirlpool and swallowed up. Then would come the haggling with managers, long and tiresome journeys, gloomy hotels and indifferent fare, curious people who desired to see the one-time fashionable belle; her portraits would be lithographed and hung up in shop-windows, in questionable resorts, and the privacy so loved by gentlewomen gone; and perhaps there would be insults. And she was only on the threshold of the twenties, the radiant, blooming twenties!

During the long ride (for they covered something like seven miles) not a word was spoken. The girl was biding her time; the man had nothing to voice. They were going through the woods when they came upon a clearing through which a narrow brook loitered or sallied down the incline. She reined in and raised her crop. He was puzzled. So far as he could see, he and the girl were alone. The third person, for whom he reasoned he had brought the second plate, was nowhere in sight.

A flat boulder lay at the side of the stream, and she nodded toward it. Warburton emptied the hamper and spread the cloth on the stone. Then he laid out the salad, the sandwiches, the olives, the almonds, and two silver telescope-cups. All the time not a single word from either; Warburton, busied with his task, did not lift his eyes to her.

The girl had laid her face against Jane's nose, and two lonely tears trailed slowly down her velvety cheeks. Presently he was compelled to look at her and speak.

"Everything is ready, Miss." He spoke huskily. The sight of her tears gave him an indescribable agony.

She dropped the bridle reins, brushed her eyes, and the sunshine of a smile broke through the troubled clouds.

"Mr. Warburton," she said gently, "let us not play any more. I am too sad. Let us hang up the masks, for the comedy is done."

CHAPTER XXVI.

THE CASTLE OF ROMANCE.

How silent the forest was! The brook no longer murmured, the rustle of the leaves was without sound. A spar of sunshine, filtering through the ragged limbs of the trees, fell aslant her, and she stood in an aureola. As for my hero, a species of paralysis had stricken him motionless and dumb. It was all so unexpected, all so sudden, that he had the sensation of being whirled away from reality and bundled unceremoniously into the unreal. . . . She knew, and had known! A leaf brushed his face, but he was senseless to the touch of it. All he had the power to do was to stare at her. . . . She knew, and had known!

Dick stepped into the brook and began to paw the water, and the intermission of speech and action came to an end.

"You—and you knew?" What a strange sound his voice had in his own ears!

"Yes. From the very beginning I knew you to be a gentleman in masquerade: that is to say, when I saw you in the police-court. The absence of the beard confused me at first, but presently I recognized the gentleman whom I had noticed on board the ship." So she had noticed him!

"That night you believed me to be your sister Nancy. But I did not know this till lately. And the night I visited her she exhibited some photographs. Among them was a portrait of you without a beard."

Warburton started. And the thought that this might be the case had never trickled through his thick skull! How she must have laughed at him secretly!

She continued: "Even then I was not sure. But when Col. Raleigh declared that you resembled a former lieutenant of his, then I knew." She ceased. She turned to her horse as if to gather the courage to go on; but Jane had her nose hidden in the stream, and was oblivious of her mistress' need.

He waited dully for her to resume, for he supposed that she had not yet done.

"I have humiliated you in a hundred ways, and for this I want you to forgive me. I sent the butler away for the very purpose of making you serve in his stead. But you were so good about it all, with never a murmur of rebellion, that I grew ashamed of my part in the comedy. But now—" Her eyes closed and her body swayed; but she clenched her hands, and the faintness passed away. "But for you, my poor father would have been dishonored and I should have been forced into the arms of a man whom I despise. Whenever I have humiliated you, you have returned the gift of a kind deed. You will forgive me?"

"Forgive you! There is nothing for me to forgive on my side, much on yours. It is you who should forgive me. What you have done I have deserved." His tongue was thick and dry. How much did she know?

"No, not wholly deserved it." She fumbled with the buttons of her waist; her eyes were so full that she could not see. She produced an oblong slip of paper.

When he saw it a breath as of ice enveloped him. The thing she held out toward him was the canceled note. For a while he did me the honor to believe that I had betrayed him.

"I understand the kind and generous impulse which prompted this deed. Oh, I admire it, and I say to you, God bless you! But don't you see how impossible it is? It can not be; no, no! My father and I are proud. What we owe we shall pay. Poverty, to be accepted without plaint, must be without debts of gratitude. But it was noble and great of you; and I know that you intended to run away without ever letting any one know."

"Who told you?"

"No one. I guessed it."

And he might have denied all knowledge of it!

"Won't you—won't you let it be as it is? I have never done anything worth while before, and this has made me happy. Won't you let me do this? Only you need know. I am going away on Monday, and it will be years before I see Washington again. No one need ever know."

"It is impossible!"

"Why?"

She looked away. In her mind's eye she could see this man leading a troop through a snow-storm. How the wind roared! How the snow whirled and eddied about them, or suddenly blotted them from sight! But on and on, resolutely, courageously, hopefully he led them on to safety. . . . He was speaking, and the picture dissolved.

"Won't you let it remain just as it is?" he pleaded.

Her head moved negatively, and once more she extended the note. He took it and slowly tore it into shreds. With it he was tearing up the dream and tossing it down the winds.

"The money will be placed to your credit at the bank on Monday. We can not accept such a gift from any one. You would not, I know. But always shall I treasure the impulse. It will give me courage in the future—when I am fighting alone."

"What are you going to do?"

"I? I am going to appear before the public,"—with assumed lightness; "I and my violin."

He struck his hands together. "The stage?"—horrified.

"I must live,"—calmly.

"But a servant to public caprice? It ought not to be! I realize that I can not force you to accept my gift, but this I shall do; I shall buy in the horses and give them back to you."

"You mustn't. I shall have no place to put them. Oh!"—With a gesture full of despair and unshed tears, "why have you done all this? Why this mean masquerade, this submitting to the humiliations I have contrived for you, this act of generosity? Why?"

Perhaps she knew the answers to her own questions, but, womanlike, wanted to be told.

And at that moment, though I am not sure, I believe Warburton's guarding angel gave him some secret advice.

MRS. APPLEGATE WELL AGAIN!

"I have had a bruised leg and foot for several years, caused by the brass eyelets of my shoe, which became very sore and painful especially at night. It itched, burned and ached me till it nearly set me crazy. I used everything I found and was suggested to ease it and nothing gave me any relief till I found and applied Azienza Cream which I think is a wonderful remedy for all sores and inflammation of the skin. The hard knots on my legs were as painful as bee stings, with discolored and purple spots. A running sore on my instep size of a half-dollar; the toes of my foot a seething sore clean around to my heel. The bone was sore for a whole year and very painful. I used five and one-half jars of Azienza Cream and healed the sore all up. The foot remained tender and I continued to use to strengthen and toughen the skin until now it is entirely well." (Signed) Mrs. Hannah Applegate, Evergreen Ave., Avon, N. J., Sept. 3rd, 1905. 50 cents. Ask the druggist or by mail. Azienza Specialties Co., Jersey City, N. J.

FORMER EAST ORANGE LAWYER'S ROMANCE

DIVORCED FROM FIRST WIFE BECAUSE OF SPLIT OVER DAUGHTER'S MARRIAGE

East Orange folk are interested in the story of a romantic marriage recently contracted by Henry White, a former member of the Board of Education at that place, who was divorced from his wife some time ago after an unpleasantness brought about by a little romance in which his own daughter figured.

Mr. White, who is senior member of the law firm of White & Blackford, at 141 Broadway, New York, was interested in the settlement of the estate of the late John Paisley, who left a substantial shoe manufacturing business at Sixth avenue and Twenty-fourth street, New York, some valuable real estate, three sons and an attractive widow. His business with the affairs of the estate and a sequel to the many conferences on property matters and other things resulted in the marriage of Mrs. Paisley and Mr. White on March 12.

There was some opposition to the planned wedding of the daughter and his client, but the couple ignored consideration of any complaints, and are now enjoying a honeymoon. Mr. White no longer makes his home in East Orange. His wife, from whom he was divorced, does not live in the city, either.

The daughter, whose marriage to a young man in a local department store, brought about the dissolution of the family ties, lives with her husband in Centre street, this city, and the son of Mr. White is said to be with his father.

The divorce proceedings were quietly conducted after the family split over the daughter's marriage, which the father declared beneath her station and the mother sided with her daughter, the son taking the same view as the father, according to report. The house at 22 Arlington avenue, north, East Orange, where the Whites formerly lived, had a sign "to let," but that has been taken down and another family occupies the home.

Mr. White was said to have an aversion to the school system conducted in East Orange when he was a member of the Board of Education, and did not send his children to public schools, but had them educated in private institutions. He was wealthy and prominent and the house where they lived is one of the prettiest in the street.

Hattiesburg, Miss., March 26.—A negro porter in the Connor Brothers shoe store was about to throw the sweepings of the store into the rear alley when Policeman Norwood reached down into the pile of rubbish and picked up an envelope from which he drew greenbacks, checks and negotiable papers aggregating $31,983. The money and papers were the property of Dr. J. A. B. Sikes, of Iron City, Ga., who spent the early part of the week here and then traveled on to New Orleans, before he discovered that his fortune, carried in an envelope, was missing.

STUDENT VOLUNTEER MOVEMENT RELATED

CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE EDITOR TALKS AT FIRST M. E. CHURCH.

James R. Joy, of North Plainfield, assistant editor of The Christian Advocate, made an address at the First M. E. church last night, giving a comprehensive account of the National Student Volunteer movement from its inception in 1886 to the present time, including the big conference held for four days in February at Nashville, Tenn. There were 4,000 students in attendance there, representing colleges from all parts of the country.

One feature of this conference was the absence of a regular programme and outside of those who were to take part no one knew just what the secretary had planned. Mr. Joy also gave extracts from the leading addresses made at the conference and spoke especially of the memorial service held at the close of the convention. At this time the list of those who had died during the past four years was read. Included in the thirty-eight names was Miss Rachel Mair, of this city, who labored so long as a missionary in Africa and who died there. In reading these names interesting incidents were related showing where the missionaries had worked, what they had accomplished and where they died.

These conferences are held once in four years, this one being the fifth since the organization.

O. S. ROGERS RE-ELECTED SUNDAY-SCHOOL SUP'T.

Annual Election at Seventh-Day Baptist Church.

Officers were elected and reports were presented at the annual meeting of the Sabbath-school of the Seventh-Day Baptist church held last night in the parlors of the church. Superintendent O. S. Rogers called the meeting to order and Asa F. Randolph was made moderator. Miss Mary St. John was made secretary.

The reports of the various officers showed the school to be in excellent condition, financially and as to growth, there being twenty-two new members received during the year. The school has also contributed to several objects and has a balance on hand.

These officers were elected for the coming year: Superintendent, O. S. Rogers; first assistant, Henry M. Maxson; second assistant, Asa F. Randolph; secretary, Nathan Wardner; treasurer, Miss Ernestine C. Smith; librarian, Miss Bessie Dunham; chorister, David E. Titsworth; pianist, Miss Eva Rogers; auditors, Mrs. Asa F. Randolph and Mrs. O. S. Rogers.

THIRD RECITAL.

Large Congregation Heard Fine Programme Arranged by Organist Lee.

The third Lenten organ recital at the Holy Cross church Saturday afternoon attracted a large congregation of worshippers who thoroughly enjoyed the fine programme prepared by Mr. Lee, organist. Not only were the organ selections appreciated, but the soprano solos by Miss Ethel Gregg and the violin selections by Maurice Audsley were features.

Miss Gregg sang "O Lord Be Merciful," Bartlett, and "Repentence," by Gounod, while Mr. Audsley rendered "La Pentocote," by Bach. Mr. Lee rendered "Processional March," Guirand; "Andante Religioso," Lemaigre; "Serenade," Gounod; "Two Chorales," with variations, Rink; "Prelude and Fuge," Bach, and his concluding number was the "March of the Priests," from Athalia, Mendelssohn, which was considered one of the strongest and best on the programme.

Snapping Match Kills Him.

Herman Meyhausen, of No. 372 Communipaw avenue, Jersey City, died in the Jersey City Hospital yesterday as the result of burns. Mr. Meyhausen attempted to light a match in his bathroom early Saturday morning. A flying spark from the match ignited raw cotton soaked with a rheumatism cure which he had bound around his legs. His night shirt caught fire, and before his wife, who ran to his aid, could extinguish the flames he was fatally burned.

Hurt in a Coasting Accident.

While coasting down the Lincoln street hill in Glen Ridge Saturday evening, Mrs. Ernest E. Slocum, a well-known resident of the borough, was thrown from a bob-sled and painfully cut and bruised. Her ankle was badly sprained.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

H. Raymond Loder, the new organist at Holy Cross church, will take charge of the music there this week. He is living on Washington avenue.

The annual musical under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Seventh-Day Baptist church will be held on Tuesday night, April 24. The programme will be in charge of Miss Jessie Utter and will be of the usual high order.

After the Junior Christian Endeavor Society meeting in Trinity Reformed church Wednesday afternoon there will be a social hour and the parents of the children are invited to join in a farewell to the superintendent, Mrs. George Reighton, who will soon remove from the city.

The Men's Association of Trinity Reformed church will meet Thursday evening. It will be a "ladies' night," and there will be an address by George T. Powell on the subject of "Tree Life and Its Relation to Man." He will illustrate his subject with pictures of some insects that are enemies to trees, plants, etc.

SOMERVILLE GIRL HAS NIMBLE FEET.

As Barefooted Dancer Miss Dennis Achieves a Triumph in New York.

Somerville, March 26.—From the fact that she formerly resided here, much interest has been taken by Somerville dwellers in the triumph which a barefooted young woman achieved as a dancer at a special matinee in the Hudson theatre, New York city, Wednesday, under the patronage of many of Manhattan's society matrons. The young woman appeared as "Radna" in Hindu dances. To the social leaders who have taken her up, she is also known as Miss Ruth St. Dennis. Here she was plain Ruth Dennis. Her votaries in the big city regard her as the high priestess of mysticism and symbolism in the dance.

Some of the women who saw the dance were not quite sure as to whether or not they should be shocked. There were a few men in the audience, but they were artists.

No one went away disappointed from the afternoon of symbolic—why not say realistic—dancing; but that would not be in keeping with the atmosphere of high art and esthetoism.

Ruth Dennis, or St. Dennis, as New York will have it, began her career here. As a small girl she came with her mother to "Pinoaks," a country place on the side of the Watchunk Mountains, about two miles from Somerville.

When she was about fourteen years old Ruth first began to attract some local attention by her ability to dance. Her specialty even at that time consisted in fancy steps and high kicking. She attended a local dancing class for several years and became very popular at the periodical exhibitions because of her fancy dancing.

Having attained all that the local teachers could give her Ruth was sent to a New York teacher in her early teens, and for several years she continued to study while her mother made her home here most of the time. Finally "Pinoaks" was sold and for a number of years neither Ruth nor her mother have scarcely ever come here.

MOFFETT REAPPOINTED.

To Again Hold the Office of First N. J. District I. R. Collector.

Washington, March 24—Isaac Moffett, collector of internal revenue for the First New Jersey District, upon the recommendation of Congressman Loudenslager, Senators Kean and Dryden and Commissioner of Internal Revenue Yerkes, has been reappointed to that office for another term of four years. Collector Moffett's new term will begin on April 1. He has filed his bond of $50,000. The office will be turned over to him on March 31 by Special Agent E. W. Alexander, of the department. Collector Moffett received his first appointment at the hands of President Harrison, and after being out of office for four years, during the administration of President Cleveland, he was again appointed to the office by President McKinley.

The First Internal Revenue District embraces the counties of Atlantic, Burlington, Camden, Cape May, Gloucester, Mercer, Ocean, Salem, Cumberland and Monmouth—nearly one-half of the State.

Men Against Whom Indictments Were Found To Be Taken Into Custody.

Wholesale arrests will be made this week in Jersey City, Bayonne, Hoboken and the smaller municipalities of Hudson county in connection with the 169 indictments handed up to Judge Blair by the Grand Jury last Thursday.

Capiases will be issued today and the involved officials and other alleged offenders will be either taken into custody or notified to appear in court and furnish bail pending trial.

It is expected that the Grand Jury will present another batch of indictments tomorrow. The term of the jury will end this week, and the twenty-three inquisitors will go on record as being the most industrious jury that has even been drawn by a New Jersey sheriff.

Those indicted include Thomas J. Miggins, former secretary-treasurer of the West Hudson County Trust Company, in Harrison; the three members of the Hudson County Boulevard Commission and public officials in Hoboken and Weehawken.

In Jersey City it is said about thirty officials, nearly all appointees of Mayor Mark M. Fagan, have been indicted. For two years Mayor Fagan has been trying to oust Samuel D. Dickerson, Secretary of State and the Republican machine lead in Hudson county.

That Mayor Fagan and his followers are not frightened by the wholesale indictment of his appointees is evident, for on Friday in a speech to the Jersey City Republican Committee George L. Record, Corporation Counsel, criticised the jurors and suggested that they draw a blanket indictment and fill in the names of every man who voted for Mayor Fagan.

Members of the Jersey City Excise, Police and Health Boards have procured bondsmen, as have also the Boulevard Commissioners.

Mr. Record's criticism of the Grand Jury, the members of which are nearly all followers of Colonel Dickinson, is looked upon as a defiance to indict him, and hastened the final struggle for control of the Republican party in Hudson county.

PENNSY PUSHES WORK ON ITS ELECTRIC ROAD.

Engineering Feat Accomplished Sunday in Bridge Construction at Woodbury.

Woodbury, March 26—All Sunday two cranes and a big force of men worked at putting in one of the immense new girders across the creek here, as part of the West Jersey Railroad improvements. This girder, weighing hnudreds of tons, was picked up by the crane and carried several yards, then dropped into position without mishap.

For days preparations had been made for this work, and as soon as the last train up this morning had passed the operations were begun. Another will be placed on the southbound track next Sunday. It will be wide enough to provide for the additional track to be laid for the electrification of the road.

All the creeks between here and Camden are being spanned by new iron bridges. The improvements go on night and day, and there is little doubt that everything will be complete for a trial of the electric system by July 1.

Portions of the third track between here and Camden are completed. Hundreds of tons of copper bonding wire have been dumped off at Westville and Glassboro. This wire is guarded at nights, because of the temptation it offers to wire thieves.

Camden Has Honest Lawyer.

Camden, March 26.—For the first time in the history of the courts of Camden county a lawyer yesterday suggested that his fee for services to an estate be reduced by the court. Charles Stevenson bears this unique distinction. When he asked Judge Joline to cut the fee from $60 to $50, because of the smallness of the estate, the court asked him to repeat his motion, thinking the lawyer had been misunderstood. "Why, this is the most extraordinary thing I ever heard of," said Judge Joline. "It is usually just the reverse—counsel anxious to get larger fees." The fee was reduced.

Pedeflous Pet Disappears.

Mrs. Henri Pedeflous, wife of Henri Pedeflous, asked the police this morning to help her recover "Doc," a pedigreed Scotch collie. The dog wandered away or was stolen, Saturday, from the Pedeflous inn in the valley. She offers a reward for his return. "Doc" was tan colored, with a white ring around his neck, and wore a brass collar. He was Mrs. Pedeflous' pride, and his disappearance has caused her much sorrow.

TIMBER FOR NEW TEAM

Manager Daab Selects "Mike" Leonard to Captain Plainfield's Nine.

SEVERAL PITCHERS

O'Neil To Be Behind the Rubber—"Phil" Smith Signed—Others That Are Sure.

Manager Daab has chosen "Mike" Leonard as captain for the Plainfield Assn. baseball team for the season. For the other positions he has plenty of good material to choose from. For first base he is considering "Mike" Rochford, "Jim" Robertson, Henriques, Poole, of last year's Elizabeth Stars, and Wolf. Rochford would be clearly the strongest man and his work is well known here. Henriques is also a favorite.

It is expected that Dalton will play second base, but in case he does not, Burch, of the Poughkeepsies, and Brogan, who played here last year, are likely candidates. For shortstop, Reynolds, of New York; Curley and Eddie Daley are being considered. Daley played with the old Crescents in 1892. For the outfield positions Manager Daab is considering Benj. Harrison, "Tuck" Turner, Fallon, Bertwhistle and one or two other men. Of course, "Tip" O'Neil will be behind the rubber and plans are being made for a strong pitching department. It will be known in a day or two whether "Willie" Deegan will sign, and "Red" Waller is also being considered, as well as Kelley, of last year's Jersey City Club. As an extra man "Phil." Smith, of the P. H. S., will be given a try-out. Mr. Daab is favorably impressed with Smith's work and ability and will do all in his power to give him a show. Smith is anxious for the chance and his work against Westfield last year proved that he is a "comer." Mr. Daab informed the association that it would be necessary for him to have as good a team this year as last for he intends to play the best aggregations and Plainfield will have just as strong a nine. Everyone expressed confidence in Mr. Daab, believing that he will "make good" as he has in the past.

President Runyon stated that Dr. M. O'M. Knott had asked him to request the association to give up its Decoration Day game and the one on the preceding Saturday, so as not to interfere with the Steeplechase Show. It was decided that the games would not interfere with the horse exhibition and as Decoration Day is considered a banner holiday event, it would be unwise to give up this game. There will be but one contest on Decoration Day, in the afternoon, it having been decided that the morning game does not pay. It is expected that games will be arranged with Somerville as early as June, if possible, and a good series is anticipated.

The association will meet again on Saturday night at the Hotel Iroquois to further plans for the season.

STORK FINDS HIS WAY INTO PASSENGER TRAIN.

Leaves a Young Son with Mrs. Hattie Davis, a Passenger.

Trenton, March 26—While returning to her home in Philadelphia from New York, Mrs. Hattie Davis, twenty-one years old, of Glenmore avenue, West Philadelphia, gave birth to a male child on a train of the Pennsylvania Railroad just before Trenton was reached yesterday. When the woman was taken ill a physician who was on the train was sent for, and he was soon joined by two nurses, who were also traveling on the same train. The car was side tracked at Trenton until an ambulance from St. Francis' Hospital arrived and mother and babe were taken to the hospital.

Patrolman Richard Guie, who was in charge of the ambulance, chatted merrily with the woman on their way to the hospital, and when the place was reached the young mother obtained the officer's name and said she would call the boy Richard Guie Davis.

State Departments Receive Gold Prizes for Exhibits.

Trenton, March 26.—New Jersey's various departments at the State capitol, which were awarded gold medals for their respective exhibits at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition at St. Louis, have received the medals from the committee on awards. They are unique in design in that instead of being circular they are shaped after a modification of a Norman shield or escutcheon.

New Jersey secured three grand prizes, the highest awarded; two certificates of a grand prize, twenty-seven gold medals, twenty-one silver medals and four bronze medals.

The exhibit of the State road department was one of those to receive a gold medal. Among the other departments and officials to receive gold medals were: State Museum, 2; geological department, 3; New Jersey school exhibit, 9; collective county school exhibit, Bureau of Statistics, State Board of Health, State Normal and Model schools, S. The ceremony was performed by Justice of the Peace Charles H. Rogers. The girl had known the Chinese about a year, but friends had strenuously objected to her receiving his attention.

TWO BROKEN-UP HOMES

Bluffing Husbands Who Overreached Themselves Supping Sorrow.

ONE OF WIVES HAPPY

She Has a Separation She Wanted—Others Heart Saddened by Supposed Perfidy of Her Spouse.

Family troubles of an aspect funny to outsiders, whatever they may be to the principals, come constantly into the ken of the cops at headquarters, but two of the funniest cases, even within the memory of the officers who have been long on the force, came up within two weeks past. Both illustrate the danger a man runs when he tries to bluff his wife, although the stories are entirely different in their details. Each of the men involved is well known about town.

Both cases started in ordinary conjugal spats. One husband sniffed contemptuously at a certain stage in the scrap and said:

"You needn't think you are the only woman in the world. I've got another wife and a darn fine little girl. If you don't quit your uppishness I'll bring 'em here, where they belong."

His wife had made slighting reference to his general worth and attractiveness, and he thought that sort of talk would jolt her. It did. He was lying, without the slightest foundation in fact, but the wife believed him.

She hurried out of the house and went to her parents' home. There she shed tears and told the family that her husband had become tangled up with another woman and openly boasted of it. The family believed, and cursed hubby and his day and generation. A deputation of the family, including two husky brothers and a heavyweight cousin, accompanied the wife to an impressive interview with husband. Hubby was appalled at the success of his bluff. He was more appalled when he awoke to the fact that his explanation was not believed. The wife and her family insisted that he had been guilty of an immoral affair of the heart and was simply weakening from his bold stand. The wife was positive he had the other woman concealed in the city somewhere.

The husband tried unavailingly for days to right himself, and all he succeeded in accomplishing was to attract fresh threats of a trimming from the wife's male relatives. He went to the police in despair, to ask if they couldn't help him get right with his wife and her family. They have protected him from the irate relatives, but that is all they could do. He is still searching for an adequate and satisfactory explanation to patch up his home.

The husband in the other scrap took another tack in bluffing. He informed his wife, with studied coldness, that if she didn't behave herself he would ask for a separation.

"You can have it," she said promptly.

The man was engaged in a pure bluff, but he thought the woman was at the same game. He threw off a good imitation of unbounded delight.

"Then I'm a free boy!" he carolled joyously. His wife smiled coldly. It struck him that she wasn't showing the proper symptoms of subjection, and he made up his mind to give her a real good lesson.

He went to Lawyer W. L. Hetfield St., and had him draw up papers of separation. Then he asked the lawyer to write his wife to come down to the office and sign them. He pictured a scene of great lamentation when he returned home after the letter was received. The lamentations didn't come off. The wife went quietly to the lawyer's office, and in a firm, businesslike hand affixed her name to the papers. Then she went home and pulled the latchstring in. Hubby hasn't been able to get it in his hands since.

The wife won't have anything to do with him, and he is pretty nearly crazy. He is beginning to realize that she really wanted that separation and the absorption of that fact is making him a candidate for the bughouse. He gave up his job and took to hanging around his nice happy home, vainly pleading to be taken back to his place by the fireside. His wife counted twenty-three in tones that were frostier every time he appeared. His troubles made him dotty and he ran to the police with lurid tales of orgies in which his wife was engaged with other men in the house.

The police looked into the complaint as a matter of business, but the wife took only about three minutes to let them known just what was in the case.

"That man gave me a separation," she declared in the windup of her explanation, "and now he wants to squeal out of it. I wanted it and I intend to keep it."

MARTINSVILLE WOMAN FRUSTRATES BURGLARS

SHE AWOKE IN TIME TO SAVE HER RENTS FROM THEM.

An attempt to rob the house of John Taylor, of Martinsville, was frustrated Saturday night. Mrs. Martin's waking, which resulted in the scaring off of the burglars, saved the rents collected from a number of houses by Mrs. Taylor in Somerville that day.

When Mrs. Taylor returned home with the money at night she and her husband sat in the kitchen making up their accounts. Mrs. Taylor expressed fear that the proceeding might be seen and attract undesirable visitors, but her husband laughed at the idea. Near midnight, however, Mrs. Taylor's fears were justified. She was awakened by a noise at one of the doors that was unmistakable. She didn't lose her nerve. Quietly calling her husband, she told him to get his Winchester rifle and go for the burglars. Mr. Taylor followed directions, but the burglars heard him moving about, and took flight. They were disappearing up the road when he looked out, too indistinct for a rifle mark.

It is supposed that the thieves were local men familiar with Mrs. Taylor's rent-collecting customs. Whether or not they did spy on the couple as they counted the money early in the evening is not known.

W. C. T. U. EVANGELIST AT MASS MEETING

MISS GORDON TO ADDRESS YOUNG PEOPLE TOMORROW.

Miss Elizabeth P. Gordon, one of the evangelists in the Women's Christian Temperance Union, who was associated with the late Miss Frances E. Willard, will speak in a mass meeting for young people and children in the First Baptist church tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. Her subject will be "How to Win."

In speaking of Miss Gordon, the Philadelphia Record has this to say:

"Miss Elizabeth P. Gordon, one of the group of thirty national organizers of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, is a member of a prominent Christian temperance and missionary family, being the sister of the late Mrs. Alice Gordon Gulick, founder of the International Institute for Girls at Madrid, Spain, and of Miss Anna Adams Gordon, national vice president of the W. C. T. U.

"Miss Gordon was born in Boston, Mass., and has her home at the Gordon homestead in Auburndale, Mass., a suburb of Boston, commonly termed 'the home of the good,' or 'Saints' Rest.'

"She has always been deeply concerned in the temperance work and possesses the clear, quick brain, affectionate consecrated devotion to good work and firmness of purpose combined with tact and gentleness of manner which characterize her family. She served the Massachusetts W. C. T. U. for seven years as its State corresponding secretary before becoming national evangelist. Miss Gordon has made frequent trips across the sea and is well known in many foreign lands where the white ribbon has won its way."

Women's Presbyterial Annual.

The twenty-second annual meeting of the Women's Presbyterial Society for Home Missions in the Presbytery of Elizabeth will be held in the Presbyterian church, Dunellen, on Friday. The morning session will open with devotional exercises at 10 o'clock. Miss Wilson, of Albion Academy, South Carolina, will speak for Freedmen, and there will be a Young People's Society conference at 1:45. The regular afternoon session will begin at 2:15 o'clock; the speaker being Mrs. Catherine Jones Bennett, and her subject "Our Work Among the Foreigners." The local Presbyterian churches will send delegates to the conference.

M. G. A. Will Assign Dates.

Leighton Calkins, secretary for the Metropolitan Golf Association, has called the attention of the clubs in the association to the rule which provides that no club shall hold an open or invitation tournament without having a date assigned to it by the association. Application for dates may be made to the secretary; and should be made as early as possible as many dates have been assigned already and it may be difficult to secure them later in the season.

No Change in Choir.

The choir at the First Presbyterian church will remain the same for the coming year as last, and Mr. Braider, the organist, has also been re-engaged. Mrs. Guy Bender, soprano, substituted on Sunday for Miss Etta Raybert, who is detained at home by illness.

SHE CHASED BURGLARS

Wealthy Spinster Drove Four Men Off With a Winchester Rifle.

ALL WERE NEIGHBORS?

An Attempt to Explain the Visit as a Drunken Prank Fails to Convince Sharp Heroine.

Backed by a Winchester rifle and pure pluck, a lone woman put four burglars to flight from her house back of Somerville last week. The woman, Miss Addie Laing, a wealthy spinster, heard the noise made by one of the burglars on her porch, as she sat reading in the front room at 10 o'clock at night. A noise at a side door followed. She turned out the light and opened the door for her collie dog.

"Get 'em, Shep," she ordered.

Shep went out roaring threats. The barking stopped, and Miss Laing heard a voice.

"Hello, Shep; keep quiet, Shep."

Miss Laing awoke to the fact that local talent was at work. She armed herself with a Winchester and stepped to a front window. She threw up the blind and found herself looking at a young man. The young man found himself looking down the mouth of a lead mine. He yelled and field, and three other men joined him in the flight down the path. Miss Laing recognized the young man she confronted. The quartette jumped into a waiting wagon and drove toward Somerville.

Even after the burglars fled Miss Laing did not faint. With her Winchester under her arm she went out about the grounds and through the barn to see if things were all right. Nothing was missing. Next morning Miss Laing saw the young man who faced her Winchester approaching the house. She got out the rifle again and held him up at a safe distance.

The young man told Miss Laing that he had come to apologize for "a drunken prank." Miss Laing, in cold and unconvinced tones, asked the young man to explain the presence of a picket, a soldering iron and a club and an iron bar which she found on the porch the night before. The young man went away.

Miss Laing has discovered the names of all the would-be burglars and warrants are to be sworn out against them.

GRACE M. E. TEACHERS HONOR SUPERINTENDENT

PRESENTS W. M. WARREN WITH HANDSOME BOUND VOLUMES.

W. H. Warren, of Duer street, who recently resigned as superintendent of Grace M. E. Sunday school, because of his intended removal to Brooklyn, was invited to the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Stevens, of Grandview avenue, last night. He responded, thinking to spend a quiet social evening, but when he reached the house he found teachers, church members and others from the congregation to the number of sixty awaiting his coming. It was a great surprise for Mr. Warren and he had barely recovered from it when he was made a victim a second time.

This was when Charles Harden stepped forward and in behalf of the Sunday school teachers presented the retiring superintendent with four handsomely bound books. He was bewildered for a moment or so, but quickly regained his composure and warmly thanked the donors for the gift and also the spirit in which it was made. The remainder of the evening was devoted to games and music and refreshments in conclusion.

Mr. Warren and his family will leave for Brooklyn tomorrow. His successor has not been selected as yet, but will be in all probability at the annual meeting to be held next week.

New Masonic District.

The order of the Free and Accepted Masons has established a new district, which will be known as the Seventeenth Masonic District of New Jersey, and will be formed of the lodges of Bound Brook, Plainfield, New Brunswick, Somerville and perhaps one or two other places. The Grand Lodge has appointed John Zulauf, of Somerville, to the office of district deputy.

Trustees Re-elected.

The annual meeting for the election of three trustees to succeed James W. Jackson, Henry A. McGee and Calvin H. Rugg, whose terms expired, was held in Vincent chapel, last night, and resulted in the election of these men. Their terms are for three years. No other business was considered.

SIGNS PLAINFIELD ACTS

Governor Stokes Affixes Signature to Senate Bills Nos. 130 and 132.

FOR SPECIAL ELECTION

Voters Now Enabled to Decide Whether They Want a Municipal Water Supply Plant.

Senate bill No. 130, introduced by Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, which amends the act for municipal control of water supply by defining what constitutes a legal majority at elections for such purposes, was signed by Governor Stokes yesterday and is now a law.

Complications arose over the election held last year on this question, the proposition being defeated, as told exclusively in The Daily Press. It was for the purpose of perfecting the law affecting such elections that Mr. Ackerman introduced his amendment.

As no member of the public affairs committee could be found, it is impossible to learn what has been done toward bringing up the question again of Plainfield acquiring a municipal water plant. President Tolles, of the Common Council, was questioned on the matter and, in his opinion, the question will be voted upon possibly next fall, it being necessary to fixe a special date for this purpose. While the proposition has its supporters and opponents in the Common Council, it is desired to settle it one way or the other and learn whether it is the desire of taxpayers that a municipal system of water works be adopted.

Senate bill No. 132, also introduced by Senator Ackerman, an act for the relief of association for the erection and maintenance of hospitals, and which was particularly drafted and introduced for the benefit of the Plainfield Children's Home Association, also became a law yesterday through the signature of Governor Stokes.

Borough School Board Reorganizes.

The Borough Board of Education reorganized, last night, as follows: President, James R. Joy; vice president, Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey; committees: building and grounds, Messrs. Laing, Townsend and Cooley; finance, Messrs. Miller, Townsend and Laing; auditing, Messrs. Lowe and Laing; truancy, Messrs. Townsend, Cooley and McKelvey; purchasing, Messrs. Woodruff, Johnson and Lowe; teachers, Messrs. Joy, McKelvey and Johnson; district clerk, Albert Steiner. The matter of painting the Watchung school and improving the grounds was taken up but no definite action was taken.

Lanphear Property Sold.

The Olive S. Lanphear property at West Fifth stret and Central avenue was sold yesterday afternoon by Rev. L. E. Livermore and Mrs. F. A. Dunham, executors of the estate. The corner property, upon which is located the residence occupied for many years by Mr. and Mrs. Lanphear, was sold to Mrs. J. R. Kenney, of Philadelphia, a relative, for $5,800, and the forty-foot lot on West Fifth street, together with the barn, was sold to Mrs. Ellen Mullin, of West Fifth street, for $1,000. The sale was held to close the estate.

Intermediate Endeavorers' Choir.

The Intermediate Endeavorers of the Park Avenue Baptist church will constitute the choir at the Easter service to be held in the evening of Easter Sunday. These voices will lead the school in the singing of carols, acompanied by the orchestra led by G. W. V. Moy, with Mrs. von Brakle at the organ and Miss Clark at the piano. Appropriate exercises will be rendered by the members of the school, while the ordinance of baptism will conclude the programme for the day.

Lud Frazee Boards the Wagon.

By promising to abstain from liquor for at least thirty days, Lud Frazee escaped being sent to jail last night. He pleaded kuilty to drunkenness when arraigned before Mayor Smalley, but was so positive he could get on the water wagon for a month the magistrate decided to try him. If he falls off before his time is up he will spend a vacation at Somerville.

Young People's Meeting.

Miss Elizabeth Gordon, of Chicago, Ill., will address a mass meeting for young people in the lecture room of the First Baptist church, under the auspices of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Death of Mrs. Elizabeth Tilby.

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Tilby, wife of James Tilby, died at her home on Stone street this morning. The funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

—All bills against the city must be in the hands of the city clerk by Wednesday night.

FLYER HITS A FREIGHT

Big Wreck Narrowly Averted at Bound Brook Junction.

PASSENGERS SHAKEN

Tossed About Like Rubber Balls, Says Edward A. Laing, One of Them—Outgrowth of Another Wreck.

Working around a tangle of wreckage that blocked the tracks at Bound Brook Junction, an eastbound Royal Blue flyer took the wrong switch in changing from Central to Lehigh tracks near Bound Brook, shortly after 9 o'clock last night, and crashed into a long string of freight cars on a siding. The engine was smashed out of commission, two freight cars were telescoped, but none of the heavy load of passengers was hurt. The engine crew escaped with trivial scratches.

A blunder of the Central switchman is said to have caused the wreck. The flyer was running at a reduced speed, which prevented a much more serious wreck. The train was well filled with passengers and all were severely shaken up. Edward A. Laing, of this city, was one of the passengers, on his way home from Atlantic City. In describing the accident, he says that all the passengers remained calm, although many were pitched and tossed about like so many rubber balls. All the coaches remained on the tracks. The train was delayed over two hours, it being 11 o'clock when it reached Plainfield drawn by another locomotive.

The flyer was ordered over the Lehigh tracks in consequence of a smash-up between an empty P. & R. local, backing up to her berth for the night at Port Reading Junction, from Bound Brook, and a drill engine drawing several freight cars. Four cars and the drill engine were wrecked. No one was seriously hurt.

It is customary for the engineer of the local to back his train from Bound Brook to Port Reading Junction after the passengers have been discharged, but it was said this morning that the drill engine had the right of way over the track to Bound Brook. Whatever was the mistake that sent the two trains on the same track, they came together at Bound Brook Junction a short distance from Port Reading Junction with terific force, wrecking the engine and a couple of freight cars and derailing two passenger coaches. The wreckage was scattered in all directions and covered both the east and west main line tracks. The engineer and fireman of the drill jumped just as the collision occurred and escaped with a few slight scratches.

Soon after the accident the wrecking train arrived and the crew worked steadily until 2 o'clock this morning clearing the tracks. The tracks were blocked for several hours.

TITLE IS "PLAINFIELD OPERATIC ASSOCIATION"

THREE CLASSESS OF MEMBERSHIP IN THE ORGANIZATION.

The weekly business meeting and rehearsal for the comic opera, "Patience," was held at the Casino, last night, and in addition to adopting the constitution and bylaws, the organization was given the title of "The Plainfield Operatic Association." The object is to give two of three opera productions during the year.

There are three classes of membership—honorary, active and associate. The active members will be charged twenty-five cents a month as dues for eight months in the year and this will establish a fund for the purchase of scores of other incidentals. Associate members will also contribute according to the system of monthly dues, but the honorary members will be exempt.

There was a large attendance of members last night and a satisfactory rehearsal of the opera, "Patience," was held. Nearly all of the soloists were present and took their parts. Miss Sheldon, of Cranford, who will be "Patience," in the forthcoming production, made her first appearance and her singing was admired by everyone. There is still one part to be filled, and it is expected that this will be done this week.

Miss Tygard's Funeral.

The funeral of Miss Sarah A. Tygard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Tygard, who died yesterday, will be held at St. Stephen's church, Netherwood, tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

—Philip Acker will remove soon from Somerset street, where he has lived several years, to the house he has purchased on Westervelt avenue.

CHIEF SAYS GOOD WORD FOR COLORED PEOPLE

"TOO SENSIBLE TO MAKE A DISTURBANCE," HE ASSERTS.

Colored people ruffled by Chief Kiely's downright declaration of the steps he would take to suppress any disorder that might arise at the performance of "The Clansman" at the theatre Friday night will be clamed by a statement issued from headquarters this morning.

"No trouble is anticipated at the theatre the night of "The Clansman," said the chief. "I am convinced that tne colored people of this city are tod sensible to make a disturbance. Nothing in my past dealings with the colored population of Plainfield leads to any fear that there will be trouble; they never have given the police any trouble as a race, and I do not believe they will now.

"If there is anything in the play that insults the colored people it will be taken out. And you can say," added the chief, "that if there is anything in "McFadden's Flats" that offends the Irish, that will be taken out."

COUNCIL FAVORS MORE PERMANENT PAVEMENTS

IF APPROPRIATION IS SECURED, MAY TAKE CARE OF BUSINESS SECTION.

The councilmanic street committee still has in mind the possibility of extending permanent street pavement similar to that on Watchung avenue, between Watchung avenue and Second street, and if it is able to secure an appropriation this year of $35,000 for street work, it may decide to undertake this in the business section. Mayor Buckle favors the plan, believing that although it is expensive at the outset, it is cheaper in the long run. The brick pavement on Watchung avenue has given good service and appears to be satisfactory.

It has been suggested that when Park avenue is widened between Second street and the railroad it might be well to put down a permanent pavement there. It would not only add to the attractiveness of the street, but would be a saving in the matter of care. Since the erection of the Plainfield Trust Company's new building as well as C. W. McCutchen's new business block, it is claimed, these improvements would warrant the expenditure of a sum that would lay a permanent pavement.

If the street committee decides to extend the brick pavement through Watchung avenue to Front and through Front street, the city would have the benefit of a portion of the expense being borne by the trolley company. It is probable that the matter will come up early in the year after the appropriations are decided upon.

GETTING READY FOR DRIVING CLUB'S TRACK.

Improvements Planned to Be Completed in Time for the Summer Show.

The Plainfield Riding and Driving Club is getting everything in readiness to push its improvements on the new grounds near Crescent Oval as soon as the weather will permit. The work of clearing the land of trees and underbrush is well underway and the grading will be started soon. The idea is to have the grounds and buildings ready for the third annual horse show as well as the steeplechase exhibition this summer.

The plans call for a general show track, and one outside, to be covered, for exhibition purposes on rainy days or when the weather is not pleasant. Grandstands of ample capacity will be erected to accommodate the crowds that are sure to attend, while provision will be made for the thoroughbred stock by erecting suitable quarters having every convenience.

With these improvements must surely come improved trolley service. The new grounds are not located far from the Arlington avenue line at Park avenue, and while many attending the show will drive to and from the city, many will want to use the trolley, provided the accommodations are up to date. There will also be the baseball crowds to reckon, and from the present outlook these will bea factor, as the coming season promises to be the best in the history of the city.

Funeral of Father and Son.

The funeral services of Edward L. Adams and his son, Curtis E. Adams, who died within twenty-four hours of each other, will take place at the First Church of Christ tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

—Levy Bros. are making big preparations for their spring opening next Saturday.

EQUAL TAXATION PASSES

Senate Approves Union Co. Assemblyman's Measure After Long Debate.

AMENDMENTS LOST

Senator Ackerman's Provisions' Not Inserted in Bill As Passed This Afternoon.

The Perkins equal taxation bill was passed by the Senate at 1:45 this afternoon. Twenty-one votes were recorded for it. Both Governor Stokes and Chairman Briggs were positive of its passage, and without any material amendments. Senator Ackerman's amendments were lost.

Senator Minturn's amendment received five votes.

What clinched the matter is The Tribune's statement yesterday morning that the Bradley bills had been declared unconstitutional by Attorney General McCarter. McCarter was not here yesterday on account of his brother-in-law's death, but it is understood the opinion was given last week. Possibly an adverse opinion would not make much difference. The railroad men have their own little jokes up their own little sleeves. They secretly maintain that the Perkins bill will never pass the scrutiny of the courts, although refusing to state the grounds on which the assertion is based.

When the Senate took up for consideration today the Perkins railroad tax bill, which has been made a special order, it found many of the amendments offered quite different from what they appeared to be when read last Wednesday. This feature is found in the official copy of the amendments ordered printed and mailed to the Senators for consideration over Sunday. The first break is in the Ackerman amendments, which are separated, and one of which is accredited to Senator Minturn.

Senator Ackerman said yesterday that he expected his amendments to be acted on separately; that they are the product of his own judgment and were not prompted by anybody else.

"I alone am responsible for the amendments which I offered, and I was not lined up by John Kean, Governor Stokes, Treasurer Briggs or any one else," said Mr. Ackerman. "The changes I propose are the product of my own judgment and I expected to have them acted upon separately.

"In the first instance, I would have all the railroad property assessed just as provided for in my second amendment, at a rate of one per cent. during the present year and an increase of one-tenth of one per cent. added each year until a maximum of one and one-half per cent. is reached. This is in line with the plan embodied in the Hillery act for a maximum rate, which is fair to all concerned."

When reminded that other classes of property were now assessed at an average of two and one-fifth per cent. and would only be reduced to one and three-fourths per cent., the Senator's reply indicated that he was well informed on the railroad side of the problem.

"That may be true," he said, concerning what may happen under the Hillery act, "but the fact remains that until twenty years ago, the total tax paid by all the railroads was only $750,000 and since then they have paid about $1,000,000, an increase of only twenty-five per cent.

"Now, as I understand it, under the Perkins act the railroads would have to pay about $4,0000,000, or an increase of about 300 per cent., as against an increase of only twenty-five per cent. twenty-two years ago.

"Personally I know of no demand for such an increase and don't believe the people want it. I have not received a single letter asking about the bill, but with the 'bishops' bill it is quite different. My mail is full of it, and everywhere I go I am met with the query, 'What will be done with the bishops bills?' That shows the people are interested, but as to the Perkins bill, I have not received a line in its favor and head no demand for it except what I see in the papers."

Mr. Ackerman was reminded that the people have been demanding an equalization of taxation for years; that it was accepted as an issue at the polls last year, and that the Assembly, by passing the Perkins bill unanimously on two occasions, appeared to recognize that demand.

"Oh, that may be true in some respects," said the acknowledged opponent of the bill, which was introduced by a member from his own county and voted for twice by the Union Assembly delegation, "but the people in my county did not appear to be very much interested in the question.

"For instance, the platform on which I was elected was silent on the

MARK TWAIN BOOKS UNFIT FOR YOUTHS?

Thus Brooklyn Public Libraries Hold in Taking Action Against Two of Them.

The Brooklyn Public Libraries have issued an order withholding Mark Twain's "Huckleberry Finn" and "Tom Sawyer" from children considered by the library authorities to be under the age of discretion. The order against the two classics of boyhood went into effect two weeks ago. The library authorities after mature deliberation decided such works were likely to convince young minds of the futility of the Ten Commandments. Mr. Clemens was notified by letter.

The author's reply is said to be quite the finest piece of writing he has ever done, but unfortunately it is not for publication. The library authorities will not show it without Mr. Clemens' permission, and Mr. Clemens characteristically refuses to tell what it contains without permission from the library people. Frank P. Hill, the librarian in charge in Brooklyn, has the letter.

At Mr. Clemens' residence, 21 Fifth avenue, he sent down word yesterday that he was too ill to see any one. His secretary, however, with his sanction, said the letter formed part of a strictly private correspondence. Simply, certain men connected with Brooklyn libraries had found passages in Mr. Clemens' books unsuitable, in their opinion, for assimilation by young minds. They had written Mr. Clemens and he had replied expressing his own opinion in his own way.

Mr. Clemens is confined to his bed with what he calls his "annual attack of bronchitis," but expects to be out in a few days.

DECLINE OF THE DANCE.

Never Fashionable in England and is Now Finding Less Favor.

London, March 27.—Dancing masters say the English are not a dancing nation and that every year they become less and less so. The experts also urge that when they do dance they are not the least particular about dancing well. Good dancing, according to the dancing masters, has never been really fashionable in London, and it begins to appear as though it never would be, for the vigorous and jerky "deux temps" waltz is favored instead of the slower and more languorous "trois temps" danced in America and Vienna.

There are men and women at the smart balls of London who insist upon dancing properly or else in not dancing at all, but they are in a distinct minority. The dancing masters are inclined to blame parents for not teaching dancing to their children.

TESTING THE NEW JERSEY.

On Way to Maine Coast to Undergo Endurance and Speed Trial.

Boston, March 27.—The new battleship New Jersey, recently completed at the Fore River Ship and Engine Company's yards at Quincy, left her anchorage in the harbor yesterday and proceeded to Rockland, Me., for a builder's test of endurance and speed. Although several members of the Government Naval Board were on board the battleship the trial will not be an official one.

The New Jersey is the latest type of a floating battery for offense and defense to the navy, built with the object of combining the strength of a battleship with the speed of the cruiser.

Tuberculosis Society Meets.

The first meeting of the New Jersey Association for the Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis held since the organization of the society last month, convened in the Free Public Library this afternoon. About fifteen members were present, and after being called to order it was announced that Dr. B. A. Magie, of Princeton, who had been elected president, would be unable to serve. Bleecker Van Wagenen, of South Orange, was elected temporary president. The association then took up the consideration of the election of an executive secretary to arouse interest in the work.

Picks Up His Severed Ear.

Asbury Park, March 27.—Morris Robbins, son of Township Committeeman C. Palmer Robbins, had his ear torn completely from his head Saturday night. Robbins was unloading baled hay in Founder Bradley's barn, when his ear was caught between a bale of hay and the iron rod on which the barn door slides. After he had received medical attention Robbins recovered the severed ear. "While it won't help me much in my business," he said, "I somehow want to have it around."

Seeks Runaway Boy.

The Dover police have received a very pathetic letter from Mrs. H. A. Morse, No. 24 Jefferson avenue, Jersey City, asking them to find a boy named Russell B. Russell, of Jersey City, who ran away from home last September and is thought to be working for a farmer in Morris county. Mrs. Morse said in her letter that the lad's mother is grieving herself to death about him. He is five feet three inches tall and has large brown eyes and light curly hair.

Miss Elizabeth Van Winkle will conduct the Christian Endeavor Society meeting at the Park Avenue Baptist church Friday night.

Presiding Elder Rev. Mr. Pinckney, of Trenton, visited the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church on Sunday and conducted the quarterly conference.

The Sunshine Mission Band of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will meet in the chapel of the church Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Miss Marion C. Mortimer and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Tinsman were baptized at the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday night by Pastor A. E. Finn.

The session of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will meet tonight at the home of the pastor, Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, to discuss matters of importance.

The executive committee of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will meet in the church parlors Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Rev. and Mrs. George Mooney and their children have all been detained at their home on West Fourth street with tonsilitis. Mr. Mooney's pulpit was occupied on Sunday by supplies.

The entertainment committee of the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday-school is planning for an entertainment to be held in the chapel on Thursday night, April 10. The programme will include moving pictures and stereopticon.

The first of a series of four meetings for systematic Bible study will be held in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church on Friday night. W. D. Murray will conduct the course. Subject of the first meeting will be "Choosing His Helpers."

"The Seven Last Words," by DuBoise, will be rendered by the choir of the First Baptist church on Thursday, April 12. The choir will be augmented by several excellent voices and there will be organ and stringed instrument accompaniment.

The women of the Park Avenue Baptist church will attend the anniversary missionary meeting to be held at the First Baptist church on Friday afternoon, when Mrs. A. M. Post, recently returned from the Blanket tribe of Indians, will speak.

The annual meeting of the Seventh-Day Baptist church and all its societies will be held at the church on Sunday. There will be annual reports, election of officers and plans for the coming year. The women of the church will serve supper in the church parlors, the meeting being held in the afternoon and evening.

It looks as though Charles Yatman, Ocean Grove's popular Young People's leader, whose resignation was accepted a few weeks ago by the Camp Meeting Association, will start opposition meetings in Asbury Park next summer. A cordial invitation to hold the meetings in the First Methodist church of Asbury Park has been extended and Mr. Yatman is now in correspondence over the proposition. It has also been suggested that a Young People's temple be erected for Mr. Yatman on the border of Wesley Lake. Letters received from the leader seem to give assurance that he would welcome an opportunity to change his base of action.

SCORES THE WOMEN.

Editor Says They Will Do More for Cats Than for Babies.

In this month's issue of the Juvenile Record, the official organ of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children in Jersey City, appears the following editorial comment, inspired by the failure of the people of the city to respond to an appeal sent out last month by Edward A. Ransom, Jr., the editor of the paper and secretary of the society, asking for help in the work of the society for the homeless and neglected babies of Jersey City:

"If you will not provide a place for homeless and neglected babies under one year of age, in the name of humanity provide a gas tank and public executioner to put them out of their misery. You do as much for cats and dogs.

"Women who would send for a surgeon if their poodle dog broke a leg say of the babies when you appeal to them: 'They are better off dead.' It is a case of 'seeing' Herod and going him one better. Herod killed the babies because he was 'troubled.' They die today because nobody wants to be troubled. Suppose it was your child!

"A Society to Supply Pocket Handkerchiefs to Weeping Rachels would command more support than one to save the babies."

Celebrated Her 95th Birthday.

"Aunt Sally" Haring, the oldest living woman in the northern part of New Jersey, yesterday celebrated her ninety-fifth birthday at her home on Main street, Hackensack, surrounded by relatives and friends. Mrs. Haring was born in the Vanderbeek homestead, in which she now lives. The house was built in 1717. Her father fought in the War of 1812. Her health is good and her faculties are still strong.

GOTHAM'S AMUSEMENTS

"Charley's Aunt," revived at the Manhattan theatre, New York, with Etienne Giaradot in his original role as the bogus aunt, has caught the fancy of the public pronouncedly, and promises to run indefinitely to large audiences. It is thirteen years since this very amusing comedy was first produced in this country at this same theatre, and it practically duplicated here the vogue it achieved in England, where it was performed from season to season almost uninterruptedly for years. That "Charley's Aunt" has lost nothing of its original appeal is assured. The average play, revived after a long interval even in the best circumstances, seems a bit old-fashioned, but this clever work by Brandon Thomas seems to have lost nothing whatever of its original charm, and it convulses audiences as legitimately now at the Manhattan as it did years ago. It has been fitted with new scenery, and has all the distinction, as far as these go, of an original production. "Charley's Aunt," in fact, promises to be the comedy success of the spring season in New York, and no one that has before enjoyed it or that has never seen it should fail to visit the Manhattan during its run. The only matinee is on Saturday, and this performance will serve for those suburbanites who may not be able to see the play at an evening performance.

Shafter Howard's new musical piece, "His Majesty," in which Blanche Ring is featured, supported by a strong company including Anna Laughlin, May Naudain, Margaret Malcom, Harry Kelly, Knute Erickson and van Rensselear Wheeler and a chorus of prize Broadway beauties who can sing, is drawing big houses at the Majestic theatre. The company numbers about one hundred and the scenic and costume effects are elaborate, expensive and appropriate. The story of "His Majesty" is novel in the extreme. The first scene shows the infernal regions and shows an entire comic opera company which has been condemned to spend an endless time there. His Majesty is worried because Napoleon and a few other old time inhabitants of his domain are in revolt. Napoleon is supposed to have discovered a scientific means of quenching the fires of the region and the ingredients of a new explosive that will blow the place to smithereens. His Majesty falls in love and proposes to the prima donna of the comic opera company and is repulsed. He gives a dinner to the company and during its progress Napoleon sets off his explosive and the entire dinner party is blown up through the crust of the earth and land on a South Sea Island. The change of scene naturally permits of a cheerful change of atmosphere. His Majesty disappears still in love with the prima donna and returns on a yacht disguised as a millionaire clubman and renews his suit, and is finally accepted by the prima donna and everything ends in a satisfactory manner to all concerned except Napoleon who was lost in the shuffle of the big explosion. With its novel atmosphere there are developed many strikingly funny situations and there is afforded opportunities for the introduction of many new ideas in songs and dances as well as screamingly funny "business" for the comedians. Everything that has so far been done in the production of comic operas has been discounted in the preparation of "His Majesty" and those who enjoy clean fun to the accompaniment of good music with a background of beauty should surely see "His Majesty."

Taxation of Corporations.

Trenton, March 26.—The State Board of Assessors has commenced the preliminary work for the assessment for 1906 against the miscellaneous corporations of the State. Blank forms numbering 15,000 have been sent out to the corporations. Each corporation is assessed and taxed on the amount of its capital stock issued and outstanding. The blanks are sent out for the purpose of getting the returns from the corporations, and on the information thus secured the assessments are levied. The statements are returnable on or before the first Tuesday in May.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

"Willie" Deegan is ill at his home in Scotch Plains with the grip.

Pingry School, of Elizabeth, has a game scheduled with Leal's School, of this city, for May 12.

Send in your subscriptions to baseball stock and join in the popular movement to furnish good sport this summer.

"Mike" Leonard, the new captain of the Plainfield team, says that he will have a stronger aggregation than last year.

Manager Daab is well pleased with the efforts being made to put baseball on a well organized basis here, and feels sure that it will be a success.

Monroe, the crack third baseman on the Philadelphia Giants, has signed to play this season with the Philadelphia Quaker Giants, a new aggregation.

The Jersey City Club will report to Manager Murray on Monday, April 2, when the players will at once come to Plainfield for their training. They will probaby be here two weeks.

"Phil." Smith being a strict Sabbatarian, will not, of course, play Sunday ball. His efforts will be devoted to Saturday play. Captain Leonard thinks the High School lad a good one and advised Manager Daab to sign him.

The Pingry Baseball Association, of Elizabeth, has about completed its schedule for the season. The commencement game, usually played with the P. H. S., has not yet been settled upon. It would be a good scheme for Pingry to get off its high horse and arrange the annual game with Plainfield.

Charles Stillwell, Jr., of the Morristown team, has been elected president of the Lackawanna League, to succeed E. E. Mills, of the former Orange A. A., and the action has stirred up a feeling in the league. It was understood that Mr. Mills would retain part interest in the Clifton A. C., which takes the place of Orange in the league and his friends do not like the way Stillwell was chosen. W. H. Cawley, Jr., of Dover, vice president, is now acting as the head of the league. The representatives will meet on Saturday in Newark to adopt a schedule.

By signing with Manager Daab, of the Plainfield Baseball Association, "Phil." Smith, the star twirler for the Plainfield High School team, will not be able to play with the school team. "Phil." will not join the Plainfield team until May 5, and in the meantime he will spend his time in getting into condition. He will play with the P. H. S. until May 1, and at that time will sever his connection there. "Phil." is anxious to make baseball a profession to some extent and it is the opinion of his friends that he could not do so under a better man than Mr. Daab. The latter has great faith in the young pitcher and believes that he has the "makings" of a star. He will give him every advantage, though of course, he will only act as a substitute for the local team, as a well-seasoned pitcher will do the bulk of the work for the Plainfield team.

GOLF.

The Plainfield Country Club will soon announce its schedule for the season. It is quite likely that the season will be the same length as last year, concluding before the weather gets too cold.

The Cranford Golf Club, which has a well-laid out nine-hole course covering 3,355 yards, has already arranged its schedule of club contests for the coming season. The formal opening of the course will take place on April 28, and on the Saturdays in May there will be a medal play handicap tournament. There will also be a medal play handicap team match for club members on Memorial Day. On the Saturdays in June and on July 7 and 14 there will be a medal play handicap for the president's prize. July 4 will be devoted to a medal play handicap and mixed foursomes at nine holes, medal play handicap. On July 21 there will be a handicap contest in lofting and putting, and on July 28 a ball sweepstakes, bogey handicap. The programme arranged for the rest of the season is as follows:

August 4—Classes A and B medal play handicap, eight to qualify in each class.

August 25—Bogey handicap.

September 1—Championship cup, medal play, eight to qualify.

September 3—Labor Day Cup, medal play handicap; men's two-ball foursome medal play, handicap.

September 15—Ball sweepstakes, kickers' handicap.

September 29—Mixed foursome; medal play handicap, nine holes.

October 6, 13, 20 and 27—Medal play, handicaps.

In addition to the above there will be a number of professional matches from time to time.

Miss Ruth Maxson, of West Seventh street, continues to improve from a serious illness and her recovery is now assured.

Fred Lounsbury, Jr., of Plainfield avenue, who was recently operated upon at Muhlenberg Hospital for appendicitis, is improving rapidly and will soon be able to return home.

Plainfield, N. J., March 27, 1906.

New Jersey's State Republican machine should be grateful to Newark's "other paper."

If the trolley freight bill becomes a law, will we have flagmen on all corners along Front street?

The Paterson Press refers to Everett Colby and Mark Fagan as "fearless reformers." In Trenton they are called "the fearless performers."—Trenton State Gazette.

But still there is hope for Trenton.

According to reliable reports, plenty of ice has been stored by the wholesale dealers. But just wait until next summer and you will be persuaded that the harvest has been as much of a failure as the proverbial peach crop.

Englewood lays claim to being one ahead of the "Bishops' bill," because it has already raised the retail liquor license fee from $150 to $500. Just make a note of it that Plainfield is the original high license community in all Jersey. For more than a year it has had a $1,000 rate. How many places in the whole country, outside of the biggest cities, can beat that?

All impediments having been removed by the enactment of a law providing for the manner of holding elections for the municipal ownership of water works, the question now is when will the matter be put to a vote? Ever since this paper told that the election held last fall for that purpose was void and that had it been valid the proposition was defeated, there has been little if any agitation. From all that can be learned it is hardly likely that any steps will be taken in the immediate future, though possibly by fall the taxpayers will have an opportunity to say whether they desire to have a municipal plant established.

CLOSED PORTALS.

Plainfield Lodge, No. 855, B. P. O. Elks, will hold its annual meeting tomorrow night. Officers are to be elected and reports presented.

The Grand Lodge of Masons of North Carolina is to have a temple to cost $129,000. It is to be in Raleigh and is to be fireproof.

One of the oldest Masons in the world is James Douglas, of Chester, Ill. He has been a master Mason sixty-four years, a Royal Arch Mason sixty-three years and a Knight Templar sixty-two years.

Reports presented at the recent annual convocation of the Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons of New York showed a membership of 29,383, a net kgain of 1,424 for the year.

With a total membership of 10,075, the Grand Chapter of Canada made a net increase of 1,084 last year.

It is the duty of every Freemason to make the institution strictly a benefit association, a benefit to others as well as to himself.—Texas Freemason.

The ninth triennial assembly of the general Grand Council, R. and S. M., of the United States will be held in Boston June 18.

Freemasonry was introduced into India in 1740, when the Grand Lodge of England constituted Star of the East Lodge at Calcutta. It has long been well established in India and Ceylon.

Masonic honors easily won are lightly valued, and the brother who is advanced to the east by the rapid transit line is likely to be of very little use to the lodge after his year of service has expired.

Alvin Cliver, of Crescent avenue, is at his home suffering with tonsilitis.

T. J. Meaney, of East Sixth street, who is now on a business trip to Baltimore and Washington, has planned to spend a few weeks' vacation at Norfolk, Va.

FRANCHISES LIMITED BY GOVERNOR'S ACT

EXTREME LIMIT IS FORTY YEARS—CHIEF EXECUTIVE SIGNS.

Governor Stokes has signed the committee substitute for the Hillery limited franchise measure, thus making limited franchises the law in New Jersey, and driving public utility corporations who will accept nothing but perpetual grants to the tall timbers.

The new law has already been fully outlined in The Daily Press. It limits all public utility franchises to 20 years, except where a majority of the voters declare otherwise, when the franchise grant may be extended up to a maximum limit of 40 years. The act takes effect immediately.

The Governor has also signed Senate No. 53, by Mc. McKee ,amending act for the registration of labels trade marks, etc., and providing for a ne of $200, to be recovered by an action of debt, with power to take the body of defendant upon unsatisfied execution. This is a labor measure and was passed to meet the emergency caused by a division of the courts under which certain provisions of the law relating to the union label were declared unconstitutional.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Mildred Holland will appear at the New Plainfield nert week in "The Power Behind the Throne."

"At Piney Ridge," now in its eighth year, like wine, seems to improve with age. It was presented at the New Plainfield theatre last night in a highly satisfactory manner and was greeted warmly by a friendly audience. The company was headed by Van Kinzie, who by the way is David Higgins' brother, and was finely balanced.

Mr. Belasco is dramatizing Baroness von Hutten's novel, "Pam," for Miss Bertha Galland to act next year. Mr. Belasco is also at work on a new play for Mrs. Carter, to be mounted next season, with its scenes laid in our own day and environment. Report also has it that he has commissioned Jerome K. Jerome to write at his leisure a new piece for David Warfield.

Miss Odette Tyler and her husband, R. D. Mac Lean, whose real name, by the way, is Sheperd of Shepherdstown, W. V., two of the principals in Belasco's "Heart of Maryland," are said to be among the wealthiest devotees of the dramatic art in this country. The both love the stage and its environments and are actuated by no sordid motives in following their profession.

Chauncey Olcott is one of the richest actors in America. During the ten or twelve years of his association with Augustus Pitou, Mr. Olcott's earning power as a star has steadily increased. He has a charming home on Saratoga Lake, where his mother keeps house for him and where his souvenirs of travel and the material honors heaped upon him by Irishmen are displayed. The Saratoga home is one of the show places of the gay resort. From its queer position it is known as the "house turned round."

The Shuberts have secured a formidable circuit. They now have absolute control of thirty-five theatres in the principal cities of the country. These, in addition to other houses for which they have the booking privileges, give to them the control of more than fifty theatres. Among the new stars secured by them are Mrs. Patrick Campbell, Virginia Harned and Mary Shaw. Guy Standing and Carlotta Neilson will be pushed into stellar prominence also. Among the stars of the Shubert and "independent" forces that will book on the new circuit are E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlowe, Mme. Bernhardt, Mrs. Leslie Carter, Mrs. Patrick Campbell, Mrs. Fiske, Margaret Anglin, Mary Shaw, Guy Standing, Ada Rehan, Virginia Harned, Carlotta Neilson, Drina de Wolf and Charles Cartwright. Blanche Bates, Mme. Kalich, Cyril Maude and Winifred Emery (first time in America), Bertha Galland, David Warfield, Arnold Daly, Henry Miller, Louis Mann and Clara Lipman, Paula Edwards, De Wolf Hopper, Eddie Foy, Jefferson de Angelis, Cyril Scott, Julia Sanderson, Margarite Clark, Henry E. Dixey, William H. Thompson, Peter F. Dailey, Harry Woodruff and Henry F. Dixie will be played in the Shubert theatres.

WOODHULL & MARTIN.

A LETTER ALL WOMEN SHOULD READ.

"My Bissell sweeper is one of the treasures of my home. Two years ago I was an invalid, making sweeping and dusting duties to be dreaded. Reading about the Bissell sweeper, I concluded to buy one, and feel it my duty to tell you how greatly pleased I am with it. I can do my sweeping now in much less time, and without fatigue, and don't have to use the dust pan or duster. The sweeper gives a gratifying freshness to my carpets, and with no dust settling back upon draperies or curtains, or carrying disease to the household, I look upon the Bissell sweeper as a priceless invention. I would not be without one for four times the price."

We have received thousands of letters of this tenor from users of our sweepers throughout the world.

Fancy Costumes at Annual Affair of Gesang and Turn Verein's Auxiliary.

HAVE A JOLLY TIME

Grand March at 10 o'Clock—Judges Make Awards—Frank Neidig Floor Manager.

The Ladies' Section of the Gesang and Turn Verein conducted is tenth annual ball in Saengerbund Hall, last night. As in former years it proved a strong drawing card and the attendance was as large as any noted on previous occasions. The number and variety of costumes were a noticeable feature and added much to the gayety of the event.

The grand march at 10 o'clock was led by Mrs. Lawrence O'Leary, chairman of the committee, and her assistants, Mrs. Otto Keller, Mrs. B. A. Paroubek, Mrs. George Wieda, Mrs. Gustav Schempf and Mrs. George Richter. As the line wound its way about the floor, the costumes were noted by three judges, Michael Weber, Herman Klinsman and Henry Rummel, and they awarded the following prizes: First, set military brushes, Otto Keller, attired as a farmer; second, Mrs. Lena Boe, representing a colored girl; honorable mention, Mrs. Herman Klinsman and Mrs. Henry Rummel. Music was furnished by Paroubek's orchestra and the dancing was continued until an early hour this morning. Frank Neidig acted as floor manager.

Among the striking costumes noted were the following:

"Kate Greenaway gown girls," the Misses Beiter, Smith, Nelson and Richter; "summer girls," Miss Anna Whitely and Miss Anna Feller; "sailor girls," Miss Anna Rich and Miss May Weigmann; "waitress," Miss Clara Weber; "Saengerbund twins," Mrs. Amelia Smith and Mrs. Rudolph Spiegel; "Mephistopholes," Ernest Seiler; "baker," Fritz Schmidt; "Heavenly twins," Mrs. John Alster and Mrs. Walter Kettenring; clown, Eugene Weidling; farmer, George Feller; "Red Riding Hood," Miss Christina Staats; "Parisian girl," Lena Brugger; fancy costume, Mrs. Charles F. The twenty-second annual report was presented and the thirteenth series was opened. 200 Painters Locked Out.

Because one painter was discharged by Herman & Co., of Newark, for cause, as they allege, and because the firm refused to reinstate the man after being visited by a walking delegate of the Painters' Union, two hundred painters were locked out yesterday in that city by the members of the Independent Association of Master Painters. Forty shops are involved.

IS UNCONSTITUTIONAL SAYS MR. M'CARTER

NEVERTHELESS THE NEW BILL ELECTING ASSEMBLYMEN WILL PASS.

Attorney General McCarter sent to the Assembly last night an opinion declaring that the bill providing for the election of Assemblymen by districts is unconstitutional. Such an opinion was expected, however, and will not interfere with the passage of the bill.

This proposed legislation rests on a unique basis, and the very fact of its unconstitutionality presents the main argument for its passage by the Legislature. It is doubtful if such o situation ever existed before in the history of the State.

The opinion of the attorney general follows: "This bill provides for the election of Assemblymen by Assembly districts, instead of by the county at large.

"As is well known, the Supreme Court in an elaborate opinion written by the late Chief Justice Depue in the case of the State against Wrightson, 56 N. J. L., p. 126, held tnat a statute similar to the one under consideration, and providing for the election of Assemblymen by Assembly districts and not by the voters of a county at large, was unconstitutional and void. I am, therefore, compelled to reach the conclsuion that, under the adjudicated cases in this State, the bill in question is unconstitutional.

"I think it fair to say, however, that the decision of the Supreme Court adjudging this legislation to be unconstitutional was not carried to the Court of Errors and Appeals for review, and I assume that the present bill is introduced for the purpose of having that court pass upon the proposed method of electing Assemblymen."

The opinion was received, and ordered spread upon the minutes.

The bill itself provides a method by which its constitutionality may be at once tested in the courts. Section 4 provides that the county clerks shall, within ten days after the approval of the act, cause the same to be printed for distribution. After the bill is approved a county clerk, likely Clerk Baker, in this county, will refuse to proceed as directed, on tne ground of the alleged unconstitutionality. Action will be brought to compel him to act, and that will bring the law before the courts. The case will be forced through to the Court of Errors and Appeals, and the court of last resort will be asked to pass upon it. That will finally settle in New Jersey the question that has been hanging fire for many years, whether or not it is legal to elect Assemblymen by districts.

FATHER WESTMAN WARNS DELINQUENT PARISHIONERS.

Tells Them the Church is Not Being Properly Supported.

The Rev. Father John A. Westman, formerly rector of St. Mary's church, but now in charge of St. Michael's Roman Catholic church at Cranford, spoke in no mild terms to delinquent parishioners at the services held in the church Sunday morning.

Father Westman stated that the time had come when a line should be dawn between those who contributed to the support of the parish and those who did not He stated that mildness seemed to be of no avail, and that energetic measures must be used.

In order to reach those who dodged their pew rent a ticket system was adopted last July. This has not worked successfully, and it is likely that the old system of pew rents will be establisher, with some new features.

The Rev. Father Westman hinted that there was a clique in the church that was endeavoring to do all in its power to reduce the revenue of the church, and that he intended to compel these persons to pay their share or else they would not enjoy equal privileges.

BLESSING FROM THE POPE.

Sent to Bishop O'Connor, Head of the Newark Diocese.

Bishop J. O'Connor, of the Newark Catholic Diocese, has received a letter, written by Pope Pius X., conferring the apostolic blessing on the prelate and the faithful of his diocese who contributed $5,500 toward the Peter's Pence collection. The letter reads:

"Venerable Brother: Your devotion to us and to this Apostolic See is sustained and made evident by many tokens, and more especially by your zeal in procuring for us assistance and support in the administration of the Church. While, consequently, we give you heartiest thanks for the offering lately presented to us by our beloved son, Thomas Kennedy, prothonotary apostolic, we pray every grace and blessing from the Lord for you and for all who have contributed to it.

"In addition to our good wishes we lovingly impart to you and to all the faithful committed to your care, our apostolic benediction.

"PIUS P. P. X., from the Vatican.

"March 5, 1906."

Edward O. Clark, of Orchard place, is among the latest to take to his bed with an attack of the grip.

William Lackaye, in "The Pit," at New Plainfield Theatre Thursday Night.

Thomas Dixon, Jr., Author of "The Clansman," at New Plainfield Theatre Friday Night.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

One of the strongest bids for popularity made by the modern melodrama "As Told in the Hills," which will be given at the New Plainfield theatre tonight, is that there is no objectionable features to the performance. It is true that there are villains, two of them in fact, but their fate is a striking example of what their villainy deserves. In contrast with them the other characters are clearly and forcibly drawn in a manner that will leave a lasting impression.

Few of the plays dealing with rural life can boast that in their composition there exists not the mortgage, or the saw mill whose saw yearns for the blood of the hero, for even in the best of these plays, like "Shore Acres," the lighthouse scene borders on the melodramatic. In "York State Folks," which comes to the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night, fresh from its success at the Majestic theatre in New York, even this element of the melodramatic is absent and the play is laid closely to the hearts of the country folk, relying for its great success upon the fidelity to the life of the rural dweller. Possibly it is the lack of straining for ultra dramatic effect that has made the play so successful.

"The Pit's a hit." So speak the "ads" that have been widely posted about town, and the voice of the out-of-town dramatic critics have substantiated the saying. That is exactly whey the performance of "The Pit," which takes place at the New Plainfield theatre Thursday night, is looked forward to with interest. At the same time Wilton Lackaye, a favorite actor, is to be transported, as it were, from heavy villainy parts to the role of a real hero. As for the play, it is a dramatization of Frank Norris' novel, and the greatest of productions by William A. Brady.

Fresh from its triumph at Klaw & Erlanger's Liberty theatre, New York City, "The Clansman" comes to the New Plainfield theatre Friday night. Thomas Dixon, Jr.'s play has been truly described as the most sensational drama of the decade. It exhibits the fearful period of trial and suffering to which the Southern white people were subjected immediately after the Civil War and points the terrible consequences of entrusting the reins of government into the hands of negroes. The play is a revelation to every Northerner who has mentally dismissed the race problem as of comparatively slight importance. Aside from the truths it teaches, its sterling qualities as a comedy-melodrama have commended it to theatregoers.

Among the many new features to be presented with the old reliable Haverly minstrel show at the New Plainfield theatre next Saturday afternoon and night will be the funniest of all minstrel comedians, Billy Beard, "the Party from the South;" Marion and Pearl, eccentric knockabout comedians; Garden and Somers, the greatest of all musical offerings, in which the xylophone solos are a feature; Marseilles, the anatomical enigma from the Nauve Circe in Paris; Gartelle Brothers, the skatorial wonders; Haverly's famous choir, the soloists comprising George T. Martin, Richard Hunter, Walter A. Wolfe, Bruce Waiman, F. P. Kenney and Walter Leon, and the big singing and dancing ensemble "Moonlight in Dixie," in which the entire company takes part. The show is elaborately staged throughout.

"The Irish Pawnbrokers," one of the standard farce comedies, is booked for appearance at the New Plainfield theatre next Monday night. "The Irish Pawnbrokers" are said to be up to their former standard, which means lots of new music, plenty of ensemble numbers, the usual pretty chorus and a complete scenic equipment. The company is as usual headed by Davis and Mack.

Laughter as a tonic beats all the best patent medicines. It drives away dull care, chases away the blues and makes despondency look like "thirty cents." Laughter in large chunks will be on tap at the New Plainfield theatre Thursday night, April 5, as "McFadden's Flats" will be the caper. The piece is successful because of its rapid continuity of amusing scenes and laughable situations, to say nothing of the splendid list of specialties and pretty music with its catchy swing, big chorus of vivacious maidens, comedians, dancers and singers who know how to entertain.

Fell Into Boiling Water.

George Herrman, thirty-seven years old, of No. 143 Sheffield street, Newark, an employe of the Union Ice Company, No. 309 Ogden street, was seriously injured yesterday by falling into a tank filled with scalding water. Herrman was patrolling the plant early in the morning. While passing a tank that was built into the floor he slipped and plunged into the hot water up to his waist. He was taken to St. Michael's Hospital.

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

THE OLD ORDER CHANGETH.

Evening in an old-world garden,
With her knitting on her knees,
Granny hears the children's voices,
Whispering to her through the trees.
Granny dreaming in the garden,
Seated in her high-backed chair,
And the golden gleams of sunset
Linger round her silver hair.

Gray old Granny,
Years a many
Write their furrows on her brow,
Nodding, sitting,
Dropped her knitting,
Gray old Granny's sleeping now.

Midnight in a splendid salon,
Glowing with electric light,
Green Chartreuse, and cigarette smoke,
Add their fragrance to the night;
Smiling 'neath a golden toupee,
With her neck and shoulders bare,
Good old Granny to her partner
Murmurs "No trumps," I declare.

Good old Granny,
Years a many
Leave no furrow, not a ridge;
Painted, paneled,
Dyed, enameled,
Granny now is playing Bridge.

—J. M. Lowry in New York Telegram.

THE CHILDLESS.

When the green tide of summer flows
She waits beside the pale pink rose,
And looks with eyes of Paradise
On the dear world that childhood knows.

The evening lilies, pale and sweet,
Stay for an hour her little feet;
Wistful she stands with pleading hands,
Hands that my lips so yearn to greet.

When the white blooms of winter fall,
She lingers by the garden wall,
So small and still in the gray chill—
O child, could you but hear my call!

When the great night falls full and deep,
And all home-children lie asleep,
Could she but rest upon my breast—
O child, what wondrous watch I'd keep! —Emery Pottle.

KITCHEN HELPS.

Dishcloths should be boiled with soda once or twice a week.

Salt sprinkled on any substance that is burning on a stove will stop the smoke and smell.

Add borax to the water in which the dish towels are washed and it will aid in making them white and soft.

If housewives would remember to put a towel, folded several times, in the bottom of the dishpan there would be less broken thin glasses.

A cupful of vinegar placed in an open basin on the stove while cabbage, cauliflower, onions or fish are cooking will permeate the kitchen with its aroma and do away with unpleasant odors.

Empty pasteboard cracker boxes and the clean white wooden boxes that chocolate comes in, which are lined with paraffin paper, are excellent to bake sponge cake in. They will not burn, and the paper prevents them sticking.

MEDITATIONS OF AN OLD MAID.

At nineteen we know it all, and we spend the rest of our years paying for our smartness.

Pay your way and be happy; bet on the horses and go broke.

You can buy your way into society—you can get kicked out.

Hanging was too good for some men, so they invented the electric chair.

Some people use their brains like they do the attic—fill it with rubbish.

The man who thinks he can't do right is blocking the way to a better life.

The world owes you a living, but unless you hustle you will never collect the debt.—Exchange.

"The Man on the Box"

By HAROLD MacGRATH

Author of "The Grey Cloak," "The Puppet Crown."

Copyright, 1894, The Bobbs-Merrill Company.

"You ask me why I have played the fool in the motley?"—finding the strength of his voice. "Why I have submitted in silence to your just humiliations? Why I have acted what you term generously? Do you mean to tell me that you have not guessed that riddle?"

She turned her delicate head aside and switched the grasses with her riding-crop.

"Well"—flinging aside his cap which he had been holding in his hand "I will tell you. I wanted to be near you. I wanted to be, what you made me, your servant. It is the one great happiness that I have known. I have done all these things because—because, God help me, I love you! Yes, I love you, with every beat of my heart!"—lifting his head proudly. Upon his face love had put the hallowed seal. "Do not turn your head away, for my love is honest. I ask nothing, nothing; I expect nothing. I know that it is hopeless. What woman could love a man who has made himself ridiculous in her eyes, as I have made myself in yours?"—bitterly.

"No, not ridiculous; never that!" she interrupted, her face still averted.

He strode toward her hastily, and for a moment her heart almost ceased to beat. But all he did was to kneel at her feet and kiss the hem of her riding-skirt. He rose hurriedly.

"God bless you, and good-by!" He knew that if he remained he would lose all control, crush her madly in his arms, and hurt her lips with his despairing kisses. He had not gone a dozen paces, when he heard her call pathetically. He stopped.

"Mr. Warburton, surely you are not going to leave me here alone with the horses?"

"Pardon me, I did not think! I am confused!" he blundered.

"You are modest, too." Why is it that, at the moment a man succumbs to his embarrassment, a woman rises above hers? "Come nearer,"—a command which he obeyed with some hesitation. "You have been a groom, a butler, all for the purpose of telling me that you love me. Listen. Love is like a pillar based upon a dream: one by one we lay the stones of beauty, of courage, of faith, of honor, of steadfastness. We wake, and how the beautiful pillar tumbles about our ears! What right have you to build up your pillar upon a dream of me? What do you know of the real woman—for I have all the faults and vanities of the sex; what do you know of me? How do you know that I am not selfish? that I am constant? that I am worthy a man's loving?"

"Love is not like Justice, with a pair of scales to weigh this or that. I do not ask why I love you; the knowledge is all I need. And you are not selfish, inconstant, and God knows that you are worth loving. As I said, I ask for nothing."

"On the other hand," she continued, as if she had not heard his interpolation, "I know you thoroughly. I have had evidence of your courage, your steadfastness, your unselfishness. Do not misunderstand me. I am proud that you love me. This love of yours which asks for no reward, only the right to confess, ought to make any good woman happy, whether she loved or not. And you would have gone away without telling me, even!"

"Yes." He dug into the earth with his riding-boot. If only she knew how she was crucifying him!

"Why were you going away without telling me?"

He was dumb.

Her arms and eyes, uplifted, appealed to heaven. "What shall I say? How shall I make him understand?" she murmured. "You love me, and you ask for nothing? Is it because in spirit my father has committed a crime?"—growing tall and darting a proud glance at him.

"Good heaven, do not believe that!" he cried.

"What am I to believe?"—tapping the ground with her boot so that the spur jingled.

A pause.

"Mr. Warburton, do you know what a woman loves in a man? I will tell you the secret. She loves courage, constancy, and honor, purpose that surmounts obstacles; she loves pursuit; she loves the hour of surrender. Every woman builds a castle of romance and waits for Prince Charming to enter, and once he does, there must be a game of hide and seek. Perhaps I have built my castle of romance, too. I wait for Prince Charming, and—a man comes, dressed as a groom. There has been a game of hide and seek, but somehow he has tripped. Will you not ask me if I love you?"

"No, no! I understand. I do not want your gratitude. You are meeting generosity with generosity. I do not want your gratitude,"—brokenly. "I want your love, every thought of your mind, every beat of your heart. Can you give me these honestly?"

She drew off a glove. Her hand became lost in her bosom. When she drew it forth she extended it, palm upward. Upon it lay a faded, withered rose. Once more she turned her face away.

He was at her side, and the hand and rose were crushed between his two hands.

"Can you give what I ask? Your love, your thoughts, your heart-beats?"

It was her turn to remain dumb.

"Can you?" He drew her toward him perhaps roughly, being unconscious of his strength and the nervous energy which the sight of the rose had called into being.

"Can we give those things which are—already—given?"

Only Warburton and the angels, or rather the angels and Warburton, to set at the chronological order of things, heard her, so low had grown her voice.

You may tell any kind of a secret to a horse; the animal will never betray you. Warburton would never tell me what followed; and I am too sensible to hang around the horses in hopes of catching them in the act of talking over the affair among themselves. But I can easily imagine this bit of equine dialogue;

Jane: Did you ever see such foolishness?

Dick: Never! And with all this good grass about!

Whatever did follow caused the girl to murmur: "This is the lover I love; this is the lover I have been waiting for in my castle of romance. I am glad that I have lost all worldly things; I am glad, glad! When did you first learn that you loved me?"

(Old, very old; thousands of years old, and will grow to be many thousand years older. But from woman's lips it is the sweetest question man ever heard.)

"At the Gare du Nord, in Paris; the first time I saw you."

"And you followed me across the ocean?"—wonderingly.

"And when did you first learn that you loved me?" he asked.

(Oh the trite phrases of lovers' litany.)

"When I saw you in the police-court. Mercy; what a scandal! I am to marry my butler!"

Jane: They are laughing!

Dick: That is better than weeping. Besides, they will probably walk us home. (Wise animal!)

He was not only wise but prophetic. The lovers did walk the horses home. Hand in hand they came back along the road, through the flame and flush of the ripening year. The god of light burned in the far west, blending the brown earth with his crimson radiance, while the purple shadows of the approaching dusk grew larger and larger. The man turned.

"What a beautiful world it is!" he said.

"I begin to find it so," replied the girl, looking not at the world, but at him.

MRS. APPLEGATE WELL AGAIN!

"I have had a bruised leg and foot for several years, caused by the brass eyelets of my shoe, which became very sore and painful especially at night. It itched, burned and ached me till it nearly set me crazy. I used everything I found and was suggested to ease it and nothing gave me any relief till I found and applied Axienza Cream, which I think is a wonderful remedy for all sores and inflammation of the skin. The hard knots on my legs were as painful as bee stings, with discolored and purple spots. A running sore on my instep size of a half-dollar; the toe of my foot a seething sore clean around to my heel. The bone was sore for a whole year and very painful. I used five and one-half jars of Axienza Cream and healed the sore all up. The foot remained tender and I continued to use to strengthen and toughen the skin until now it is entirely well." (Signed) Mrs. Hannah Applegate, Evergreen Ave., Avon, N. J., Sept. 3rd, 1905. 50 cents. Ask the druggist or by mail. Axienza Specialties Co., Jersey City, N. J.

LITERARY NOTES.

"Gotham in Golden Chains" is the title of a remarkable article by John Coulter in the National Magazine for April. He shows how the Ryan-Belmont-Rothschild-Morgan gang has got New York city by the throat, and outlines its plans to float a street-railway combine with a capital—mostly water—second in size to that of the United States Steel Company. The same magazine contains three striking character studies of famous men: "Joaquin Miller at the Heights," a beautifully poetic essay by Charles Warren Stoddard; "Fighting Joe Wheeler," by W. F. Melton, and "A Day With Marquis Ito," the foremost statesman of Asia, by Yone Noguchi. Minor notes on celebrities are: "In Memoriam: Frederic Lawrence Knowles," a poetic tribute to the late gifted young laureate of New England, by Aloysius Coll; "The Passing of Jules Verne," by Sarah D. Hobart, and "Arming the 'Man of Destiny,'" a curiously interesting anecdote of General Grant, by J. A. Dobson.

The Popular Science Monthly for April contains the following articles: "The Queen Ant as a Psychological Study," by Dr. William Morton Wheeler; "The Development of the Glacial Hypothesis in America," by Dr. George P. Merrill; "The Earliest Predecessors of Copernicus," by Charles R. Eastman; "The Greatest Need in Research," by Professor M. V. O'Shea; "Making Geography While You Wait," by Thomas H. MacBride; "Extra Digits and Digital Reductions," by Charles W. Prentiss; "A Sanitary Outlook," by Sir James Crichton-Browne; "The Yellow Fin Albacore," by President David Starr Jordan; Samuel Pierpont Langley; The Solar Observatory of the Carnegie Institution; The Warren Museum of Natural History; The New Zoological Museum and Laboratories of the University of Liverpool.

The spring number of Good Housekeeping, for April, is full of charming illustrations and overflowing with practical common sense as well. Witness these titles of articles, a few among many: A Paradise Regained, a beautifully illustrated story of the cleaning up of an untidy village; The Daughter's Salary, by Martha McCulloch-Williams, illustrated from photographs by F. Colburn Clarke; In a Devonshire Garden, by Clara B. Throckmorton, with drawings by Olive Rush; Paul de Longpre, the flower painter, and his gardens; The Case Against the House Cat, a startling array of facts; Housecleaning as Physical Culture, by George Wharton James; A Young Couple's Account Book; Disinfectants and Their Use, by Dr. H. C. Emerson; Danger from Kerosene, by Prof. W. P. Bradley; How to Know a Well-Built House, by Architect E. C. Gardner; The True Inwardness of House Paint, etc. Price 15 cents a copy, $1 a year. SNAP SHOTS.

Thirty-two years ago yesterday, on March 22, 1874, Charles Getzinger, of Allentown, the popular conductor of the New Jersey Central Railroad's passenger train known as "The Queen of the Valley," which runs between Harrisburg and New York, entered the Central's employ. For the past four years he has had charge of "The Queen," which covers the distance between Easton and Jersey City in one hour and thirty-five minutes, leaving Easton at 10:48 a. m. and arriving at Jersey City at 12:23 p. m. The run of seventy-five miles is often made without a stop. Besides himself, the crew, all of whom have been on the train since it was put on the road, May 18, 1902, consists of Charles Geary, baggagemaster; Fred Bimler, brakeman; Frank Eck, engineer, and John Simons, fireman. The members of the crew all reside at Allentown. Baggagemaster Geary, who is still a young man, has been in the Central's employ the past thirty-six years, and Brakeman Bimler has been connected with the road for nineteen years. He also has three brothers in the company's service. Engineer Eck and Fireman Simons have also done long and faithful service for the company.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

BASKET BALL.

The final basketball game of the season will be played Saturday night between the Y. M. C. A. five and the Orange association team and it will probably be the best. The Orange boys will be accompanied by a big crowd of enthusiastic rooters, who have chartered a special trolley car for the trip here. There is strong rivalry between these teams and the locals will do their best to win from their opponents who are considered to be exceptionally strong in basketball. Captain Scull will have out his entire first team and every possible opportunity will be devoted to practice for the contest.

subject of railroad taxation, except as to property of the second class, which the platform on which my opponent, who was overwhelmingly defeated, ran, contained even more radical views on the subject than those in the Perkins bill. That shows how the people in my county feel on the question."

Asked if Assemblyman Perkins and the other members from Union were not elected on the same platform, Mr. Ackerman replied:

"Oh, yes, but Mr. Perkins isn't the originator of that bill. The Governor or some one prepared it as an administration bill, and he, as leader, was handed it to introduce.

Will Reappoint Judge Watson.

Passaic, March 27.—Senator Wood McKee has written to all the aspirants for the District Court judgeship telling them that he will reappoint Judge William W. Watson. Judge Watson has been District Court judge for ten years and has made a satisfactory administration of the law. The principal contestants for the position were former Counsel Harry Meyers and George H. Dalrymple. It was the general impression that George H. Dalrymple would have been appointed, and for weeks it was considered here that he was good as named.

ICE IS PLENTIFUL NOW UP THE STATE

LOCAL SUPPLY IS LIMITED, BUT MUCH IS NEARBY.

Although the ice harvested from Watchung Lake and other sources of supply nearby is very limited in amount, there is abundance to be had from the lakes farther north and west.

The talk of necessity for a sharp advance in prices during the summer is therefore unwarranted, say those who ought to know, even though the weather was very mild during most of the winter.

The railroads have no tales of woe to unfold regarding a short ice crop along their respective lines, says the Newark Sunday Call. Inquiry was made at several of the offices of the railroads hereabouts and all say there is plenty of ice. The Erie people lay in a large supply each winter to carry them through the summer. Up to the end of January there was a feeling of unrest because the temperature hadn't registered low enough to freeze over the surfaces of ponds, but early in February it was very cold for a few days, and then the ice began to thicken.

This winter the Erie procured its ice from Forge Pond, a little sheet of pure spring water along the Ridgewood branch of the Greenwood Lake road that belongs to the Hewitt estate. Arrangements had been made to harvest a crop just as soon ass freezing weather justified it, and early in February a force of men was put at work and cut all the ice that was needed. It was sent to Jersey City, and the big icehouse in the yard was filled to the top. What was left over was sent to the icehouse in Weehawken. This crop of ice averages a foot in thickness.

Asked how the crop was at Greenwood Lake, it was said that a fine harvest of good "water" ice had been gathered and it was a foot in thickness. The big icehouses at State Line are filled and shipments will be made just the same as other seasons. An ice train has already been run, but at present is out of service. This ice belongs to the Greenwood Lake Ice Company. It is generally recognized that one of the largest crops harvested comes from Greenwood Lake. The ice train will be resumed just as soon as there is a demand for its services.

The New York, Susquehanna and Western people say they have all the ice they want. All their ice comes from the lake at Pocono Summit, Pa., and there was a big crop of thick ice. The N. Y., S. and W. has a big icehouse at Two Bridges. This has been filled, also all the creameries from one end of the road to the other.

The Lackawanna gets most of its ice from Pocono Summit and there is a large pond along the main line west of Boonton. Then there is Lake Hopatcong and the reservoir at Stanhope, which is controlled by the Mountain Ice Company. The Lackawanna people say their two icehouses at Tobyhanna and Gouldsboro are both filled with good ice, just the same as other seasons. The Mountain Ice Company, which does a general supply business, mostly in Pennsylvania, and considerable in New Jersey, says the crop is about 25 per cent. of what is should be, but the most has been made of what could be harvested.

It was learned at the office of the Central Railroad of New Jersey that that company is supplied for the coming summer. All its icehouses have been lled, mostly from Lake Hopatcong, although some of the crop comes from White Haven and off a branch near Lehigh Gap, Pa. The conditions have been somewhat disturbed by a fire last Saturday night, which destroyed an icehouse at White Haven filled with a recently harvested crop.

DIVORCE DISCUSSED BY WOMEN SUFFRAGISTS

DIFFERENCE BETWEEN IDEAS OF ROMAN AND OTHER CHURCHES.

Divorce was discussed at the regular monthly meeting of the Equal Suffrage League, yesterday afternoon. The discussion was mild, following a paper on the subject.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Samuel Huntington, of Franklin place. The political study class met after the regular business was disposed of, and passed a resolution of sympathy with Miss Mary Anthony on the death of her distinguished sister, Susan B. Anthony. The paper was presented to the class by Mrs. Huntington.

Mrs. Huntington's paper was not decided in tone so far as the divorce problem itself went. She discussed the way in which marriage is regarded by the different religions, and the effect of that conception on the question of divorce. The Roman Catholics look on it as a sacrament, and naturally shrink from divorce; the Protestants regard it more as a civil covenant—not more than semi-religious in character—and divorce strikes them as a proceeding that might easily become necessary, desirable and practically unavoidable.

The right of women who marry foreigners, to citizenship was also discussed.

Mrs. David P. Hall was in the chair. The meeting was well attended, notwithstanding the inclement weather. On motion of Mrs. Isaac L. Miller resolutions of respect for the late William H. Riley, one of the members, was passed.

Upon Mrs. Huntington's motion it was, "Resolved, That the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield wish to express their sorrow and sympathy to Miss Anthony on the death of her sister, whose efforts in behalf of woman suffrage have done much to ameliorate the condition of woman throughout the world."

The next meeting will be the annual one, to be held at the home of Mrs. Best, 245 East Ninth street. It will be a memorial meeting, as anecdotes of Miss Anthony will be given by some of her personal friends.

ANOTHER EFFORT FOR NEWARK BAY BRIDGE.

Former Congressman Benny Killed the Project in Congress Two Years Ago.

The Bayonne Board of Trade has decided to make another effort to secure a bridge across Newark Bay, between Bayonne and Elizabeth. When the bill introduced by Congressman Marshall Van Winkle is reported the board will send a delegation to Washington to ask its passage.

Former Congressman Allan Benny, of Bayonne, who succeeded two years ago in having a similar bill pass the House, but saw it killed in the Senate, said yesterday the reason his bill failed was that the Pennsylvania Railroad was against it. He said:

"Such a bridge would injure the railroad business between Elizabeth and Bayonne. The New Jersey Central Railroad is owned by the Baltimore and Ohio and the latter by the Pennsylvania. Why, the audacity of the railroad companies wanting us to erect a double-deck bridge, the railroads to use the ground floor and we to occupy the attic.

"Haf the horses would be in the bay if that was done. It would be very well for the railroads. The present railroad bridge was built about the time of the Civil War. It is like a cat—has nine lives. Such a bridge is supposed to be used less than fifteen years. Personally, I do not believe the people of Bayonne want the new bridge very bodly. If some one would place it at their feet they would take it, but they would not exert themselves working for it."

Admits He Stole Tools.

Elizabeth, March 27.—Andrew Krass, an employe of the Elizabeth Street Department, was arrested at his home, 144 Rector street, Saturday evening by Constable Fred Teipel on a charge of larceny. He stole a lot of carpenter's tools from the barn of Emerson P. Beebe, president of the Union County Board of Agriculture, who had hired him for a day to trim some trees. When Mr. Beebe missed his tools he went before Justice of the Peace Kelly and got a warrant for Krass' arrest. The latter denied the robbery at first, but on the way to the jail he weakened and confessed his guilt. He was committed in default of $200 bail.

SOMERVILLE IN THE REVOLUTION

ONE OF THE MOST FAMOUS EXPEDITIONS WAS PLANNED THERE.

Last evening, before the Monday Night Club of St. John's church in Somerville, Counselor-at-law Francis B. Lee, of Trenton, addressed a representative audience upon the subject of "The Place of Somerville in the Revolution."

"To visitors," said Mr. Lee, "Somerville's greatest attraction of an historical character is the 'Wallace House,' a mansion whose interest is as great as that of the 'Barracks' at Trenton, 'Liberty Hall,' near Elizabeth, the 'Proprietors House' in Perth Amboy, 'Morven in Princeton,' or the 'Headquarters' in Morristown. It was in the Wallace House that one of the most famous expeditions of the Revolution was planned, that commanded by General John Sullivan, and which in the summer of 1779 destroyed the power of the six nations of New York Indians. From December 5, 1778, until June 3, 1779, with the exception of a trip to Philadelphia, General Washington remained in the Wallace House, an honored guest of the county of Somerset and the State of New Jersey.

"The winter at Somerville, second in interest only to the two winters spent in Morristown, was one of planning for the future. The campaign of 1778, which included the evacuation of Valley Forge, the battle of Monmouth Court House and the long weeks of watching upon the Hudson, had proved a severe drain upon the militia and the Continental line. To relieve the troops, Washington made every preparation for their comfort, endeavoring to secure good huts for their use and as abundant provisions as the countryside permitted.

"But the danger to the future of the republic was from within as much as from without," said Mr. Lee. "There was an indifferent and incapable Congress, with a horde of greedy army contractors. Speculation, stealing, party quarrels and personal disputes, a growing debt and depreciated money, according to a letter written by General Washington to Benjamin Harrison, ruled the day. In a letter to James Warren, written in March, 1779, Washington laments the decay of public virtue, which, with stock jobbing and party dissensions, has fed the hopes of the enemy and kept the British arms in America to this day.

"The days of Somerville, however, were not entirely devoid of entertainment. There was something besides forebodings as to the future. Thus upon the 18th of February, 1779, at General Knox's quarters in Pluckemin, with discharges of cannon, a dinner, fireworks and a ball, at which Washington danced with Mrs. Knox, the alliance between France and the United States was celebrated, while on the second day of May the army was paraded in honor of M. Gerard, the French minister, and Don Juan Marailles, a Spaniard of distinction.

"By reason of its associations with General Washington, Somerville, and especially the Wallace House," continued the speaker, "becomes of importance to every student of American history. In the letters written from the town one comes very close to one phase of the character of the 'real George Washington,' letters written regarding civil and not military affairs. One finds there in his constant protests against what we call 'graft' and his hope that the country may be soved from its baneful influence. Somerville was the spot where he carried on the battle against internal corruption, rather than against the British arms."

Warrant For F. J. Hahr.

A state warrant has been issued by Justice Warden, of Dunellen, against Felix J. Hahr, of Newark, a former Plainfielder, who is charged with having jumped a bond for $100. Hahr was arrested originally, it is alleged, for having sought to evade payment on a piano sold by A. E. Willard, of this city, agent for the Mathusek Piano Company. He failed to appear at the hearing last Thursday afternoon, and the complainant says he has skipped to the South. It was said this morning by H. C. Runyon, lawyer for the Mathuseks, that there was ground for the suspicion that Justice Warden had, in some way, lost or destroyed the bond.

FIREMAN'S WORKING ALONE SAVES HIS LIFE

LOCOMOTIVE TIRE BURST WHILE TRAIN WAS RUNNING 70 MILES AN HOUR.

A fast New York express train on the Reading road, known as No. 613, westbound, narrowly escaped a serious wreck on Sunday afternoon while passing through Woodbourne, Bucks county. While running seventy miles an hour a tire burst on one of the six-foot drivers and mashed the left side of the cab into kindling wood.

A singular feature connected with this unusual incident was that it happened while the fireman was in the tank shoveling coal into the firebox. His overcoat, which was hanging in the cab on his side, was torn in shreds. The main driving rod, weighing about 250 pounds, was bent three inches and the main steam pipe was bursted.

A relief engine was dispatched to the scene as soon as possible and the train resumed its trip to New York after about an hour's delay.

The train was drawn by engine 590, one of the large type of engines used by the New Jersey Central Railroad.

TILLMAN OR PERKINS OUT

One or the Other Must Go if the Assembly District Bill Passes and is Upheld.

BOTH IN ONE DISTRICT

Under Old Law, Custom Would Have Given Each a Renomination —Law Will Prevent It.

Either Randolph Perkins or Peter Tillman will be ineligible for a renomination as Assemblyman if the bill providing for the election of Assemblymen by districts instead of by counties as a whole goes through the Legislature with the boundaries of the districts for Union county as at present defined, and the constitutionality of the measure is upheld by the Court of Errors and Appeals, as expected by the sponsors of the proposed law.

An Assemblyman must live in the district he represents, and, as things now stand, the new district lines place both Tillman and Perkins in the Third district, which includes Westfield and Rahway. This district gave a Republican majority of considerably more than 2,000 at the last election, so that a nomination there is equivalent to an election.

Tillman is serving his first term in the Legislature. So is Perkins, if the unexpired term of former Assemblyman George H. Embree, which he was elected to fill, is not taken into account. There were not many days of the session of 1905 left when Perkins went to the Legislature the first time.

Next year each district will have a convention of its own, and the fight for a nomination will have to be carried on within the districts. It is said that Tillman and Perkins are both ambitious to serve another term in the House. It has been customary for an Assemblyman to be nominated for at least a second term when he desired it.

The status of Assemblyman Tucker, who lives in the Second district, which takes in the upper wards of Elizabeth, is not changed by the proposed redistricting bill.

It is said that the trouble in Middlesex county over the new lines has been adjousted, and that Theodore Strong and his supporters in New Brunswick have had to make some concessions to the Perth Amboy people. According to the lines submitted by the county committee, New Brunswick was made a district by itself, while Perth Amboy was placed in a district with a nearby township.

There is intense rivalry between Perth Amboy and New Brunswick. By the last census Perth Amboy had over 2,000 more inhabitants than New Brunswick. Naturally, therefore, when Perth Amboy found that New Brunswick was a district by itself, while Perth Amboy was in a district which had at least 2,000 more inhabitants than New Brunswick, Perth Amboy objected. The New Brunswick people admitted that the Perth Amboy district had many more inhabitants, but submitted figures to show that there were less than 800 more votes in the district, and they claimed that the truer basis of representation was voters, not inhabitants.

The reasoning, however, did not satisfy the committee, and the lines were changed somewhat to make the number of inhabitants in the district more equal.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY ELECTS.

Mrs. M. Winter President of First M. E. Organization.

The annual meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the First M. E. church was held in Vincent chapel, yesterday afternoon, election of officers and the reports for the year comprising the principal business. These reports showed that the past year had been an excellent one, there being an increase in membership and contributions to the work. The receipts were all expended for foreign missions.

The members decided to support for another year a Bible reader in India, encouraging reports being received concerning her work in foreign lands.

These officers were elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. M. Winter; first vice president, Mrs. Daniel R. Davis; second vice president, Mrs. Erastus Clark, Jr.; third vice president, Mrs. Nelson Y. Hull; recording secretary, Miss Minnie Sharp; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Maurice McGrath; treasurer, Miss Susie Jackson. Mrs. Winter will appoint committees and announce them at the next meeting of the society.

Improvements at First Presbyterian.

The improvements now underway at the First Presbyterian church will be completed within two weeks. There is being made a change in the lights about the pulpit platform and organ loft so that they will not shine directly in the eyes of persons sitting in the middle of the church.

PROTEGE WON HIS WIFE

W. C. Chamberlain Names the Man He Helped as Co-Respondent.

HE GETS HIS DECREE

For Illicit Intimacy With Joseph Stevens, Mrs. Chamberlain Is Absolutely Divorced—Couple Married Twenty-three Years.

Absolute divorce has been granted William C. Chamberlain, of this city, from his wife, Mary D. Chamberlain. The Court of Chancery granted the decree on statutory grounds, Joseph Stevens, of this city, being named as corespondent.

The Chamberlains were married twenty-three years ago in Bound Brook, where Mrs. Chamberlain, then Mary D. Martin, a girl in her teens, lived. They lived happily together until last year, when Chamberlain first discovered his wife's unfaithfulness.

Stevens, the corespondent, is a very old friend of the couple. It is said that he was taken into their household when very young, and practically raised. Chamberlain taught him his trade and gave him all the advantages he might have given his own son.

His intimacy with Mrs. Chamberlain was discovered by the husband early last year, at Chamberlain's own home. In his petition Chamberlain names Sea Breeze, Ward's Point, Princess Bay, S. I., and North Plainfield as the scenes of other offenses.

The Chamberlains began their married life in Raritan. They lived there fourteen years, after which they came to this city. Chamberlain left his wife on February 9, 1905. The couple have a daughter, who is married.

The decree was secured through Counselor W. S. Angleman.

BUMPY TIME FOR A JOURNALISTIC ROLLER.

The "Scribes" Walloped By Chief Kiely's Bowling Team of "Cops."

One earnest young student of journalism and four steady readers of his paper, calling themselves "The Scribes," played at bowling last night with a team that called itself The Police. The Police consisted of one real cop and four men who admire his uniform. The Police, captained by Chief Kiely, rolled The Scribes—lovely name—in the dust three times in succession. Then The Scribes quit. It was the end of the match, anyway, so they are not to be blamed for seeking a rest. Robert Verdant Hoffman, a senior at the Asbury Park School of Journalism, captained the Scribes.

The Police won by the following scores: 897-881; 855-847; 845-835. The teams lined up as follows: Police—Kiely, Pat Connolly, John Wirth, George Voehl and Carl Meyer, Jr. ("How could they hope to beat that combination of Dutch and Irish?" asks the Chief); Scribes—Hoffman, Patsy Reville, Ben Eddy, V. Willie Nash, and Frank Blatz. ("If I had come from Donegal instead of Whitehouse things might have been different," says Capt. Hoffman; "the rest of the team is all right.")

Looking Toward Memorial Day.

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., met last night, and discussed matters relative to Memorial Day. Commander Goodfellow will soon appoint the usual committees to look after the various details. Word was received at the meeting that Post Commander Atkins, of Ulric Dahlgren Post, Elizabeth, is a candidate for the office of commander of the department of New Jersey and asking the support of the local veterans for him.

A Record Quarry Blast.

One of the largest blasts that has ever been made at the Smalley stone quarry at the upper end of Somerset street was set off yesterday afternoon. Approximately 350 pounds of dynamite were discharged at once and a tremendous amount of material was dislodged. The blast was prepared and accomplished by Nicola Manguay, the head quarryman, and was witnessed by Mayor Smalley and a party of friends.

OPPOSE SCHANZ LICENSE

Councilmanic Committee to Present Adverse Report on Application For Saloon.

OPINION OF MEMBERS

Some of the Councilmen Inclined to Wait Until They Hear Reasons Before Committing Themselves.

It is practically certain that the license committee will present an unfavorable report on Charles Schanz's application for a liquor license at the April meeting of the Common Council on Monday night. This committee is composed of Councilmen F. L. Montgomery, Daniel T. Ginna and William S. Tyler.

When Mr. Tyler was questioned as to his position in this matter, he said: "I think that the committee will report adversely on Mr. Schanz's application. Of course, I cannot speak for Mr. Montgomery, chairman of the committee, but there has been no question as to how Mr. Ginna and I stand on the question.

"The only reason given as to why Mr. Schanz should have a license is the hard luck one and the Common Council cannot give a man a license simply on such a plea. If it was a question to be considered by private citizens it would be vastly different, but the hard luck story is not a good argument in favor of granting the application. If it didn't make any difference to the public, such as the question of putting up a flag pole, it would be different, but this is a matter of public importance solely. I am heartily sorry for Mr. Schanz, but the city or the Common Council is not responsible for the position he is in today and should not be held responsible for it."

Councilman Buxton when asked as to his position on this matter, replied: "I prefer to wait and see what report the license committee makes before giving an opinion."

Councilman W. L. Gloak says that he wants to hear what the members of the license committee has to say about the application.

GOLD MEDAL MINSTRELS TO PLAY NEARBY TOWNS

TROUPE HAS BEEN RE-ORGANIZED AND ENLARGED FOR EXTENDED TOUR.

The Gold Medal minstrel troupe, which played several local engagements last spring, has been reorganized by B. C. Firstbrook, and will soon be sent out over the "kerosene" circuit. Scotch Plains is to be the first stop, where the production will be given in Excelsior Hall under the auspices of the fire department and New Market and South Plainfield are to be visited soon afterward. There is a possibility that the amusement lovers of Stirling and Gallia will have an opportunity to applaud the troupe before the season closes.

The company numbers twenty artists, the pick of several recent local amateur shows. It is being backed by a well known Plainfielder who has spared no expense in providing costumes and effects and in some ways it will bear the ear marks of a professional undertaking.

In the event of the present plans meeting with success, the show will be enlarged next fall and will be booked in many of the larger cities of the State.

Among those who will take part in the performances are Jack Todd, the popular tenor; Ira Bowers, the citys' champion clog dancer; B. C. Firstbrook, Harry Blimm, William Doud, Harry Raymond, Jean Hafez, J. Cose, Harry Johnson, Hugh Ricketts, Harry De Meza, George Pope, E. C. Searing and Neil Lamont, the last named a former cornet soloist with Guy Brothers' show.

Missionary Societies Annual Meeting.

In addition to the reports, election of officers and other business there will be an address by Mrs. A. M. Post, a returned missionary, and tea will be served afterwards.

Durlach's Will Improve Property.

Alex. Kane has purchased the row of shacks on the Durlach property at East Front street and Watchung avenue, and will remove the buildings by April 1. It is the intention of the Durlach estate to erect modern buildings on the site.

—Mr. and Mrs. George Reighton, of West Second street, will move to Asbury Park the first of next week.

FILING OF CERTIFICATE REVEALS SECRET WEDDING

EVERETT SHERWIN AND MISS EDNA KENNEDY MARRIED 5 MONTHS AGO.

Through the filing of the usual certificate with the Board of Health authorities it was learned today that Miss Edna Kennedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Kennedy, of the Jackson building, and Everett Sherwin, son of Horace M. Sherwin, of Washington street, have been married exactly five months. They were wedded on September 28 last by Rev. J. R. Wright, pastor of the Methodist church at Westfield. The young people kept the fact a secret because of their ages, the groom having just turned twenty-one and the bride eighteen.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Sherwin have a host of acquaintances in the city and borough who will be greatly surprised at the announcement, though their engagement had been understood. The former is a draughtsman in the employ of a New York concern, while his bride has been assistant bookkeeper with J. A. Smith & Bro. She is a member of the First M. E. church and has been prominent in its church and religious work.

There was no opposition to the marriage on the part of parents and the information that it had taken place was met by them with hearty congratulations. The young couple will go to housekeeping within a short time.

FITZSIMMONS LIKELY TO FORFEIT OPTION

HITCH OVER PURCHASE OF MALTBY PROPERTY BY ACTOR-PUGILIST.

The much heralded entrance of "Bob" Fitzsimmons to Dunellen may prove a fizzle after all. Because the owners of the Maltby property can not close up a road that goes through the grounds the lanky pugilist has refused to carry out the purchase bargain and there is a well grounded report that he may seek elsewhere to establish his "down and out" club, about which the metropolitan newspapers have had so much to say.

The Maltby place is situated on the New Market-Bound Brook road and many years ago a side avenue was built through the lot. It has not been used in a long time, but as Fitzsimmons wanted his establishment to have strict privacy he did not like the idea of a loop hole by which the rank and file of the neighborhood could see the wornout sports disporting in the Middlesex county Fountain of Youth. Agents have tried to get the road closed, but it can be did, and Bob says "Nay, nay," when approached to take over the place.

At the present time the one-time champion and his wife are doing a turn in vaudeville and are evidently making more money than they could by a rejuvenating establishment.

Her Twelfth Birthday.

In honor of her twelfth birthday a party was given by Isabelle Gloak, daughter of Councilman and Mrs. W. L. Gloak, of East Second street. The guests included Donald Sminck, Alexander Campbell, Arthur Campbell, Ella Adams, Edith Adams, Ethel Neal, Albert Neal, Walter Fisher, Elizabeth Kenney, Burdock Hetfield, Harold Beekman, Raymond Meaney, Margaret Wilby, Elizabeth Hendry, Mabel Loizeaux, Margaret Loizeaux, May McAsse, Hazel Friez, Dora Callahan, Gertrude Montross, Harry Thorn, Harriet Wilson, Dorothy Hetfield, and her teacher, Miss Cora Barber.

Pass Builders' Bill.

Assembly bill, which provides that all master builders shall pass an examination and receive a certification of their ability and qualification to do construction work, passed the Assembly last night by a vote of 35 to 24. The local Master Builders' Association, as well as the leading associations throughout the State, are behind the bill and are doing all in their power to have it become a law.

ARTHUR W. TYLER DEAD

Organizer of Plainfield Public Library Succumbs in Muhlenberg Hospital.

A NOTED LIBRARIAN

Graduate of Amherst and Former Editor of New York Mail—Cousin of Col. Tyler and Brother of Mrs. R. P. Lincoln.

Arthur Wellington Tyler, organizer of the Plainfield Public Library, died in Muhlenberg Hospital yesterday, following an operation performed in that institution some time ago. He was a cousin of Col. Mason W. Tyler and a brother of Mrs. R. P. Lincoln. The funeral will be private and interment will be made in Pittsfield, Mass.

Mr. Tyler was born in Pittsfield, Mass., March 14, 1842. He was the son of Wellington Hart and Caroline Carpenter Tyler, founders of the Maplewood Institute, of that city, in its time one of the most successful schools in the country for the education of young women.

He was graduated from Amherst College in 1867, was for a time an editor of the New York Mail, and afterwards occupied a similar position on Moore's Rural New Yorker. Later he became assistant to the librarian of the Astor Library, New York, and from 1876 to 1879 was librarian of Johns Hopkins University library at Baltimore, Md.

From 1879 to 1883 Mr. Tyler was the librarian of the Indianapolis, Ind., Public Library, and during the following two years held a similar position at the Quincy, Ill., Public Library. Subsequently he organized the Plainfield Public Library and also the Public Library at Branford, Conn., which was endowed by Mr. Blackstone, of Chicago, at $500,000. Finally he became assistant to the librarian of the Carnegie Library, Washington, D. C.

In January last he went to Muhlenberg Hospital to have an operation performed.

NO ACTION TILL FALL ON WATER QUESTION

SO SAYS CHAIRMAN OF THE PUBLIC AFFAIRS COMMITTEE.

Now that the Senate bill introduced by Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, which amends the act for municipal control of water supply by defining what constitutes a legal majority at elections for such purposes, is a law, the question has arisen as to whether the taxpayers will be asked to vote again on the question of acquiring a municipal system of water works.

A reporter for The Daily Press in conversation with Councilman Herbert Buxton, chairman of the committee on public affairs, learned that the proposition will probably not be presented to the voters before next fall. Mr. Buxton says that as yet he has not had sufficient time to thoroughly look into the matter and in fact he has not become acquainted with the details of the amended bill. He will call a meeting of his committee within a short time to discuss the matter and a report will be presented later after a conference with Corporation Counsel Marsh.

Mr. Buxton says that in so important a matter, that of the city purchasing and owning its water works, due deliberation should be given, and he thinks that the several months intervening between now and September or October, should be devoted to a thorough explanation of the question so that everyone will know just what he is voting for when the election is held. In this way Mr. Buxton thinks that a fair expression of opinion may be obtained.

Another question arises, and that is as to whether it will be necessary to hold a special election on the water works' proposition. President Tolles, of the Common Council, says that he is of the opinion that the vote cannot be taken at the regular election and this opinion seems to be shared by a number of persons who are interested.

It would be unfair to hold such an election during the summer, it is said, when many voters are out of town and the result would be far from satisfactory. Under these conditions an election is improbable before September or October.

George F. T. Carter Dead.

George F. T. Carter, a New York business man, died at his home on North avenue, Fanwood, this morning. He had been ill a short time with pneumonia. He was forty-two years old and was the son of Amelia C. and the late James B. Carter. He leaves a wife and two children.

HE TOOK SLEUTH IN TOW

Husky Prisoner Compels Detective Mc Carthy to Go With Him.

WANTED HIM TO DRINK

Cop Has a Tough Time With a Good-Natured Drunken Giant—Two Bluecoats Needed to Arrest Him.

Detective McCarthy saw Robert McDonald, a P. S. C. lineman, making an unashamed display of a jag on Park avenue, near Second street, last night.

"You come along with me," said McCarthy, laying his hand on McDonald's arm.

McDonald, who is a big man, turned around and surveyed the detective, who is airy in construction. He smiled softly and took a firm grip of the sleuth's arm.

"You come along with me," he said, and McCarthy went.

McDonald didn't use the fly cop roughly. He didn't have to. He merely kept in his way, and his grip on McCarthy's arm kept the sleuth traveling in the same direction. And the Park avenue crowd laughed heartlessly.

"Have a drink? you're with me," said McDonald affably, as he reached the Kensington Hotel entrance. McCarthy, finding himself headed for a place abhorred by all good cops, decided to call for help. He had his billy with him and knows how to use it, but McDonald was acting in such perfect good humor that McCarthy didn't have the heart to welt him. So he signalled for reinforcements. Roundsman Flynn, who is as tough as nails, responded, and McDonald's picnic ended.

In the city court this morning McDonald's good nature showed engagingly above the rumpled effects of a night in the coop. Judge Runyon beamed with sympathetic geniality and suspended sentence.

STRIKE TALK ENDS IN TOBACCO SMOKE.

That Is, Aluminum Press Co.'s Order Forbidding It Started False Rumors.

Rumors of a strike at the Aluminum Plate and Press Co. plant, Dewey Park, came into town this morning. A Daily Press reporter called up Manager Joseph White and asked him about it.

"Strike! shucks!" said Mr. White. "We haven't any strike. We hung up a 'No Smoking' sign on the floor yesterday, and the men who smoke kicked on it. They have been in the habit of smoking on the floor, and they don't like to give up the privilege. That's all. None of them approached the management about it, and none has quit.

"Smoking about a plant of this kind is bad," continued Mr. White. "There is a lot of oily waste scattered about and a cigarette end or a pipe spark might cause a serious and expensive fire. Smoking about plants like this is not usually allowed and we are not treating the men with undue severity in forbidding it. They may smoke in the washroom, as it is."

Auto Class Organized.

The automobile training class at the Y. M. C. A. has been organized and will start in on a course of twelve lessons tomorrow night, taught by Clarence Brokaw, principal of the New York Auto School. The class roll is as follows: F. L. C. Martin, D. W. Taylor, J. J. Slevin, F. C. Ard, M. D., L. Borsum, D. R. Clark, B. Hedges, M. D., F. J. Hughes, M. D., R. Rushmore, F. A. Pope, F. D. Lounsbury, P. J. Zeglio, M. D., A. C. Thompson, J. Cline and Dorsey Hyde.

About That Fight Story.

It was reported in town Monday and yesterday that local sports had arranged and conducted a prize fight in a hotel at Scotch Plains, Saturday night. An investigation shows that the story is the result of someone's vivid imagination. The only fight at the Plains Saturday night was one in which an intoxicated individual got fresh and was dumped on the sidewalk.

Board of Health Busy.

The Board of Health is after the owner of the property at Plainfield avenue and Short Second street. The building is in the same class with the shacks on the Durlach property on Watchung avenue, and it proposes to effect an improvement at the earliest date. The property is considered unsanitary and detrimental to health.

A.O.U.W. LODGE PROTEST

Appeal Taken From New Jersey Grand Lodge's Order of Special Assessment.

CHANGES THE RATES

Central Lodge Petition Sets Forth Wherein Grand Lodge Is Alleged to Have Violated Constitution of Order.

Master Workman Theodore Mason and Recorder Harvey R. Thorn, of Central Lodge, No. 48, Ancient Order United Workmen, acting in accordance with the instructions of the lodge, have filed an appeal with Grand Master Workman Fred P. Fowle, of the Grand Lodge of New Jersey, from the action of the Grand Lodge at the fifteenth annual session at Atlantic City, in adopting a resolution, whereby an assessment of twenty-five cents per $1,000 was to be levied each month on all members under fifty years of age and fifty cents on each member above fifty years, for a general fund assessment, but to be collected under the laws governing the collection of the beneciary fund to be known as an "emergency fund." The petition sets forth several reasons why this action should not be permitted to stand.

In the first place it is cited in the appeal that no authority is conferred by the Supreme Lodge upon the Grand Lodge for the creation of an emergency fund; that the action was a change in the assessment rates for the beneficiary fund and can only be consummated under the constitution of the Grand Lodge by sending copies of the proposed change to the grand recorded sixty days prior to the Grand Lodge meeting and printed copies thereof sent by him to the subordinate lodges in sufficient numbers to supply the membership and requiring a two-thirds vote of the members present and voting for its adoption.

It is further set forth in the appeal that said change was adopted by a vote of fifty-two to forty-eight, which it is claimed was not a two-thirds vote; that under the action of the Grand Lodge such change goes into effect at once, in violation of article twenty-five of the constitution of the Grand Lodge, requiring the changes in order to become operative to be approved by the Supreme Lodge.

It is also cited that if the power is invested in the Grand Lodge to raise such a fund by assessment for the general fund, such action is an injustice upon the members by discriminating between those under the age of fifty years and those over fifty years, and that the said legislation is illegal, unconstitutional and unjust.

The petitioners request that in compliance with the laws of the order that the Grand Recorder be requested to prepare the transcript of the proceedings of the Grand Lodge of New Jersey at its late session appertaining to the said legislation and that the papers be transmitted to the Supreme Recorder for the action of the Supreme Lodge.

Master Workman Theodore Mason, Recorder Harvey R. Thorn and William Newcorn comprise the committee from Central Lodge, that is taking this matter up in the interest of the opponents to the plan adopted at the late session of the New Jersey Grand Lodge.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

While the average rural drama revolves usually around the "one man" who poses as the star of the piece, in "York State Folks" the two great characters of Myron Cooper and Simon Peter Martin are in the hands of Ray L. Royce and James Lackaye, respectively, and it will be a matter of grave doubt in the minds of the auditors of the play when it comes to the New Plainfield theatre tonight whether the one part is not as well played as the other. Equal honors are given these two actors by the New York papers, where "York State Folks" has just concluded its successful run at the Majestic theatre.

In all great centers of civilization where the human drone of traffic are persuasive and familiar "The Pit," in which Wilton Lackaye appears at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night, should go with a bound because of the truth of its pictures of trade which will make a strong appeal to this materialistic age, so full of sternuous and arrogant commercialism. Nor need there be any fear of the universality of its appeal, for the vivid love story it contains should capture the imagination of all men and women alike.

Many doubts were expressed as to how the New York public would take Thomas Dixon, Jr.'s, Reconstruction play, "The Clansman," but the recent splendid run at the Liberty theatre demonstrated that such fears were groundless. The theatre was crowded to its capacity at every performance and the spectators were unanimous in pronouncing "The Clansman" the most thrilling drama they had ever witnessed. Manager George H. Brennan offered the succeeding attraction at the Liberty the sum of $5,000 to allow "The Clansman" to run out the balance of the season, but the offer was refused. The New York run therefore has been temporarily interrupted while the company visits a few Eastern cities for which contracts were made last fall. Among the playhouses favored for the spring tour is Plainfield, at which the metropolitan company will appear Friday night.

The singing contingent with the famous old Haverly show, which plays an engagement at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night, numbers this year in its roster the best voices since its inception. The singers are all young with fresh musical voices and can be relied upon to please with all that is new in the latest popular song hits. Among the soloists may be mentioned George T. Martin, the celebrated lyric tenor, whose marvelous voice has created a furore wherever the Haverly show has appeared this season. Walter A. Wolfe, a comic opera basso, who joins this big show direct from one of Broadway's largest productions; Richard Hunter, a tenor soloist with a captivating voice, and Bruce Waiman, the charming baritone. In addition the Haverly choir will sing all the latest song hits. The Haverly show this season contains more music and melody than most of the musical productions on the road.

The celebrated farceurs, Davis and Mack, who have for years been recognized leaders of extravagant farce comedy, will visit us next Monday evening at the New Plainfield theatre, when they will be seen in their ever welcome comedy, "The Irish Pawnbrokers," which is by long odds the very best skit they have ever had. It is plausible, has a well defined plot, is as chuck full of roaring comedy situations as a shad is full of bones, and could be played without a single specialty, but Davis and Mack have always introduced a goodly number of specialties and this season they are keeping in line of their well established custom.

Mildred Holland and her excellent company will play an engagement at the New Plainfield theatre on Tuesday night next, which will be the first appearance of Miss Holland in her triumphant success, "The Power Behind the Throne." This drama the past two seasons scored an emphatic success wherever the play has been presented. Its military cast, thrilling sword play and numerous chivalric deeds have combined to make this play one of the strongest and most popular stage productions of the decade. Everything necessary to produce beautiful and historically correct pictures is carried by the company, including the furniture, which was modeled and built from correct drawings.

One of the biggest hits in a spectacular farce comedy way is that humorous affair called "McFadden's Flats," which will be a welcome visitor at the New Plainfield theatre Thursday night, April 5. It comes this time brought up to date in every way and as a scenic production of the kind has few if any equals. Every act this year is newly designed and painted, the chorus of attractive girls has been increased in number and recostumed in a very costly fashion that lends beauty and grace to the ensembles; besides all this the piece has been cleverly rearranged and new comedy inserted together with other bright infusion.

William Jukes, who has been at Muhlenberg Hospital because of a fractured knee-cap, is able to be about and will soon be discharged.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Anthony, of Kingston, are the parents of a baby daughter who came to their home a few days ago. Mrs. Anthony was formerly Miss Adaline Manning, of Grant avenue.

DEEDS, NOT WORDS.

Plainfield People Have Absolute Proof of Deeds at Home.

It's not words, but deeds that prove true merit.

The deeds of Doan's Kidney Pills,
For Plainfield kidney sufferers,
Have made their local reputation.

Proof lies in the testimony of Plainfield people who have been cured to stay cured.

Mrs. Margaret Reville, of 732 West Third street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "For a long time I was troubled with a lame back and never found anything which gave me relief until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's pharmacy. In a short time after beginning to take them I felt their good effects, and from then on I improved steadily. I gave a statement at that time telling what Doan's Kidney Pills did for me, and I am glad to confirm everything I have previously said regarding the curative properties of this remedy. I used several other medicines to cure the lameness and aching in my back but got no relief until I took Doan's Kidney Pills and I give Doan's all teh credit for my being cured."

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

According to his contract with the York, Tri-State League Club, "Lou" Wiltse when not pitching for the team is to play a field position in every game.

The Perth Amboy fans are getting jealous over Plainfield's progress in baseball affairs and they say that it should be easier to raise money for a team in their town than in Plainfield.

"Lou" Wiltse expects to have an opportunity to get some practice with the Jersey City Eastern Leaguers while they are training in town. He suggested yesterday that it might be possible to get up a game with the "Skeeters," using local material as an opposing side.

It is unreasonable for a ball player to expect to get as much money for playing a Saturday game as his whole week's salary amounts to. Yet this is true in some cases. A little more liberality on the part of the player would go a good ways toward making the game a success.

Manager Daab will have no trouble in getting together a strong aggregation judging by the applications he has received for positions on the nine. Players of known and recognized ability are only too anxious to sign with Mr. Daab, and it is only a question as to who he desires to select.

It is seriously doubted whether the Ridgewood Club can pay the enormous salaries offered to its players. Linderman, according to his statement, is to receive $105 for pitching Saturday and Sunday. He is to get $70 for his Sunday game. The other members of the team are to receive salaries in proportion.

"Billy" Nash, the former star third baseman and captain of the Boston Nationals, was in town yesterday and was much interested in the plans of the Plainfield Baseball Association. The veteran player thinks that the coming season will be a prosperous one for this city. He promises to attend some of the games during the summer.

Manager Joe Gavett, of the P. H. S. team, has scheduled a game with DeWitt Clinton School, of Brooklyn, to be played on Crescent Oval, Friday, April 13. This will be one of the star attractions for the followers of scholastic sport. The candidates for the P. H. S. team are now practicing in the gymnasium every day and the regular nine will be chosen soon. It is admitted that the team will miss the services of "Phil." Smith, the star twirler, very much. He joins Manager Daab after May 1. Mahaffey and Lindbury are promising candidates for his place on the team.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Now for the three big ones—"York State Folks," "The Pit" and "The Clansman," not forgetting Haverly's aggregation of Ethiopian exponents.

Howe's moving pictures, which made such a big hit when shown here earlier in the season, has been booked for a return date, playing matinee and night, April 9. The programme will be made up of all new subjects.

Manager Counihan and Treasurer Cunningham witnessed the big blast at Mayor Smalley's stone crusher yesterday. The former says it beat the explosion in "In Old Kentucky" and could be featured in a melodrama. That Counihan fellow always did have an eye to business.

It has been given out unofficially that Doorman Rafferty is going to search the hip pockets of every man who enters the gallery Friday night. Whether or not there is anything in "The Clansman" to arouse animosity doesn't make any difference with him but just the same Jack says he never did care to run chances.

Lewis Morrison and his "Faust" have been booked for early production at the New Plainfield. The last time Morrison was seen here, something like seven years ago, his scenery car arrived at 10:30 at night and the show began an hour later. It was given in its entirety, however, and Morrison announced to the audience that he hoped to return to Plainfield again some day and play under more auspicious circumstances. His production is one of the best known on the road while he has appeared in the role of "Mephisto" before fully nine million people in the last twenty years.

Men's Meeting Sunday.

Rev. Dr. James I. Vance, "The Eloquent Southerner," will address the men's meeting to be held under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. at the New Plainfield theatre next Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The Lotus Glee Club and the Y. M. C. A. Orchestra will furnish special music. There will be an orchestral programme at 3:30 p. m. The singing will be led by a chorus of male voices under the direction of William C.

BRIDGE ACCIDENT VICTIM RECOVERING.

Suction of Passing Train Responsible for Walter Smalley's Injuries.

Walter Smalley, the former borough marshal who was nearly killed in an accident on the Newark bay bridge Saturday afternoon, is now at his home on Somerset street and is recovering nicely under the care of Dr. J. H. Buchanan. His principal injury is a deep gash back of the thigh, about five inches in length, but he also suffers great pain because of numerous bruises.

In speaking of the accident this morning, Mr. Smalley said it was not due to carelessness on his part. He, with three other men, had been pulling a float along the water to place it in a position under the bridge when they noticed the Phillipsburg express approaching. They crowded to the edge of the ties to wait its passing and one of the men, Philip Longcore, of Richmond street, was so near the train the suction caused him to throw up his hands which still retained the rope attached to the float. Smalley also held the rope and as he was resting on his knees Longcore's action made him lose his balance and fall forward. A projection on one of the cars, possibly a step, struck him on the thigh, knocking his down and almost into the water.

He was able to rise as soon as the express passed and the other men assisted him to the Elizabeth hospital. After his injuries had been dressed he came to his home. The first report of the accident stated that he was walking on the bridge with a plank and neglected to take proper caution while on the tracks.

BUILDING BOOM ON.

Outlook Good for Many New Dwellings

Prospects for a building boom in Plainfield and vicinity this summer are considered promising and as soon as the weather settles the work of erecting a large number of dwellings will be started. Notwithstanding the high prices of materials there seems to be plenty of money for building purposes.

Particulary it is said that there is likely to be considerable building in the business section of the city. Contractors, mason and all lines of mechanics have been receiving numerous plans within the past few weeks calling for dwellings, both large and small.

Perhaps the greatest demand is for houses of moderate rent, between $15 and $25. There are a number that rent for $50 and over.

Rev. George Mooney, of West Fourth street, who has been ill, is now convalescing. Mrs. Mooney is also recovering from an illness.

State Campaign Lays Out Programme of Work in Aid of Sick.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

Hugh F. Fox Made a Member of the State Executive Committee.

Definite plans of work for the recently organized New Jersey Association for the Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis were discussed at a meeting, held by the board of directors at the Free Public Library at Newark Monday afternoon. Hugh F. Fox represented Plainfield. At the same time an executive committee was organized, a temporary president named and a report received that a committee for Newark was almost ready for organization.

It is planned to form committees in the various communities throughout the State to secure a large membership list, which shall contribute to the support of the work, and to engage an executive secretary, under salary, who shall assist in the organization of the local committees, prepare literature on tuberculosis and its care, and generally arouse and keep awake interest in the matter.

Dr. Theodore W Corwin, of Newark; Mrs. Caroline B. Alexander, of Hoboken; Mrs. C. Ledyard Blair, of Bernardsville; Professor Elmer H. Loomis, of Princeton, and Hugh F. Fox, of this city, were made members of the executive committee, to work with Bleecker VanWagenen, the temporary president, and Robert L. Stevens, of Hoboken, secretary and treasurer. To this committee was given the power to engage the executive secretary and arrange for incorporation, should it be deemed advisable.

There was some discussion as to the policy to be adopted; whether it should encourage the establishment of local sanitaria in each community, or the centralization of effort to care for curable cases in one large institution. H. S. Kearny, of Lakewood, finally suggested that the matter be left over until more funds had been secured.

The executive committee was instructed to communicate immediately with the people of Newark who are ready to start the local committee, and also with people in Jersey City. Mrs. Alexander reported that the prospect for a municipal camp for tuberculosis patients at Jersey City was bright and that definite action by the local Board of Health was expected in a week or two. The question of location then came up for discussion, and when Snake Hill was suggested, Dr. Dickinson declared that he felt the place would not be altogether satisfactory unless the mosquitoes were eliminated. He said he felt that if the anti-mosquito movement were properly pushed all trouble from that source would be done away with in a few months.

It was suggested that the board of directors be enlarged to fifty members, instead of thirty, as it is at present, and this will be done at the next meeting.

Those in attendance besides those mentioned were Arthur W. McDougall, Rabbi Solomon Foster, Dr. Dickinson, Mr. Kearny and Dr. J. C. Parsons, of Jersey City. Dr. I. H. Hance, of Lakewood, presided.

P. P. A. AT WORK.

Several Committees Appointed by President Depew.

The executive committee from the Plainfield Protective Association met at the Casino Monday night, when several committees were appointed by President R. Henry Depew to take up the different work to be undertaken by the association.

The rest of the evening was devoted to an informal discussion of topics of general interest. They will be brought up at the next meeting of the association to be held at the Casino early in April. It was the opinion of the executive committee that progress is being made and that the association will accomplish much good in its fight for lower rates for the use of gas and electricity.

ELECTROCUTION BILL UP TO THE GOVERNOR.

No More Hangings If Stokes Signs Senate Bill No. 42.

The House at Trenton yesterday afternoon passed the electrocution bill Senate 42, which abolishes the old method of hanging and brings in the modern way of putting to death condemned criminals by electricity.

When the measure was up for final passage Mr. Mabie, Bergen, spoke for it, saying that the new method of putting murderers to death was abhorrent and must cease at the call of the people.

Mr. Barber, Mercer, was not satisfied with the statements that the place of execution had been changed from Trenton and he asked if that was so. Mr. Mabie said that Trenton was not to be the hangtown and then Mr. Barber said he had no objections to the measure.

The bill passed, 43 ayes to 8 nays.

AUTOISTS TURN ON CARRIAGE DRIVERS

RETALIATORY BILL INTRODUCED IN ASSEMBLY—EQUAL TAXATION PASSES.

Trenton, March 28.—A measure that appears to be a retaliatory bill against horse-owners on account of the drastic Frelinghuysen Automobile bill was introduced in the Assembly today by Chairman Perkins, of the Judiciary Committee, which has charge of the Automobile bill in the House.

Mr. Perkins is an enthusiastic autoist, and will not consent to reporting the Frelinghuysen bill to the House with all its drastic provisions. The new bill provides that two lamps, one on either side, shall be used on vehicles on public highways from one hour after sunset to one hour before sunrise.

Autoists say it is unfair to make them show lights and let other vehicles use the roads without this precaution.

It is understood that this bill is the first of a series of retaliatory measures that will be urged upon the Legislature should the Frelinghuysen bill be pressed through in unamended form.

The Senate yesterday passed unanimously the Perkins Equal Taxation bill as it came from the House. It provides for the assessment of all railroad properties, with the exception of second class, by the State Board of Assessors, the tax to be paid to the State at the average local rate. The taxation of second-class railroad properties is provided for in the Duffield law of last year. The bill now goes to the Governor.

ASSEMBLY KILLS CHILD LABOR BILL.

Measure Advocated by Hugh F. Fox Is Defeated.

South Jersey interests yesterday in the Assembly succeeded in defeating the bill which would forbid the employment of children under the age of 16 years in any mercantile establishment more than fifty-eight hours a week or between 7 p. m. and 7 a. m., except once a week when the time is extended to 11 p. m. This measure was advocated in committee by Hugh F. Fox, of this city, president of the State Children's Aid Association.

Mr. Roeber explained that the bill was only an extension to department stores, telegraph or messenger concerns, restaurants and the like, of the laws that apply now to factories. The bill was backed by the State Charities Association. When it came up Mr. Cattell, of Gloucester, said he would have to vote against it because it might interfere with the South Jersey glass factories. Despite Mr. Roeger's statement that the bill applied only to mercantile establishments, he could get only thirteen votes for it, while twenty-six voted against it. Sixteen did not vote. Mr. Roeber changed his vote to nay, so as to have it reconsidered. In the meantime he will try to convert enough of the members to pass the bill.

Approve Parcels Post.

Trenton, March 28.—As already announced, the concurrent resolution calling on Congress to pass the parcels post bill was introduced last night in the House by Assemblyman Miller, of Cumberland county. The bill provides for the consolidation of third and fourth class mail matter, the rates of postage to be one cent for each two ounces. The resolution was passed unanimously.

—J. A. Koch will remove Thursday from East Second street to 726 Kensington avenue.

—Asa F. Randolph, Esq., has taken new offices in the Babcock building and moved there yesterday.

FENCE FOR THE BALL FIELD IS IN SIGHT

If the rabid fans want some preseason amusement, they might take a trip to the grounds of the defunct Carteret Gun Club near Westfield. In the high board fence surrounding the grounds they will see what is likely to be the fence around their own little ballyard.

The gun club has been out of business for two years, and the fence is for sale. It seems to be just what the Plainfield association needs to enclose its grounds, and Mayor Smalley's attention has been called to it. He will take a trip to Carteret some day this week, it is expected, to look the woodwork over, and see the men who have its disposition in charge.

It is believed the material can be secured at a low price. A member of the association who has seen the fence said last night that it was more than the Plainfield grounds required. The gun club property, he said, was larger than the Oval field, and it was all enclosed. The fence is comparatively new, and in excellent condition.

Bought in at a right figure, the boards would be one of the most profitable investments the association could make. It is estimated that enclosed grounds return ten per cent. more in receipts than grounds unfenced. At the figure it is hoped to secure the gun club material, it is possible, with advertising privileges to help out, that the fence will pay for itself in one season.

NEWSPAPER PROGRESS.

Newspapers grow better in their character and their influence. This fact may lately have been obscured by the amount of criticism, most of it just, that has been passed upon certain evils in the press. Papers are proper subjects of criticism, like gas companies, insurance companies, politics or oil trusts, and we have been among those to be as frank about our own profession as about any other. The truth remains that the American newspapers today have more power and use it for better ends than at any previous time. We are trying to remove corruption from the great business enterprises that affect the welfare of us all. At present the wave of exposure seems to accompany a genuine moral uplift. If it is real, if the whole tone of our society is being raised, then this belief in better newspapers will be justified. If there is no genuine improvement in our hearts, if the outbreak of exposure is only an epidemic, then, of course, this apparent step forward of the press will prove illusive also. We are glad to be among those who believe in its reality.—From Collier's Weekly.

M. A. Brown, of 218 West Second street, is now prepared to do cleaning and pressing of clothes for men and women at right prices.

It is now time to have your spring and summer clothing cleaned and pressed and A. LeVine, of Watchung avenue, will do the work promptly and reasonable.

P. H. Latourette, auctioneer, will sell on Thursday afternoon, March 29, at 1 o'clock, a large assortment of household goods. The sale will be held at 219 East Fifth street, and persons in search of anything in the housefurnishing line should attend this sale by all means.

A. M. Griffen, of East Front street, is showing a large stock of general handware, housefurnishing goods and builders' materials. The housefurnishing goods department is one of the strong attractions at this store and the quality is not only the best but the prices most reasonable. Since moving the carpet department to the main floor the additional room allows for a far better display of the handsome stock. The women are greatly interested in the fine showing of dress goods, second to none, while the men are equally interested in the large showing of furnishings, including shirts, neckties, gloves and in fact everything that a man needs in the way of furnishings.

CRANFORD CITIZENS TO BANQUET THEIR HOSTS.

Those Who Attended Launching of Jersey Central Boat to Reciprocate.

Cranford, March 27.—More than half the number of citizens who were guests of the Central Railroad Company and the Harlan & Hollingsworth Corporation when the new ferryboat "Cranford" was launched at Wilmington, Del., last fall, held a meeting in the township rooms on Saturday night, when it was decided to give a banquet to the officers of the railroad and of the shipbuilding corporation, in appreciation of the splendid hospitality which they extended to the citizens who went to Wilmington. It is also proposed to tell the railroad people at the dinner how proud the entire population of the town is over the new stations for east and westbound trains which the Central Railroad has about completed.

No date was fixed for thee banquet, but it will probably be held in the evening at about the time the new stations are ready when it is intended that the occasion will mark the opening of these handsome structures. It is estimated that the stations will be ready in two weeks' time. The banquet will be held in the auditorium of the Opera House and will be a stag affair. The following committee was appointed to make all the necessary arrangements: Thomas A. Sperry, Max O. Doering, James W. Ferguson, Edwin G. Woodling, W. M. Sperry, C. W. Burtis, H. N. Fiske, R. J. Mix and John H. Thompson.

BATS, NOT A GHOST.

Family's Fears, Caused by Uncanny Noises, Proved Groundless.

For the past few weeks the family of Peter D. Farley, a builder, who lives on a small farm near Mountainville, three mailes southeast of Califon, has been alarmed at mysterious noises at their home.

During the warm spell about four weeks ago they first were attracted by the unusual noise, which appeared to them to come from the cellar. An investigation was made, but no cause could be assigned. After returning to the dining room it continued and ceased again when Mr. Farley entered the cellar.

The family was beginning to grow quite nervous, but yesterday the mystery was solved when it was discovered that bats made the noises.

The coffee pot is always cold
It's ever so when coal you burn
When you use gas, the tables turn.

At Breakfast Time.

There are few things so discouraging as a poor cup of coffee for breakfast. But one can't expect good coffee if the fire won't burn. With coal this happens frequently—with gas never. Turn the stop-cock, apply the match and there you are. The morning coffee is assured. Not only the morning coffee but every meal, every day, is easily cooked on a gas range. Prices, $9.50 to $15.00. $2.00 down; $2.00 a month. Connections Free.

GOTHAM'S AMUSEMENTS

The acme of excellence has been reached in the presentation by F. F. Proctor of attractions never before seen in vaudeville, but with him there is no such word as fail, and there is no cause for retrieve. Therefore, the bill for the week of March 26 at Proctor's 23d Street theatre is one which every lover of vaudeville should see. Henri DeVries, Europe's greatest character actor, will present his protean play, "A Case of Arson," playing himself seven different characters. Next comes Kitty Traney, with her European circus, which appeals largely to the children, but to the grown people as well. The acrobatic end of the bill is upheld by the wonderful Dollar Troupe of acrobats. There is a touch of Broadway comedy in S. Miller Kent's little playlet, entitled "Just Dorothy," and a sample of comic opera, as presented by Allie Gilbert and her Summer Girls. Dancing finds its exponents in Emma Francis and her whirlwind dancers. Clarence Vance will sing coon songs in her own inimitable way, while the rest of the bill includes Alfred Arneson, Gilday and Fox and Johnson and Wells.

PENNSY PUSHES WORK ON ITS ELECTRIC ROAD.

Engineering Feat Accomplished Sunday in Bridge Construction at Woodbury.

Woodbury, March 27.—All Sunday two cranes and a big force of men worked at putting in one of the immense new girders across the creek here, as part of the West Jersey Railroad improvements. This girder, weighing hundreds of tons, was picked up by the crane and carried several years, then dropped into position without mishap.

For days preparations had been made for this work, and as soon as the last train up yesterday morning had passed the operations were begun. Another will be placed on the southbound track next Sunday. It will be wide enough to provide for the additional track to be laid for the electrification of the road.

All the creeks between here and Camden are being spanned by new iron bridges. The improvements go on night and day, and there is little doubt that everything will be complete for a trial of the electric system by July 1.

Portions of the third track between here and Camden are completed. Hundreds of tons of copper bonding wire have been dumped off at Westville and Glassboro. This wire is guarded at night, because of the temptation it offers to wire thieves.

—Mr. and Mrs. Eugene O'Reilley, of North avenue, are making preparations to move to Union, where the former will take charge of the old Meeker Inn.

—Andrew McClean Parker, of this city, will give an illustrated lecture at the Plainfield Camera Club rooms Friday night, on the subject of "The Panama Canal." This is a subject that Mr. Parker is very familiar with and it should be of interest to everyone.

MRS. APPLEGATE WELL AGAIN!

"I have had a bruised leg and foot for several years, caused by the brass eyelets of my shoe, which became very sore and painful especially at night. It itched, burned and ached me till it nearly set me crazy. I used everything I found and was suggested to ease it and nothing gave me any relief till I found and applied Azienza Cream which I think is a wonderful remedy for all sores and inflammation of the skin. The hard knots on my legs were as painful as bee stings, with discolored and purple spots. A running sore on my instep size of a half-dollar; the toe of my foot a seething sore clean around to my heel. The bone was sore for a whole year and very painful. I used five and one-half jars of Azienza Cream and healed the sore all up. The foot remained tender and I continued to use to strengthen and toughen the skin until now it is entirely well." ACKERMAN'S ARGUMENTS

Taxing of Franchises Not an Equal Taxation Idea, He Reasons.

HIS EFFORTS FUTILE

To Consider Railroad Franchises As Property While Those of Other Corporations Are Not Is Wrong, He Declared.

As told exclusively in The Daily Press, the equal taxation bill introduced by Mr. Perkins was passed by the Senate yesterday and is now up to the Governor. The debate over the measure was a heated and prolonged one.

The first amendment to be taken up was one proposed by Senator Ackerman. The object of this amendment was to take out of the operation of the bill the taxing of the franchise. Senator Ackerman, in an able speech, contended that the franchise of railroads and canal companies should be spearately taxed in a manner similar to that of other corporations, and that the present tax of one-half of one per cent. was at the present time sufficient as a license tax or tax to do business, and that the question of the taxing of the franchise had nothing to do with the question of equal taxation, as equal taxation concerned itself solely with land and tangible personal property. His speech, which was the first made on the subject in the Senate, was listened to with the greatest interest by the Senate and the crowded galleries, and at its conclusion he was rapidly interrogated in regard to the matter by Senator Colby, Senator Hillery, Senator Wakelee, Senator Minturn and Senator Avis. Senator Ackerman ably held his own in the debate which followed.

In supporting his amendment Senator Ackerman said:

"The great difficulty with all schemes of taxation is to bring about uniformity and equality. The Supreme Court of the United States has said, 'Perfect uniformity and perfect quality of taxation in all its aspects in which the human mind can view it is a baseless dream.'

"It may be said that the State has for many years exercised this power of taxing railroad franchises, but the mere exercise of a power does not prove that it is equitable. For many years institutions of learning in New York State raised money by lotteries, for many years manufacturers of oil threw away material now discovered to be useful, for many years, with the approval of the courts, men and women were bought and sold as chattels. Mere power to do a thing does not prove that doing that thing is either right or proper.

"The proper way to look at this question, when we are considering, not the constitutionality of a law alread enacted, but the question whether such a law ought to be enacted, is to look at it from the standpoint of the great principles which underlie our civilization.

"Adam Smith's statement in his "Wealth of Nations," has become classic. It reads as follows: 'The subjects of every State ought to contribute to the support of government as nearly as possible in proportion to their respective abilities; that is in proportion to the revenues they enjoy under the protection of the States. In the observation or neglect of this maxim consists what is called the equality or inequality of taxation.' He makes also a further statement which is as follows: 'Equality of burden necessarily involves:

"'I. Valuation by a uniform standard of value.

"'II. Assessment at a uniform rate.

"'III. Application of the valuation by uniform standard and assessment at uniform rate to all taxable property.'

"It ought to be perfectly plain, that to consider the franchise of a railroad as property either personal or real, while the franchise of other corporations are not so considered, is contrary to these fundamental principles; and to take into consideration in fixing valuation of the property of the railroad corporation any element which is omitted in the valuation of property in another corporation is discriminating against one and favoring the other, which absolutely destroys uniformity, so that it is not just and equal taxation.

"A railroad franchise can not be leased, but a franchise of a miscellaneous corporation can be leased. Yet a railroad franchise is treated as property and is so taxed, while a miscellaneous corporation franchise is treated as a license. The courts of this State have held that the tax of one-tenth of one per cent. on miscellaneous corporations is merely a license tax or tax for authority to do business. But even if a railroad franchise can be legitimately styled property, it is a property with a limited ownership only. This is so because a miscellaneous corporation franchise can be leased, while a railroad franchise can not be leased.

"The ownership, therefore, of the so-called property of the franchise is a limited ownership only. Yet the same tax is exacted from this property of limited ownership as is exacted from property of non-limited ownership. Is this equitable, fair or just?

"It seems to me that this State, in saying that a railroad should pay on its franchise at the same rate and be assessed in same way as on its roadbed, is taking into consideration in fixing that rate and valuation elements which are not taken into consideration in fixing the valuation of the property of other organizations.

"It is generally understood that unless so declared by law a franchise tax is not a tax on property, but is imposed upon a corporation for the privilege of carrying on business in the State. But the mere privilege of carrying on business in a State is worthless, unless some man or group of men come forward to exercise the powers granted. Lots of franchises go begging. And it is common experience that one man uses a franchise a little while and it is destroyed, another comes along and takes it up, and it becomes exceedingly valuable. A professor in a college just before the days of electric lights, showing his class a rough arc light which he had constructed, remarked that it had 'no pecuniary value.' But an Edison takes hold of it, procures what is really a franchise in the shape of a patent, puts his brains into it, and the electric light is worth millions. This is true of railroads; one set of men run a road and in a little while a receiver is appointed and there is no taxable franchise left; another set takes hold, men of brains, and the stockholders, widows and orphans some of them, begin to get an income. In other words, a tax on a franchise is a tax on brains, because the only thing that gives a franchise its value is somebody's brains.

"Under the law as it was before 1884, the railroads paid an annual tax of $713,000. Since that time they have paid an average of $1,400,000. Under the present bill, leaving out the franchise, and on an average rate of one and one-half per cent., they would pay $2,850,000, and on an average rate of two per cent., they would pay $3,800,000, which is more than the 10,065 other corporations pay to the State, as their tax is about $3,605,000.

"The present law, which, on the average, doubled the amount of tax raised from the railroads, has stood for twenty years. Leaving out the franchise, the present bill will again double the amount of tax.

"We want to put our names to a bill that will stand as long as the present law has stood."

Senator Bradley agreed with Senator Ackerman that the franchise should be taxed separately and argued for a taxation of franchises on a gross recepit basis at whatever raet might be deemed wise.

On a vote being taken, Senator Ackerman's amendment was declared lost.

The amendments proposed by Senator Colby, Senator Minturn and Senator Bradley, the president of the Senate, were also lost.

When the roll was called on the passage of the bill, Senator Ackerman arose and said that he should vote for the bill, although he still believed in what he had advocated earlier in the day, and that he should continue to work for a separation of the taxing of the franchise from that of the land and the tangible personal property and that he believed the time would come when the separation would be made.

DEEGAN OR WALLER WILL BE THE PITCHER

CHOICE LIES BETWEEN THE TWO GIANTS OF LAST SEASON.

Doubt still hovers over the pitching department of the Plainfield team. Manager Daab has not yet made his choice of a twirler with any definiteness, although the job lies between Willy Deegan, last season's star, and his opponent of the pennant fight, J. Red Waller.

Red wants to pitch for Daab's combination, and the manager likes his style. For that matter, so does everybody who has seen Red perform. He is a boxman of the first class, and the team that gives him proper support has no worries. Red has an ardent admiration for the sort of combination that Manager Daab seems to have the knack of getting together. He said openly a half a dozen times last season that he wished he had the Plainfields back of him in the struggle.

But while Daab admires Red's sway of the leather, he recognizes a first grade tosser in Deegan. It was only the fact that Red is such a star firer, and that the chance to secure him must always be certain of commanding managerial consideration, that any doubt of Willie's re-employment arose. It is, as a matter of fact, a toss-up between the two men. That being so, and Daab being the square sort of man he is, the wise ones will be justified in assuming, before positive information comes to them, that Willie will be signed again if he wants the job. Nobody has heard him say that he doesn't.

Both pitchers have been down to Hoboken to see the ball boss. Waller was in his office the day before yesterday, looking, as usual, cheerful, coy and hard to beat. He seemed as fit as he ever was, and said he was as fit as he looekd.

Some Opinions of the State's Cities Recorded by an Expert Found Dead in Jersey City.

A man found dead Monday night in the Newman Mission in Jersey City was identified yesterday as Walter Rowland, of Worcester, Mass., by papers found upon him. A friend of the dead man said he was what is known as a "gentleman hobo."

Among his effects was a diary in which Rowland recorded his impressions of different cities in New Jersey. They were as follows:

"Elizabeth—Got to work."

"Toms River—Work or you don't eat. Flag it."

"Atlantic City—Nothing but sand and mosquitoes."

"Newark—Wine with breakfast; best kind of graft."

"Waverly—Good at fair times; other times keep away."

"Jersey City—Easy money."

A Bible and several tracts were found on the body.

Middlesex Grand Jury Returns Presentment Against Company.

New Brunswick March 28.—A presentment arraigning the Public Service Corporation for alleged shortcomings in the trolley service of its Middlesex county lines was returned by the Grand Jury Monday afternoon. The presentment was the outcome of the Grand Jury investigation into the death of Frank Fowler, who was killed on the Sayreville line of the Public Service Corporation's system.

The presentment declared that the headlights on the cars of the Public Service in Middlesex are of insufficient candle power, either for warning or for illumination; that not enough cars were run between New Brunswick and Milltown between 4:30 and 6:30 p. m.; that not enough cars are run on any of the suburban lines on Sundays and holidays; that in summer passengers are permitted to ride on the running boards of open cars; that many cars are filthy and unsanitary, while in winter very few of the cars are properly heated.

The investigation as to the death of Thomas McCarthy, of South Amboy, alleged to have been caused by poison, led to nothing. It was reported that there was insufficient evidence to warrant an indictment.

CLOSING UP OF THE N. J. LAWMILL

CONFERENCE WITE GOVERNOR FOLLOWED BY TALK OF APRIL 5 OR 12.

Trenton, March 28.—There will be no final adjournment this week, and perhaps a similar statement may be made one or two weeks hence, according to the conclusions arrived at during a conference between Governor Stokes, President Bradley, Speaker Robbins and the Judiciary Committees of the Senate and Assembly, held in the executive chamber after the adjournment of the session last night.

It could not be called a party conference, because Senator Minturn was present as a member of the Senate committee, and he remained quite a while after Mr. Bradley had left the gathering to catch a train for Camden. Before leaving the Senator was asked his views as to the probable date of adjournment, and he assured his colleagues that not one but several weeks would be required for the proper consideration of all the important bills now under way.

"The volume of bills is greater and their importance more in evidence," said the president, "than that of any session in recent years, and I for one am willing to remain here all year, if necessary, to give them the consideration to which they are entitled." In this Mr. Bradley echoed the sentiment of all present, every one of whom agreed that the more important issues should be given the right of way.

Included in the list were the equal taxation measure as embodied in the Perkins bill, which it was predicted would pass the Senate today. A companion bill to make the Duffield act of last year constitutional, and another providing for the distribution of the anticipated increased revenue under the Perkins bill; a jury reform law and a corrupt practices act, with the Assembly districts plan, were all favorably considered.

Leader Perkins was not inclined to agree with Mr. Bradley's assertion that several weeks would be necessary to conclude the work of the session. In his opinion, if the Senate were to pass the equal tax law today, adjournment might be arranged for on Friday or Saturday of this week.

While every one applauded the suggestion no one else appeared willing to second the proposition, and the conference ended with the understanding that the work of the session would end, so far as the Legislature was concerned, on April 5 or April 12, and that the adjournment would be final, leaving the Governor with a big batch of passed bills on hand, as heertofore.

The "bishops' bill" was discussed in a general way only, because Senator Avis, chairman of the committee which has it in charge, was not present, but the sentiment expressed favored its enactment in a modified form.

The conference was arranged by Governor Stokes, and, like the two preceding executive sessions of the Senate for the consideration of the Perkins tax bill, it was strictly nonpartisan. This is a further evidence of the inability of the Republicans in either house to hold a caucus this year.

At the close of the conference Governor Stokes said he was well pleased with the results. He had the pleasure of affixing his signature to the limited franchise act yesterday, and from what he learned at the conference it was his impression that the equal tax problem, as embodied in the Perkins bill, would soon be similarly disposed of.

"I can only reiterate what I previously said," remarked the Governor, "that before the present Legislature adjourns the Republican party will have fulfilled all of its platform pledges. It was not because of any doubt as to what the Legislature will do that the conference was held tonight, but to ascertain just where we stand. The time limit of the average session has been reached, but this is more than an ordinary session, when the number of measures of vital importance to the interest of the State are considered. All of these will be given the right of way, and when they are ready the date for adjournment will be agreed upon, and it will be final. If any mistakes are made they may be rectified at the special session, which will be called to consider the Passaic sewerage problem."

ANCIENT SOCIETY ITEM.

Marriage Notice, Like Modern Newspaper Write-up.

Chicago, March 28.—The earliest known "society item" has been unearthed by Professor James Breasted, of the University of Chicago, who is now in Egypt, and who sent the report of the discovery to Robert M. Harper, of the university.

Rameses II. and a Hittite princess figured as principals in the affair. The "tem" was chiseled on one of the ruined temples, and Professor Breasted says it is not much different from a similar notice of moderns in a modern newspaper. There was wine, song and spectacular procession to the presence of the priest who made them one.

Rameses did business in the fourteenth century before the Christian era.

—Samuel Stockton has removed from Sycamore street to 148 East Fifth street.

KILLS HIMSELF WITH GAS

Despondent Because of Illness William Haake Cooley Planned His End.

EXPIRED IN A CHAIR

Act Committed At His Home On Jackson Avenue—Came Here From Brooklyn Six Months Ago.

Made despondent because of sickness, William Haake, 38 years old, of Jackson avenue, ended his life in a most deliberate manner yesterday. Left alone in the apartments which he shared with his aged father, he seated himself in a Morris chair and attached a tube to a gas stove. Then he coiled it about his neck and placed the end in his mouth, tying it in such a position that it could not drop out when consciousness left him. When the deadly current was turned on there was no possibility of his not receiving the full benefit.

Just what time Haake made away with himself is not known, but it was after 9 o'clock in the morning, as his father left him then to attend to some business matters. There was nothing unusual in his manner or anything to indicate that he contemplated suicide. The father and son occupied the first floor, while Mrs. Ida Quinn lives above. From 10 o'clock on she noticed the odor of gas, but it was not until noon time that she thought something was wrong. She then descended the stairs and attempted to enter the Haake apartments, but found every door and window securely fastened. Convinced that there was a leak of some sort she sent her little girl to the home of Harry C. Hadley, the elder Haake's son-in-law, with the information. Hadley hurried to the place and, forcing an entrance, was almost overcome by the rush of gas. As soon as he could make his way into the rooms he found the lifeless form. County Physician Long, of Somerville, was summoned, and after making an examination granted a permit to have the body removed to Cole's undertaking rooms.

Haake was formerly a salesman for a New York picture house and moved to the borough from Brooklyn six months ago. Ill health kept him from work, and being of an industrious disposition the enforced idleness caused him to grow melancholy. He brooded occasionally, but at no time did he say anything that might lead those about him to believe he was tired of life. Besides the father and Mrs. Hadely, he leaves one other sister.

He was a member of the B. P. O. Elks, the Masons and the Royal Arcanum, holding cards in Brooklyn lodges.

The body was taken to Brooklyn today and the funeral will be held at 154 Court street tomorrow night at 7:30. Interment is to be in Greenwood Saturday.

DOUBLE FUNERAL OVER FATHER AND SON

PRECEDED BURIAL OF EDWARD L. AND CURTIS ADAMS.

A double funeral service over the remains of Edward L. Adams and Curtis Adams, father and son, who died at their home in East Second street this week within a few hours of each other, were held at the Christian church in Grove street yesterday afternoon. There was a very large attendance of friends and neighbors. The caskets containing the remains were placed side by side in the church and were completely covered with floral tributes, including a pillow from Elizabeth Council, No. 181, Jr. O. U. A. M., of which the son was a member, and many cut flowers. The casket bearing the remains of the son was also draped with an American flag.

Rev. Phil A. Parsons, pastor of the church, conducted the services. After reading appropriate Scripture selections he spoke briefly of the lives of the departed ones, dwelling on the fact that they both had unusual musical ability, being able to play on a number of different instruments.

Mr. Parsons stated that Edward L. Adams was a member of the Universalist church and was always devoted to its interests. In speaking of the son, he said that he was a member of the Presbytreian church and an active member of the Y. M. C. A. orchestra. The preacher also referred to the unusual sight of a double funeral, adding that probably not many present had ever witnessed one before.

During the service there were several vocal selections by Prof. J. E. Sturgis and a quarette comprising Prof. Sturgis, Mrs. John Manley, Rev. and Mrs. O. P. Spiegel. The quartettes sang "Face to Face," "Lead, Kindly Light," and Prof. Sturgis sang "He Knows."

The interment took place in Hillside cemetery and the pall bearers were H. Pflug, W. Beidler, A. L. Cordun, H. Garretson, A. D. Williams and H. Schade, of Elizabeth Council, No. 181, Jr. O. U. A. M., of Elizabeth.

TROUBLE CONTINUES TO FOLLOW JOHN DUNN

RELATIVES' FUNERAL DELAYED BY ACCIDENT TO HIS SON.

John Dunn, of East Second street, is a firm believer in Shakespeare's observation that "When misfortunes come, they come not single spies, but in battalions." His father-in-law and brother-in-law, Edward L. and Curtis Adams, died within a few hours of each other this week and yesterday the double funeral was delayed because of an accident to his four-year-old son, Joseph, in which his collar bone was broken.

Just before the service started at the Dunn home, the little fellow started up East Second street with five cents that had been given him, intending to buy candy. A resident near Fire Headquarters has wire stretched across his front yard in place of a fence and somehow the boy tripped over it. He screamed with pain and when picked up it was seen that he was badly hurt. He was taken home and the funeral was held up until Dr. Zeglio could reach the house and make an examination. He suffered several bruises and scratches in addition to the break. The main service over the father and brother of Mrs. Dunn was held in the Christian church and it was long after the appointed time before the mourners reached the place.

Mr. Dunn but recently recovered from a serious illness during which he was operated upon at Muhlenberg Hospital and in the past year he has had misfortunes enough to last an ordinary man a life time.

NASH ON A.O.U.W. ACTION

Past Grand Workman Believes No Action Will be Taken on Central Lodge Protest.

ASSESSMENT TROUBLE

Declares That the Time For Dispte Has Passed—Trouble Is Spreading.

The announcement exclusively in The Daily Press yesterday of the protest made by Central Lodge, No. 48, A. O. U. W., against the new assessment plan adopted at the Grand Lodge session held recently at Atlantic City, has aroused the Workmen in this city and it is not likely to become effective without considerable opposition on both sides.

V. W. Nash, Sr., who was a member of the special committee appointed by the Grand Lodge to present the plan, declared yesterday afternoon, when seen by a representative for The Daily Press, that the protest or appeal on the part of Central Lodge came too late, that the time to take such action was at the Grand Lodge session when the assessment plan to create an emergency fund was up for adoption.

Mr. Nash did not hesitate to say that in his opinion he did not believe that the Supreme Lodge would attempt to interfere with the Grand Lodge work of New Jersey, and as for Grand Master Workman Fowle, he ventured to say that that official would not attempt to upset the action taken at the late session in Atlantic City.

In speaking of the plan adopted to provide an emergency fund, Mr. Nash said that in California the Grand Lodge issued bonds for $170,000 to provide for its death claims and lodges in other States had doubled their assessments to provide for this emergency, and while such action is not in accordance with the constitution of the order, the lodges in these States having no right to take such action, it had been done without any interference on the part of the Supreme Lodge. He thought the result would be the same in this State.

One of the strongest lodges in the State is Provident Lodge, No. 4, of Camden, and its members took the lead in opposing the plan adopted to create an emergency fund.

Yesterday Mr. Nash received a letter from Recorder Goldson Test, of Camden Lodge, in which he stated that "the members feeling convinced that in order to form a more perfect union of the membership in this State, establish justice to each, insure tranquility, and more especially provide for the defence and further surety to each and every beneficiary of the order, that the lodge had heartily endorsed the action of the Grand Lodge in recent session, at which it approved, as suggested by the able and impartial special committee, in its report, the creation of an emergency fund, by a general fund monthly assessment, and more especially the retention from this time forth, within the bounds of the Grand Lodge, control for the future needs and protection of its members, all moneys raised under the guaranty call as now in existence."

The communication further stated "That the members of that special committee, Past Grand Master Workmen J. Alpheus Vansant, John Enright and Vincent W. Nash, Sr., were heartily thanked for their wisdom and efforts and success in this undertaking, and that now Provident Lodge, No. 4, will go to work."

OSHKOSH CLUB SHOW AT CASINO MAY 11-12.

Amateur Production, It Is Said, Will Be Entirely New.

After a most satisfactory rehearsal at the Casino, last night, the Oshkosh Club decided to give its performance at the Casino on Friday and Saturday nights, May 11 and 12, and from the present indications it will far exceed the first two performances given, and they were considered of a high order.

The club has also decided to have entirely new scenery and gorgeous electrical effects. As to the name of the production there is great mystery. The club refuses to disclose it at present, but assures the public that it will be as novel as the preceding ones. Rehearsals are being held two or three times a week and great progress is being made. The songs and sketches are pronounced to be the best ever and altogether a great show is anticipated.

SALOON BILL AMENDMENTS

Catering to the Brewers, Several Alterations Are Made to Original Measure.

LIQUOR MEN ACTIVE

Bishops Say Whole Thing is Up to the Legislature—Hope for Republican Party.

The battle between the brewers and the bishops is now on in earnest in the Legislature at Trenton. Chairman Avis, of the Senate committee on miscellaneous business, started the fight yesterday morning when he reported the Bishops' bill with a number of amendments, and likewise at the same time introduced two bills prepared by the committee. They were all ordered printed without reference, so as to get in shape for the calendar as soon as possible.

The first of the committee bills allows one saloon to each two hundred of population in the State. This bill, if enacted, woud lessen the number of saloons in Jersey City, Atlantic City, Long Branch and some of the smaller municipalities. The second bill provides that in all municipalities where excise boards are appointed by the Mayor as governing body, they shall hereafter be appointed by the judge of the Court of Common Pleas.

The amendments to the Bishops' bill submitted by the committee are briefly as follows, in the order of their submission.

First—Strikes out the requirement for the joint application for licenses of the owner of the property and the saloonkeeper.

Second—Increases the minimum license fee from $250, as at present, to $300 in cities of more than 10,000 population. The Bishops' bill made the minimum fee $500.

Third—Makes the maximum age limit eighteen years, instead of twenty-one years, as the Bishops' bill had it.

Fourth—Includes in the causes for revocation of licenses, the giving or delivering of intoxicating liquor for themselves or others to children under eighteen years. This is aimed at the "growler" custom carried on by children.

Fifth—Provides that when a license is revoked, the property for which it is revoked cannot be used for four months. The time in the original bill was one year.

Sixth—Grants a license to a barroom instead of to a building, and allows two rooms in the rear of the barroom which must be wide open to it, and prevents the evasion of the law by keepers of restaurants.

Seventh—Authorizes excise boards to compel the removal of screens at any time, and requires that screens be removed during prohibited hours. The Bishop bill required the entire removal of all screens, and all had to be exposed to street view.

The brewers, who were at Trenton yesterday in large numbers, have very little objection to most of the amendments, but they object most strenuously to the bill putting the appointment of excise boards in the hands of the Common Pleas judges. They say such a course would drag the judiciary into politics and make an unseemly scramble for appointments. The candidates for judge would be selected not so much for their legal and judicial ability as for their attitude on the excise question. It is also contended that the proper function of a judge is not executive, but judicial. The brewers regard the proposition as revolutionary.

The Bishops' side of the story is plain and simple. The advocates of the original bills say the whole subjest is up to the Legislature. The Avis amendments and bills are better than nothing, they say, and are good so far as they go, but they are not satisfactory. There is no threat as to politics. The "Bishops' movement" does not involve the defeat of the Republican party, as the local option movement did, the anti-liquor men say. The promoters of this movement declare that if they do not get what they want and feel sure the people want at this season, they will be down here at the next session and the subsequent, or until they do obtain something that in their estimation is substantial.

The outlook is that the Bishops' bill, with the Avis amendment, will pass. The bill to make one saloon to every 200 population will pass. The putting of the appointment of excise boards in the hands of the judges will probably be beaten.

TO RAZE FERRY HOUSE

Demolition of Jersey Central's Terminal at Liberty Street to Begin Next Week.

FINE NEW BUILDING

Steel Structure to Be Erected On Site Long Pier to Be Constructed —To Use Temporary Slip.

Under the supervision of Chief Engineer Joseph O. Osgood, of the borough, the Jersey Central will begin improvements at the Liberty street terminal, New York, next week, to cost $1,000,000. The rickety and time-worn ferry house and station will be torn down and in their place will be erected one of the handsomest and safest buildings of its kind in the metropolis. It was thought the terminal could be completed and opened to the public by January 1 next, but this is now impossible owing to unlooked for delays in placing the temporary ferry slip which will be put in operation within a few days.

The detailed plans of the new station are not yet completed, but Assistant Engineer A. H. Dakin, Jr., told a Daily Press reporter yesterday that it would be constructed of steel and made as fireproof as is possible under present conditions. It will have every comfort and convenience for patrons of the road and the facilities for getting in and out and across West street will lessen the dangers of heavy traffic. The building will be two stories in height with a waiting room and ticket offices on both floors as the doudle-deck ferry boats were built with this purpose in view. As yet there are no double-deck arrangements for boats at the Jersey City terminal but it is proable that the improvements will be extended to that side of the river.

Along with the extensive improvements at Liberty street, a new pier about 735 feet long and fifty feet wide will be built, the work to be carried on in conjunction with the ferry house erection. It will closely resemble Pier 11, which was built two years ago and which extends 150 feet further out in the river, one of the largest in the harbor. This was made necessary because of the plans to widen West street, which also demand that the new station be set ninety feet further back from the street line than the present station.

The temporary ferry slip is also built 150 feet out in the river. This will be operated with one of the old slips until a permanent one is in readiness. The company, this week, sent out plans for bids on the 175 feet sea wall which will be erected in conformity with the rules of the dock department. The foundations will be of solid concrete topped off with granite. Engineer Osgood will have charge of all these improvements, the plans having been prepared in his office.

The demolition of the present ferry house will mark the removal of one of New York's familiar landmarks. It was built in the late sixties when the Jersey Central first gained an entrance to the metropolis. The traffic has long since outgrown it and the road has had the new building under consideration for nearly ten years.

The company is also rushing work on the new Twenty-third street station, recently destroyed by fire. The foundation has been completed and the steel frames are now being put in position. It is said this work will cost the road another million.

Trinity "Ladies' Night."

The Men's Association of Trinity Reformed church will have a ladies' night" entertainment in the Sunday school room of the church tonight, and all the members and their women friends are invited. George T. Powell, who is an authority on the study of trees, forests, fruits and insects, will give one of his entertaining and instructive talks, and an additional attraction will be music by G. W. V. Moy's stringed orchestra. A pleasant and profitable time is assured all who attend.

M'CARDELL SUPPORTS WESTFIELD BALL TEAM?

INTERESTING INTIMATION FROM DENMAN, WHO SAYS NINE IS CERTAIN.

Moved by one of his periodical passions for spilling information Charles Denman, the baseball prophet of Westfield, crept out of his cave on Mt. Ararat last night and fastened himself to the telephone ear of a Daily Press reporter.

"This is Denman—Denman, of Westfield," he confided. "How is the game going up your way? All right? Glad to hear it. We're right on the job down here, too, and don't you forget it.

"Who told you we weren't going to have a team? Don't you believe it—say, listen to this: Waller, p; O'Neil, c; Rochford, 1b; Dalton, 2b; Kiernan, ss; Barry, 3b; Cregan, lf; Mallen, cf; Connolly, rf. How does that strike you?

"Good, eh? Well, that is Westfield's problematical team. Looks good, doesn't it? (Chuckles made the wire sing here). You stop anybody you hear counting Westfield out. We will be in the game and on the job. We have a fine plant, with a fence all around it, and the right crowd back of it all.

"Huh? A member of the association offered to sell the fence to Plainfield? Say, if anybody wants to buy that fence he will have to pay Denman's price for it. Oh, yes; we have an association here, but it doesn't associate.

"Lemme tell you something else: Westfield will not play Plainfield this year. Why? Well, too many people up in Plainfield have advised us not to do it. We have a lot of friends in Plainfield. Andy McCardell didn't contribute to your association, did he? You can draw your own conclusions."

Knowing Mr. Denman, the reporter drew nothing excepting his breath. The Westfield prophet took an hour to unload his burden of words. It costs fifteen cents for a five-minute talk from Westfield to Plainfield, but a little thing like paying for it never stops Charlie Denman's conversation.

BIRD COLLECTION FOR BOROUGH SCHOOL

VALUABLE HOWLETT SPECIMENS' FIND A PERMANENT HOME.

The valuable collection of birds which was owned by the late Professor Howlett, of this city, has been secured by the Board of Education of North Plainfield. Within a few days it will be placed in the High School building on Somerset street.

This collection was formerly exhibited at the old Hill & Shupp store, where it was admired by hundreds of people. A change in proprietorship at the store compelled its removal. It will now be placed where the pupils of the borough school and others interested will derive benefit from a study of the splendid specimens shown.

The collection is considered one of the best in the county. Beginners in the study of ornithology will find it an invaluable aid, and those far advanced in the science will be much interested in the varied display of feathered rarities. The ordinary sightseer will be almost as much interested in them as the student.

Improvements for Ball Players.

Jerome Leary, proprietor of the Hotel Iroquois, which will be the headquarters for the Plainfield Baseball Association team this summer, has started the work of installing a shower bath and making other improvements for the players. These will be completed in time for use by the Jersey City Club during its stay of a couple of weeks in town.

Patronesses of New York Concert.

Mrs. Mason W. Tyler, of West Seventh street, and Mrs. William S. Tyler, of West Eighth street, are patronesses of the concert to be given tonight at the spring reunion of the Amherst College Association in the Astor gallery of the Waldorf-Astoria. A reception will follow the concert given by the Glee, Banjo and Mandolin Clubs of the college.

Rabid Dog On South Side.

A little pet dog owned by James Henderson, 209 Randolph road, was bitten by a strange cur last Friday afternoon. Sunday the little dog began to act strangely, and though he didn't like to do it, Mr. Henderson signed its death warrant. Officer Higgins shot it yesterday. The police are trying to locate the stray.

The floor of the Y. M. C. A. auditorium is being partly cleared of seats to make room for the demonstrations of the automobile training school, which will start tonight. The Olds car will be the first type taken apart by the pupils.

VENERABLE WOMAN DEAD

Mrs. Mary E. Whiton, Decendant of John Alden, Dies at the Age of 97.

J. M. WHITON'S MOTHER

She Witnessed Lafayette's Reception In 1824 and the Laying of Bunker Hill Monument Corner-stone.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Whiton, widow of James Morris Whiton, of Boston, and mother of John M. Whiton, died at the home of her son in Central avenue this morning. She was in her ninety-seventh year. Funeral services will be held at the house tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Mrs. Whiton was a descendant in the sixth generation from John Alden, of the Mayflower Pilgrims, her mother, Margaret Bass, being the great-great-granddaughter of his daughter Ruth, who in 1657 married John Bass, and settled in the part of Braintree afterward set off as Quincy, the home of the Adams family. Moses B. Bass, Mrs. Whiton's grandfather, and President John Adams were cousins. Born at Boston, September 26, 1809, she was the youngest child of Margaret Bass and Ebenezer Knowlton, whose first ancestor in this country was one of the early settlers at Ipswich, Mass., and whose father, Abraham Knowlton, was a lieutenant at Bunker Hill. His maternal grandfather, John Sprague, served in the expedition against Fort Ticonderoga in the war with France. In our Revolutionary period her family were active patriots. One of her uncles was on the Committee of Public Safety. Another was one of the Boston Tea Party, and on the same night with Paul Revere's famous ride to rouse the country against the British Expedition to Concord, he got past the British sentinels by a successful ruse on the same mission. He took with him his wife with her baby, instructing her to "pinch it and make it squeal" when stopped by the guard on the narrow neck then joining Boston to the mainland. During the British occupation of Boston, the house of Mrs. Whiton's grandfather was marked for destruction, with some others of the rebels, but was preserved by friends who had influence.

Mrs. Whiton received as good an education as the public schools of Boston then gave. When twelve years old, she won the prize for "superior scholarship," inscribed as the "Town Medal for Females." The town did not become a city till the following year. The special commendation then bestowed on her for good penmanship, she never forfeited. In her extreme age her handwriting was admirable, quite undeteriorated by the demands of a large correspondence. Her reminiscences of these early days included some notable events, such as the coming in of a neighbor one evening in 1815, to announce the end of the war with England, so odious to Massachusetts people. Public executions were then in vogue and drew crowds. When a lot of pirates were to be conducted to the gallows on Boston Neck, she was taken to her aunt's house to see the death-procession pass. What was then deemed a salutary spectacle, the wretched criminals sitting in their coffins, made an ineffaceable dint on her childish memory. The visit of Lafayette to Boston in 1824, when the citizens removed the horses from his carriage and drew it themselves, and the General's figure as he responded to the greetings of the people, she vividly remembered and described. She was present at the laying of the corner stone of Bunker Hill monument, and could repeat part of the address which Daniel Webster then delivered before the assembled survivors of the battle.

In 1832 she was married to James M. Whiton, then recently established in the wholesale dry goods business at Boston, a city then of about 60,000. The firm of Whiton & March became the first American agency for the famous thread of the Messrs. Coats of Paisley. It weathered all commercial panics, and continued nearly a quarter of a century till dissolved by the death of the junior partner. Of the seven children of this marriage, a daughter died in infancy, another, Mrs. Henry B. Opdyke, of Plainfield, in 1902. Five survive her, Dr. James M. Whiton, of New York; Mrs. Charles F. Washburn, of Worcester; Mrs. Wolcott Calkins, of Newton, Mass.; John M. Whiton, of Plainfield, N. J., and Mrs. Washington Choate, of Greenwich, Conn.

In 1857, a few weeks before the intended celebration of her silver wedding, Mrs. Whiton was suddenly widowed. Like so many nowadays, her husband fell a victim to the strain of overwork in the financial interests of the Boston, Concord and Montreal Railroad, now incorporated some dealers have about our stock being just the same. We know it isn't. Beef, Veal, Lamb, or Pork which has been carefully raised and fed will taste better and give more nourishment than "wild" meats. We don't sell any but prime Meats, and a customer can sit down to a roast or steak, or chops from here without fear of hurting his teeth or his sense of taste. Prices won't hurt anybody's pocket, either. We sell Siegfried Arens' delicious Broilers.

HAIR NATURALLY ABUNDANT.

When It Is Free of Dandruff, It Grows Luxuriantly.

Hair preparations and dandruff cures, as a rule, are sticky or irritating affairs that do no earthly good. Hair, when not diseased, grows naturally, luxuriantly. Dandruff is the cause of nine-tenths of all hair trouble, and dandruff is caused by a germ. The only way to cure dandruff is to kill the germ; and, so far, the only hair preparation that will positively destroy the germ is Newbro's Herpicide—absolutely harmless, free from grease, sediment, dye matter or dangerous drugs. It allays itching instantly; makes hair glossy and soft as silk. "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

BERNHARDT ACTS IN A TENT.

Eigh t Thousand Witness Performance at Dallas.

The Bernhardt Tent, Dallas, Texas, March 29.—Sarah Bernhardt made her first professional appearance under canvas at Dallas Monday. She presented "Camille" to more than 8,000 persons, nearly one-half of whom had to stand up, as the seating capacity of the tent is 4,200. Several thousand persons were turned away. Many women sent her bouquets of violets, and she expressed her thanks.

A telegraph company put a special office in the tent, and Bernhardt sent many messages to friends in this country and Europe. One of them was to her son, Maurice, in Paris, saying she would play in "this magnificent tent tonight, which is amusing and a fairyland."

The sale of seats netted more than $11,000. Bernhardt played again in the tent at Waco Tuesday night, and at Austin last night.

Woman Sees Hanging and Collapses.

Mount Holly, March 29.—The wife of Sheriff Norcross witnessed the hanging of the negroes Johnson and Small in the county jail last Saturday. After it was over she suffered from nervous strain and went to visit relatives in Burlington. Word has been received here that she collapsed last night, having never recovered from the affects of the grewsome sight. Her condition is said to be serious.

—Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Runyon will move this week from West Fourth street to the New Madison flats.

GOTHAM'S AMUSEMENTS

Marie Tempest has met with great success at the Duke of York's theatre, London, in a new comedy called "All-of-a-Sudden-Peggy," written by Ernest Denny.

Sam Bernard, who played all last spring and summer in New York in "The Rollicking Girl," returns to Broadway for another run, opening at the New York theatre the middle of April.

Lawrence D'Orsay has another "Earl of Pawtucket" success in "The Embassy Ball" in which he is now playing at Daly's theatre, New York. This play like its predecessor is the work of Augustus Thomas.

Edna May has arrived in London and started rehearsals of the new musical comedy in which Charles Frohman will present her at the Vaudeville theatre. The piece is called "The Belle of Mayfair." Mr. Frohman has just produced at his Aldwych theatre in London a musical comedy, "The Beauty of Bath," in which Seymour Hicks and Ellaline Terriss have the principal roles.

Maude Adams will soon reach the 200th performance of "Peter Pan" at the Empire theatre, New York. Crowded houses are still the rule and Miss Adams and the charming Barrie play never fail to delight. All of Miss Adams' road time for this season has been cancelled and she will remain in New York until summer. Next season "Peter Pan" will go out for a brief tour returning to the Empire for another run.

Otis Skinner has made a strong and lasting impression in New York with his great work in "The Duel," which continues its successful run at the Hudson. The role of the Abbe Daniel gives Mr. Skinner every opportunity for his finished art. Few plays produced in New York in the past decade have been so widely discussed as this one with its wonderfully human love story. Mr. Skinner is supported by Miss Fay Davis, Guy Standing and Eben Plympton.

Francis Wilson has scored a solid success at the Criterion theatre, New York, where "The Mountain Climber" is fast gaining pace as the best laugh producer of the season. Mr. Wilson was never funnier, even in his comic opera days. As a fussy London shopkeeper who covers his excursions into the gayeties of Paris with fabrications of his experiences in the Alps, he finds unluding opportunities for funmaking. The farce is from the German and was written by the authors of "Are You a Mason?"

Negro Dies at 107.

Morristown, March 29.—Preston Garland, a negro, 107 years old, died Monday night. Garland was the oldest resident of Morris county. He was born at Lynchburg, Va., on a plantation known as Chestnut Hill. At nineteen he got into a dispute with his mistress, Mrs. Calvert, whom he struck, and, to avoid being flogged, he fled to the woods and lived a hermit's life, and stole whatever he could to eat from neighboring plantations.

Visited the "Circle."

Fred Nelson, who bought the Central cafe, Newark, recently, visited his old friends in the North avenue circle last night. Mr. Nelson is doing a prosperous business in the Newark refectory, and has an especially large latchstring for Plainfielders hung outside the door. He still makes his home in Bound Brook.

MRS. APPLEGATE WELL AGAIN!
"I have had a bruised leg and foot for several years, caused by the brass eyelets of my shoe, which became very sore and painful especially at night. It itched, burned and ached me till it nearly set me crazy. I used everything I found and was suggested to ease it and nothing gave me any relief till I found and applied Azienza Cream which I think is a wonderful remedy for all sores and inflammation of the skin. The hard knots on my legs were as painful as bee stings, with discolored and purple spots. A running sore on my instep size of a half-dollar; the top of my foot a seething sore clean around to my heel. The bone was sore for a whole year and very painful. I used five and one-half jars of Azienza Cream and healed the sore all up. The foot remained tender and I continued to use to strengthen and toughen the skin until now it is entirely well." (Signed) Mrs. Hannah Applegate, Evergreen Ave., Avon, N. J., Sept. 3rd, 1905. 50 cents. Ask the druggist or by mail. Azienza Specialties Co., Jersey City, N. J.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

"Rube" Oldring, the former Plainfield player, and who is South with the Philadelphia Athletics, is hitting the ball hard and will no doubt be given a place on the team.

Manager Daab will play his first Sunday game on his Hoboken grounds with Jersey City on April 15. Two weeks' practice on Crescent Oval should put the "Skeeters" in excellent condition.

Umpire Sheridan, of the American League, is quoted as being in favor of rules that will increase the batting. He thinks that the public will eventually tire of low score games before the end of another season.

Signs of the approaching baseball season are multiplying. Baseball scores are now seen in the daily papers, umpires are brushing up on the rules; fans are getting in condition to shout and in less than a month the two major leagues will be off for their respective championships.

Subscriptions for Plainfield Baseball Asociation stock are coming in gradually and there is no doubt but that by May 1 the required fund of $2,000 will be nearly realized. The list is still open and everyone who has not yet subscribed are asked to do so at the earliest possible date. The work of collecting the subscriptions will begin April 1. In the meantime the committee on bonds is busy getting the certificates ready for distribution.

The P. H. S. management has scheduled the strongest attractions for Plainfield this season in its history. With such teams as Brooklyn High, De Witt Clinton, Commercial High, of New York, Newark Academy and Newark High and possibly Trenton High, it would be difficult to improve upon the attractions. This means that the local school boys have a hard schedule mapped out for them and will have to play their best to make a good showing.

Would the Plainfield fans like to see "Hot Air" Mallen on the local team? This is a question that has been agitating their minds for several days. Mallen has in the past been objectionably aggressive toward Plainfield in baseball circles and whether he could overcome this is a question to be decided by wise heads. That Mallen is a ball player no one will deny, and he has always been lucky as a fielder and in his stick work. He plays every point in the game to win. It has been said that Mallen is capable of playing dirty or clean ball and this is no doubt true. If he should come here he would have to cut out all his underhand practices and put up the straight goods. Manager Daab spoke of Mallen at the meeting of the association Saturday night and there seemed to be a diversity of opinion as to advisability of bringing this player here as a fielder. The fact that Westfield will probably not have a team this season releases Mallen and gives him a chance to look elsewhere for a place. Manager Daab is particularly anxious to give Plainfield what she wants in baseball and he would not do anything to injure the game here if he knew it. For this reason he wants to learn the concensus of opinion from members of the association.

BASKET BALL.

Lovers of basketball should not forget the big game to be played at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday night between the local five and the Orange team. This will undoubtedly be the best contest of the season. The Montclair five has defeated both Orange and Newark this year and the outcome with Orange will be interesting. Captain Scull has received word from Orange that a delegation of fifty will come to Plainfield in a special trolley car to root for its team. The Plainfield boys are confident of winning. This will be the final game of the season.

$665,000 FOR TUSKEGEE.

Booker Washington's Home Benefited by New Yorker's Will.

New York, March 29.—A gift of $665,000 will accrue finally to Tuskegee Institute, Ala., by the will of the late Andrew T. Dotger, a retired merchant of this city, who died two months ago at his home, South Orange, N. J. The institution is conducted by Booker T. Washington for the industrial education of the young negroes of both sexes.

Other institutions benefitted under the will are the German Hospital, of Philadelphia; Orange Memorial Hospital, Free Public Library, Orange Valley Church and the Orange Bureau of Associated Charities, each of which will receive $10,000.

Hail to Plainfield Juniors.

Baseball fame travels far. Down in Jersey City there are two juvenile teams known as the Young Plainfielders and the Westfield Juniors. They are bidding for games in the Jersey City Evening Journal. It would appear from their choice of names that the great struggle for the county pennant last season made every town and hamlet in this section take admiring notice.

Plainfield, N. J., March 29, 1906.

It will require a very substanital reason to convince the average citizen that there is any argument in favor of granting a retail liquor license to Charles Schanz, who has applied for a place on North avenue. The most that can be said in his favor is that his license terminated a year or more ago through the sale of the building in which he was doing business. But is that any reason why a license should be granted to him now? The license to sell liquor is not a right; it is a privilege. Therefore, it may be asked, are the rights of the community, which is strongly against increasing saloons, to be disregarded in order to grant a favor to a single individual? His petition should be refused by unanimous vote.

Political parties are supposed theoretically at least to be actuated in all their movements by lofty patriotic ideas. That's fiction in every State in the Union, and New Jersey furnishes no exception. Take, for example, the spectacle presented at Trenton. The "Bishops' bill" is undeniably a measure intended for the public good, and if enacted in its original shape will obliterate many of the evils attendant upon the liquor traffic. But the "Bishops' bill" is not to be, and the "wherefore" is plain. The brewers are out against it, for their ill-gotten gains representing the revenue from the "side-room" will cease should it become a law. And the brewers are an influential integral in a State campaign. Therefore the Republican party will heed their call. The "Bishops' bill" will not be passed—at least in its original form.

CARRIED NEEDLE IN HIS BODY FORTY YEARS.

Finally Works Out of Perth Amboy Man's Arm After Rheumatic Feeling There.

Perth Amboy, Mar. 29.—A needle which Owen Millmore, sixty years old, of 63 Elizabeth street, remembers being run into his breast over forty years ago, while he was at work in a large woolen mill in a small town in England, has made its appearance, coming out through his right hand.

Forty years ago Millmore was employed in England in a woolen mill. In some unknown way one of the needles entered his flesh and he was never able to get it out. As it did not seem to bother Millmore he decided to let the matter rest.

Millmore finally came to this country and started to work on the Lehigh Valley docks. As far as known the needle never bothered him until lately when he has been having great pains in his right arm. At first he thought it was rheumatism and tried remedies for that trouble, but without effect.

The other day Millmore noticed a small point sticking out of his right hand and he went to Mrs. O'Hara, with whom he is boarding, and she succeeded in pulling the needle out. It has turned back and was slightly bent. The pain is now all gone from Millmore's arm and he is a happy man.

OLD POLITICIAN DEAD.

Had Been in Retirement Since His Hotel Was Burned.

Albert A. Van Voorhees, who was a leader in the Republican party in Passaic county, New Jersey, thirty years ago, died yesterday at his home in Paterson. He was seventy-two years old. He served two terms in the House of Assembly and one term as sheriff of Passaic county.

For more than half a century he was proprietor and manager of the United States Hotel. The building was destroyed by the big fire in Paterson four years ago. The hotel was the meeting place of about a dozen politicians of the old school. They assembled daily in the "amen" corner. Since the fire all have died, Mr. Van Voorhees being the last survivor. Mr. Van Voorhees had lived in retirement since the fire.

YOUNG FOLKS ADDRESSED BY TEMPERANCE WORKER

LOCAL LOYAL LEGION HEARS MISS ELIZABETH GORDON, OF CHICAGO.

Under the auspices of the local branch of the Loyal Temperance Legion, Miss Elizabeth Gordon, of Chicago, sister of Miss Anna Gordon, national secretary of the Legion, addressed a large audience of children and adults in the Sunday school room of the First Baptist church yesterday afternoon. Miss Gordon is engaged as one of the national evangelists of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, and is now visiting various cities throughout the country in the interest of temperance.

The Loyal Temperance Legion, under the direction of Mrs. Alvah Ten Eyck, attended in a body and the first part of the meeting was devoted to its exercises, such as reciting the pledge, singing legion songs and taking other simple parts in the meeting.

Miss Gordon related several stories in an entertaining manner, all calculated to impress the children and older persons with the importance of being temperate. She also gave several demonstrations showing the power of alcohol. One of the most interesting of these was the lighting of a Welsbach lamp with the gases generated from the burning of a certain well known patent medicine. This was done to show the strength of alcohol in the preparation.

Miss Gordon told the little folks of the work being done in all parts of the country for the cause of temperance, and her talk was very helpful and instructive to all. Mrs. M. D. Tomlinson, county president of the W. C. T. U., occupied a seat on the platform and took part in the meeting.

THE FORUM.

"The Clansman."

Editor The Daily Press:

We have read from the papers what the chief of police has said respecting the protection he purposes to give Thomas Dixon's "The Clansman," and even if there is a sign of resentment to his play. Let me say, sir, that we would have no objection to Mr. Dixon's play if in it we could see any significance aside from that of exciting bitter enmity of the whites who are friendly to the negro against him. Mr. Dixon did not meet with the approval and congratulations in New York he anticipated. The better class of the whites ignored his play, and denounced his spirit and intent.

In this play Mr. Dixon strives to exhibit the defects of the negro. We don't object to that if he will consider that he is not exhibiting the true status of our race. We know the negro has defects, as all other races, but if pains had been taken to enlighten him through two hundred and fifty years, instead of entwining him in human and moral thraldom, his imperfections would not be any more distinctly seen than other races. Mr. Dixon has no knowledge of the negro beyond those in his employ, and his descentive stamina. We wish to inform him that we have friends of his own race who look upon him and his play with insignificance.

The chief of police guarantees Mr. Dixon protection against almost a sign of repulse by the negro. Let me ask the chief, "Will he choice the language of Mr. Dixon when he will say, as having said, that there is not a respectable negro woman in the whole race?" Should Mr. Dixon say that of the Irish, would they of this city tolerate it? No. The chief would turn his police force into a regiment and every Irishman a soldier, before he would stand it. Yet he will protect Mr. Dixon. We are in peace in this city, the respectable negro and the better whites, and Mr. Dixon will be deceived in his anticipation.

WOMAN RECLUSE BURNED TO DEATH.

Supposed to Have Lost Her Life In Attempt to Save Her Money From Flames.

Mrs. Emeline Reiker, eighty years old, was burned to death in a fire in her store early yesterday morning. The old woman lived alone in the rear of a small notion shop at No. 476 Central avenue in the Heights section of Jersey City.

Policeman Warner when patrolling his beat saw a blaze in the store, and, knowing the old woman lived alone, ran to the rear of the house and forced the door, but the old woman was not in bed.

A search of the store revealed her charred body under a counter near the cash drawer. It is supposed she tried to reach the cash drawer when she discovered the fire, and that her dress caught and she was burned to death.

Mrs. T. J. Unkele, of No. 1333 Bushwick avenue, Brooklyn, a daughter of the dead woman, later claimed the body.

Emil Gills and family, who lived over the store, had a narrow escape from being burned. The house was badly damaged.

Edward R. Finch, of New York, whose parents reside on Park avenue, is one of the committee for the Easter subscription cotillon to be given at Dodsworths' on the night of Monday, April 23.

RAILROAD TO SUPPORT INJURED PASSENGERS.

Bill Is Introduced in Senate to Enforce Payment of Claim.

Trenton, March 29.—Senator Minturn yesterday introduced into the Senate one of the most important measures of the session, as follows:

Whenever any person who has been injured by any railroad company shall be deposited by said company in any municipality, by reason of which such injured person shall be taken into the custody of the Overseer of the Poor or the police authorities and maintained by the city as a public charge, it shall be the duty of such railroad company upon presentation to it of a bill duly verified by the Overseer of the Poor, showing the amount of said expense incurred by the municipality, to pay to the treasurere of the municipality the amount of said bill.

Should the railroad company fail or refuse to pay the bill within thirty days from the date of presentation of the same to its claim agent, superintendent or counsel, it shall be lawful for such Overseer of the Poor to institute in the corporate name of the city a suit at law in any court of competent jurisdiction to recover the amount of such bill, interest and costs; and it shall be the duty of such court upon proof of the facts to give judgment in favor of the city for the full amount of said bill, interest and costs, and the municipality shall have execution therefor.

DIVIDING THE MONEY STATE OF NEW JERSEY

RAHWAY REFORMATORY MAY GET $300-000 AND NORMAL SCHOOL $275.000.

Trenton, March 29.—While both houses of the Legisalture have been absorbing the attention of the public with their fights over equal taxation, the Joint Committee on Appropriations has been quietly at work getting together a bill which, it is said, will make those persons who are constantly demanding that the expenditures of the State, both extraordinary and otherwise, be kept down to the lowest point sit up an drub their eyes. The meetings of the committee this year have been what they call "executive sessions," and care has been taken to exclude from them all persons except those interested in the immediate subject under consideration. Both the annual and "deficiency" bills are reported to be about ready for presentation to the Legislature, and, notwithstanding the efforts of the committee to keep their conclusions from going out, enough has become known to make it certain that the present committee is far more liberal than many of its predecessors, and that many a worthy object which has been turned down year after year by those in charge of the State's purse strings will at last receive what its managers believe is its just due.

One of the heaviest items which, it is said, has been put in the bill is one of $300,000 for the Rahway Reformatory, which its friends think has received very shabby treatment in the past.

Both the new Normal School and the armory for the First Troop of cavalry, better known as the Essex Troop, are reported to be remembered in the bill handsomely.

There has been some friendly rivalry between the two institutions. It has been said by the wiseacres that both could not get into the bill this year, and that every indication pointed to the armory as in line to receive the appropriation this year. These wise ones will be somewhat surprised, it is said on good authority, to learn that the Normal School is in the bill for $275,000, while the armory gets $50,000 with which to begin the work of erecting its new building.

Another large item which it is said th ebill will contain is $100,000 for aditions to and improvements in the State House. It is recognized that the present capital does not furnish the necessary accommodations for the transaction of the growing business of the State and this is considered an appropriation which is absolutely necessary.

Besides these there are said to be several other large sums in the bill which it was hardly expected would get in this year.

Those who bear in mind the Governor's views on the question of expending the State's surplus and his frequent appeals to the Legislature to exercise the strictest economy in providing for expenses of the State are wondering what the bill will look like when Governor with his little blue pencil has given it attention.

TO GERRYMANDER THE WARDS IN BAYONNE.

Republicans Plan to Change Lines of Wards Under Old Law They Unearthed.

The Republican leaders of Bayonne will have the lines of the five wards of the city changed. A petition signed by the six Republican members of the Council—Messrs. Garret L. Post, George Wasko, Henry Wilson, Frederick W. Farr, George Meyers and Edmund Stinson—calling for the redistricting of the city was presented yesterday to Mayor Garven, who will appoint a commission composed of two Republicans and one Democrat, who must complete the work within thirty days.

The action providing for the gerrymander was taken under an old law the Republicans unearthed, which gives a majority of the Council the right to request such a change. The Republicans just have a majority in the Council.

RUMOR RIFE IN PUBLIC SERVICE

POSSIBLE CHANGES IN MANAGEMENT INTERESTING FINANCIAL CIRCLES.

Newark, March 29.—Public Service futures ruled strong in the financial rumor market yesterday, positive statements, however, showing a dragging tendency with few offerings. The annual meeting of the big trolley, gas and electricity combination will take place Monday, and before that time it is reported that several changes in its internal economy will occur. The division of the capital into three controls, the respective interests being those represented by J. P. Morgan & Co., the U. G. I. and Newark capital, will probably be made than, changes in traffic management may be advocated and the matter of taking over the McCarter purchases in Park place for the site of the terminal for the quick service New York line will be adjusted, it is declared.

What more closely touches the average Newarker is the trolley service, and regarding this the rumor market shows great activity. A popular offering, which was snapped up eagerly by speculative persons today, was a story that the resignation of President Thomas N. McCarter would be ready for the directors if called for. Conservative rumor dealers, however, were bearish on this line and inclined to think that it was a poor purchase.

Another rumor which found much favor was that which had to do with Colonel Charles A. Sterling, vice-president, in charge of the traffic department. This told with much elaboration how Colonel Sterling had been doomed to elimination, and that his place was to be filled by Thomas C. Barr, now a director, but formerly traffic manager of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey.

This Barr rumor completely put out of the running a lively David Young offering which for some time had been a factor in the visionary market. For some weeks the Young story had received powerful support, but boomers of the Barr rumor were ready with plausible arguments. These gossip brokers declared that while David Young had proven his merits in days gone by as a getter of privileges, his usefulness in that direction was past now, as the Public Service has secured pretty nearly everything it can get.

Dr. Leslie D. Ward got back last week from Palm Beach. As an odd coincidence, George W. Perkins, of J. P. Morgan & Co., was in the neighborhood of the Florida resort at the same time, and also returned to New York last week, but Dr. Ward said today they had not met. In fact, Dr. Ward's declared knowledge of Public Service matters was that of an outsider. He asserted that he had heard nothing and knew nothing of what was going to happen at Monday's meeting, and did not even know whether the triumvirate rule was going into effect then or not. He did declare that the rumor of President McCarter's resignation was a canard, but beyond that was avowedly unposted as to Public Service affairs. He said further that he had no idea when the Park place property is to be taken over or, in fact, anything except that he had had a very pleasant trip.

Like Minerva springing in full panoply from the brow of Jove came a story yesterday that almost threw the rumor market into a panic. his was that James Smith, Jr., had worked himself into position of holding the balance of power in Public Service affairs and was inclined to back the McCarter interests, heretofore reported languishing. In fact, it was openly stated that instead of being "down and out," in ring parlance, the McCarters had "come back" very strongly and were now a considerable factor in the situation. In view of the reported strained relations which have existed between the former Senator and Thomas N. McCarter for several years, this staggered most of those who thought they knew what was going on, but it is admitted that stranger things have happened.

From now until Monday the rumor market is expected to be exceedingly spirited with fresh offerings every day. In the meantime the ones most interested are indulging in that healthful exercise known as sawing wood.

WEST HOBOKEN AFFAIRS.

Town Clerk Questioned as to the Council's Acts.

The Hudson County Grand Jury continued yesterday its investigation into the management of the affairs of the different towns and municipalities. Among the witnesses that appeared at yesterday's session was Town Clery McMahon, of West Hoboken. He was questioned regarding several acts of the Town Council. The affairs of the Board of Library Trustees of Hoboken and the Board of Education of Bayonne were also inquired into.

In order to finish up the work it has mapped out the Grand Jury will sit every day this week, as its term ends next Monday.

Owing to the absence yesterday of Judge Blair there were no arraignments of officials against whom indictments have already been handed into court. Capaises have been issued and it is expected that all of the accused officials will be rounded up before the end of the week.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

April 1: "Serving With Christ"—John xv, 1-8; Acts xv, 4; I Cor. iii, 6-9; II Cor. ix, 8; Phil. ii, 13.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

"Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit; and so shall ye be my disciples."

How full of meaning was the declaration of Jesus to the Jews on one occasion when He said, "My Father worketh hitherto, and I work." We cannot conceive the infinite activity of God in the upholding continually of all things in the universe. It is beyond the power of our feeble thought to grasp such vastness of power. But the nature of all exertion we do know, because we are conscious of the exercise of will power by ourselves and also of the putting forth of that will power in bodily action.

However agreeable rest and ease may be at times, there is no joy in life to be compared to that which comes from active use of our powers and faculties in the doing of some worthy work. On the other hand, it has been well said, "No ill can fret the soul with discontent like consciousness of powers unused."

The Divine One is ever active. The worlds are the result of His ceaseless exertion of power. He is not only supremely blessed in being, but supremely blessed also in doing. His activity is the continual manifestation of interest in and love for all that He has created.

And we are made like Him. Our happiness and contentment can be found only in working with and for Him.

One of our race has found the clew to the divine life, and He reveals it to all who will follow Him. The joyousness of loving service may be ours. We may know the truth and feel the life and use the power. In very deed we may do the works of God.

It is of much account that we can use these bodies and make them accomplish our purposes. We can train them to marvelous skill and efficiency. More wonderful is the discipline we can give the powers of mind and the conquests we can make in the realms of thought. What worlds open before us, in which we share God's thoughts and use His forces in our work! But these only lead us to the higher spheres where spirit rules, where the truths of righteousness and love, of holiness and moral worth, are the ruling forces.

When these possess us we serve our God as true disciples of the blessed Christ, and fruit is borne as spontaneously as grapes on a prolific vine.

We may not assist God largely in making physical worlds. He has little need of us in such work. Nor does He need us in determining and founding the great worlds of intellectual truth. But He has a very definite need in this present world and age for devoted and fearless ones to help Him establish the kingdom of righteousness and truth.

This is our call to serve with Christ.

Promises of the Almighty.

God's promises are all lamps to light up dark places, and I know of no brighter one than this: "As thy days, so shall thy strength be."

But maybe you are already in the long dark passageway, or possibly the valley through which your steps are leading is a very dark and shadowed one. Then gladly I bid you look up and catch some of the light which God sheds down from this blessed assurance.

When the sun withdraws its light,
Lo, the stars of God are there!
Present host, unseen till night—
Matchless, countless, silent, fair.

If we never had nights we could never see the stars, and so if you and I never had any trouble we could never enjoy such a promise as this of which we have written. We do not love nights, but we do love the stars; we do not love sorrow and trouble, but we do bless God for sustaining grace; we do not love weakness, but we rejoice in such promises of God as will uphold us when weakness comes.—G. B. F. Hallock in Christian Work and Evangelist.

Value of a Sunny Soul.

Sweetness of temper is a precious heritage. It gives beauty to everything. It keeps its windows open toward the spice country and fills the home with perpetual delight. The fortunate possessor of a sunny soul is God's evangel in a dark world. He is a living gospel which no one will ever repudiate and the blessedness of which all men will appreciate. The body will grow old and the smooth brow will be furrowed, but a happy disposition is an auriole to the gray crown of age. Blessed is he whose life looks out upon the land of Beulah and whose soul is responsive to the outlying vision.

Increasing Spiritual Stature.

Men who are saved in the true sense and who find their joy in helping to carry the Christ life into the veins of society find all unconsciously that cubits are added to their spiritual stature.—American Friend.

Gems of Thought.

No man is useless while he has a friend.—R. L. Stevenson.

To be willing to take trouble is the great condition of being useful to others.—Bishop Thorold.

Let every action tend to some point and be perfect in its kind.—Marcus Aurelius.

The capacity to pray is not always in our power, but in the eye of God the desire to pray is prayer.—Lessing.

It is easier to go six miles to hear a sermon than to spend one-quarter of an hour in meditating on it when I come home.—Philip Henry.

In this world one thing supremely worth having is the opportunity to do worthily a piece of work the doing of which is of vital consequence to the welfare of mankind.—Roosevelt.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning April 1.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Lives that endure.—Matt. vii 14, 25; I Cor. iii, 10-15; Eph. ii, 19-22; I Cor. vi, 17-19; II Tim. ii, 14-19. (Consecration meeting.)

The desire to lead a life that will endure or to do something that will be a memorial to us after we have passed away from life is a very strong and a very natural one. Few men want to be forgotten when they die. The vast majority want to be remembered. That be might be remembered Absalom built a pillar in the king's dale, and all the Absaloms are not dead yet. But, more than this, men want to be honorably remembered. No man wants the evil that he does to live after him and the good to be interred with his bones. We want the best that is in us to be remembered. We would if we could blot out the weaknesses and failures of our lives and leave only that which is worthy of remembrance. Ancient kings only inscribed their victories on the monuments they erected. They wished their defeats to be forgotten. But, alas, we cannot do so on the memorials of our lives. All things endure. We are remembered for all that we have been and all that we have done; hence if we want to leave an honorable name among men we must live honorably—we must "cease to do evil and learn to do well," "eschew evil and do good."

But the temporary endurance of our lives is not all that we are to consider. Few of our memories long endure in this life. Only a few names endure beyond a generation or two. Those who know us soon pass away also, and, as in ancient Egypt a new king arose who knew not Joseph, new generations arise who know not us. A life, then, really to endure must make an impression upon the future, upon eternity. And to do this life must be spent on eternal things. No purely temporal achievements will insure endurance for the future. All temporal things will pass away. The most substantial earthly monument will sooner or later crumble to dust. Today nothing but remnants remain of the vast works of the ancients, and when centuries shall have passed these remnants shall entirely pass with them. The fortunes of the financially successful are soon spent; the laws of the greatest statesmen will become obsolete and forgotten; the wisdom of the greatest philosophers will see the day when it is looked upon as folly; the work of the greatest artists will be dimmed by that of their successors, until the day dawns when "there shall be a new heaven and a new earth, for former things [all former things] shall pass away."

The life, therefore, that endures must touch eternity. And consequently if we want our lives to endure we must not spend them upon the things which are seen, for they are temporal, but upon the things which are not seen, which are eternal. Character endures forever; treasures laid up in heaven by a self sacrificing Christian life here endure; moth and rust do not destroy them. Christian work endures, especially if it be the work of saving human souls. A saved soul is forever saved and is an eternal monument to the one who in the providence of God has been instrumental in its salvation. We want our lives to endure. Therefore let us consecrate them more fully to the service of God. Let us give our lives to God in Jesus Christ, and they will endure forever, and let us make our life work redound to the honor and glory of God, and it will endure forever.

BIBLE READINGS.

Prov. xxii, 1; Eccl. xii, 13, 14; Dan. xii, 3; Matt. vi, 19-21; xxv. 31-46; I Cor. xv, 57, 58; II Cor. iv, 17, 18; v, 1; I Tim. iv, 7, 8; I Pet. i, 3-9; Rev. iii, 10; xxii, 11.

The First General Secretary.

The quarter century anniversary of Christian Endeavor has naturally enough turned the attention of all to the very early days of the movement. Any organization that grows in twenty-five years from one society of forty members to over 67,000 societies with nearly 4,000,000 members deserves to be studied. Early days suggest early men, and chief among these is Rev. Samuel Winchester Adriance, the first general secretary of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, who did yeoman service in those pioneer hours. Mr. Adriance is now a minister in Winchester, Mass.

REV. SAMUEL W. ADRIANCE.

Endeavor a Revival Force.

Endeavorers, arouse you to the battle! God is waiting to bless in the bringing in of many, but the practical work must be done by Christian men and women. If the young people of your community are reached for God you will be the instruments used to accomplish that end. As to methods, never mind how; only do something, anything that will bring you face to face with the problem of reaching the unsaved for Christ. Pray and work and so continue till your soul is on fire with the work for Christ and lost souls.—Rev. F. H. Jacobs.

Endeavor.

The very best that I can do
In strength which Christ can give,
With purpose firm, with courage true,
A Christian life to live.
—John R. Clements in Empire State Notes.

"The Clansman"—Swearing Allegiance to the Fiery Cross of the Ku Klux Klan, at New Plainfield Theatre Tomorrow Night.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Wilton Lackaye comes to the New Plainfield Theatre tonight in William A. Brady's magnificent production of "The Pit," one of the most sensational successes that the American stage has known in many years. The play is adapted from Frank Norris' famous story of the same name. It will be given here with the original cast and scenery direct from New York and Chicago.

Thomas Dixon, Jr's, sensational Southern play, "The Clansman," will be shown at the New Plainfield Theatre tomorrow night. This is the drama that has been having a tremendous run at the Liberty Theatre in New York City, where it was enthusiastically endorsed by press and public. "The Clansman," it is true, was the target of considerable newspaper attack on account of the unique views put forward by the author, but aside from this its thrilling qualities as a melodrama made it the great big hit of the season. Exactly the same cast, scenic effects and properties will be used here as were seen in New York City.

The success achieved this season by the Haverly Mastodon Minstrels has been unparalleled in its history and when this big aggregation comes to the New Plainfield Theatre Saturday afternoon and night mirth and music will surely hold sway. The show is more like the popular old-time minstrel performance than has been offered in minstrelsy in many years. The entire organization is in black face, and the laughing features of the show have been developed over everything else. The bright, particular star is Billy Beard, who is without doubt the funniest minstrel end man ever known to the minstrel stage.

Our old friends, Davis and Mack, the popular Irish comedians, with their farce comedy company in their absurdity, "The Irish Pawnbrokers," are headed this way, and will be seen at the New Plainfield Theatre next Monday night. They have always carried a good show and as a consequence are always welcome. In these days of new stars, new pieces, and new management, it is balm in Gilead as the saying goes, to have a standard article come our way. "The Irish Pawnbrokers" is fully up to the standard, and is filled with a little of everything that is pure and wholesome, including a strong and well defined plot. The situations and business of this piece are very funny, and Davis and Mack have added considerable of their original humor for which they have long been famous.

On Tuesday night next the management of the New Plainfield Theatre announces the appearance in this city of Mildred Holland in Edward C. White's highly successful romantic drama, "The Power Behind the Throne." In this connection it may be of interest to our readers to know that one of the special features of this production are the magnificent scenery and beautiful costumes worn by the company. One of the costumes worn by Miss Holland is of white ivory satin, empire style, with Court train. The trimmings for the gown are silver spangles in cut and flat effect, and brilliants of solitaire and marquise patterns. The train is trimmed with a spangled festoon effect, each point being finished with a rose, graduated in size from the waist down, the general effect being strikingly beautiful.

That breezy farcical extravaganza, "McFadden's Row of Flats," will be presented at the New Plainfield theatre, Thursday, matinee and night, April 4, and is assured of a hearty welcome as it is known that everything is new this season, including scenery, costumes and company. This farce has earned success everywhere and the humors of life on the East Side of New York are depicted with the laughable touch of caricature. The players are the foremost in farce comedy and vaudeville. A large and well drilled chorus of pretty girls, beautifully costumed in various attires, give the new musical ensembles life and attractiveness.

Numberless actors have essayed the role of Mephisto in "Faust," but their efforts have only served to throw into stronger prominence the matchless technique and finish of Lewis Morrison, who will himself appear here in the near future. Mr. Morrison has played this part over five thousand times in the past twenty years. The fact that this year "Faust" has superb new scenery and effects enhances the value of this coming attraction.

Jersey Central Sues.

Philadelphia, March 29.—Suit by the Central Railroad of New Jersey to recover $216,852 from the United States Pipe Line has been begun here. A contract was entered into by the companies whereby the United States Pipe Line Company was to let a pipe line from the railroad company to run off from Wilkesbarre to Jersey City, for 100 years. The contract stipulated that a certain amount should be run each year, and that for failure to do this the guaranteed amount should be made up. Beginning with 1895, it is alleged the stipulated amount was not lived up to .

Rev. A. S. Peck, rector of St. Stephen's church, Netherwood, who has been at the hospital under treatment for a serious attack of grip, has returned home much improved.

LITERARY.

The April number of The Burr McIntosh Monthly, the first number in the fourth year of the life of this delightful publication has reached our desk and, if it is an earnest of what the publishers propose to give the public during the year it is certainly superior to anything else of the kind ever attempted. It seems as if each number of this publication left nothing to be desired, but the following numbers always seem to be better than preceding ones, and this April number is no exception. This number is now on all newsstands and will delight lovers of the beautiful. The cover portrays that charming actress, Maude Adams, as "Peter Pan," a character she has made famous before crowded houses this winter. Several attractive views of the recent White House wedding are shown, with superb portraits of a number of the Grand Opera singers, such as Melba, Scotti, Fremstadt and Bispham which will delight lovers of music. The stage is represented by pleasing portraits of Mary Mannering, Mrs. Fiske, Edna Jeans and Clara Lipman with a caricature of David Warfield in "The Music Master." Burr Publishing Co., publishers, New York.

PUBLIC PRINTING REFORM.

Needless Distribution May Be Checked.

Washington, March 29.—A preliminary report on the subject of public printing was Monday presented to the Senate by Chairman Platt, of the Joint Congressional Committee on Printing.

The committee also submitted two joint resolutions, with the object of carrying into effect their recommendations for reform in two directions. The first is in regard to the distribution of documents by Senators and Representatives. Under the existing system each member of either body is allotted the same number of copies of a publication, without the slightest regard to the needs of his constituents.

Without changing the number allotted to each Senator or Representative, the committee recommends that the first edition of any given document be limited to the number that would actually be used, and if that is exhausted another edition be printed.

The second recommendation of the committee is that the printing for the various executive departments over which there is no supervision be placed under control of the Public Printer, as a sound business proposition which would result in a great saving.

OLD COMPANY FROM NEW LONDON COMING.

To Take Part in the Elizabeth Parade of the Veteran Volunteer Firemen.

Arrangements are going forward rapidly for the demonstration by the Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Association on the 11th of next October, at Elizabeth, and responses continue to come in from companies in various sections of the State, as well as from adjoining States.

From New London, Conn., will come an old company, and its engine will be a revelation to the hundreds of firemen who will assemble in Elizabeth on that day. The engine is fashioned somewhat after an automobile, and loses very little time in getting to a fire when one breaks out in the ancient town of New London.

The Lambertville company, which has accepted an invitation to come, will be accompanied by the Mayor of that city, who is an officer of the company.

Secretary McLeod is busy in attending to the correspondence from various companies which are being invited. These want to know the best route to take to reach Elizabeth, as to the hotel accommodations, etc.

The Elizabeth veterans are to extend many hospitalities to the numerous fire companies which will be there, and the streets will be alive from early in the morning until late in the night with the marching and countermarching of the visiting companies.

All of the suviving chiefs and assistant chiefs of the former fire department are to be invited to participate in the demonstration, which will be headed by Col. Chauncey Harris, who for five years was chief engineer of the Elizabeth Fire Department.

NEW BRUNSWICK STREETS.

P. S. C. Plans May Lead to Suit to Decide How It May Use Streets.

New Brunswick, March 29.—A law suit will probably be necessary to adjust the conflicting claims of the Public Service Corporation and the city of New Brunswick as to the conditions under which gas mains are to be laid in the city streets by the Public Service Corporation. Under the charter of the New Brunswick Gas Light Company, which was absorbed by the Public Service Corporation, the right was conferred to lay mains in New Brunswick and in Middlesex and Somerset counties, without asking permission of city or county governing bodies. When the Public Service Corporation asked of the county a designation of location for mains from New Brunswick to Metuchen, Alan Strong, county solicitor, held that the charter provision exempted the Public Service from the necessity of getting permission to lay the mains, and all the county had to do was to state in what part of the highway the mains were to go.

Recently workmen of the Public Service began laying mains through New Brunswick, as part of the big distributing system whereby gas is to supplied from Camden. City Attorney Booraem instructed the street commissioner to stop the work, on the ground that permission had not been secured from the Council. He held that the charter right to lay mains at will expired in 1881, and that at present mains are laid under the act of 1870, which makes the consent of Council necessary. This ruling is directly opposite to that of Alan Strong in the case of the county.

RAILWAY VETERAN PENSIONED.

Jethro German, Central of New Jersey Employe for 54 Years.

Hampton Junction, March 29.—Jethro German, an old resident of this borough, and one of the oldest employes on the Central Railroad of New Jersey, has just been notified that he has been retired from active service by the company and will receive a pension of $19.33 per month during the remainder of his life.

Mr. German entered the employ of the company in 1852 and has been in continual service ever since, with the exception of a period during the Civil War, when he was a sergeant in Company K, Thirty-first New Jersey Volunteers. He has been a locomotive fireman for more than forty years. In 1865 he fell from his engine at Elizabeth and had his right leg so badly crushed that amputation below the knee was necessary. He is a member of the Central Railroad Veteran Employes' Association, and a prominent figure in the Improved Order of Red Men. When the tribe was organized here many years ago Mr. German was made chief, and since that time he has been known far and wide as "Chief" German." His last work for the railroad company was as flagman at a crossing in Bloomsbury, and it was while on duty that he was stricken with paralysis a short time ago. Mr. German is seventy years old. He was wounded while in the service of his country, and has received a pension of $12 a month for several years.

Give Up Skin to Save Son's Life.

Paterson, March 29.—To save the life of their son, James, who was seriously burned in an explosion at a silk mill, Mr. and Mrs. William Cowan submitted yesterday to a skin grafting operation at the General Hospital. The physicians say that it will be impossible to tell definitely for a few days whether the operation is successful. It was the only hope of saving the young man's life.

Rev. Dr. James I. Vance.

Rev. Dr. James I. Vance, of Newark, has been secured as the speaker for the men's mass meeting to be held under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. at the New Plainfield theatre on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Dr. Vance is a pulpit orator and a well known author. He has been called "The Eloquent Southerner." He is pastor of the North Reformed church, of Newark, which has the largest membership of any church in the denomination in the country.

He was one of the speakers this month at the great student convention at Nashville, Tenn., at which there were four thousand credited delegates besides a large number of others who were in attendance. The Lotus Glee Club, whose singing was so greatly enjoyed last Sunday, will render three selections and the Y. M. C. A. orchestra will provide special music in addition to the orchestral programme advertised for 3:30 o'clock. A male chorus will occupy seats on the platform and lead the singing under the direction of William C. Leek.

"YORK STATE FOLKS" A REFRESHING DRAMA.

One of the Best Productions that Has Yet Appeared at the Local House.

Probably because of the title not being familiar, "York State Folks" failed to draw a large house at the New Plainfield theatre last night, and consequently, unless it comes back, local playgoers will not know what they missed. It is described as a rural drama and truthfully so, and is on a par with either time-honored "Old Homestead" or the popular "Way Down East," without reflecting any part of them. A more wholesome show has not been in the city this season.

The big cast was headed by James Lackaye, brother to Wilton Lackaye, who gave a splendid interpretation of a crabbed old man, and who was accorded prolonged applause every time he appeared. He is a veteran of the stage, but his name is not so well known in Plainfield as is his brother's. Every member of the support fitted into his or her part and the action as a result was well balanced. The scenic equipment was splendid. Manager Counihan feels satisfied that the performance made a lasting impression and is endeavoring to secure a return date.

The show closes with a pretty scene in which a boys' choir is rendering "Calvary" to add to the effect. It was composed of local boys who are members of choirs in Holy Cross, St. Joseph's and Grace churches. They possess sweet soprano voices and sang very prettily. Those appearing were Russell and Ira Vail, Raymond Kenyon, Herbert Stine, Russell Conroy, Raymond and Alfred Manley, Raymond Smith, Robert Dentz, Russell Hoagland and Arthur Martin.

Martine Not Moody.

And now "Farmer"s Martine repudiates John Moody's "New Democracy." Mr. Martine, in explaining why he cannot participate in the Moody movement, says: "I am a Democrat."—Somerville Messenger.

JERSEY GRAFT CHARGE.

Says State Senators' Price Dropped from $1,000 to $200.

Philip Krimke, president of the New Jersey Pawnbrokers' Association, made an affidavit before George E. Carpenter, a master in chancery in Newark, yesterday, in which he charges two members of the New Jersey State Senate with an attempt to extort money from him in consideration of killing two bills, in which pawnbrokers are interested. The two Senators named by Mr. Krimke are George L. Shinn (Rep.), of Ocean county, chairman of the Committee on Labor and Industries, and George F. Martens, Jr. (Dem.), of Hunterdon county, a member of the same committee.

The measures in question are Senate bills 184 and 185, and have been termed by those opposed to their enactment as "strike bills." No. 184 proposes to reduce the legal rate of interest on pawnbrokers' loans from 2 to 1 per cent. a month, and provides for a public auction of unredeemed pledges within ten days after public notice shall have been given. The other bill is a safeguard to persons whose property has been stolen and pawned. It makes the pawnbrokers liable for the return of such property. The first bill has reached third reading, but was returned to second reading and was amended Tuesday. The affidavit of Mr. Krimke was given to City Attorney Malcom MacLear, of Newark, who entered the case as counsel for the pawnbrokers' association. He went to Trenton yesterday, and after a conference with Senator Shinn the latter agreed to have the two bills laid over until Monday.

Arraigned Drunken Son.

Michael Higgins arraigned his thirty-four-year-old son, Joseph, in the Bayonne police court yesterday on a charge that he got drunk and abused his parents. The "boy" showed the effects of drink, but promised to be "good." Recorder Lazarus said: "Unless you quit drinking I will have to send you away. You are in no condition to stop suddenly, and I will allow you one drink a day for one week, when you must stop altogether." The "boy" agreed and was let off.

He Doesn't Need Benefit.

The following communication was received by The Daily Press this morning with the request that it be put on the first page in large letters: "I wish to announce to the members of the minstrel company who are going to give a benefit in Reform Hall for Duke Mulford that he needs no outside assistance whatever. I consider it very kind of the members, but when he needs help he will let you know.—Matilda Mulford."

Grocery Firm Dissolves Partnership.

The grocery firm of Currin & Conover, which has a store at Somerset street and Grandview avenue, was dissolved by mutual consent today. Philip H. Currin will continue the business at the old stand and Frederick B. Conover will go to Trenton, where he has purchased an old established meat market and grocery. He will assume charge Monday.

—Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Vanderhoff, of West Fifth street, will move to the Stillman building on West Front street, April 1.

in the Boston and Maine system. Shortly after this event she removed with her younger children to Worcester, Mass., and some years later to Brooklyn. Here she resided till 1887, when she was called to Plainfield upon the death of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. John M. Whiton, to take charge of her son's household, in which the remainder of her life was spent.

Mrs. Whiton was brought up in the Unitarian Church, of which her mother was a member. When Dr. Lyman Beecher came to Boston, she and her two sisters were attracted by his preaching, and the three joined his church in 1829. Thenceforward through her whole life, she was in the best sense of the term, an active member. Mothers' meetings in behalf of the religious training of children, early attracted her interest, and subsequently she became a zealous promoter of women's missionary societies. While residing in Brooklyn, she served as a deaconess of the Clinton Avenue Congregational church, and was one of the founders of the Old Men's Home in that city. As its treasurer until her removal to Plainfield, her accounts were deemed a model of the exactness that auditors approve. With her husband she became an early convert to the Anti-Slavery movement, and a helper of the then feebly supported work of the American Missionary Association among the emancipated negroes of Jamaica.

Mrs. Whiton was characteristically open-minded, as well as active-minded. From the time when Dr. Bushnell's epoch-making book on "Christian Nurture" appeared in 1846, then banned as heretical, her sympathies and her husband's were with the theological progressives whom Bushnell led. She shared her husband's literary tastes, and as time released her from domestic cares, became increasingly fond of books. She entered with zest into the Chautauqua Reading Circle, and in her seventy-sixth year received the diploma awarded after examination on its prescribed course. Thus she kept in touch with the general advance of thought and knowledge. In political movements also she took an interest that many younger women would do well to emulate. Though by no means a woman-suffragist, she always contended that every taxpayer, whether man or woman, should have a vote.

But among her varied interests her home was central. Here her industry was ceaseless. Its activity not limited to her children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren, with all of whom, especially on their birthdays, she maintained correspondence, overflowed towards others—such as the City Hospital and the life-saving crews on the beach. An active mind, co-operated with a cheerful temper and careful habits to prolong her years and her powers. She came of a long-lived stock; but since 1883 she has been the sole survivor of her family. After she had entered the nineties, she began to take interest in the newspaper accounts of persons who had reached the century mark and beyond, as of people whose good example she should emulate by the will to make as good a record of longevity as possible. Her recovery at the age of ninety-four from an attack of pneumonia revealed the surprising tenacity of her hold on life, which continued in remarkable vigor up to the end. March 26 symptoms of grip appeared. Three days later, surrounded by her children, she lapsed peacefully into the final sleep.

WIDENING AVENUE.

To Move Buildings Back of Street Line Tomorrow.

Further improvement of Park avenue will begin tomorrow morning, when the office of Boice, Runyon & Co. will be moved back and to a point close to the railroad and the old-fashioned frame building owned by John G McLaughlin and occupied by Clifton & Campbell, A. E. Hoagland and M. C. Dobbins, will be moved back and on a line with the new building erected by C. W. McCutchen. Mobus Brothers have the contract for the work.

This disposes of the rumor that it is the intention to tear down the frame building at present. There is no doubt but that this will be done later on and that a modern building will be erected on that site, but plans in this direction have not matured as yet.

After these buildings are moved back the work of widening Park avenue from Second street to the railroad will begin and be pushed forward as rapidly as possible. This work will be done under the direction of Street Commissioner Gavett.

DAAB SIGNS DEEGAN FOR PLAINFIELD TEAM

GEORGE MALLEN ALSO INCLUDED IN THE LINE-UP OF LOCAL NINE.

Manager Daab will open his baseball season on Sunday in a game with Loughlin Lyceum, of Brooklyn, and local fandom is waiting with interest to see how the new lineup will perform in the initital contest. Mr. Daab announced today that his battery will be "Willie" Deegan and "Jack" O'Neil. On the first sack will be Henriques, who will be remembered as having played in Plainfield three years ago. He put up a good game then, but has improved very much both in fielding and stick work. Last year he made a fine record in the Lackawanna League.

Second base will be covered by Brogan, who filled that position a part of last season for Plainfield, while Dalton was injured. His ability was so well thought of that Manager Murray, of the Jersey City Club, promised to give him a try-out this season and he may be here with the "Skeeters" during their training period.

Curley, who is recognized as an exceptionally fast infielder and opportune hitter, will cover short stop position. He played in th eLackawanna League last season and was considered one of the best shortstops there. On third base will be "Mike" Leonard, who will captain the team.

The outfield positions are not entirely filled, but this much is certain, Bertwhistle and the irrepressible George Mallen will cover two of the outfield posts. Despite the statements of Charles Denman, of Westfield, Mallen has given his word that he will be with Mr. Daab and assures him that he will play good, straight, clean baseball, the best he knows how, and everyone knows that Mallen is a good player, as is also Bertwhistle. The latter is also a heavy hitter.

Between now and Sunday Mr. Daab will select his third outfielder, and everything will be in readiness for the first game in Brooklyn. The team will be given a thorough try-out between now and May 1 and all weak points strengthened. Mr. Daab assures his friends here that his team will be a strong one, and if anything a heavier hitting aggregation than last year.

WOMEN'S PRESBYTERIAL SOCIETY MEETING.

Some Features of the Annual Session to Be Held at Dunellen Tomorrow.

At the annual meeting of the Women's Presbyterial Society for Home Missions in the Presbytery of Elizabeth, which will be held at Dunellen on Friday, there will be many interesting features and instructive addresses. Miss Mary Wilson, a colored teacher from the Industrial School for Freedmen, at Albion, N. C., will talk about her own people and her work of instructing them in cooking and sewing. She will have an industrial exhibit with her.

The conference on young people's work, at 1:30 p. m., will be conducted by Miss Mary Harding, young people's synodical secretary. The following are some of the topics to be discussed: "What should be the character of the model C. E. missionary meeting?" "What does mission study do for young people?" "Is it worth while to drill the individual society in its relation to Presbyterial and synodical societies, to the boards and the general assembly?"

The afternoon session will be addressed by Mrs. Katherin Jones Bennett, on "Our Work Among the Foreigners." Mrs. Bennett is ably qualified to talk on this subject, being chairman of the committee on foreigners in the Women's Board of Home Missions.

Senate bill 249, introduced by Senator Ackerman, which provides for the maintenance of travelling libraries to serve penal and correctional institutions in this State, passed the Senate yesterday, and is now in the Assembly.

GRACE M. E. MEMBERS SURPRISE DR. PARSONS

PRESENT HIM WITH A PUSRE IN APPRECIATION OF HIS WORK.

The members of Grace M. E. church held a congregational meeting last night, during which Rev. Dr. C. W. Parsons, the pastor, was treated to a most agreeable surprise. During an intermission in the election of trustees he was addressed by W. J. Conroy, who reviewed the work that had been accomplished from the time that the doctor had taken charge of church and the new impetus that followed his installation.

The membership, Mr. Conroy said, had increased 116, while the benevolences were larger than ever before. He then, in behalf of the congregation, extended to Dr. Parsons a purse containing $120 as an appreciation of his efforts.

The pastor was totally unprepared for the gift, but he soon found words to thank those who had made it. The year that he has been in Plainfield, he said, has been the happiest in his life. His health has been better than in a long time before and the relations between himself and the members of Grace church have been of the best.

In the election of trustees, Andrew Lutkins assumed the unexpired term of the late John Valiant, and W. J. Conroy, D. W. Winckler and Andrew Wilson were returned for three-year terms.

HOPE CHAPEL SOCIETIES HOLD ANNUAL MEETINGS.

Women Missionary Workers Hear Some Helpful Addresses.

Mrs. G. H. Condict was elected president of the Women's Missionary Society of Hope chapel at the annual meeting yesterday afternoon. The meeting was attended by twenty-eight members of the Warren Chapel Ladies' Aid and Missionary societies.

Mrs. A. V. D. Honeyman, president of Warren chapel's society, made a very instructive address as did also Mrs. I. C. Pierson, president of the Crescent Avenue church's Home Missionary Society and Mrs. W. E. Honeyman, synodical secretary of the allied missionary societies. Rev. J. O. McKelvey also made some remarks.

The officers elected were: Mrs. Condict, president; Mrs. L. R. Howard, vice president; Mrs. M. W. Clark, secretary, and Mrs. Joseph Brown, treasurer. All the reports were encouraging.

Last night the Christian Endeavor Society of Hope chapel held its annual meeting. Rev. L. R. Howard made an address. These officers were elected: President, Philip Braunster; vice president, Miss Edna Eckard; secretary, Morris Hunter; treasurer, Miss Clara Hunter; corresponding secretary, Frank Rimmer.

Bound Brook Man Claims Body.

New York, March 29.—The body of Daniel P. Smock, formerly a dry goods merchant of this city, which had lain unclaimed in the morgue since March 20, was removed Tuesday afternoon by an undertaker from Bound Brook, N. J., on an order given by H. M. Herbert, of Bound Brook, who is a nephew of Smock. The undertaker said that Mr. Herbert had not known that his uncle was dead until he read about it in a newspaper. The family had not heard of him for several years.

Government Free Seeds.

Washington, March 29.—Senator Dryden has received and filed a protest against the free distribution of seeds by the Government from P. S. Wheeler, of Ringoes, N. J. "It would not be so bad," protests Mr. Wheeler, "if it was for rare or new seeds not common to this country, but I draw the line at the distribution of common garden seeds, etc., which can be obtained at any country grocery store from Maine to California at a trivial cost."

Last Official Act.

Former Sheriff B. Frank Coriell performed the last official act yesterday in connection with the office previously held by him, when he sold the property of the Standard Twine and Rope Company in Elizabeth, to the Manhattan Trust Company, of New York. The plant of the Elizabeth concern was destroyed by fire a couple of years ago and the business has been in course of adjustment ever since.

New York, March 29.—Brodie L. Duke, the millionaire tobacco manufacturer of Durham, N. C., was yesterday granted an absolute decree of divorce from his wife, Alice Webb Duke, whom he married in this city December 19, 1904. The case was called and no counsel appeared for Mrs. Duke. Witnesses for the plaintiff were examined, and the Justice Blanchard ordered a sealed verdict, which was handed up this morning. The jury found that Mrs. Duke violated her marriage vows on a train out of Chicago May 15, 1905, and declared that Mr. Duke was entitled to a decree.

CARNIVAL'S COMMITTEE

Those to Have General Charge of Hospital Affair Named by Former Mayor Fisk.

W. S. MILLER, MANAGER

Grounds on West Fourth Street Again to Be Used—More and Larger Attractions Promised.

In order to get plans for the hospital carnival in full swing within the next few weeks, Chairman Fisk has appointed the following general committee: Mayor James F. Buckle, Mayor Newton B. Smalley, Rev. E. V. Stevenson, DeWitt C. Ivins, Joseph M. Shellabarger, George F. Schoonmaker, Henry B. Lovell, Charles H. Frost, F. S. Bache, W. C. Kinney, Ralph L. Morrow, F. L. C. Martin, John J. Kenney, William Newcorn, M. Leichtentritt, Andrew E. Kenney, Rev. B. M. Bogan, Henry L. Hall, George S. Ring, James Dodd, William N. Runyon, Arthur A. Cannon, Dr. F. C. Ard, Dr. B. vanD. Hedges, Thomas M. Muir, Ralph Willis, George MacIntyre, John H. Cose, Allen B. Laing and Howard Fleming. The executive committee consists of Mr. Fisk, DeWitt C. Ivins, Henry L. Hall, Maze Edwards, secretary and treasurer; W. S. Miller, general manager.

Mr. Miller has been in town for the past few days discussing the preliminary details with the leaders and he declares the coming carnival will be "greater and grander than ever." It was thought at first that the grounds on West Fourth street would not be large enough this time but it has been decided after measurements that the area is sufficient to accommodate all the attractions and that the location is more convenient. There was a proposition to hold the affair on the plot on Elm place and Chatham street, bordering Tier's lake, but this has been abandoned.

The opening date of the carnival has been set for May 19 and it will continue for two weeks. The time will include three Saturdays, thus affording the half holiday crowds an opportunity to attend. Last year it was held ten, several of which were stormy.

ANNUAL MUSICALE AT CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

Programme Delights a Large Audience; Everybody Encored.

The third annual musicale of the Congregational church, held last night at the church, pleased a large audience. The programme was a delightful one, every number of which was its own ample excuse for being.

All the musical numbers were vocal. There were two quartettes, one composed of Willard Wadsworth, C. C. Gallup, J. Edmund Skiff and Charles Barlow, the other of Mrs. Thomas McDonald, Miss Jessie Haynes, J. W. Sanford and B. F. Tallamy. The latter is the regular church choir. Both rendered their numbers excellently. Mrs. McDonald, Miss Haynes and Mr. Tallamy were the soloists. Miss Haynes and Mr. Sanford sang two duets.

The applause that rewarded the singers had nothing of a perfunctory character about it. Encores were insisted upon in every case.

Marguerite Smith-Alkiro, of New York, gave a series of child impersonations of unusual excellence. She has a high reputation in that field of entertainment, and more than sustained it. In pathos and humor she was equally strong. The applause lavished on her was enough for two ordinary entertainers.

The committee was composed of M. C. Van Arsdale, chairman; F. A. Weekes and Willard Wadsworth. The ushers were Harold Millar, Henry Barlow and Warren Weseman.

Auto School Opens.

Clarence Brokaw gave his owners' automobile class its first lesson at the Y. M. C. A. last night. The pupils were plunged right into business, and before the lesson was over they had an Oldsmobile apart. The class now numbers nineteen; it won't be allowed to grow much more—the instructor and the members think it a little too crowded as it is. The second of the twelve lessons will be given next Thursday.

Mallen the Stevens Coach.

Centerfielder George Mallen, captain of the Westfield nine last year, who has just been signed by Manager Daab for the midfield bailiwick, will teach this season's Stevens' Institute nine how to play ball though young. He has been regularly signed as coach by the management of the Hoboken institution's combination.

Mrs. William Miles, of Somerset street, is stopping with friends in Washington, D. C.

CLINTON AVE. NINE IN A NEW LEAGUE

PLAINFIELD TEAM JOINS UNION COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

Plainfield will be represented by a strong nine in the Union County Amateur Baseball League, which is being organized for a pennant battle by F. K. Anderson, an Elizabeth baseball supporter. The Clinton Avenue baseball club is making arrangements for reorganization with affiliation with the league as its chief reason for going into the game another season. It will put a fast and seasoned combination into the field.

A meeting of players and others interested in the nine has been called for next Wednesday night. It will be held at John Kriney's house. John is the team's old manager and occupies the position of guiding star and familiar spirit toward it. There is no doubt of organization, and only the preliminaries have to be cleaned up in proper, business-like style.

There is plenty of good material handy for the organizers. Jack Martin, the fast little short stop, who has played with the Clinton Avenues for several seasons, is getting the men together. The candidates have already been pretty well sorted over and signed. The line up will be more or less like this: Barnes, first base; Brit Martin, second base; Jack Martin, short stop; Emery, third base; A. Schott, left field; O. Dodge, center field; Whitley, right field; Scott and Squier, pitchers; O'Loughlin, c.

The men will be out for first practice tomorrow afternoon, if the weather makes any sort of a stab at being nice. The combination will open up its batteries for the first gambol of the season on Saturday, April 28, against the Imperial A. C., of Garwood, on the home grounds.

Details of the league schedule and other matters touching on and appertaining to the pennant organization will be pushed forward at a meeting in Elizabeth Monday night. The Clinton Avenues will not have a representative at the gathering, but "Doc" Anderson will post them by letter, and their membership in the organization will be arranged definitely at the proper time. It is hoped to have twelve different nines in the league, from every corner of the county. If things go as the organizers hope, the pennant struggle will be full of ginger and joy.

LOCAL PLAYGOERS PLEASED WITH "SPECULATION" PLAY.

"The Pit" With Wilton Lackaye Proves to Be a Strong Dramatic Offering.

The appearance of William A. Brady's great production of "The Pit" at the New Plainfield theatre, last night, was noteworthy from two points of view. It not only gave local playgoers a chance to see this absorbing drama of wheat speculation but it afforded those who attended "York State Folks" the preceding night, to compare the relative merits of the Lackaye brothers, James and Wilton. Both have attained artistic fame and stand at the head of their profession and it was a coincidence in booking that brought them to Plainfield on successive nights. Neither suffered by the comparison as both scored individual hits.

"The Pit" has several strong, dramatic climaxes, the principal one being the panic on the Chicago Board of Trade which results in the ruin of Curtis Jadwin, played by Wilton Lackaye. Wheat speculation stands out prominently in the story but it does not absorb the plot; romance, remarkable character studies, and varied and minute descriptions of active life being apparent throughout.

RECEPTION AND DANCE.

Guests of T. Astley Weaver and Walter Dealaman Enjoy Themselves.

T. Astley Weaver, of Grove street, and Walter M. Dealaman, of West Front street, gave a delightful reception and dance at the former's home last night. It was attended by forty young people from the city and borough. During the evening an autograph contest and a silhouette contest afforded much amusement. Miss Margaret Hallock was the winner of the first named and was awarded a handsome Gibson picture, "Hearts Are Trumps." Prizes for the other, a stickpin and a jewel case, were won by Arthur Hazleton and Miss Ida Dealaman.

Music for the dancing was furnished by Naylor's orchestra and was enjoyed until after midnight.

TREES ARE ENDANGERED

Mr. Powell Says Unless Something is Done Plainfield's Attraction Will Be Destroyed.

THE ENEMIES AT WORK

250,000 Varieties of Insects at Work—Description of Them and Their Destructive Work.

"Plainfield Trees, Their Care and Roses," was the subject of an unusually interesting talk given by George T. Powell, of this city, before the Men's Association of Trinity Reformed church, last night. It was "ladies' night" and a large number of women were present and enjoyed the talk fully as much as the men. One of the statements made by Mr. Powell was that unless speedy action is taken in Plainfield certain valuable shade and fruit trees will be practically extinct within a few years. He strongly recommended municipal action along the right lines.

In part Mr. Powell spoke as follows:

"We don't realize the value of trees to our pleasureand comfort. If it were not for trees human existence would be impossible. They equalize the conditions of the atmosphere and absorb the deleterious substances. Each time we take a train we ride over steel rails laid on the product of the trees and the enormous consumption of wood in this way makes us wonder where railroad companies will get their future supply. Wooden ties must be used, a test having demonstrated that steel cannot be use for this purpose. Then in the building of houses enormous quantities of wood are required. The beauty of the trees, the pleasure we get in trees themselves covered with foliage, with their rugged outline of form, resisting the heavy storms presents a great lesson for us.

"It is important to know how to care for trees. There are many enemies to them, it being estimated that there are 250,000 varieties of insects, and it is said that the apple tree is preyed upon by the entire number. The early spring fruit trees and the Mountain Ash are especially subject to the 'web scale,' which works very fast and soon destroys the trees. The 'fall web worm' gets in its work before the trees bud.

"We have been spraying in Plainfield the past winter for the San Jose scale, and I want to say that unless active methods are adopted at once certain types of trees will pass out of existence. This work should be done by the municipality. The 'Japan Quincy,' a very brilliant blossoming tree here, is going fast because of these insects. The San Jose scale is so minute that it is almost impossible to find it until its destructive work is done. One pair of these scales allowed to remain undisturbed from now until September next would be the progenitors of three billion scales. Entire orchards are swept away by this scale."

Mr. Powell then described the rose scale which does not multiply so rapidly, and the oyster shell bark scale which attacks maple and ash arees. He said that a composition of salt, sulphur and lime had been used with good effect against these scales, but was troublesome to handle. Last winter Mr. Powell said he used effectively a composition called "Scalecide," and it was found that not a living insect remained after spraying.

Mr. Powell dwelt at some length on two of the most destructive moths known, the "Gypsy Moth" and the "Brown Tail Moth." He related how twenty years ago the "Gypsy Moth" was brought to this country by an artist who sought to cross it with the silk worm, but failed. One day a gust of wind carried these moths out of a window. Some were recovered, but others got away and multiplied very fast. This was in and near Boston. Massachusetts has expended $1,500,000 to rid the State of this moth and $600,000 will be used this year. It is not a flying moth, but is easily carried through the country in freight, automobiles and carriages. The "Brown Tail Moth" is equally destructive. The speaker remarked that while citizens are taxed to maintain its exceedingly fine fire department, the city should also take steps to protect its trees which are so hard to replace.

Mr. Powell also referred to the value of birds in destroying insects and he thought it was a mistake for the fruit growers and farmers to seek open seasons for the robin and other birds, where they are so helpful. He said that the fruit growers might better plant a few cherry trees of the early spring variety for the benefit of the robins and other birds and his experience has taught him that they will not bother the other kinds of fruit. He said that the wren has

WARREN TOWNSHIP LINES WERE WRONG

DISCOVERED CERTAIN PROPERTIES BELONG IN NORTH PLAINFIELD

Through a re-survey of township boundary lines, it has been discovered that several properties, paying considerable money in taxes, belong in North Plainfield township, instead of Warren. For thirty-five years, the latter township has been getting money that doesn't belong to it.

Up to thirty-five years ago North Plainfield township was part of Warren township. The division was decided on at that time, and William Drake and William Jones were put in charge of the work of separation. The line then ran from Sebring's Mill to a point at Thomas Rogers' farm at the corner of Somerset and Union counties.

For some time North Plainfield township suspected that the lines of separation were run wrong by the Drake-Jones surveyors, and recently it retained F. A. Dunham, of this city, to re-survey the boundaries. He has discovered that two valuable properties and part of two others, now taxed by Warren, are within the boundaries of North Plainfield.

The most interesting change of the four is the bringing of the famed Pedefious resort into the group of Plainfields. That place, as well as the big poultry farm back of it and part of the Michael Williams farm in Washington Valley, and Burnett's farm on the road to Union Village.

Mr. Dunham's discovery has become known to the township residents, although he has not made an official report on it. Steps will be taken immediately after the report is made to correct the old state of affairs formally and legally.

MISS JENNIE M. SAXTON NOW MRS. H. H. APGAR.

Quiet Wedding at Home of Bride's Parents.

Miss Jennie M. Saxton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Newton H. Saxton, of West Eighth street, and Henry H. Apgar, of Watchung avenue, were married, last night, at the home of the bride's parents. Only the nearest relatives of the bride and groom witnessed the ceremony which was performed by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, of which the bride is a member.

The ceremony took place at 6:30 o'clock in the library, which was profusely decorated with palms, ferns and cut flowers, the prevailing colors being green and white.

The bride wore a gown of champagne cloth over silk of a corresponding shade. After the ceremony supper was served in the dining room, which was decorated with ferns and pink carnations. The bride received a large collection of gifts from relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Apgar departed last night for a short southern trip and upon their return will reside at 1112 West Eighth street, in a home recently built and furnished by Mr. Apgar and which is his gift to the bride.

BROTHER'S DEATH NOT KNOWN.

William Haake's Demise Kept from Sister Because of Her Illness.

The body of William Haake, who committed suicide at his home on Jackson avenue, was removed to Brooklyn yesterday. The funeral will be held at the home of a relative tonight and interment will be made tomorrow.

The fact that Haake is dead is not yet known to his sister, Mrs. H. S. Hadley, of Somerset place. She has been very ill for the past week, and it was thought the news might prove fatal. It was partly for this reason that no service was held in Plainfield.

Will See Opening Game.

Several local baseball fans will go to Brooklyn Sunday to see the game between the Hobokens and Loughlin Lyceum nine. The game will be started at 3:30 o'clock. Hon. Herman A. Metz, comptroller of Greater New York, will throw the first ball across the plate. The grounds are within easy access of Brooklyn Bridge and can be reached by taking the Graham avenue car and getting off at Jackson street, which is two blocks from Loughlin Oval. Deegan and O'Neil will be the Hoboken battery. Teddy Shortman, the old Hope chapel star, will play in the outfield.

Mr. Symons' New Position.

William Symons, of East Front street, who has been electrical engineer at the Pedrick & Ayer shop, has resigned his position in order to assume charge of a construction gang installing a new electrical block signal system on the New York Central Railroad. It is to run at present from High Bridge to Buffalo. Mr. Symons will assume his new place Monday.

REPUDIATES A SLANDER

Insurance Paper Explains the Real Situation Concerning Fire Department Matters.

NO POLITICS IN IT

Two Journals Imposed Upon—Both Are Set Right—Letter From Councilman Mellick.

"The Council evidently deserves the thanks of underwriters in the stand it has taken," says The Spectator, a New York insurance paper, in repudiating a slanderous article on the Plainfield Common Council and fire department regarding the trouble over the second assistant chiefship. The article in question, furnished by a Plainfield man, was published in that journal two weeks ago without having been verified and at once several prominent citizens laid the matter before the rate commission of the National Board of Underwriters declaring that there was a sinister motive in getting the insurance paper to use it. Another insurance weekly, The Chronicle, published an almost identical article and its source has also been traced. Yesterday a reporter for the latter paper was sent here to get the right version of the matter. "We were used for a good thing," said he after interviewing a half dozen men about town. That paper is also expected to correct itself this week.

The Spectator, after explaining the trouble in Common Council over the mayor's nomination of a candidate for second assistant chief, publishes a letter from George P. Mellick, who as chairman of the councilmanic fire committee, gives a lucid account of the trouble and rightfully declares that the "condition of the Plainfield fire deparment is at its best at present."

Following is the article in yesterday's Spectator:

"In The Spectator of March 15 reference was made to conditions in the fire department at Plainfield, N. J., which seemed to threaten the protection at that point. A prominent and well-informed underwriter, a citizen of Plainfield, however, declares that the conditions are entirely satisfactory from an underwriting standpoint. The conflict between the Mayor and the city Council arose over the Mayor's appointment as second assistant chief of a man whom the Council did not consider entitled to the position. Certain members of the Council suggested the name of a captain next in line and entirely competent, but, as the Mayor, because, it is said, of a political debt, was still determined to appoint his original candidate, the Council decided to abolish the office of second assistant chief rather than have it occupied by a political appointee.

"This is said to be the first attempt to inject politics into the fire department administration at Plainfield, and it has failed. The Council evidently deserves the thanks of underwriters for the stand it has taken.

"We print below a letter received from one evidently in a position to know the truth as to this apparent unnecessary agitation, as far as it affects fire insurance circles.

"To the Editor of The Spectator:

"An article in your journal of March 15, entitled 'Plainfield, N. J., May Need Attention,' was inspired either by one unfamiliar with the facts, or one guilty of an intent to create a false impression in the minds of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, and so, if possible, injure the interests of the citizens of Plainfield.

"During January last the office of second assistant chief of Plainfield fire department became vacant by reason of the resignation of John W. Murray, for whom this office had practically been created many years ago, with the nominal salary of $100 per year. Mr. Murray was an old volunteer fireman engaged in New York in business each day.

"The Mayor of Plainfield appointed a 'call man' to this office, and upon this appointment being referred, as is customary, to the committee on fire and buildings, it was discovered that the appointment was in fulfillment of a political promise, the Mayor having ignored the eligibility and worthiness of the senior captain of the paid department for the position, a man sixteen years in the service, favored by the chief of the department, who, with others of the paid firemen, naturally believed he was entitled to promotion by reason of his long and faithful service.

"It is my opinion, and the opinion of many citizens and tax payers of our city, that the confirmation of the Mayor's appointee would have had a discouraging effect upon the paid firemen, and so affected the discipline and efficiency of the department. The abolishment of the office of second

FACTS ABOUT TELEPHONE THAT ARE STARTLING

SYSTEM IN AMERICA GREATER THAN EUROPE AND GREAT BRITAIN COMBINED

Frederick P. Fish in his annual report as president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company just issued shows that there were 2,528,715 Bell telephone stations in operation at the close of 1905, an increase of over half a million, or about 25 per cent. since the close of the previous year. The total mileage of wire in use for exchange and toll service was 6,043,518 miles, of which over a million and a quarter miles were added during the year. During the year the Bell companies spent for new construction in exchanges and toll lines $46,603,516 and for land and buildings $4,177,390, a total of over fifty million dollars as against $31,619,100 in 1904. During the year the Bell companies handled a total daily average of 13,911,000 connections or at the rate of about 4,479,500,000 a year, being 54 telephone calls for each man, woman and child in the United States.

At the present time there is in use in the system not less than 320,000,000 pounds of copper wire, 8,000,000 poles and 95,000,000 feet of underground conduit. About 80 per cent. of the exchange wire is in cables and 54 per cent. of the exchange wire is underground. The number of officers and employes has increased to 87,212.

The American Bell system of the United States now exceeds in number of subscribers, mileage of wire and the extent of traffic the telephone systems of Great Britain and continental Europe combined. All the money received by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company through the sale of its securities, with the exception of that expended upon its own telephones and long distance lines, passes into the treasuries of the associated companies in exchange for their securities. In view of this the entire capitalization including funded and floating debt of all the companies, including the American Telephone and Telegraph Company is $334,524,583 and the average capitalization per station including the total cost of toll lines is $149, and excluding toll lines $105.

BASEBALL SCHEDULE FOR LEAL'S SCHOOL.

Good Material for Academy's Nine for Season.

The prospects for a winning baseball team this season at Leal's School are bright. Only four members of last year's team have left, Daniel, left field; Jewett, pitcher; Smith, first base, and Arthur Wills, second base. Captain Glenney, catcher; Howard, third base; Lyman, right field; Dallas, first base; Chapman, center field, and Browne, short stop, remain. There is some very good material for the outfield and as the infield is almost intact, a pitcher is about the only player lacking and Bergen is a promising candidate for this important position.

Thus far ten strong games have been scheduled as follows: April 7, Flemington H. S., at Flemington; April 4 and 16, Camp Bowser, at Plainfield; April 21, South Orange H. S., at South Orange; April 25, P. H. S., at Plainfield; April 28, league date; May 5, Montclair Military Academy, at Plainfield; May 12, Pingry School, at Elizabeth; May 16, P. H. S., at Plainfield; May 19, Morristown School, at Morristown; May 26, Newark Academy, at Plainfield.

FAVORS SHIP SUBSIDY.

E. P. Williams Gives His Views to Congressman.

Edward P. Williams, who is interested in the shipping bill now pending in Congress, has written a letter to Speaker Joseph Cannon, in which he says:

"Why should a Christian nation expend millions of dollars for war vessels (being only another form of protection) that produce nothing except expenses; and pretend that the United States Treasury is too poor to deal justly by our shipping interests, refusing to them the protection essential to competition with subsidized foreign shipping lines, while favoring foreign shipbuilders in neglecting to tax their product when engaged upon American business with foreign countries?"

Talk on Mexico.

Mexico was the subject of an illustrated lecture given in Masonic Hall last evening by Rev. Charles E. Herring. The lecture was arranged by the Ladies' Auxiliary of Trinity Commandery, Knights Templar, and was given by the Knights and their families. Mr. Herring went to Mexico about three years ago, and as he choose the summer time to make the trip he had experiences which were well worth listening to.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

The breakdown of one of C. T. Rogers & Co.'s coal wagons blocked the trolley tracks at Jefferson avenue for three-quarters of an hour yesterday afternoon. The wagon, loaded with coal, was just being turned from the tracks when the front wheel, caught against a rail, broke off the axle just inside the hub. It is said the wagon was too heavily loaded. The breakdown held up cars for almost an hour, until the wagon was jacked up and moved away.

Mrs. William Ackerman and Mrs. C. T. Rogers, on their way home from California, telegraphed word from Atlanta, Ga., at 2:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon that they were then twenty-five hours late. They were expected home yesterday, but that will put off their arrival until sometime this afternoon. They will make the last stage of their journey on the B. and O. flyer, and will pass through the borough on their way to Jersey City.

Papers closing the deal were passed Wednesday between J. V. E. and J. B. Field, and Herman Unger, of Newark, who recently purchased their fine farming property near Bound Brook. Mr. Unger, working in conjunction with his son-in-law, Mr. Clark, whose handsome property touches the Field place, will conduct a big dairy farm. It is to become the finest of its kind in the State, it is said.

The Women's Home Missionary Society of the Presbytery of Elizabeth is holding its annual meeting in the Presbyterian church today. The delegates are being well cared for by the women of the local congregation. A number of the latter were busy yesterday preparing for the lunch to be served on the morrow.

The funeral of Robert Lincoln Carson, the seven-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Emile Carson, will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The child died of pneumonia after a short illness, on Wednesday afternoon. Interment will be at South Plainfield.

Although the vote on the proposition was close as to figures, the proposed purchase of Apgar's Hall by W. G. Holton Council, balloted on Tuesday, was lost by a good many. A two-thirds vote was needed to carry it.

The following officers have been installed by the Y. P. S. C. E. of the First Baptist church: President, W. T. Piddington, Sr.; vice president, J. M. B. Pyatt; secretary, John Nelson; treasurer, M. R. Dayton.

Mrs. Rebeccah Voorhees, of Rahway, has purchased a small piece of property in New Market, through the agency of Robert L. Pierson. She will make her home there.

Ernest Peters wired Mr. Freedman's meat market yesterday, to prevent a recurrence of the little fire that threatened the place last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Apgar, of Lancaster, Pa., returned home today, after visiting Mrs. Emily Apgar for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Nelson attended the wedding of a cousin of the latter's in Jersey City yesterday.

Mrs. John Peters, Mrs. Ernest Peters and Miss Elsie Peters visited friends in Newark Wednesday.

Rev. Father Dunphy, of St. John's church, preached a Lenten sermon in Lakewood this week.

Henry McCloughan, of Lebanon, has returned home after a visit to Mrs. S. C. Fisher.

Mrs. C. S. Day has been entertaining Mrs. Everett Ward, of South Orange.

Thomas Paff, Jr., of Scotch Plains, visited friends in the borough yesterday.

Mrs. H. S. Garretson was in New York Wednesday on a pleasure trip.

Fred Kirchner has secured a position in Craig's chair factory.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Young, of the borough, who celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Saturday of last week, have returned from their trip of several days, during which time they visited the same places as near as possible as those visited on their honeymoon trip of fifty years ago.

Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company are arranging to have the Gold Medal Minstrel Troupe, of Plainfield, give a minstrel show in the hall in the near future. The minstrels given here last year by practically the same troupe was enjoyed by a crowded house.

The Highland Park Improvement Co., which has purchased the Mulford Coles property, is having streets cut through the property and from present indications that end of Plainfield will enjoy a big building boom this spring and summer.

The work of extending the electric light circuit to the Westfield line, near Graceland, will soon be completed and the long needed lights will be a reality and not a dream of the residents in that part of the township.

William Alexandra, formerly of this place, but for several years past residing in Plainfield, has been visiting friends in town.

Funeral services of the late George F. T. Carter, of the borough, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the house.

Du Pere Beekon, of the borough, has been detained at home for several days with a severe attack of tonsilitis.

"The Clansman," one of New York's latest successes, is the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre tonight.

The monthly covenant meeting of the Baptist church will be held tonight in the church parlors.

Miss Josephine Ingram entertained her mother and aunt from Trenton yesterday.

—Frank Curtis, of the borough, has given up his studies at Princeton University, and taken a position with Milliken Brothers, New York.

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Worth, who have been spending the winter in New York, expect to return to their home in the borough for the summer.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

There will be celebration of the Lord's Supper at the First Baptist church on Sunday morning and reception of new members.

The Young People's Society of the First Baptist church will have a programme of special interest at its meeting tonight. Dr. Chambliss will be in charge.

As the result of the temperance meeting held in the First Baptist church Wednesday afternoon, when Miss Elizabeth Gordon made an address, twenty new members were received into the Loyal Temperance Legion.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The late Frank Norris, who wrote "The Pit," is the author of another novel, "McTague," which will be dramatized for Wilton Lackaye's use next season.

Edward Bergner, manager of the Clinton Opera House, was a visitor in town yesterday, and incidentally witnessed the production of "The Pit" last night.

Manager Counihan has booked "The Little Duchess," the musical melange in which Anna Held made her greatest success. It will be seen here with almost the same company as produced it in New York city.

Walter Fessler, who owned and managed "The Life That Kills" company, which showed in this city with Walter Sherwin in the cast, has invented and patented a burglar proof lock which expert locksmiths claim to be the best invention of the kind ever issued from the Patent Office. Mr. Fessler has already sold an interest in his invention for a large amount. It is his intention to engage in the manufacture of them but will not abandon the amusement field.

The present week has yielded two of the best plays of the season at the New Plainfield and another is on the boards for tonight. Despite the merits of the previous attractions, the attendances have been poor, probably because of the observance of Lent. "York State Folks" and "The Pit" got about one-half the patronage they deserved and it really was a shame to allow such productions to come and go with such a reception. There is every indication, however, that the "spell" will be broken tonight as the advance sale for "The Clansman" has been heavy.

PERSONAL.

Charles R. Foster, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., has been visiting friends in town.

Francis Martin, who has been visiting his parents on Hillside avenue, has returned to Wilmington, Del.

Gordon Abbott, Leal's School '03, Yale '07, has been elected a member of the Yale Dramatic Association.

MRS. APPLEGATE WELL AGAIN!

"I have had a bruised leg and foot for several years, caused by the brass eyelets of my shoe, which became very sore and painful especially at night. It itched, burned and ached me till it nearly set me crazy. I used everything I found and was suggested to ease it and nothing gave me any relief till I found and applied Azienza Cream which I think is a wonderful remedy for all sores and inflammation of the skin. The hard knots on my legs were as painful as bee stings, with discolored and purple spots. A running sore on my instep size of a half-dollar; the top of my foot a seething sore clean around to my heel. The bone was sore for a whole year and very painful. I used five and one-half jars of Azienza Cream and healed the sore all up. The foot remained tender and I continued to use to strengthen and toughen the skin until now it is entirely well." (Signed) Mrs. Hannah Applegate, Evergreen Ave., Avon, N. J., Sept. 3rd, 1905. 50 cents. Ask the druggist or by mail. Azienza Specialties Co., Jersey City, N. J.

MILLIONAIRES HARMLESS.

A debate was held at the new High School yesterday when the question, "Resolved, That millionaires are more detrimental to a community than otherwise," was discussed in an earnest manner pro and con. been driven out by the demolition of trees and the red squirrel has aided in this work. He deplored the wanton destruction of the toad and bull-frog, a valuable ally in destroying insects.

Referring to parasites, Mr. Powell said that one had been imported from China and is now doing good work in combatting the San Jose scale in California and the South. In conclusion Mr. Powell spoke of the cottony maple scale and the work accomplished here to get rid of it, and closed his remarks with helpful suggestions regarding roses and their care. He mentioned a number of varieties desirable to purchase being hardy and easy to care for . These included the "Alfred Colon," "Baroness Rothschild," Marshall de Wilder and the "Paul Nayron.'

Charles M. Dolliver, president of the association, and Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck each thanked Mr. Powell for his interesting address.

A feature of the programme were selections before and after the talk by G. W. V. Moy's stringed orchestra. The numbers were well received.

ATTEMPT MADE TO BLOW UP BUILDING!

The Front Doors Shattered and Every Pane of Glass in Structure Broken.

An attempt to blow up the building of the Farr Trucking Company, at No. 606 Clinton street, Hoboken, was made early Wednesday morning. The front doors of the building were shattered with an explosive supposed to have been dynamite and every pane of glass in the front of the structure was smashed.

Windows of neighboring buildings were also broken by the concussion and the whole neighborhood received a bad scare. Who the miscreants are that caused the explosion is so far a mystery.

Nicholas Niccola, a watchman, was in the rear of the firm's stable when the explosion happened. He was thrown down by the shock. He quickly receovered himself and ran to the street, but saw no suspicious person in the neighborhood. Two men are said to have been seen loitering in the vicinity of the company's building Tuesday night, and it is suspected that they had something to do with the explosion. The police are trying to find these men.

Policeman Patrick Behan saw two men running away after the explosion, but they had three blocks start of him. Chief of Police Hayes and his detectives are making an investigation, and some men with whom the Farr Trucking Company has had trouble for a year or more are suspected of having deliberately planned to blow up the company's property.

A year ago yesterday was the fiftieth anniversary of Hoboken as a city, and during the celebration of that event one of the Farr Company's trucks had an accident by the team becoming unmanageable and bolting into a crowd. This resulted in a number of fatalities.

TRUSTEES NAMED FOR $5,000,000 MORTGAGE.

Appointment Made Necessary by Deaths to Protect Bondholders.

Trenton, March 30.—Judge James M. Lanning, of the United States Circuit Court for New Jersey, appointed the Bankers' Trust Company, of New York city, trustee of the $5,000,000 first mortgage of the Morris and Essex Railroad Company, given January 16, 1864, to James Brown and Peter Cooper, two of the leading financiers of New York city at that time, but who have since died.

The application for the appointment of the trustee was made by Borden D. Whiting, assistant attorney of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad, acting in the interest of the Morris and Essex bondholders.

The appointment of a new trustee was made necessary because Howard Potter and Edward Cooper, who were to have been the successors of James Brown and Peter Cooper in this trusteeship, have both died, leaving the bondholders with no trustee to protect their interests, and it was necessary to fill this vacancy to permit the railroad company to transfer a legal title to some portions of the realty covered by this mortgage.

In the days when this mortgage was executed it was looked upon as an unusually large transaction, but since that date a second and a third mortgage has been given on this same property for $25,000,000 and $35,000,000, respectively.

LIBRARY BUILDING BIDS.

Westfield Preparing to Erect a Structure Made Possible by Carnegie.

The trustees of the Westfield Free Library held a meeting Tuesday night at the residence of William P. Tuttle, Jr., at which time several bids were received for the erection of the proposed new building on the property at Broad and Elmer streets.

The bids received were submitted for the several branches of the contract, and when footed up it was found that several were well under the $10,000 donation of Andrew Carnegie. This will enable the trustees to secure several other improvements that may be desired. Just who the successful bidder is has not been made known, but it has been stated that local men will get the contracts, and that their names will be announced later in the week. Work upon the building is to begin immediately upon awarding the contract.

Assemblyman Berg Weds.

Assemblyman Herman A. Berg, of Hudson county, and Miss Isabella Mehl were married Wednesday at the home of the bride's parents, No. 98 Sherman avenue, Jersey City. Rev. E. A. Maury, of the Second Reformed church, of Hudson City, performed the ceremony. At the reception after the wedding many prominent men, including Mayor Fagan, of Jersey City, and members of the New Jersey Legislature were present.

After Theatre Managers.

Four summons have been prepared under the direction of Ctiy Attorney James C. Connolly and served by the constable of the District Court upon George W. Jacobs, manager of Jacobs' theatre, at Elizabeth, accusing him of violating a city ordinance in 1904. The summons are returnable in the District Court Tuesday, April 2. This afternoon similar summons were served on Manager Elroy of the Lyceum theatre in that city.

PHONOGRAPH SETS A FAMILY AT ODDS.

Its Increasing Grinding Leads to Fight, in Which Hot Potatoes Figure.

A phonograph was the cause of the Prill family being brought Tuesday night into the police court in Bloomfield. There are seven Prills, big and little.

Prill's first wife is dead, and he married a second time. His five children are by his first wife, and they don't get along very well with their stepmother.

The oldest boy, John, recently won a phonograph at a raffle. Then he quit work to operate it. The elder Prill likewise had a fondness for the music. He did not work as often as he formerly did. The boy's favorite was "The Holy City," and the grinding out of the music all day long and far into the night drove Mrs. Prill almost crazy. The neighbors also objected, and the dogs and cats in the vicinity of the Prill home got so they accompanied the phonograph with their yells.

Mrs. Prill became so exasperated at the strains of "The Holy City" she could stand it no longer.

"Enough of that," she cried, "get out and go to work."

There was no reply from her stepson, but "Everybody Works But Father" came from the phonograph. It was the last straw.

Mrs. Prill seized the phonograph and was about to throw it on the floor when the boy's cries awoke his father, who was in an adjoining room. He ran to the scene and a struggle for possession of the machine ensued, during which Mrs. Prill was pushed against a stove and her arm and hand were burned.

She siezed a pot of boiling potatoes from the stove and laid about her right and left. Down went the Prills and as fast as they got up she knocked them down again. This continued until the arrival of the police, and then Prill had his wife arrested on a charge of assault. After hearing her story Recorder Cadmus dismissed the case.

"I don't blame you," he said, "for I myself would go out of my mind if compelled to listen to those tunes all day long.

"Get some new records," he advised young Prill, "and maybe that will bring peace in the family."

LONE WOMAN BURNS WITH HER DWELLING.

Neighbor Discovers Fire and Tries to Arouse Her by Shooting.

Point Pleasant, March 30.—About midnight Tuesday night C. H. Freeman, whose home is on the north bank of the Manasquan river, discovered the house adjoining, and occupied by Mrs. E. C. Darby, to be on fire. She was an artist of some note.

As the fire had progressed so far that entrance into the house was impossible, Freeman endeavored to arouse Mrs. Darby, the owner and only occupant of the house, by shooting his shotgun several times.

Edward Stillwell, of Point Pleasant, who was passing with a horse and carriage, also saw the fire, and hurried to Manasquan to summon the fire company, which arrived too late to save the Darby house and the house on the west, belonging to the Rev. Arthur C. Dennet, of Englishtown, N. J., and both houses were burned to the ground.

With the chemical engine, they were able to save Artist Freeman's house on the east.

Mrs. Darby was 60 years old, and had resided in Brielle for the last fourteen years.

The body of Mrs. Darby was found in the ruins, and is in charge of Coroner John R. Gravett, of Freehold, and Undertaker Hardy, of Manasquan.

The cause of the fire is a mystery.

OHIO JUMPS LICENSES.

Bill Increasing Saloon Tax Passes Both Houses of Legislature.

Columbus, O., March 30.—The Aiken bill providing for a saloon tax of $1,000 in Ohio was passed by the Senate Tuesday afternoon by a vote of 23 to 13. The bill has now passed both houses and goes to the Governor.

The liquor tax is now $300 a year, and the increase to $1,000 will, it is expected, drive out of business the low class of saloons and tend to uplift the better ones.

Representative Aiken estimates that the gain in the State's revenue will be about $3,450,000, three-tenths of which goes to the State. The opponents of the bill estimate that 1,974 saloons in Ohio will close, as follows: Cincinnati, 400; Cleveland, 400; Columbus, 350; Toledo, 375; Springfield, 70; Dayton, 200; Youngstown, 180; Hamilton, 105; Zanesville, 75; Canton, 100; Akron, 15; Norwalk, 12; Lima, 18; Piqua, 14. These are not conservative figures, however.

The liquor men are asserting that between 10,000 and 15,000 men will be thrown out of employment by the enforcement of the act.

Handicapped.

The Doctor: "The medicine I left for you doesn't seem to have had the desired effect. Have you taken it regularly?"

The Patient (a poet): "As regularly as I could, doctor. You said I should take it after each meal."—Chicago News.

Its a Funny Idea

some dealers have about our stock being just the same. We know it isn't. Beef, Veal, Lamb, or Pork which has been carefully raised and fed will taste better and give more nourishment than "wild" meats. We don't sell any but prime Meats, and a customer can sit down to a roast or steak, or chops from here without fear of hurting his teeth or his sense of taste. Prices won't hurt anybody's pocket, either. We sell Siegfried Arens' delicious Broilers.

NIP IT IN THE BUD.
First Appearance of Dandruff a Forerunner of Future Baldness.
That such is the case has been conclusively proven by scientific research. Prof. Unna, the noted European skin specialist, declares that dandruff is the burrowed-up cuticle of the scalp, caused by parasites destroying the vitality in the hair bulb. The hair becomes lifeless, and, in time, falls out. This can be prevented.
Newbro's Herpicide kills this dandruff germ, and restores the hair to its natural softness and abundancy.
Herpicide is now used by thousands of people—all satisfied that it is the most wonderful hair preparation on the market to-day.
Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Magnificent Furniture Display

The vast spread of Furniture seen here is the wonderment of all who visit the store. There is no showing of Furniture that we know of anywhere in America that surpasses this one. It is, therefore, well worth your while to visit the store often, especially now, that you may drink in the beauties of this grand exhibit.

Over two acres of floor space are crowded with new and beautiful pieces, some for parlors, some for libraries, some for dining rooms, some for bedchambers, some for dens, some for the porch, some for offices. In every division of the stock variety is simply enormous. There could be hardly any whim or wish that we cannot satisfy.

The display of Mission or Arts and Crafts Furniture alone is a treat to see—a space nearly 50 feet wide and about 150 feet long is closely covered with these quiet, sturdy, restful looking pieces of furniture. Besides the standard Morris Chairs, the substantial Bookcases and the strong, plain Tables, there are many novel things included in this collection. For instance, Drop-leaf Centre Tables, Ladies' Writing Tables, Chafing Dish Stands, Cellarettes, opening on both sides; high-stand Lamps with wood frame, paneled with colored art glass; nests of Card Tables, Dinner Chimes, and a large number of other things. Almost every piece in the collection is different.

Mahogany Furniture is shown in lavish variety; every one marvels at the large number of fine pieces we show. Here is a Mahogany Dining Table, beautifully carved with rope edge and rim, splendid color and finish, for $160.

Here is a Bookcase of solid Mahogany, magnificently carved top and bottom, for $178.

Mahogany Dressers and Chiffoniers are shown in specimen rooms with Brass Beds; the contrast is beautiful and most effective.

Brass Beds themselves are displayed so that the effective patterns can be clearly seen. There are more than fifty styles to choose from. One of the newest Brass Beds is in polet and satin, finished in Empire design, very severe in outline, with square rods as plain as can be, with just a bit of festooning in brass at the head and foot. The price of this bed is $100.

In Library Sets the variety is equally as great as in other classes of furniture. There is a fine collection of leather-covered library chairs, sofas and davenports. Perhaps the finest Library Set in the collection is the Waldorf-Astoria in red English Morocco, splendidly upholstered, most luxurious, consisting of sofa and two chairs. Nothing can be better made, it is the limit of excellence. The price is $509.

Among the new things we see a light or a quartered oak Bedroom Suit, finished in dainty light green. The suit includes dresser, chiffonier, wardrobe, washstand, toilet dresser, night table, two chairs and a rocker. The price is $125. Pieces will be sold separately.

Imagine this light green suit in a Summer cottage.

Marshall & Ball Clothing
The Highest Type of Ready-to-wear.

Spring Apparel of Distinctiveness.

COMPARE Marshall & Ball Garments, if you will, with any other and their many points of superiority will be apparent at a glance.

If there be any other clothing that has infused into it the character and distinctiveness that marks ours, it must be the result of to-order methods and the price one-fourth greater than ours.

Our "Frenchcut" Spring Overcoats, with their form-fitting waist, flaring skirt and long back vent, are the extremely fashionable cut for young men. Of course gray is the popular color effect.

The loose boxy Top Coats of covert, short and medium length, are here, too, for the more conservative man, as well as the "Longcut" and Paddock Raincoats.

Every pocketbook is provided for in these price-ranges:

"Frenchcut" Spring Overcoats $15.00 to $30.00
"Longcut" and Paddock Raincoats $12 to $35.

The Stomach Ache.

For genuine stomach ache—that is, pain the true stomach—you must blame the digestion. If the pain often occurs one may be sure that a serious state of chronic indigestion obtains. Then of course it is very necessary to take advice directed to that one case. But for a solitary attack there is nothing better than getting rid of the stomach contents. They connot possibly do good and may greatly upset the system. Warm salt and water is a simple domestic emetic. When there are acid risings and burnings in the throat a teaspoonful of bicarbonate of sodium in water, taken in divided doses, may be tried.

The Adirondack Lakes.

One of the most striking phenomena of the Adirondack region is the carrying power of the human voice in still weather upon the lakes great and small. Persons ashore easily hear the ordinary conversation of others who are so far out upon the lake as to be indistinguishable, and as a great many Adirondack visitors habitually violate the law touching the slaughter of deer all such offenders are extremely careful not even to whisper a word that might betray their guilt when rowing upon the lakes.

A Large Order.

Danny B——, now in the Soldiers' home at Hampton, Va., tells this one. He says that when his company approached the earthworks in front of Big Bethel it was met by a terrific volley from the fort. The captain gave the order to lie down, which every man did except an old Irishman, who did not hear the order.

He looked around and exclaimed: "My! my! They're all killed but me!"

Then, as he reloaded his rifle, he said: "I'll have to fight hard to take that place all by myself."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Oh, Memory!

There is no doubt that the tying of a piece of string round the finger is a really good aid to a poor memory; but there is a well authenticated case of a man who tied a piece of cotton around his finger in the morning to remind him to get his hair cut. On the way home to dinner that evening he noticed the piece of cotton.

"Ah, yes, I remember!" he said. And, smiling proudly, he entered the accustomed shop, and sat down before the accustomed artist.

"Er—yes, sir?" said the artist, puzzled inquiry in his tones.

A Merry-Go-Round.

A man had been sent by the house agents to take an inventory of the drawing room furniture. He was so long about his task that at last the mistress of the house went to see what was taking place. She found the man slumbering sweetly on the sofa with an empty bottle beside him; it was evident, however, that he had made a pathetic though solitary attempt to do his work, for in the inventory book was written, "One revolving carpet." — San Francisco News-Letter.

A Just Reproof.

"Mary," said a lady to her cook, "I strongly object to your copying Miss Lucy in your dress."

"In what way do I copy her?" asked the cook, with an angry sniff.

"Why, the hat you wore yesterday is exactly like my daughter's new hat."

"Oh, no, it isn't, mum," said the cook, with a sneer. "The feather in my 'at is real hostrich, but Miss Lucy's is only himitation!"—London Judy.

Well Meant Advice.

Half an hour after Maloney landed in New York, he was knocked down by an automobile. A friendly spectator assisted him to arise, remarking: "Never mind;—old man, I took that fellow's number."

"Ye did?" yelled Maloney; "thin fer hivin's sake run for yer life—he'll likely be back afther it in a minnit or so!"—Brooklyn Life.

A "Gold Brick" of Old Time.

In one of the Tell-el-Amarna letters, written during the eighteenth dynasty, the king of Babylon accuses Amenophis III., of Egypt, of sending him a mass of base metal for gold. He says, "The twenty minas of gold you sent me contained, when melted down, only five minas of pure gold."—London Post.

Sarcastic Swift.

It was Swift who warned a friend who was extolling the air of overtaxed Ireland: "Hush! If they hear you say that, they'll certainly tax the air."

A Bad Combination.

Scads—You say he left no money? Baggs—No. You see, he lost his health getting wealthy, and then lost his wealth trying to get healthy.

field theatre tonight. The same company engaged for the New York production will be shown.

The many lovers of old time minstrels will be pleased to learn that the famous old Haverly show appears at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night. The type of minstrelsy presented by this grand old organization is always of a first-class calibre, the singers, dancers and comedians of this season's offering are selected from the ranks of capable burnt cork artists, each and every one a head-liner in his own line. Bill Beard, "the Party from the South," is making the hit of his career this season. As a comedian Beard easily heads them all, in minstrelsy, his humor is spontaneous and extremely funny, keeping his auditors in roars of laughter during his presence on the stage. The assisting mirth provokers are Billy Pearl, Perrin Somers, Al. Pleau, Herman Mar-son and Bert Stoddard. The olio features are Marion and Pearl, knockabout comedians, Garden and Somers, the musical marvels, Marseilles, "the prodigious equilibrist," "Moonlight in Dixie," the big singing and dancing number, Gartelle Bros., the skatorial wonders, and Billy Beard, "in his own inimitable monologue."

One of the near bookings promised by Manager Counihan is that ever popular comedy, "The Irish Pawnbrokers," which comes this season with flying banners and a record for big business, if reports are true, that is hard to equal. The company this year is as usual composed of a first-class lot of musical and specialty people. Good shows in our territory seem to be scarce this season, and "The Irish Pawnbrokers" will no doubt receive a hearty welcome. It will be seen Monday night.

Mildred Holland's triumphant success, "The Power Behind the Throne," will be presented at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday night. Everybody should avail themselves of this opportunity of witnessing Miss Holland's artistic impersonation of "Aria" in "The Power Behind the Throne," the plot of which is so well known that a review of the play is superfluous at this time. The story is a thrilling one of love and intrigue, which holds the interest of the spectator from beginning to end, and in it Miss Holland has scored one of the successes of her career.

No attraction before the public contains more pretty girls than does the ever popular "McFadden's Flats," which will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre next Thursday night. In making an especial effort this season to secure beauties for the chorus the management has had in mind the increasing desire of the public to see beautiful and stylish women in the chorus, women who can wear fine costumes as they should be worn, and women who can dance and sing with an understanding of what those arts mean. "McFadden's Flats" is from the pens of those two remarkably clever men, E. W. Townsend and Glen MacDonough. In the company are such clever stars as Mele Florete, Bill Barry, Joe Deming, Marie Henry, Charles D. Gramlich, the Speck Brothers, the Preston Sisters, Billy Clark, the Yellow Kids, May Baker and Harry Blix.

INCREASES STATE'S AREA.

Measure Passed Extending and Establishing Coast Boundary Line.

Trenton, March 30.—By the terms of a bill which passed the House Wednesday afternoon the State adds to its area, or attempts to add, between 300 and 400 square miles to its jurisdiction. The added area is in the Atlantic Ocean, and the purpose of the bill is principally to give the State jurisdiction in cases of violation of fishing laws that the State may enact. The bill was introduced by Mr. Hildreth, of Cape May county, and extends the territorial limits of each county fronting on the Atlantic Ocean from the present actual coast line to a line parallel with the coast and three nautical miles beyond. Under the bill, offenses committed in the added area are made cognizable in the county to which is given the extension of water.

In speaking on the bill Mr. Hildreth said it was to establish a boundary line on the Atlantic coast of the State. The matter of the State's authority has been questioned and it might be that the question of criminal jurisdiction of the State might arise, but in general he thought the bill a good one. No objection was made to it.

All For Hearst.

MISSIONARY WORKERS GATHER AT DUNELLEN.

Women's Presbyterial Society in Session Today.

The twenty-second annual meeting of the Women's Presbyterial Society for Home Missions of the Presbytery of Elizabeth is being held today in Dunellen. Thirty societies representing as many churches from Basking Ridge to Amboy to Elizabeth, including Plainfield. There are 200 delegates present. Mrs. J. O. McKelvey, of North Plainfield, led in the devotional service. She gave an admirable talk on "Unconscious Influences."

Rev. W. W. Casselberry welcomed the delegates and the response was made by the president, Mrs. Augustus S. Crane, of Elizabeth. The following reports were read: Corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. A. Frazer, of Elizabeth; young people's work, Mrs. Adrian Lyon, of Perth Amboy; freedman's bureau, Miss E. Beale, of Roselle; literature, Miss L. VanDerbeck, of Lamington; president's report, Mrs. J. E. Keron, of Elizabeth.

Mrs. A. L. Wilson, colored, a teacher in a freedman's institute in South Carolina, made the address of the morning. This afternoon, Mrs. I. C. Pierson, of this city, will make an address. Officers will be elected.

Union County's Ill Officials.

County Register Frank H. Smith, of this city, who has been in Florida for the last two months, recuperating his health, will return Saturday night. His condition has greatly improved. He was the first one of Union's present officials to get indisposed. Sheriff Lawrence was the next one to get ill and he also went to Florida. Now County Collector Wood and Surrogate Parrot are on the sick list. The latter's condition became so serious this week that he had to be taken away from Elizabeth.

Farewell Dance.

A farewell dance will be given by Eugene O'Reilly Monday night in I. C. T. Hall. Mr. and Mrs. O'Reilly will remove to Meeker Inn, Union township, next week.

LARGE ATTENDANCE HEARS EVANGELIST SPIEGEL.

Gave An Instructive Discourse on "Solomon's Experiences on Final Conclusion."

There was a good audience at the Christian church on Grove street, last night, and at the close of a sermon by Evangelist Spiegel on "Solomon's Experiences and Final Conclusion" there were several additions to the church. Much interest was manifested in the services last night and a successful series seems certain. Mr. Sturgis sang "Are You Waiting?" which all present appreciated.

This church, like most other churches just starting, has had its checkered career in the past, but it seems now that it has passed the breakers and is once more on a smooth sea. Rev. Phil. A. Parsons, the pastor, is much loved by the entire membership and has many friends outside of his flock. The National Mission Board of the Christian Church has decided to see to it that necessary help be given this congregation till it is housed in a beautiful and commodious house of worship in a central location. Consequently the evangelists are appealing to all who believe in the simple principles promulgated by these disciples to come and stand with them in this great work.

The subject for the discourse this evening will be "What is Baptism, Who Should be Baptized, and What is Baptism For?" involving an answer to the question, "Is Baptism an Empty Church Ordinance?" Mr. Sturgis will sing "The Old Fountain." Several will be baptized tonight.

To Probe Charges.

Trenton, March 30.—"Will Senator Shinn's request for an investigation be granted?" eachoed Majority Leader Hillery, in response to a query, "well, I can assure it will, and the investigation will be ordered next Monday night, whether demanded or not. There has been much said in the way of innuendo in this connection, none of which warranted an inquiry, but in this instance a specific charge is made and it is due to every member of the Senate that it be thoroughly investigated."

Birthday Supper.

A birthday supper was given in honor of the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clarkson at their home, in Elm place, Wednesday evening. The supper was gotten up by Mrs. George Bellis, after whom the little girl was named, and she presented her with a handsome gold locket and chain. Those present were Miss Estelle Eick, Miss Mary Line, Bert Ford, Arthur Keiderling and Mrs. B. F. Ruckman.

1906---SEASON OF SPRING---1906

THE PARIS, 214 West Front St., Plainfield, N. J.

An After-Dinner Story.

MRS. ARSDALE'S NIECE.

Jack Randolph ascended to the upper deck, lit his cigar and reflected on the untrustworthiness of women in general and Mrs. Arsdale in particular. The latter lady had promised the night before over a sacred cup of tea in her temporary boudoir to take that boat from Dublin, escorting his niece, Miss Beatrix, to Holyhead.

"I can't marry you, Jack," she said, "but I should like some one belonging to me to do so—and there is my niece. You can make your mind up about it as we cross. Oh! I'll be there without fail."

Naturally, she did not keep her word. Naturally, also, when he got on at Dublin and found that the steamer did not carry anybody he knew, he was nettled at the lady whose faithlessness had caused his present ennui.

It was early in October. Nearly every one of prominence had gone back to town and the season was to open in a few days with a dance, given by Mrs. Arsdale for the niece aforesaid. Randolph did not know the niece. He had heard her described as a paragon of the social virtues, but he was in the habit of discounting descriptions.

Mostly they were given by young men of inflated enthusiasm, and he found it safer to subtract the discount from expectation than from realization; so the man was to be placed, until tried, among the ordinary young women who said much and thought little.

He found the crossing very uninteresting. The usual quota of people were seasick in the cabin, and he had a narrow escape from a pallid young lady who wanted to find a comfortable place to die. He fled gasping to the bow and leaned far over the rail, watching the golden water dash into silver spray as the clean sharp prow cut into it.

A young lady sitting some way in on the mid-deck lowered her book and regarded him with calm curiosity.

Randolph needed only two glances to decide that she was pretty, and a third glance, which took in the trim figure, the gray gown and a neat tailor hat, told him also that she was a lady of breeding. He quickly scrambled into a position somewhat more dignified, and watched her with an air of apologetic justification. But she did not lift her eyes from the book she was reading, although a slight smile trembling around her mouth showed him that his return to self-consciousness had not passed unnoticed.

Who was she? Certianly no one he knew, yet there was something unaccountably familiar in the clear-cut lines of the face. Where had he seen it before? He could not remember; and meanwhile he was staring at the lady in a way he would have reproved in a younger man. He rose and went astern, feeling that he had been doing something rude.

Holyhead was plainly visible in the reddening sunset before he ventured to return. She was sitting as before, the book in her lap, gazing far ahead. He stopped and watched her silently, wondering again where he had seen that face.

A man, evidently under the influence of liquor, brushed roughly past him, out from the forward deck. The smell of the liquor momentarily sickened Randolph, and when he turned to look again the man had staggered in front of the girl and with drunken impudence started to lay a hand on her shoulder.

Randolph took three or four short steps and sent him sprawling on the deck, whence two deck hands picked him and carried him below. It all went too quickly to seem real to Randolph, and he stood, almost wondering, while the girl was quietly thanking him for his bravery.

"It wasn't anything, you know," he said afterward, as he recounted the occurrence to his friends at the club. "I just gave him a push and he went over, and there she was thanking me as though I had done something."

The boat steamed slowly into the harbor, with Randolph and the girl together on the deck, she telling him how she had missed the lady she expected to meet at the boat, and so had come alone, thinking that in the hurry and confusion her friends might have become lost in the crowd.

"I'm very glad that I could have been of assistance to you," said Randolph simply.

He handed her into a carriage at Holyhead, and on arrival in London found himself listening with unaccountable curiosity for the address she gave the driver of the cab which she engaged.

"Mrs. Arsdale's place, by Jove!" he said, "and she must be the niece. I think I shall go there next week."

* * * * *

"A social function," Jack observed as he dismounted from his carriage on the night of Mrs. Arsdale's dance, "is never a success unless the people are so crowded as to be thoroughly uncomfortable."

He fought his way through the crowds coming in and going out and met her on the stairs. There was no mistaking the fine face, and as she passed him he received a little smile and a half-nod of recognition.

When he reached the room the crowd had increased and dancing had begun, so that he had no chance to be immediately presented to Mrs. Arsdale's niece. That lady's aunt regretted, with much volubility, that he had not come earlier; she promised, however, to rescue the damsel at the earliest opportunity and retain her until Randolph should meet her.

The latter fancied two or three times that he caught glimpses of the face he was looking for, over the shoulders of the crowd, but the great wave of dancers and dowagers would swallow her up.

Toward the end of the evening he gave up looking for her, as the surest way to find her.

"The watched pot never boils," he said. "I shall see her surely before the night is over. Menawhile I will bear my cross with patience."

He wandered out into the conservatory and lit a cigar surreptitiously. Through the half-open door came the sound of the music, half-drowned by voices and laughter. Through the rifts between the houses opposite shone the white light from the lamps of the street behind, and over all was the clear, cold atmosphere of a London October. Idly he threw his cigar away and turned to go back.

The girl of the steamer was in the doorway as he passed in. She was dressed in a quiet, high gown, which, he reflected, was in much better taste than those of the ladies he could see through the doorway behind her. And again he received the same shy, half-nod of recognition. But this time he was not going to let her go without a word.

"I've been looking for you all the evening," he exclaimed. "I wanted to be introduced, you know, but Mrs. Arsdale had lost you. And now I stopped you—because I was afraid of losing you—and we hardly need another introduction, do we?"

Again the same quiet nod of assent, and the half smile about the finely chiseled mouth.

"Shall I get you an ice or something?" he asked, "or do you prefer to dance?"

She shook her head slowly.

"Please let me pass," she said. "I'm Miss Beatrix's maid, and I have to help in the dressing room, you know."

She went, and Randolph just then saw Mrs. Arsdale's beaming a beckoning smile and holding by the hand a flabby faced girl in very pronounced evening dress.

He turned and walked deliberately into the conservatory again, thinking what a joke the boys would consider it all if they only knew.

He wondered whether Mrs. Arsdale had seen him a few minutes before.

It might be rather awkward if she had, but——

"Still, I'm not sorry they missed that boat," said Jack Randolph, thoughtfully.—A. Cleveland, in Illustrated Bits.

AN EFFECTIVE SAMPLE.

A clergyman was very fond of a particularly hot brand of pickles, and, finding great difficulty in procuring the same sort at hotels when traveling, always carried a bottle with him. One day when dining at a restaurant with his pickles in front of him, stranger sat down at the same table, and, with an American accent, presently asked the minister to pass the pickles. The minister, who enjoyed the joke, politely passed the bottle, and in a few minutes had the satisfaction of seeing the Yankee watering at the eyes and gasping for breath.

"I guess you are a parson," said the latter.

"Yes, my friend, I am," replied the minister.

"I suppose you preach?" asked the Yankee.

"Yes, sir; I preach twice a week, usually," said the minister.

"Do you ever preach hell fire?" inquired the Yankee.

"Yes; I sometimes consider it my duty to remind my congregation of eternal punishment," returned the minister.

"I thought so," rejoined the Yankee, "but you are the first of your class I ever met who carried samples."—The Tattler.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

Carriage jobs done by W. J. Conroy, Somerset street, are right in every particular. His charges are right.

John Winzenreid, of Lee place, is ready to move your goods to any part of the country. Only reliable men employed.

A. H. Enander, the Watchung avenue sanitary plumber, is always ready to do the best work at reasonable prices.

E. F. Dorman, of Park avenue, is always ready to place a first class accident or life insurance policy at attractive rates.

Now is the season of odd carpenter jobs about your house and porch. Get Louis Beck, South avenue, to do them for you.

Coal will go up with a leap if the men strike. Get yours while the getting is good—from John Johnson, South avenue.

Have your watches and clocks cleaned by William Brown, Watchung avenue. He will make them right as so many trivets.

Belle Meade sweets are the best and most tasteful candies you can buy. Get them at P. B. Hodge's pharmacy, East Front street.

Brokaw's creamery on East Front street is a model one in every respect. Fresh eggs, butter, milk and cream can always be obtained there at reasonable prices.

Catering is becoming a lost art. You take risks with the ordinary caterer nowadays—but not with D. Demolli & Co., West Front street. They are expert.

Rugg & Cline, the West Third street coal dealers, have a large supply of anthracite and the firm is taking orders for future delivery at lowest market prices.

The best cuts to be secured are sold by Fred Endress, butcher, West Front street. He will give you just what you want. The service is perfect and deliveries prompt.

There may be a coal strike and then again there may not be one. At all events you want a supply of anthracite and the place to get it is at Boice, Runyon & Co.'s yards on Park avenue.

Spring styles in shoes are ready at Van Arsdale's shoe store, East Front street. Look them over at Van Arsdale's and get yours there. You cannot do better anywhere else, and will be likely to do worse. The range of style is large and the prices right.

"The White Store," A. E. Force & Co., proprietors, is headquarters for the best dry goods, dress goods, carpets and millinery. The store has undergone a thorough renovation, making it a delightful place to shop and with such a fine stock of goods to select from and the prices so low, it is entirely unnecessary to trade in New York. Visit the store at your first opportunity and get acquainted with the bargains.

FIGHT CITY ADORNMENT.

South Orange Business Men Object to Tree Planting.

South Orange, March 29.—Several business men along South Orange avenue are up in arms over the proposition of the South Orange Village Shade Tree Commission to plant some shade trees along the arid waste known as South Orange avenue, and yesterday afternoon they held an indignation meeting in the old Township Committee rooms and voiced their sentiments very freely.

Kraus Mor, a grain dealer, is the leader of the movement against the tree planting scheme, and at the meeting of the commission on Monday night he actively opposed the scheme. Since then he has consulted lawyers and he appeared at the meeting this afternoon with a written opinion disputing the constitutionality of the law under which the tree planting commission is operating. Mor contends that the property owners own out to the middle of the street, and the municipality has only an easement on it, and has no right to plant trees when the owners object.

The action of the tree commission in disregarding the petition which Mor presented to it on Monday night was criticised this afternoon, and there was talk that the commission was acting in a very high handed manner in attempting to force decoration upon people who have no use for it. The tree commission has been trying to patch up some of the bad spots in the village, but so far it has met with a good many discouragements.

Big Dairy Farm.

Herman Unger, of Newark, a wealthy manufacturing jeweler and cut glass manufacturer, came here today and met J. V. D. Field and his brother, J. B. Field, of Bound Brook, at the office of Lafferd Totten, the real estate man, paid over $20,000 to the Field brothers, and received the deeds for the two large farms of the Field brothers, near Riverside Park. This gives Mr. Unger a tract of about 400 acres which extends from the Raritan River a mile and a half up the Field avenue to the north, to Andrews Brook.

No Competition.

"What do you consider the most memorable occasion in your career?" "One, at an evening performance," answered the great tenor, with emotion, "all the boxes were occupied by mutes. I shall never forget that night."—Minneapolis Tribune.

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

HOME REMEDIES.

Cranberries for erysipelas are used externally as well as internally.

For tender eyes make an infusion of one handful of cornflowers in a pint of hot water. Let it stand one hour. Strain and use either tepid or cold.

When a griping pain occurs in the abdomen a strong aperient should be taken at once. Pads made of hot flannels will sometimes give relief until the medicine has acted.

If you would get rid of rheumatism do that which will cause free perspiration without subsequent chilling. If you would get rid of gout, make your liver as active as possible.

Small warts on children's hands when they appear in numbers can be go rid of certainly and painlessly by keeping them constantly moist with a lotion made by adding two drams of diluted nitric acid to one pint of water.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE.

Melted butter will not make a good cake.

Veal should be white, dry and close grained.

The colder eggs are the quicker they will froth.

To make good pastry the ingredients must be ice cold.

Nutmegs should be grated at the blossom end first.

A brush dipped in salt water should be used in cleaning bamboo furniture.

Good macaroni is of a yellowish tint, does not break readily in cooking and swells to two or three times its bulk.

A simple and very efficient disinfectant to pour down a sink is a small quantity of charcoal mixed with water.

Warm bread and cake should be cut with a knife the blade of which has been heated by standing it in boiling water.

LITERARY NOTES.

McClue's for April has the freshness and cheerfulness of spring. You will want to read it all. Its articles, stories and verses, have a rare charm for the shortening evenings. Mary Stewart Cutting's "Symphony in Coal," which leads the table of contents, is another of those fascinating, sympathetic stories of married life. The most hair-raising chapter of adventure that has been published in a long time is the sixth instalment of Carl Schurz's "Reminiscences of a Long Life": "Rescuing Kinkel from Spandau Jail" is a story of intrigue and hair-breadth chances in the shadow of the gallows, told with the happy swing of youth, that holds you from first word to last. Best of all it is true. "Some Diet Delusions" by Dr. Wood Hutchinson, is not only amusing; it has a very definite purpose, it scares away the old bogies. After you have read it, you will eat a square meal with a clear conscience. Perhaps the most timely paper in the number of Perceval Gibbon's sketch of Count Witte, who is the crux of the situation in Russia. Mr. Gibbon has studied his subject at first hand, and his deduction is daring and surprising. Clara Morris contributes another charming chapter of reminiscences of the world behind the curtain, through which walk many of the old actors and actresses of our early days. Stewart Edward White's fourth Arizona Nights story, "The Ranch Foreman's Yarn;" the Cattle Rustler story, gives a phase of western life about which little has been written hitherto. The story defines a bad man in no uncertain terms.

THE OLD "CIRCUIT-RIDERS."

They Were Men of Great Power and Wrought Marvelous Results.

Eugene Wood, in "The Old-Time Revival," in Everybody's Magazine, describes as follows the "circuit-riders" who used to distribute religion to our forbears:

"Never before was there such a spreading of the gospel. The aureoled saints that converted Europe were but a feeble folk beside them, slow-motioned, temporizing. They were unlearned men, these circuit-riders. As one of them has said, they 'murdered the king's English at every lick,' but they had power given unto them to move the hearts of men, such power as we can only estimate by first reading the accounts of camp-meetings in the 'airly days,' and then going to a modern one, thinly attended and only by the very old, at that, and deadly with a dullness that no brass quartette, or hired singers of religious ballads, or frequent jingling of tawdry 'gospel hymns' can lighten in the least degree. In the old days whole settlements were utterly deserted to attend camp-meeting, and if the rowdies came and brought their whiskey bottles and made disturbances, that also was good times in religion. A mighty power could smite them senseless to the ground, if not the preacher's fist on 'the burr of the ear,' as Peter Cartwright calls it. (Says he: 'I did not permit myself to believe that any man could whip me till it was tried.') But the mighty power could always be depended on, and if 'the slain of the Lord' did not keel over by the hundred under his preaching, the circuit-rider examined his heart to find out why."

RE-ELECT OLD OFFICERS

Presbyterial Home Mission Society Continues Them by Acclamation.

BUSINESSLIKE SESSION

Everything Moved in Rapid, Unruffled Way—Addresses Held Within Time-Limit In Deference to Trains.

Businesslike rapidity marked the closing session of the twenty-second annual meeting of the Presbyterial Society of the Elizabeth Presbytery at the Dunellen Presbyterian church yesterday afternoon. Addresses were held within prescribed limits, reports were brief, and the programme went off with never a suggestion of stagnation or meandering. The delegates were on their way home by 4 o'clock. As a matter of fact, the shadow of the railroad train was over the whole session. The president coupled her announcement of the doxology and the benediction with the assurance that delegates "would have time to catch the 4:06 train."

Business was resumed after lunch, at 1:30 o'clock, when Miss Mary Harding, of Bridgeton, synodical secretary of Young People's work, opened a young people's conference in one of the parlors. The conference was attended by all the delegates interested in the work. The discussion, which lasted nearly an hour, touched on lines of work to be pursued during the new year: study classes, constant reports on the progress of the work in every part of the field and on the people engaged in it.

The second session of the main meeting opened at 2:15 o'clock, with a hymn and a Scripture reading, led by Mrs. Ira B. Wheeler. Mrs. Katherine Jones Bennett spoke on "Our Work Among the Foreigners," dwelling on the many people who come to this country without religious traditions or instructions, of the manifold dangers to which they were open religiously and morally, and of the importance and wide scope of the work to be done among them. It was a work for every individual woman to interest herself in, she said. It was not one the responsibility for which could or should be passed off.

Mrs. W. E. Honeyman, of Plainfield, reported on the collection of money for the establishment of a girls' dormitory on the mission at Logan, O. U. Mrs. Honeyman, who is synodical president for home mission work, informed the society that it was $400 short of the $2,000 asked of it. The balance, she felt sure, would be made up.

Miss Harding spoke on "Our Young People." She dilated on the importance of training the young people in home mission work. The object, she said, was twofold—the training of the young people themselves and the preparation of workers for the church. A special effort was to be made this year, she stated, to secure individual pledges from young people throughout the State. She urged the women in churches where there were no young people's societies to work for their organization without delay.

The nominating committee recommended the re-election of the old officers, and the recommendation was adopted by acclamation. The officers are as follows: President, Mrs. Aug. S. Crane, Elizabeth; vice-presidents, Mrs. J. M. McNulty, Woodbridge; Mrs. I. C. Pierson, Plainfield; secretaries—Corresponding, Mrs. J. A. Frazer, Elizabeth; recording, Miss A. M. In closing the meeting, Mrs. Crane thanked the Dunellen church for its entertainment of the delegates. The thanks were due. The Dunellen women served a lunch as delightful as it was bounteous. The committee the prepared it was made up of Mrs. C. B. Mattis, Mrs. M. R. Rarick, Mrs. Edward Pennock, Miss Clark, Miss Jennie Campbell, Mrs. William Dunham, Mrs. J. N. Apgar, Mrs. Josephine Dunham and Mrs. Renouf. Next year's meeting of the society will be held at the First church, Rahway.

TWO MORE PATROLMEN MAY BE APPOINTED

CHIEF KIELY GRANTED A WEEKS' VACATION BY POLICE BOARD.

Provided the finance committee should recommend an increase in appropriation and the Common Council grants it, the police board will put two additional patrolmen on duty within a short time. The board met last night and considered the applications of James Kane, Daniel McDonald, William Chargeous and Austain Dobson for positions on the force as specials to do regular duty on the probationary system.

The board granted Chief Kiely a week's vacation to attend the annual convention of International Chiefs of Police to be held at Hot Springs the week beginning April 9. Chief Kiely will leave Plainfield next Saturday night.

Daniel McDonald and Austin Dobson have passed the best examinations and the board will probably recommend them for appointment by Mayor Buckle. The Mayor will follow the wishes of the board, and it will then be up to the finance committee and the Common Council to do the rest. Later on if the appropriation will warrant it, two more patrolmen will be added to the force.

Patrolman John Payne was before the board last night to explain his failure to ring in from police alarm boxes on certain days. He declared that he did not fail to report and offered the explanation that something must be wrong with the system. The Gamewell Company has a standing reward for proof that its system has failed in any particular and further investigation may result in the city securing this reward if it is found that Officer Payne did ring up as he claims.

MACCABEES' LODGE WILL START NEXT WEEK.

Date of Institution Changed for Degree Team's Convenience.

The institution of the new lodge of Maccabees, which was to have been accomplished tonight, has been put off to next Wednesday night. The change in the date was made because the degree team of the Carteret lodge, which has been selected to do the work, is unable to turn out tonight.

All arrangements for the institution have been completed. The officers selected for the lodge were examined last night, and perfected in the ritual. Forty or fifty candidates will be put through. A programme of entertainment is being prepared for the jollification that is to follow the institution.

GAVE LIBERALLY TO HOME MISSION FUNDS.

Crescent Avenue Church Leads Others In Presbyterial Society.

The treasurer's report of the Presbyterial Society for Home Missions, which met in annual session at Dunellen yesterday, shows the generous spirit of giving that governs the Crescent Avenue church. It gave to the various objects and funds of the society, $1,415 during the year. This included $800 on the salaries of two missionaries. The rich Westminster church, of Elizabeth, was second with about half the total of the Crescent Avenue.

The other Plainfield churches gave as follows: Hope chapel, $123; First church, $230; Warren chapel, $53.

"CLANSMAN'S" GREETING

Big Crowd Sees the Much-Heralded Play in a Rather Apathetic Manner.

COMPANY A GOOD ONE

Audience Pleased With the Production As a Drama But Side-Step Display of Racial Prejudice.

Peaceful and law-abiding citizens and the police department itself can now breathe easy, as the great production of "The Clansman," of which so much has been heard, has come and gone. It held the boards at the New Plainfield theatre last night before one of the biggest crowds the house has ever contained, but if there was any feeling engendered by the pictured inequality of the black man to the white it was unapparent. True, the sentiments expressed by the supposed negro haters on the stage frequently met with nods of approval and exclmations of "That's right" from parts of the audience, but that was all. Plainfield will go on just the same as it always has and in a short time everybody will forget that there was talk of "trouble" when Thomas Dixon's play was produced.

As a theatrical production "The Clansman" possesses distinctive merit, yet it can hardly be classed as anything more than a melodrama. Its author is a clever young man who has undertaken to show the American people what he thinks should be done with the African race on this continent. To those who accept his views it will always appeal strongly, but where the opposite side of the question is supported it will be dismissed from the mind as is any theatrical production intended only for amusement.

"The Clansman" presents exactly the opposite point of view to that of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." It indicates tha the negro may be a loyal dependent of the white man, but can never be his equal, and the bringing out of his ignorance and weakness makes a contrast that cannot be evaded. During the New York run Dixon attended the theatre every night and between the acts told the audience why the play was written and whey he believed the colored man should be "fought, assimilated or deported." He considerately stayed away last night.

The company presenting the characters could hardly be improved upon. It was headed by Sydney Ayres, late star of "Texas," while his support included Miss Alleen Goodwin, Ruth Hart, Austin Webb, Joseph Wheelock, Sr., and several others well known in the theatrical world. There is lots of good comedy in the play and most of it is furnished by Mrs. Charles G. Craig, who was seen here twice in "Marching Through Georgia," and DeWitt C. Jennings, both appearing as colored servants of the old school. The programme bore the name of Georgia Welles, but she died in a New York hospital yesterday morning.

Of the five scenes necessary to depict the story, the most striking is the one where the cave of the Ku Klux Klan is shown. To this a cowering ,cringing negro, who has caused the death of a little white girl, is brought for punishment, and his abject terror and cries for mercy are so truthfully portrayed by Joseph Woodburn that the audience convulsively shivers. All of the settings are heavy and are greatly enhanced by perfect lighting effects.

BIBLE CLASS CONDUCTS OLD FASHIONED SOCIAL

HOPE CHAPEL WOMEN ALSO SURPRISED MRS. G. STUART SIMONS.

The Women's Bible Class at Hope chapel, taught by G. Stuart Simons, conducted a delightful class reception in the Sunday school rooms last night. It was atended by many of the older members of the congregation and in several respects was "an old-fashioned" affair, one in which formality is an unknown quantity and sociability reigns.

The programme was in two parts and was presented under the chairmanship of Mr. Simons. It was opened with a piano overture by Judge Runyon, who also sang, his hearers demanding three encores. Scotch readings were given by Miss Catherine Steele and Mrs. Simons and Mrs. L. R. Howard contributed vocal selections. After these an intermission of ten minutes was declared, so that everyone could shake hands with everyone else, and there were no strangers when seats were resumed.

The same artists appeared again and at the conclusion of the second part an address was made by Superintendent Henry C. Squires, of the Sunday school. It was given in one of his characteristic veins and led up to the presentation of a handsome chair to Mrs. Simons. It came as a complete surprise to the recipient, but she continued the jollity in expressing her thanks. She also received a handsome bouquet of flowers. Coffee and cake were served in conclusion.

The committee which arranged and had charge of the affair consisted of Mrs. William Jones, Mrs. J. J. Johnson, Mrs. Walter Bradford and Mrs. Donald McInnes.

Variation of the Grand Song.

Bertha Johnson, colored, was arraigned before Judge Runyon in the city court this morning, charged with disorderly conduct by her husband, Frank Johnson. The couple have not been living together since three months ago, when the magistrate, after hearing a complaint made by the wife against the husband, advised them to keep apart. Mrs. Johnson wants her husband to help her support the child she expects, and approached him at a meeting of the Saints of God and Church of Christ Thursday night. A racket followed, and Johnson had the woman arrested. Judge Runyon suspended sentence.

The "Redskin" Coming Here.

OBJECT TO THE SALOON

Business Men on North Avenue Against Schanz's Application.

GIVE THEIR VIEWS

Some Merchants Declare Depot Street Should Be Kept Clear of Saloons.

If Charles Schanz were to get a license for a saloon in the store on North avenue in which he wants to establish one, none of his business neighbors would cheer enthusiastically. As a matter of fact, all of them would count the day on which he started in business as a very regrettable one.

Sentiment among the business men on North avenue is practically unanimous in opposition to the Schanz license. A majority of those most directly interested in the proposed place from a neighborhood standpoint were interviewed this morning by a Daily Press reporter, and all those who were willing to be quoted registered emphatic protest against it. Those who were unwilling to have their opinions go into print were just as strongly opposed to the place as the others. The few who weren't seen are understood, on excellent authority, to be against the application quite as strongly as the others.

B. A. Moore, of Moore & Scheelein, butchers, said: "There are enough saloons on North avenue now. One is too many for me. This is the last street a saloon should be on, anyway—the depot street should be clear of such places."

F. W. Dunn, grocer: "I am certainly opposed to giving Schanz a license. Keep the main streets as clear of such places as possible. The depot street, at any rate, should be clear of them. A hotel does not strike the newcomer as a bad sign, but a mere saloon on the depot street creates a wrong impression of a town like this. The proposed place is not necessary."

J. A. Sattels, piano and music dealer: "The proposed Schanz place is unnecessary. It would be a detriment to the respectability of the avenue. I am unalterably opposed to it."

A. I. Littell, of the firm of D. W. Littell & Son, plumbers: "I am most certainly opposed to it. I don't see why such a place should be placed on North avenue. It has always been my conviction that the depot street should be kept clear."

Philip Kirch, wholesale and retail tobacco dealer: "I object to the proposed saloon on several grounds. I do not like the character of the place he is said to have conducted on Park avenue, and I have no reason to believe he would change it on North avenue. Personally I have nothing against Schanz, but his place would kill business on North avenue, and I have got to look out for mine."

Stephenson, the caterer: "We are positively opposed to a saloon opening on North avenue. It would be a decided detriment to the many young people passing along this street, besides lowering the tone of the street as a business thoroughfare."

A. E. Laing, electrical contracting: "I am positively opposed to the proposed saloon. I am not a prohibitionist, but I believe there are saloons enough in the city now. Park avenue and Second street are well supplied."

Funeral of Dorothy Wheeler.

With a large gathering of relatives and friends in attendance, the funeral of Dorothy Wilma Wheeler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wheeler, of East Front street, was held at the parents' home yesterday afternoon. It was conducted by Rev. Charles E. Herring and Rev. Dr. Schenck. Mrs. Thomas MacDonald sang "Nearer My God to Thee" and a lullaby. The baby was a member of Trinity Reformed church's cradle roll and the department contributed a rose, as is customary, which was placed upon the tiny casket. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery.

JAMES H. BRESLIN DIES IN NEW YORK

FIRST PROPRIETOR OF NETHERWOOD HOTEL EXPIRED TODAY.

James H. Breslin, the original proprietor of the Hotel Netherwood, in this city, and one of the most widely known hotel men in this country, died in his apartments in the Hotel Walcott in New York today. Mr. Breslin had been in ill health for a year, and had not been active in business affairs since he opened the Hotel Breslin, at Brodway and Twenty-ninth street, New York, a year ago. He was born in Waterford, N. Y., and was seventy-two years old.

For six weeks past Mr. Breslin's intimates have known that he was at death's door. He was hopeful, cheerful and good-natured to the end, taking pleasure in the visits of his friends and laughingly telling them that he was too young to think about dying.

His hotel activities were not confined to New York. At various times he was the owner of the Grand Union Hotel in Saratoga, D. D., the Netherwood in Plainfield, the Southern in St. Louis, part owner in the Auditorium, Chicago; the Edgemere, at Edgemere, L. I., and at one time owned and operated both the Manhattan Beanch, the Brighton Beach and the Oriental Hotels.

He was thirty years at the Gilsey House, and his fame and fortune grew out of his connection with that hostelry. He began his career as a bell boy.

ILLUSTRATED LECTURE AT GRACE EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

Rector to Tell of "Progress of the Church in the Twentieth Century."

Departing somewhat from the regular order of service, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, the rector, announces that tomorrow evening at Grace Episcopal church a lecture on "The Progress of the Church in the Twentieth Century" will take the place of the customary sermon. The rector himself will deliver the lecture, which will be well illustrated by stereopticon views.

Not only the growth of the Episcopal church in America and the Church of England at home and in the British colonies will be pictured, but the advance in the church's work in the world's missionary fields will be vividly presented. The service will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

It is understood that this lecture will be the first of a series along similar lines.

MRS. WHITON'S FUNERAL.

Simple Service Conducted by Rev. Charles L. Goodrich.

The funeral services of Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Whiton, widow of James Morris Whiton, of Boston, and mother of John M. Whiton, were held at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon from the residence of her son in Central avenue. There was a large attendance of relatives, friends and neighbors, who had known the aged woman for many years.

Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, conducted the services. He offered an opening and closing prayer and read appropriate Scripture selections. There were no remarks or eulogy over the departed. During the service a quartette comprising Mrs. Thomas MacDonald, Miss Jessie Haynes, Charles L. Lewis and Elmer D. Cutting, sang two selections.

The remains were taken to Boston today, where the interment will take place in the family burying plot.

West End Newsdealer Retires.

Samuel Robinson, of West Third street, has sold his Sunday and daily newspaper business to Sylvanus Hoffman, the latter assuming charge tomorrow, April 1. George Patterson, who has looked out for the daily trade at the Grant Avenue station for Mr. Robinson, has taken a position with the Union News Company, and will start on his duties at the Plainfield station Monday. Mr. Robinson was engaged in the business fifteen years and operated chiefly in the West End among the shop people.

Automobile Wrecks Buggy.

Unable to control his automobile, Max Schmidt, of Elm street, Morristown, ran into a buggy Friday night, in which were George Garrabrant and Oliver Kopp, of Boonton. Both men were thrown out of the wagon and painfully injured. Mr. Schmidt's machine wrecked the buggy and then ran over the wreckage two or three times. Mr. Schmidt took the men home.

BAPTIST MISSIONS WORK

First Church Societies' Union Anniversary Meeting Addressed by Mrs. Post.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Foreign, Home, Young Women's and Junior Organizations Present Reports of a Year's Labor.

Reports for the past year, together with an address by Mrs. A. M. Post, who recently visited the Blanket Indians, of the Kiawa tribe in Oklahoma and Arizona, followed by a tea and social time, comprised the features of the union anniversary meeting of the Women's Home, Foreign, Young Women's and Children's Missionary societies at the First Baptist church yesterday afternoon. The women of the Park Avenue Baptist church also joined in the meeting as spectators.

The meeting was opened by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, the pastor of the church, with the reading of Scripture, prayer and a few remarks of encouragement. Reports were then presented. Miss Ida Yerkes gave the treasurer's report for the Women's Foreign Missionary Society, showing that $573 was raised during the year. The report of the secretary, Mrs. B. J. Shreve, was very complete and comprehensive. There was an average attendance of thirty-seven members at each meeting, a large increase.

Mrs. J. A. Powlison read the treasurer's report of the Women's Home Missionary Society for Mrs. Frank W. Jones, who is ill. This society collected $565.13 for its works. Mrs. W. Kempton Browning resigned as secretary and Mrs. George Robins was elected to fill the vacancy.

Mrs. John Peeke Reynolds, Jr., treasurer of the Young Women's Missionary Society, presented a statement showing that $70 was given to foreign missions, $40 to home missions, $10 to the Educational Society fund, $5 to the King's Daughters' baby camp, $5 to the Children's Home and there is now $25 in the treasury. There was an increase of eleven members during the year.

After the reports the Children's Missionary Society, of which Mrs. Daniel R. Douglass is the president, marched into the room. Mrs. Douglass made a few remarks, telling of the organization of the society. The children sang "Jesus Loves Me," Everett Case taking the solo part and the society joining in the chorus.

Mrs. A. M. Post, formerly of Denver, Col., but now of Orange, and a worker for the Women's Home Missionary Society in New Jersey, was then introduced and told of her recent visit among the Blanket Indians of the Kiawa tribe in Oklahoma and Arizona.

Mrs. Post said that the Indians welcome what they call the "Jesus women," but they will have nothing to do with the white man, because of former treatment. She said that the Indians are naturally bright and it is not difficult to teach them about Christ. She also told of her visits to the homes of the Indians and how cordially she was received by them. She was accompanied by Louis and Charles Hunt, of the Carlisle School, and they acted as interpreters. At the close of her remarks Mrs. Post exhibited pictures of Indians and their handiwork, including dresses, bracelets and beadwork.

At the tea and social time Mrs. J. B. Probasco and Mrs. Harlod Serrell poured and they were assisted by members of the Young Women's Missionary Society, who served.

The officers of the women's and children's societies are as follows:

Women's Home Missionary Society—Honorary president, Mrs. D. J. Yerkes; president, Mrs. Reuben Knox; vice presidents, Mrs. S. T. Wilson, Mrs. Hannah Flanders, Mrs. Morris Zook; secretary, Mrs. George A. Robins; treasurer, Mrs. Frank W. Jones.

Women's Foreign Missionary Society—President, Mrs. J. A. Chambliss; vice presidents, Mrs. D. J. Yerkes, Mrs. Robert Lowry, Mrs. Judson Bonnell; secretary, Mrs. B. J. Shreve; treasurer, Miss Ida Yerkes.

Young Women's Missionary Society—President, Miss Ada Fountain; vice presidents, Miss Pauline Denton, Miss Mary Shreve; secretary, Miss Helen Robins; treasurer, Mrs. John Peeke Reynolds, Jr.

Junior Society—President, Mrs. Daniel R. Douglass; secretary, Mrs. Howard Case; treasurer, Mrs. J. Herbert Case. The secretary of the Junior Society presented his report.

The Junior Society of the church was organized February 2, 1906, with Mrs. Daniel R. Douglas as leader. Its object is to do something for some one and our little ones are interested in the children—those of the Day Nursery, the Children's Home and it is hope when Miss Curry returns to Netherwood to do something to help that work.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Billy Beard will cause hilarity at the New Plainfield theatre this afternoon and tonight when he appears at the head of the best bunch of minstrel comedians on the road with the ever popular Haverly Mastodon Minstrels. "Nothing new in minstrelsy" has often been remarked by critical people, until W. E. Nankeville, single handed, forged to the front with regular old-time minstrelsy, with everything new, with every one in black face, which was so old and forgotten it is new once more. An elaborate and praiseworthy programme, each act embellished with correct, artistic, scenic investiture, and all the old-time cheap "turns" entirely eradicated. With a company of all-star minstrels, an orchestra of picked artists, several magnificently staged spectacular scenes, a dozen soloists, the prettiest and funniest songs and the wittiest jokes which have ever been heard with any minstrel company, this monarch of all minstrel shows comes to this city today. The roster includes such well known names as Billy Pearl, Perrin Somers, Al. Pleau, Herman Marion, Geo. T. Martin, Walter A. Wolfe, Richard Hunter, Bruce Waiman and a host of other old-time favorites.

Davis and Mack, who have achieved a lofty position as Irish comedians, appear as the stellar figures in "The Irish Pawnbrokers," announced at the New Plainfield theatre next Monday night. Their varied experience and versatility entitles them to the distinction of masters of art in farce comedy merriment. Their play offers them and their fun making allies a prolific field to display their talents and they let no chance escape to create hilarity. All the audience has to do is to keep up with the swift actions on the stage, laugh and guess how long the performers can stand the pace they are going.

A treat in the current local amusements is announced at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday night when Mildred Holland will appear in her triumphant success, "The Power Behind the Throne." Miss Holland portrays the part of "Aria," the daughter of a court musician. The character is a legitimately serious and almost tragic role, which is entirely different from any part which she has heretofore assumed. There is every reason that Miss Holland should continue to meet with success in this line of work, as she possesses all the necessary requirements, a charming presence and a marked degree of personal magnetism, sentiment and pathos. Scenically the production is on an elaborate scale. The costumes are said to be beautiful and historically correct, and all the furniture is carried by the organization.

No attraction before the public contains more pretty and stylish girls than does the ever popular "McFadden's Flats," which will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre next Thursday night. In making an especial effort this season to secure beauties for the chorus the management has had in mind the increasing desire of the public to see beautiful and stylish women who can wear fine costumes as they should be worn, and women who can dance and sing with an understanding of what those arts mean. "McFadden's Flats" is from the pens of those two remarkably clever men, E. W. Townsend and Glen MacDonough. In the company are such clever stars as Billy Barry, Joe Deming, Mlle. Floretta, Marie Henry, the Speck Brothers, the Preston Sisters, Stella Raney, Chas. Stutzman, Lulu Lee, Corrine Bradford, Allie Barbier, Nellie Hunt, Harry Blix, Herbert Hunt, Chas. Gramlich, Billy Clark and others.

Hide your valuables! Take your diamond necklaces to the safety vault! "Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman," the deftest, most plausible and most fascinating villain in literature or drama, will soon visit this city and be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre, April 20. E. W. Hornung's famous scoundrel-hero comes in the person of handsome Kyrle Bellew, who portrayed the character some two hundred times at the Princess and Savoy theatres, New York, season before last. But he promises to filch nothing but good will and to plunder our people of nothing but smiles, thrills and applause. The coming of the distinguished English actor in such a fascinating role is indeed an event of interest.

Bogart T. Conklin, manager for the West End team, of Somerville, is recovering from an operation for appendicitis.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

Two well known business men on North avenue, whose stores adjoin, had a squabble on the street yesterday morning. It amused quite a crowd. None of the onlookers could gather much about the origin of the scrap, but they gathered the impression that the two men didn't like one another. None of them knew exactly what made them think so, but they were quite sure, somehow, that the men were not on good terms.

Dr. Brakeley had a rush session in his headache powder department after the Presbyterial meeting. Six or seven of the delegates seemed to have been upset by the strain of the session. They were all from out of town.

Archibald Brakeley has been posted as one of the "high honor" men of his class at Princeton University. "High honor" is second academic rank, and only fourteen or fifteen men attained it out of a large class.

Rev. S. K. Doolittle, of the Methodist Episcopal church, was a faithful attendant at the sessions of the Presbyterial Home Mission Society at the Presbyterian church yesterday.

Miss Edith Boice sang a solo at the afternoon session of the Presbyterial Society yesterday.

To Enlarge Trenton P. O.

Washington, March 31.—Senator Kean introduced a bill yesterday appropriating $75,000 for the placing of a light and fog signal station in New York Bay at the entrance of Dredged Channel, Greenville City, of Bayonne. He also introduced bills authorizing the expenditure of $125,000 for enlarging the postoffice at Trenton, and $60,000 for enlarging the office at Hoboken.

FOUR WOMEN CLAIM HIM.

Charge That Hotel Proprietor Is Much Married.

Hackensack, March 31.—Ernest A. Fellmans, a hotel proprietor of Lyndhurst, N. J., is a prisoner in the Hackensack jail, charged with bigamy. So far as Justice Heath ascertained, Fellmans is the husband of four women, two of whom have appeared before him.

Wife No. 1 came from New York, and found her husband living with Rose Alda, who says she is married to the hotel proprietor. Wife No. 1 was not willing to take a chance, and charged Rosa with adultery. Bail was furnished her to the amount of $1,000. Fellmans expects his friends in New York to bail him out. He says he was never married to wife No. 1, and she has caused trouble out of revenge.

Thomas Reid, of Boston, a former resident of this city, expects to pay Plainfield a short visit next week.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

Coach Lauder, of the Columbia 'Varsity baseball team, had the candidates out this week. Practice in batting, fielding and base-running occupied the time.

Manager Joe Gavett, of the P. H. S. team, has scheduled a game with Jersey City High School to be played here on April 28. This will be one of the strongest games played by the local school team.

The announcement that George Mallen will be a member of the Plainfield team seems to meet with the approval of the fans. There is no denying that Mallen is a strong player and it is believed that he will be popular with the crowds.

The Plainfield Baseball Association will meet at the Hotel Iroquois tonight at 8 o'clock. A full attendance is desired as the association is anxious to know exactly how much has been subscribed. There will be considerable business of importance to interest every fan.

"Phil." Smith, who will pitch for the Plainfield team this season, has made arrangements with Manager Daab not to receive compensation for his work until after the P. H. S. team schedule is completed. This will allow him to pitch for the school team when he is not needed by Mr. Daab.

While $1,230 was reported subscribed to the Plainfield Baseball Association stock a week ago, this does not mean that that amount will suffice. It is very important that the balance to make up $2,000 be subscribed and at the earliest possible date. It is urged that everyone interest themselves at least to the extent of one share.

"Willie" Deegan is pleased that he is to pitch for Plainfield this season, and when questioned about the rumor that "Jack" O'Neil might go to Westfield, he characterized Charles Denman's words as "fake." "Willie" says he is in the best of condition and ready for a successful season. He will not pitch for the team in Brooklyn tomorrow, on account of the weather conditions which might affect his work later on.

Manager Murray, of the Jersey City Club, has closed arrangements with Proprietor Jerome Leary, of the Hotel Iroquois, where he will bring his team to this hotel during its stay in town. The "Skeeters" will arrive in Plainfield on Tuesday and will remain here for two weeks. It is probable that games will be arranged between the Jersey City and local teams. "Lou" Wiltse and "Warry" MacLaughlin are both interested in this feature as it will afford them an opportunity for practice.

The following anent a recent baseball game in Texas is from the Houston Post and is breezy if not classic: "Eddie Karger demonstrated to the satisfaction of everybody that he is the real jammy goods as a flinger of the horsehide. He let McAleer's Mutts down yesterday with three widely separated bingles, but nevertheless the Mutts rammed the keen harpoon into Harlow's hands, the score being 1 to 0. Karger is responsible for the one run scored during the matinee. Cook opened the pot in the first round with a cloud-chaser that fell into Joe Briskey's doughnut hooks like a rock in a well. Koehler, the next gent to show up at the pan, worked Karger for a pass. Jones hit a vicious bounder into Pat Newnam and was strangled at first, Koehler going to second on the play. Karger let Koehler take too much of a lead off second and he purloined the third corner. It was up to Harry Howell, one of the greatest spitball artists in the country, but not generally credited with being a great bludgeon wielder. Howell rose to the occasion and smashed a wicked grounder over third and Koehler raced over the finish mark with the only tally of the melee."

GOLF.

The Westfield Golf Club will soon announce its schedule for the season.

The Plainfield Country Club will have a strong golf team this season and a series of matches will be arranged with the best clubs in this section.

"Marty" O'Loughlin, the professional at the Plainfield Country Club, has been at the club this week looking things over prior to the opening of the season.

The Park Golf Club course is in excellent condition and a few pleasant days will permit play there. The same arrangements will be continued at the clubhouse as last year.

The season's schedule of events will be issued by the golf committee of the Plainfield Country Club within the next two weeks. It will be fully as strong as last season.

Local golfers are now waiting for pleasant weather to get out and follow their favorite sport. It is expected that the coming season will be the best in the history of Plainfield.

The house committee of the Plainfield Country Club will soon get busy preparing the clubhouse for the season. It is the intention to engage a clerk who will be directly responsible and who will live at the club.

MRS. APPLEGATE WELL AGAIN!

"I have had a bruised leg and foot for several years, caused by the brass eyelets of my shoe, which became very sore and painful especially at night. It itched, burned and ached me till it nearly set me crazy. I used everything I found and was suggested to ease it and nothing gave me any relief till I found and applied Azienza Cream which I think is a wonderful remedy for all sores and inflammation of the skin. The hard knots on my legs were as painful as bee stings, with discolored and purple spots. A running sore on my instep size of a half-dollar; the toe of my foot a seething sore clean around to my heel. The bone was sore for a whole year and very painful. I used five and one-half jars of Azienza Cream and healed the sore all up. The foot remained tender and I continued to use to strengthen and toughen the skin until now it is entirely well." (Signed) Mrs. Hannah Applegate, Evergreen Ave., Avon, N. J., Sept. 3rd, 1905. 50 cents. Ask the druggist or by mail. Azienza Specialties Co., Jersey City, N. J.

MENDHAM TOWNSHIP'S 157TH ANNIVERSARY.

Morris County Community Was Founded on March 29, 1749 —Has Grown Greatly.

Mandham, March 31.—Mandham township Wednesday recorded the 157th anniversary of its existence. March 29, 1749, was the date of its creation, it having been the fifth township formed in Morris county, eleven years after the founding of the county, March 15, 1738. Mendham township originally included in its boundaries Randolph and a part of Chester, but in 1806, when Randolph township was formed, the present boundaries were given to Mendham, making it the smallest township in the county.

The earliest authentic record of actual settlement in the township dates from 1713, when James Wills, an Englishman, bought land of the original proprietors. It inlcuded all that territory lying between Mendham village and Chester, but west of Indian Brook at Ralston. Some of this land is still owned by descendants of this Wills. The Logans and Ogdens were the first owners of much of the land east of Indian Brook and that part forming Mendham village.

The western portion of the township was earliest settled, the pioneers coming up the Raritan River, following both the north and south branches. The eastern portion of the township received its settlers via the Passaic River. The first actual settlement of the village proper of which there is any record dates from 1727. Previous to the forming of the township, when the settlement was in the formation period, the name of Roxiticus was variously applied to the settlement and the section.

THIS HOTEL IN AN ODD PLACE.

Captain William Farren Will Build Caravansory Upon Buckwheat Island.

By the latter part of May there will have been erected on "Buckwheat Island," the other side of the Baltimore and Ohio drawbridge, near Elizabeth, an up-to-date hotel licensed under the excise laws of the State of New York and conducted under the proprietorship of Captain William Farren, of this city. Captain Farren's plan for erecting an hotel on what has been for probably two centuries a deserted island in Staten Island Sound is considered by natives of the local shore front and men who have spent most of their lives in boating on the Sound a novel undertaking.

It is Captain Farren's idea to build a summer hotel on the island. During the summer months many yachts and launches pass Buckwheat Island going to and from Princess and New York bays, besides scores of yachting parties from this city, Bayonne, Perth Amboy and other points along the Sound.

Captain Farren has already obtained his license from the New York authorities and has already begun to carry lumber down the Sound in his launches with which to begin the work.

Public Ownership of Coal.

Every one who loves his fellowman more than he loves his fellowman's money, and who longs and votes and prays for the time when there shall be more co-operation and less of competition in our industrial activity, cannot but view with impatience the present agitation over the coal miners' wage. Since the third party, the consumer, will never get his dues—nor the miner, either, for that matter—under present conditions unless he eternally fights for them, why don't the common people—those whose interests are never consulted very much, and yet who have the power whenever they choose to exercise it, strike for public ownership of the coal mines, and strike hard? It is a preposterous proposition anyhow—that God has created the natural resources of the earth for a few greedy corporations to monopolize.—"H.," in Philadelphia North American.

—The Plainfield Operatic Association will meet at the Casino Monday night for a rehearsal of the opera, "Patience." It is expected that the soloists will attend, and every part in the cast filled.

NEW FIGHTING SHIP NEW JERSEY A FLIER

THE NEW JERSEY EASILY EXCEEDS 19 KNOT RATE REQUIREMENT IN TEST.

Rockland, Me., March 31.—The new battleship New Jersey, looking as spick and span as an ocean liner, steamed out of Rockland harbor yesterday preparatory to making a four-hour endurance run down the coast toward Boston. He splendid showing yesterday over the Owl's Head course when the New Jersey exceeded her contract rate requirements of nineteen knots per hour by nearly half an knot, in an official mile standardization test, has made her builders jubilant and confident that the great fighting ship will continue to acquit herself in a highly creditable manner.

Almost perfect conditions prevailed yesterday when the New Jersey went out trailing a thin streak of smoke from her fast disappearing funnels. The battleship headed straight away, and it is expected that she will finish the four-hour run about 4 p. m. or a little afterward. The test yesterday is the last by the builders before the ship is accepted by the government. Officials of the Fore River Ship and Engine Company of Quincy, Mass., which built the vessel, are happy over the big ship's showing yesterday, and also extremely confident that she will prove in today's test to be as good as any craft in Uncle Sam's rapidly growing navy. At no time yesterday, the officials said, was the New Jersey compelled to force herself to reach the speed requirements as demanded by the government's contract.

Officially the maximum speed attained yesterday was 19.48 knots an hour, and it was determined by the naval men that to make the required nineteen knots it was necessary for the engines to turn the screws over 123.5 times a minute, which is somewhat less than was necessary in the case of the New Jersey's sister ship, the Rhode Island.

The New Jersey began her tests over the measured mile in the morning and traveled up and down the course fourteen times. Admiral Stockton, chairman of the trial board; Commander Reeves, Commander Rush, Lieutenant-Commander Upham and Lieutenant-Commander Gow of the navy were on the battleship. Rear-Admiral Bowles (resigned), now at the head of the Fore River Ship and Engine Company, was also on board.

The warship is now .975 completed and she will be commissioned early in May, with Captain Kimball as her commander.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Now a Municipal Tenant.

Governor Stokes' signature to the limited franchise bill has made the bill a part of the statutes of the State. It carries out the recommendation by the Governor in his annual message and fulfills one of the principal pledges of the Republican party to the people.

A statute can be repealed or altered. The limitation must be placed in the organic law, and one of the amendments to be submitted to the people at the special election in 1908 will undoubtdly be one restricting public utility franchises within the new statutory limits.

The great importance of this act of legislation will be better appreciated in the future. It is essentially a municipal ownership law. It makes permanent municipal property of all rights and privileges hereafter granted to public utility corporations.

They can come in with their plants and operate them for a certain period of time and then all their rights revert to the municipality, to be disposed of over again on new terms which are practically a rental.

The public utility corporation is to all intents and purposes a tenant of the municipality.—Newark News.

FARMERS INDORSE GOVERNOR STOKES.

Pass Resolutions Eulogizing the Executive for His Help.

Franklin Dye, secretary of the State Board of Agriculture, yesterday handed to Governor Stokes the following resolution passed by the State board in his illness and thus delayed until yesterday in transmission:

"Whereas, Governor Stokes in his recent message to the Legislature recommends important radical and far reaching reforms, in the interests of the common people and opposed to the financial profits of wealthy individuals and great corporations, which so frequently frequent and control executives and legislative action;

"Whereas, Such independence and devotion to the public welfare should not escape comment;

"Resolved, That the New Jersey State Board of Agriculture, without distinction of party, cardially approves of all the reforms urged by the Governor and pledges its support to the essentials of such beneficent and patriotic measures, and especially do we urge legislation to secure just and equal taxations and elections free from bribery;

"Resolved, That the secretary be instructed to forward a copy of these resolutions to the Governor."

Plainfield, N. J., March 31, 1906.

Some one has remarked that the "bishops' bill" has now become the brewers' bill.

It is not surprising that residents of North Plainfield find good reason to complain of the treatment the borough receives from the Somerset county authorities. Neither is it to be wondered at that by far the larger proportion of those who pay taxes in good round sums would welcome the day when that municipality could become a part of Union county. The borough is a little mint for the county so far as revenue is concerned, yet it gets next to nothing in return. Not a single road leading to North Plainfield has been macadamized at the county's expense for years and every effort in that direction having been unsuccessfully blocked by a board of freeholders for Somerville "hogging it," which is more in keeping with the rest of the county. The reason has been apparent for a long while, but the Bound Brook Chronicle, in this week's issue, exposes the hand of the anti-North Plainfield politicians and it should be borne in mind by every taxpayer of North Plainfield. The Chronicle says: "In other words, Plainfield wants to have the Somerset authorities improve a road for the purpose of letting trade go into another county. There has been a good deal of road building by this county for the benefit of cities of neighboring counties, and this year the Freeholders might well work in the direction of helping the home merchants. The continuation of the Mountain avenue macadam northeast of Bound Brook, for about two miles over the mountain to Springdale, would be a Warren township improvement, which would be of some benefit to the farmers of Washington Valley, and at the same time would not tend to take trade out of the county."

THEATRICAL NOTES.

If you haven't secured a ticket for Treasurer Cunningham's benefit performance, don't lose any time. They are going fast and the choice of location in seats is dwindling.

"The Old Homestead" will greet old friends and many new ones at the New Plainfield two weeks from today. Denman Thompson will head the cast and will be suppored by many of his original cast.

A committee of prominent New Yorkers has been formed to take charge of the plans for the erection of a monument in Central Park in memory of Joseph Jefferson. It will be a life-size figure representing the actor in the character of "Rip Van-Winkle." It is hoped to secure $50,000 by popular subscription.

The news of the death of Georgia Welles in New York, yesterday, was received in this city by members of "The Clansman" company with great regret. She created the part of "Elsie" when the play was first produced and remained in it until taken ill two weeks ago. The role fell to Miss Evelyn Goodwin, her understudy, who has been acquitting herself creditably.

The first act of "The Power Behind the Throne," the romantic play in which Mildred Holland will appear at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday night, is one of the most beautiful exterior stage pictures ever presented. It represents an Austrian willow grove and walled in flower garden, with an old German cottage on one side. To produce the desired effect, thousands of plants and vines of many varieties are carried. The other three acts are equally perfect in every detail and all the necessary furniture was especially built for the production.

A. O. U. W. VISITORS APPOINTED FOR YEAR.

Grand Master Workman Selects Two Plainfielders Among Number.

Grand Master Workman F. P. Fowle, of the Grand Lodge of New Jersey, has appointed as deputy grand master workmen, Harvey R. Thorn, of Central Lodge, No. 48, to visit Rahway Lodge, No. 25, and V. W. Nash, Sr., of Columbia Lodge, No. 58, to visit Park Lodge, No. 38, Freehold, No. 41; Upchurch Lodge, No. 50, and Earnest Lodge, No. 61.

The grand master workman and committee on finance have decided to offer bounties. To each individual member who proposes a candidate after the latter has been initiated and has paid three beneficiary fund assessments, a bounty of $5 will be given. A condition is made that a member thus secured must not be the result of a special deputy working under instructions of the grand master workman.

As an additional incentive the grand master workman will give a handsome gold lapel button to any member who secures five candidates for admission. This button will be given in addition to the regular bounty.

Bound Brooker Jagged.

James Fitzgerald, who shamelessly confessed that he lived in Bound Brook, was brought before Judge Runyon this morning, for having been drunk on the street yesterday. His residence in Bound Brook did not figure in the complaint; the police regard that as a misfortune and not a crime. Fitzgerald said he hadn't been drunk before in four years. Judge Runyon told him to go away and not return until just before All Fools' Day, 1910.

A fair sized audience met last night at the Baptist church to hear the interesting address given by Mrs. Post concerning our Baptist home mission work among Indians, Chinese and other nationalities. Mrs. Post has spent some time visiting mission fields among these people, and the information thus gained she gives in a most charming and interesting manner. An offering for the work was given at the close of the address. Articles of Indian apparel and home life were exhibited by the speaker.

WESTFIELD.

Several changes are to be made in the street railway force the first of the month. Thomas P. Burke, division superintendent at Plainfield, formerly at Westfield, is transferred to New Brunswick, to take the place of James Butler, resigned; William Davenport is promoted to Burke's place, and William Randolph, inspector at Westfield Junction, is promoted to assistant superintendent by Davenport's advancement.

The Westfield Library Committee announce that it has received several bids for the erection of the library building, all within $10,000. The members decline, however, to announce at present who the bidders were, except to say that local men will do the work.

(Additional suburban news on page 2).

Audubon Society Lecture Off.

Frank Chapman, who was to give an illustrated lecture on brids at the new High School on Tuesday night, under the auspices of the New Jersey Audubon Society, will be unable to do so on account of illness. CLERGY TO CONFER ON BISHOPS' BILLS

MINISTERS PLAN TO CONSIDER COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE ON MONDAY.

Trenton, March 31.—Peter Backes, of this city, who was secretary of the conference of clergymen which drafted the "bishops' bills," reported with amendments in the Senate Wednesday morning, has called a meeting of the conferees for next Monday afternoon. It is understood that the amendments offered by the committee, of which Senator Avis is chairman, are entirely unsatisfactory to the conferees, who, it is expected, will put themselves on record to that effect. Pending action by the conference itself, neither Bishop McFaul nor Mr. Backes would discuss the matter today, but it is inferred that the reconvening of the conference is for no other purpose than to express its disapproval of the bills as they now stand.

When asked by a reporter at his home in South Orange, yesterday, what he thought of the Bishops bills, as reported to the Senate, Rt. Rev. John J. O'Connor, bishop of the Catholic Diocese of Newark, smiled, and then replied:

"Well, you know, half a loaf is better than no bread," and then commented as follows on the bill:

"If the bill as presented will do away with the existing evils complained of by the clergy, we will be satisfied. But the question is, will it eliminate those evils? If these evils still continue after the law goes into effect the agitation for reform as originally planned in the bills before they were modified by the committee will be kept up.

"The age of eighteen years instead of twenty-one, as reported in the modified minor clause, is satisfactory, because I believe it would be hard to distinguish between the two ages.

"The modified bill in general, will give some improvement over present conditions and that it what we are seeking," he concluded.

Bishop Lines, of the Episcopal Diocese of Newark, said yesterday morning that he had read the amendments and understood them, but had no comment to make at the present time.

Spring Opening at Levy Bros.' Store.

Levy Brothers, of West Front street, who are leaders in the dry goods and millinery lines here, announce their spring opening for today. It will continue for one week. For weeks the firm has been preparing for this event and it is sure that the public will find many things to attact and interest them. The millinery opening is perhaps the finest yet shown. All the latest styles in dress and very-day millinery is displayed and cannot fail to please the women. With such a large stock of goods and the prices so low, it will be unnecessary for shoppers to go to New York to trade. Not only in the millinery, but every other department, will be found new spring goods, and as an extra inducement the firm will give away today beautiful growing ferns, eighteen inches in height. Don't fail to attend this opening today or during the coming week.

Miss Tomkinson, of Mt. Carmel, Pa., is visiting at the home of her brother, C. C. Tomkinson, of Grove street.

Easter Opening at The Paris.

There is probably no more attractive display of women's waists, plain and fancy, suits, skirts and jackets than is shown at the Paris. The Easter showing of these goods begins today and women must see them to appreciate the latest styles. This store has been thoroughly remodelled and a larger stock of goods than ever is carried. The women folks will not be disappointed in trading here and a selection of a waist or entire suit will be an easy matter. The prices are very reasonable for such quality.

TRADING ON NAME OF WORTHY CHARITY.

Benevolent Organization in New York to Issue Warning.

Plainfielders interested in charity here are warned against the "Sunshine Legion" and its two publications, "Sunshine" and "Sunshine Journal," as being unworthy of any support or assistance whatever. The Charity Organization of New York is about to issue a general warning to all important charitable societies in the United States against this society. It has been on the hunt for this society for over a year. Now it has evidence in hand and is prepared to move against Mrs. E. M. Tibbetts, "national president of the society," and her companion, Joseph W. Floridy, the organizer and brains of the graft.

This society has no connection whatever with the "International Sunshine Society," which is the recognized organization for this work. The "Sunshine Legion" pretends to maintain in seven large cities of the United States settlements, day nurseries and employment agencies for the children of the poor. Investigation proves these "settlements" to be mere "blinds."

There are many Plainfield people interested in the "International Sunshine Society," and they are urged to be careful and not allow themselves to become patrons of the bogus society.

Lawyer Accuses Banker, Corespondent in Divorce Case.

A charge of perjury was made against Jesse H. Suydam, cashier of a bank at Lakewood, while he was on the witness stand in the Chancery Court in Newark yesterday, at the trial of the divorce suit of Dr. William M. Moore, of New Brunswick. Suydam is named as corespondent in the case, and was called to the stand by Willard P. Voorhees, counsel for Dr. Moore.

His testimony was so much at variance with what he is said to have told the lawyer in conversation, that Mr. Voorhees moved that the case be continued to allow for criminal proceedings against the bank cashier. Vice-Chancellor Stevens, in denying Mr. Voorhees' motion, said he could not determine as to whether the witness was testifying truthfully or not, or as to whether what he had said in the interview with Mr. Voorhees was the truth.

Counsel was directed to proceed with the case, and the complainant was called and remained on the stand until an adjournment was taken, the case going over until Monday.

The Moores were married after an elopement, on August 30, 1892, and lived together until last December. Dr. Moore's bill alleges improper conduct, and the answer is a flat denial, together with a counter charge of a similar character.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK

ARE SILENT FOR OVER FORTY YEARS

REMARKABLE CASE OF BROTHER AND SISTER.

LIVE IN THE SAME HOUSE

During Entire Time James and Mary Durney Have Not Spoken to Each Other—Usually Eat Their Meals Separately.

New York.—On a 75-acre farm, four miles from Chateaugay, Franklin county, N. Y., dwell James and Mary Durney, brother and sister, who, although they have lived in the same house since childhood and are the only occupants of the house, have not spoken to each other for 42 years.

James is 60 years old and Mary 55. Their uncommunicativeness has for two score years been one of the wonders of that part of Franklin county, and the fact that, otherwise, they appear to get along together amicably, has but served to intensify interest in the case.

What further adds to the interest of the situation is that neither brother nor sister ever says a derogatory word of the other to anyone.

Yet the cause of the period of 42 years of silence toward each other is one of the traditions of neighbors. When Mary Durney was 13 years old she wanted to go to a party in the village of Chateaugay, and her brother, five years older, declared that she should not; that she was too young to go to parties.

The girl tried to slip out of the house, but her brother caught and detained her and refused to permit her to leave the sitting-room of their home until the last vehicle had departed with its merry load of youthful farmerfolk. As the sound of the wheels of the last carryall died away Mary was seized with frantic grief and passion, and struggled desperately to open the door that her brother had locked, putting the key in his pocket. He sat back and laughed at his little sister's vain efforts to open the door. She struggled to force the lock and then pounded frantically on the door, until, exhausted by her efforts and her impotent rage, she fell on the floor. She lay there for hours, refusing to move, and shrieking when her brother tried to get her to rise.

When the girl arose the next day she refused to speak to or notice her brother, and this is the attitude that she has maintained resolutely, through good fortune and bad, through deaths in the family, through success in business enterprises that came to them, through the sickness or health of both of them.

Her brother, quick to take his cue, and apparently feeling as angry as she, after a few abortive attempts, ceased to speak to her when he received no answer to his remarks. And from that day, 42 years ago on October 11, these two persons, dwelling together, have locked their lips against each other.

The father of the pair died 30 years ago. During the last years of his life he tried in every way to break the silence between his son and daughter, but they steadfastly refused to comply with his wishes. After the death of their father, the mother took up the task of attempting to reconcile her two children, but she met with no better success. She died 18 years ago.

When her father and mother died Mary Durney refused to attend their funerals. Neighbors for miles around tried to persuade her to do so, but she stubbornly declined. Mary Durney will not eat if a stranger is around. None of the neighbors can remember ever seeing her at a meal. If anyone approaches the house she usually locks and bolts the door. She has never been to church or to school. Rev. P. J. Devlin, of St. Patrick's church, Chateaugay, often calls at the house to get Mary to attend the services, but when she sees him approaching she slams and bolts the door in his face. All his knocking at the door and on the windows fails to elicit any response. She merely goes about the house pulling down the shades.

Since the day when she and her mother quarreled over the party Mary never has worn a shoe or stocking. Summer and winter she goes barefoot. When it is noted that the farm where she lives is only one mile from the Canadian border, one may realize the suffering that going barefooted entails upon her. When the farmhouse is surrounded by deep drifts of snow Mary has been seen running barefooted up and down the porch, which was deep in snow, and apparently enjoying the experience.

Brother and sister for the last eighteen years have lived alone in the house on their unspeaking terms. They do their own housework. Each cooks his and her own meals.

Sometimes, but not often, brother and sister eat their meals together. The usual custom is for Mary to prepare her meal and eat it first, and then James will cook and eat his. James usually waits until Mary has washed the dishes after her meal before he enters the kitchen.

Both James and Mary Durney are apparently perfectly sound in mind. They are well posted on the news of the day. When either is asked why he or she will not speak to the other, neither answers, either changing the subject or turning abruptly away.

Durney is five feet six inches in height and weighs 186 pounds. He is good-natured and well mannered. Mary is of medium size. Barring her shyness, she appears good humored.

James Durney is a carpenter as well as a farmer. Two days a week he does odd jobs in the village of Chateaugay, spending the other five on his farm. Forty feet from the farmhouse stands his workshop, which is filled with $7,000 worth of modern machinery and tools. Often from sunrise to sunset he works at an invention for perpetual motion.

SOCIETY MAN BY DAY; A BURGLAR BY NIGHT.

Prominent Middletown, N. Y., Man and Leader of Fashion Confesses to Looting Homes.

Middletown, N. Y.—The alleged confession of Charles Boos, until a few days ago superintendent of the Wallkill Transit company's lines in Orange county, has amazed this city and solved a spectacular police mystery. According to the police he admitted to them that he had robbed one of the largest department stores in the city, besides several residences in the last few months.

Boos jestingly reminded the police that he himself had raised the hue and cry one night a few weeks ago when a burglar was chased out of the residence of a wealthy man. He said the police were close on him before he got out of the house and that he ran ahead of them shouting: "Stop thief. Catch that man!"

This ruse worked so well that Boos resorted to it again a few nights later, when he had forced his way into the home of J. L. Pendleton, and from which he was frightened by an alarm.

Boos is regarded as a modern social highwayman. He drew a large salary as superintendent of the big transit corporation and lived in good style in handsomely furnished apartments on one of the best streets in the city. He was apparently one of the busiest men in town, seemed to have no time for anything but his work, and appeared an exemplary man of business. He was arrested on a charge of stealing copper wire from the company and selling it to a junk dealer. Officials of the company were his accusers.

A subsequent search of Boos' fine apartment revealed plunder for which the police had long been looking and which it is alleged was taken from a department store and private residences. When the loot was discovered Boos, it is said, confessed.

Cow in Pedagogue's Office.

Indianapolis, Ind.—A cow occupied the office of President Garrison, of Butler college, the other night. As Dr. Garrison neared the entrance to his office next morning he was greeted with discordant sounds that he was unable to understand. When he opened the door he fell back aghast upon discovering a cow looking at him disconsolately from the middle of the room. About the animal were scattered books, papers and college documents in great confusion. Dr. Garrison endeavored to hush the matter until an investigation could reveal the identity of the culprits. The deed was evidently a college prank.

Husband Sleeps Under Bed.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—A pretty woman with auburn hair asked the clerk of a court for advice as to what she could do with her husband, John Bird, with whom she lives in a Fourth avenue flat. They have two small children. Mrs. Bird says that since her husband "got religion" he insists on sleeping under the bed, because he does not want her to have other men coming to see her. The clerk told his visitor that Mr. Bird could not be arrested, and referred her to a lawyer, who advised her to apply for a separation.

Its a Funny Idea

some dealers have about our stock being just the same. We know it isn't. Beef, Veal, Lamb, or Pork which has been carefully raised and fed will taste better and give more nourishment than "wild" meats. We don't sell any but prime Meats, and a customer can sit down to a roast or steak, or chops from here without fear of hurting his teeth or his sense of taste. Prices won't hurt anybody's pocket, either. We sell Siegfried Arens' delicious Broilers.

SUNDAY, DAY OF MURDERS

New Orleans Policeman Says Sensational Crimes Are Committed on Sabbath.

"Have you ever noticed how many murders are committed on Sunday?" asked the old police captain, according to the New Orleans Times-Democrat. "This thing has bothered me for many years, and I have never been able to figure out why it is that most homicides among white people are committed on Sundays. With the negroes it is different. Saturday night is the favorite time among the negroes, and this, I guess, is due to the fact of Saturday night being a pay night, and a night looked upon by the negroes as a night for jollification. In many cases these occasions of jollification wind up in murders. The majority of the most sensational murders that have occurred in New Orleans in the last year or two have been commited on Sundays and there is no apparent reason for it. If you will search your memory you will find that what I say is so. Many will tell you that these murders are the results of Saturday night sprees, but the cases I have in mind cannot be classed there. In the first place, these murders have been committed by persons not under the influence of liquor, and in nearly every case this has been shown to be so. In nearly all cases where the murder is out of the ordinary and where it attracts more than usual attention you will find that Sunday is the day on which the crime is committed. This is a problem which I will leave to others to figure out. It's by me."

A REMARKABLE TIMEPIECE.

Clock Contrived by Pittsburg Railroad Man Is Something of a Wonder.

One thousand four hundred and forty different kinds of time at the same instant is one of the attainments made possible by means of a strange clock contrived by a Pittsburg railroad man, and which, says the Pittsburg Dispatch, was for the first time introduced before the public recently through the efforts of Rev. W. W. Hall, of the Butler street Methodist Episcopal church. The pastor desired some instructive feature for the regular meeting of the Lowther Brotherhood, and finally prevailed upon the inventor, A. M. Lockhart, to speak in public upon the subject of "Time and Its Effects," using the clock to illustrate his theories. The lecture hall was crowded with railroad men and their friends.

The clock is more than nine feet high and supports a dial four feet in diameter, upon which is adjusted a correct map of the world that revolves and by means of which it is possible to ascertain at a glance the exact hour at any point on the earth's surface. It moves according to the movement of the world, which is contrary to the hands of the clock, and what is more, the hands of this particular timepiece are stationary. The clock was contrived by Mr. Lockhart, and every particle of it was shaped and put together by him.

MAKING SURE OF THE TIP.

How Waiters Provide the Change So as to Insure a Certain Rake-Off.

"Bring the change in quarters," said the man who had paid for a four-dollar luncheon with a five-dollar bill.

"Why did you specify the denomination?" asked the woman opposite.

"Because if hadn't that fellow would have brought in half dollars and then I'd have had to give him a 50-cent tip. That is a trick most waiters have. When it is possible to bring the change in dollars and half dollars they do it, so the tip will be correspondingly large. Of course, in restaurants where 25 cents is the usual tip, they are not quite so greedy, and get the change so cut up that it shall contain at least one quarter. They are afraid that if that is not handy they may get turned down without anything, and they don't want to take chances of losing all the way round. In all restaurants dimes are avoided in making change whenever possible. Every waiter considers his services worth more than that, and he takes precautions to prevent a patron from disgracing himself by offering him one.

"Cashiers are all in on the game of change. They take care to make it in coins that will insure the waiter a satisfactory tip; so unless the customer has the forethought to ask for a little chicken feed he is doomed to a ruinous contribution."

To Thibetan Mountains.

A representative of the department of agriculture has lately been ordered to explore the Kuen-lun mountain range, for the discovery of hardy fruits and grasses that may be profitably introduced into the United States. The Kuen-lun range is the boundary between Thibet and East Turkestan and traverses a country of which white men know little. It is in this region that the peach is supposed to have originated. The expert is commissioned to learn also what he can of the fruit in its native habitat.

Couldn't Lose Her.

He—If you loved me, why did you at first refuse me?

She—I wanted to see how you would act.

"But I might have rushed off without waiting for an explanation."

"Oh, I had the door locked."—Chicago Journal.

At Disadvantage.

"I've bought an absolutely noiseless auto," said Mr. Newrich.

"But, Hiram!" exclaimed his wife, "if it doesn't make any noise, how are we ever going to attract attention?"—Detroit Free Press.

A GOOD REASON.

Plainfield People Can Tell You Why It Is So.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure the cause of disease, and that is why the cures are always lasting. This remedy strengthens and tones up the kidneys, helping them to drive out of the body the liquid poisons that cause backache, headache and distressing kidney and urinary complaints. Plainfield people testify to permanent cures.

Mrs. Agnes Christiansen, of 311 Prescott place, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Several years ago I was sick with kidney diseases, suffered all kinds of hard pains in my back and loins, and about the kidneys. I could not bend over to pick up anything, and occasionally had dizzy spells and headaches. I could not rest well at night and on the whole my condition was such that life did not seem worth living. Doctors being unable to help me I decided to try Doan's Kidney Pills, which had been used with success in our family. I took them, finding relief in a short time and continued the treatment until cured."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

QUEER TELEPHONE USES.

Norwegian Fishermen Drop Lines Into the Sea to Get Trace of the Fish.

Abundance of amusing as well as statistical proof of the approach of such an era of universal telephony as is implied in 20 per cent. development is not hard to find. Newspapers give publicity to all sorts of ingenious schemes for utilizing Mr. Bell's invention in heretofore unheard of ways. The instrument, says F. W. Coburn, in Atlantic, has come to be of assistance in almost all the vocations and avocations of the everyday world. Not only has it annihilated time and space on the superficial earth, but the Norwegian fishermen drop into the ocean depth a line with telephonic attachment by which the swish of the approaching herring, codfish or mackerel is communicated to the anxious listeners above. In some of the most delicate operations of hospital surgery the telephone proves helpful, and in ordinary medical practice the country mother raises the baby to the transmitter in order that the physician in the village may determine whether or not the cough is croupy. Concerts have been transmitted more or less successfully over the wires, and Sunday morning preaching effectively conveyed. After a recent revival, in which scores of eager "seekers" had put in their requests for prayers, the evangelist handed his secretary a list of names with their telephone numbers and with the instruction: "Just call up each one of these sisters and brothers to-morrow morning and ask them how it goes with their souls. Tell them to keep on with their prayers and inform them that I am praying for them right along."

NOT THE BOSS AFTER ALL

Story That Illustrates a Condition Quite Common in Matrimonial Alliances.

Once upon a time a youth, who had commenced to navigate the sea of matrimony, went to his father and said: "Father, who should be boss, I or my wife?"

Then the old man smiled and said: "Here are 100 chickens and a team of horses. Hitch up the horses, load the chickens into the wagon and wherever you can find a man and his wife dwelling, stop and make inquiry as to who is the boss. Wherever you find a woman running things leave a chicken. If you come to a place where the man is in control, give him one of the horses."

After 79 chickens had been disposed of he came to a house and made the usual inquiry, says the San Francisco Chronicle.

"I'm the bos sof this ranch," said the man.

"Got to show me."

So the wife was called, and she affirmed her husband's assertion.

"Take whichever horse you want," was the boy's reply.

So the husband said: "I'll take the bay." But the wife didn't like the bay horse, and she called her husband aside and talked to him. He returned and said: "I believe I'll take the gray horse."

"Not much," said Missouri. "You'll take a chicken."

LOOSE BUSINESS MORALS.

Grocer's Clerk Who Was Too Untruthful to Hold His Position.

An Arctic explorer was praising the late William Zeigler, relates the New York Tribune.

"He was a man of the alertest wit," the explorer said. "I never saw his equal in the hitting off of a person's character with an apposite story. Once I remember, he was describing a flour manufacturer of loose business morals.

"Mr. Zeigler said this manufacturer was like a certain grocer who called his clerk up before him one day and said:

" 'That lady who just went out—didn't I hear her ask you for fresh laid eggs?'

" 'Yes, sir,' the clerk answered.

" 'And you said we hadn't any?'

" 'Yes, sir; that is correct!'

"The grocer, purple with rage, yelled:

" 'Didn't you see me lay those eggs myself on the counter not ten mintues ago? You are discharged, you mendacious scoundrel, and see that you don't look to me for a reference, either.' "

Sweet Corn for Bass.

Bass, as a rule, are rather particular about the kind of food they take, and even the most painstaking angler fails usually unless he offers them choice live bait. Down about Chadd's Ford, Delaware county, however, they are not so particular, and, if the fishermen have been telling the truth, they have developed a great fondness for sweet corn, which is used as bait for carp. A few grains are strung on each hook and as a carp lure it has always proved effective. But this year the fisherman is just as liable to get a bass as a carp.

JOHN HAY'S ADAPTABILITY.

Faculty Which Gave the Late Secretary of State the Open Sesame to Success.

Many stories are told of the late secretary of state, John Hay, to illustrate the remarkable good fortune which was his in finding at the completion of every task a new one awaiting him, which was an advance in his profession and an opportunity to develop himself. Most chapters in his career, says Youth's Companion, illustrate also the marvelous adaptability which made it possible for him to take instant advantage of every opportunity which offered.

When he was a young man acting as President Lincoln's assistant private secretary, Hay met Whitelaw Reid, then a war correspondent. In the years between then and 1870 Mr. Reid rose rapidly, and became managing editor of the New York Tribune under Horace Greeley.

In that year Hay, a young man of but 32, resigned his position as charge d'affaires in Madrid, returned to New York, and there met Reid again and dined with him. Later they walked down to the Tribune office.

It chanced that the foreign editor was away that night—Hay's inevitable good fortune—and in the cable messages which came to the managing editor was one of especial importance.

"Here," he said to Hay, "sit down and write me a leader for to-morrow on this thing."

Half in joke, but entirely competent, Hay complied. The article proved excellent—Hay nad accepted the opportunity. Reid asked him to stay a week, then a month and so John Hay entered journalism. Without a day's apprenticeship, without solicitation or expectation on his part, when he was in fact on his way to Illinois, where he expected to take up the practice of law, he received a high place on the foremost paper in America. He held the position five years, and was soon well-known in the profession.

NEW BUILDING MATERIALS.

Showing Evolution Goes on in Structural as Well as in Organic Life.

Much space has been devoted by the magazines lately to a discussion of the advantages of concrete in house building. One is told, says Youth's Companion, that a solid and enduring structure can be made of the material, including even the floors and roof, for little more than the cost of a wooden house, and when the annual bill for repairs is considered, the ultimate cost is said to be no greater than wood.

The process of construction is simple. The walls are made by pouring into a temporary wooden mold a mortar of Portland cement, sand and crushed stone, inclosing steel rods, pillars or beams. This system of construction has been used occasionally for many years, but it has lately come into more general favor. There is a large concrete church in Brooklyn, and in western as well as in eastern cities there are tall buildings composed almost entirely of concrete—indeed, many steel-frame buildings are three-fourths concrete—and many residences of concrete have been erected in various parts of this country.

There is evolution in building as well as in organic life. The earliest Greek architects were limited by the fact that they did not know how to build an arch in stone. When the Romans developed the arch, larger and more magnificent structures were reared, but for centuries they were limited in height because of the limitations of stone.

Fifty years ago a building five or six stories high was unusual, even in the large cities. Then the elevator was invented, and less than 20 years ago the first steel frame building was erected. Now a 50-story hotel in New York is planned. It may well stand for the exclamation point after one's expression of wonder at the marvels of modern building enterprise.

Actual Quarters.

The quarter of a dollar is merely a term for a complete coin nowadays, but in the early coinage a quarter meant a quarter of a coin, for in those days the idea of various valuations had not gained ground, and the newly minted coins were marked into quarters by a cross that the token might be divided when it was necessary to make change. This cross, moreover, was supposed to bring the blessings of Heaven upon the owner and to avert ill fortune, and for a long time subsequent to the coinage of fractional currency the coins were thus marked. At present only the English florin is thus marked, although the coins of some of the Catholic countries bear crosses in their designs.

Chinese Parliament.

A parliament for China is among the possibilities of the not very distant future. A commission has left Peking on a tour of the world, for the purpose of studying the legislatures of other countries. It is intimated that the empress dowager intends to issue a decree at the new year for the establishment of a parliament 12 years from the present time, and it is with a view to accumulating information preparatory to this step that the commission which is composed of statesmen of high rank, has been sent out.

DIAMOND DUST.

Every pitcher in the land has declared that his arm is as strong as the Chemical Bank. Amen! is the universal response of the managers.

Dalton, the last second baseman of the Hoboken team last season, will himself be a magnate this summer. He will embark in the Sunday ball business at his home in Yonkers.

Sergeant "Mike" Leonard will command Fort No. 3 and captain the local team this season. "Mike" is one of the steadiest ball players in the semi-professional ranks and will fill the bill.

"Willie" Deegan peeped into Hoboken for a few hours this week. The big twirler looks to be in the pink of condition, despite the fact that he has been laid up with an aggravated attack of the grip.

Manager Murray, of the Jersey City team, thinks well enough of "Kid" Brogan, who covered second base last season for Hoboken during Dalton's lay-off, to try him out on the training trip at Plainfield.

"Red" Waller announces that he has become a benedict and has been keeping himself in excellent trim. Waller has received a number of offers, but so far he has not made any arrangements to play with any team.

It is now settled that "Pop" Foster will play with Newark. Manager Burnham was a little off on the salary question, but the matter was adjusted last week when Foster visited Newark and affixed his signature to a contract.

"Billy" Kittredge, of Hoboken, who has signed with the Lowell team of the New England League, has been ordered to report in Providence April 10. Kittredge's friends are planning to give him a royal send-off before he leaves.

George Mallen will make a pretty good looking chap in a Hoboken uniform. His aggressive nature and heady playing will strengthen the team 100 per cent. He will fill Wally "Bright Eyes" Cosgrave's place without any trouble. He is a better fielder and more handy with the stick than the Princetonian.

An idea has organized itself in the brain of "Jack" O'Neill, our star backstop, that a Chinese baseball aggregation ought to make good as a traveling venture. As "Jack" has a fine command of the Mongolian language, he could no doubt make it a paying venture as a freak show at Coney Island or Atlantic City.

"Dave" Driscoll, for five years captain and first cushion artist of the Hoboken team, will play with Ridgewood until the Coney Island baseball season opens, when he will join Brady's forces. Driscoll rendered good service for the locals and friends and patrons of the Cricket Grounds wish him the best of luck in his new pastures.

If winter exercise counts for anything, "Jack" O'Neill will be in tip-top shape. O'Neill has been devoting a large part of his time during the cold months in mid-winter athletics, such as bowling, handball and in and out-of-door skating. "Jack" is considered one of the champion pin smashers up in the Bronx and for him to roll up scores over the 200 mark is just as easy as water dropping off a duck's back.

Owing to the recent illness of Willie Deegan, he will not pitch for the Hoboken team tomorrow against the Loughlin Lyceum nine in Brooklyn. Instead "Red" Waller will be on the slab and "Jack" O'Neil behind the bat. Rotchford will cover first sack; Bregan, second base; Curley, short stop; Leonard, third base; Bertwhistle, left field; Mallen, center field; Shortman, right field; DeMay, extra. Mack, the Jercey City pitcher, will also be on the bench. Deegan will pitch the opening game in Hoboken Sunday, April 15, against Jersey City.

"Tuck" Turner reported to Manager Daab last week looking like a two-year-old. He will be seen in the Hoboken outfield this season. Turner is a sure fielder and good sticker. These accomplishments, with experience gained in the major and minor leagues, makes him a strong player for any team. Last season Turner injured his leg at Norwich and did not return. He says he is through with pie crust leagues and will devote him future playing with independent teams, which will permit him to look after his boat business on Staten Island.

Ex-Manager Charlie Denman, of Westfield, dropped in town last night to explain his recent baseball "joke." Mr. Denman stated he is out of baseball himself and expects to rest on his laurels. He also declared that he was not engineering any scheme to start a ball team in Westfield this summer. But, he says, Manager Hussey, of the Ridgewoods, has a stupendous idea in his cranium to play his team as the Westfield's on Saturdays, provided he can make satisfactory arrangements. According to the Brooklyn manager's idea, if it is put into action, he would play Saturdays at Trenton and other places, and also arrange a five-game series with Plainfield. By this arrangement the only games that would be played at Recreation Park would be with Plainfield. Mr. Hussey has went so far as to find out on what terms he could secure the Westfield grounds for the proposed series with Westfield, but further than that he has done nothing. Perhaps he will go no further in the matter. The Brooklyn magnate has this Saturday idea in the hope that he would be able to keep his Sunday players together, because he is under a big expense this season. He has signed Lindeman, the former Hoboken pitcher, at the princely salary of $60 per game, and has already bound the bargain by paying over to "Lindy" a bonus of $100. "Lindy" had already signed with the Brightons for this amount, but the $100 tempted him to break his word with Manager Smith, of that team. In this connection Lindeman enjoys the distinction of breaking agreements more than any other dozen players in the semi-professional ranks. "Lindy" is after the long green and he doesn't hesitate to jump at the bait whenever he gets the opportunity. By his agreement with Hussey, Lindeman is allowed to choose his own catcher, who will receive $15 per game, making the grand total of $75 per battery for a Sunday game.

MOODY REPLY TO CRITICS

Cranford Reformer of Democracy Issues Letter Defining What Happened at Conference

HIS MIND AN OPEN BOOK

His Explanation Entitled "The Truth About the Democratic Conference"—No New Party.

In an open letter addressed to "those citizens of New Jersey who were invited to the Newark Conference on March 20, 1906, and to others who are interested," John Moody, president of the new Democratic State oganization, tells what the caption of the letter declares to be "The Truth About the Democratic Conference."

After describing the work of the meeting, Mr. Moody dwells upon the charge of Franklin H. Halliday, that it was called in the interest of William R. Hearst, and the part taken in the movement by Arthur W. Milbury.

"As for the Milbury story," writes Mr. Moody, "Mr. Milbury did not come into the movement until it was well under way; he was on no committee at any time, and he is no more an agent of Mr. Hearst than Charles C. Black is. He is a close personal friend of Allan Benny, and a friend of Senator Minturn, as well as being a friend of mine, and a man of character, ability and refinement. He entertained Mr. Northrup and Mr. Goodrich on the evening of Thursday, March 15, together with myself and several others, and it was at this dinner that the general plans for the conference were so frankly discussed."

Mr. Moody takes occasion to deny that the organization was designed to be a new political party, and incidentally announces that in place of Archibald S. Alexander, of Hoboken, who declined to serve as treasurer, Charles H. Ingersoll, of South Orange, has been temporarily named.

The result of the conference, which was the formation of a State central committee, and the plans and work proposed for the upbuilding of the Democratic party in New Jersey, are set forth by Mr. Moody, who expresses the hope and intention that "within six months this movement will be organized in all the counties of the State, and the enrolled members be able in many places to name candidates and frame county platforms, which will command the respect, as well as gain the votes, of a large number of the earnest and sincere citizens of New Jersey."

Mr. Moody appeals to Democrats to unite in the effort to organize for "true Democracy." He urges that "the first step for union is to admit sincerity in those of diverse views; the next step is to respect those diverse views; and the third step is to work in harmony to the greatest extent possible for the practical application of our different views. There is little difficulty in this. I am a free trader, but I can work with a sincere tariff reformer; I am a single taxer, but I can work with a far less radical advocate of equal taxation; I am a believer in municipl ownership of all public utilites, but I can work heartily with a man who accepts only a portion of this programme, and we need not part company until we cross the further bridge that may some day separate us.

"The first step is to grant sincerity of purpose," the letter continues. "I grant it gladly to men like Mr. Black, Thomas A. Davis, William C. Nicoll and many others, who, it would seem, disagree with me uttery, and all I ask is, that we who are responsible for the launching of this movement, also be granted sincerity of purpose whenever and wherever we deserve it."

State School Board to Meet.

Atlantic City, March 31.—A meeting of the State Board of Education will be held at the Hotel Chalfonte, in this city, Tuesday. The session will begin at 10 o'clock in the morning. It is expected that merely routine business will come up, as there are no school superintendents to be appointed.

Religious Meeting Monday.

Rev. C. L. Steinhoff, whose preaching in the South has attracted much attention, will speak at the Christian and Missionary Alliance meeting to be held in the W. C. T. U. rooms, 100 Madison avenue, Monday night at 8 o'clock. Miss Cromwell, of Cranford, will sing the famous Torry-Alexander song, "O What a Change."

UNWISE INVESTMENTS; NOT GAMBLING, THE CAUSE.

Moody's Explanation of Money Lost in Wall Street.

A great deal of information is given in the book, "The Art of Wall Street Investing," written by John Moody, of Cranford, and published by The Moody Corporation, 35 Nassau street, New York City. Basing his counsel on the two axioms, first, that one's principal should be placed only where, so far as can be told, it is absolutely secure, and, second, that as large a percentage of return as possible should be gained "without in the least disturbing or lessening the security of the principal," Mr. Moody gives careful instructions on general lines as to financial operations, emphasizing above all the necessity of knowing what any step may mean.

There are chapters on stocks and bonds, on the analyizing of railroad securities, on industrials and tractions and reorganizations and syndicates. Other divisions of the volume treatof "Safety and Security," "Invest vs. Speculation," "'Get-Rich-Quick' Schemes," "The New York Stock Exchange" and "Wall Street Phrases and Methods." The work distinctly is one making for the conservation of means, and the author's words should be read with special attention by those who would not look upon a loss of funds so much as an annoyance as a hardship. Mr. Moody, who may be considered as speaking with authority, makes the rather surprising statement that it is a fact that a greater sum of money is annually lost in this county through unwise investment in Wall Street than through pure speculation. "Indeed," he remarks, "I would almost say that the losses incurred through 'unwise Wall Street investing' are easily tenfold the losses occasioned through mere speculation on the exchanges."

ELECTRICAL CHAIR BILL NOT BACK IN THE HOUSE.

Assemblyman Wright Desired to Amend It in the Interest of Condemned Persons.

Trenton, March 31.—An attempt was made in the House Thursday afternoon to get back from the Senate the bill which substitutes death by electricity for death by the rope in capital cases in this State. The bill provided, Mr. Wright said, that the person condemned to death shall be kept in the State prison until the time for his execution arrives, and then conveyed to some isolated place, where he shall be put to death. Mr. Wright, of Passaic, and others did not think that that was a good provision, as it might involve taking the condemned through the streets on the train or some other public street while being conveyed to the place where he was to be put to death.

So Mr. Wright moved that the Senate, which now has the bill, be requested to return it to the House for further consideration, so that it might be amended to meet this situation.

The Passaic Assemblyman was talking of the original bill, and was not aware that condemned criminals upon conviction were to be taken to the place of execution, which is to be a central place, designated by the Board of Prison Inspectors.

Mr. Mabie objected, raising the point that as the bill was a Senate measure and now in the possession of that body it required a concurrent resolution to bring it back.

As the bill had been acted upon by the House, Mr. Wright claimed it occupied the same position that a House bill did and could be recalled by a simple resolution. This view of the case was taken by the speaker and the resolution was adopted.

Mr. Wright last night held a conference with Senators Wakelee and Hutchinson. It is understood that Mr. Wright will take no further action in the matter.

The money given to the captain by the the public was used to buy the boat.

Kills Himself in Barn.

Newton, March 31.—Davis Talmadge, fifty-two years old ,committed suicide by hanging himself in a barn on his place near Franklin Furnace yesterday. Irving Cronk, passing by the Talmage place, saw the body hanging in the barn. Talmage had been employed by the New Jersey Zinc Company and had arranged to return to his former occupation, farming, this spring. Worry over financial matters is supposed to have caused Talmage's act. He leaves a widow and several children. Coroner Charles M. Dunning viewed the body and decided an inquest unnecessary.

Flies Carry Tuberculosis.

Jersey City now has a tuberculosis commission. It was organized yesterday in the headquarters of the Organized Aid Society, 163 Grand street. Dr. Gordon K. Dickinson was chosen president and Miss Anderson secretary. It was decided to divide the city into districts and at once begin the work of soliciting funds for fighting consumption. Dr. Dickinson recently declared that the fly is an agent which must be taken into consideration in the war that is to be waged against tuberculosis.

Attempts Suicide After a Dispute.

Hoboken, March 31.—Because, it is said, she had a dispute over her wages with her employer, Miss Nellie Culkins, a servant, twenty-seven years old, attempted suicide yesterday afternoon by jumping off Bath bridge into the Hudson River. She was discovered by members of the Hoboken Yacht Club hanging over one side of the bridge and rescued in time. In police court today Recorder Stanton held the young woman for an examination as to her sanity.
